WAR CLOUDS DISPELLED

FOR THE PRESENT, BUT NO CERTAINTY OF PERMANENT PEACE.

German Opinion—Russian Influence in Bulgaria—War Only Delayed, Not Averted—Roumania's Attitude.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The war scare in Vienna and Berlin is slightly abated just at present, but official circles remain confident that an open rupture of the Central European powers with Russia cannot long be avoided. The attitude of Roumania creates a suspicion in Vienna that her intention really is, while pretending to maintain a position of neutrality between the prospective combatants, to assist Russia in her schemes in the Balkans at the proper moment. The Roumanian Minister of Public Instruction and Arts, M. D. Stourdza, is now in Berlin, whither he is gone to offer explanations to the German Government of the attitude of Roumania, as betrayed by her recent actions. In the meantime the movements of the Roumanian troops up to date are all in favor of the Czar's convenience in case of active war. At the Austrian Foreign Office the action of Roumania is considered to be a concerted plan with the Russian campaign, and the result is anything but confidence in the professions of neutrality, which the Roumanian Ministers do not cease to make. It is believed that Roumania has accepted Russia's terms for an alliance, and is pursuing this course in fulfillment of a formal agreement.

Since the clear comparison of the relative strength of the frontier forces of Germany and Russia, given by The Military Wochenblatt, the official organ of the German army, nothing more definite has been ascertained than the semi-official statement yesterday, that in spite of the arrival of additional Russian troops on the frontier, Germany for the present will not order the counter movement needed to equalize the strength of the two forces. Germany's attitude of expectancy is justified by the reports to the War Office touching the breaking down of the Russian transport service, the waste of munitions, the defective commissariat and starvation and disease in the Russian army. On the Russian side the war party has modified its tone, owing to the discovery that an early effective campaign is an utter impossibility.

The Moscow Gazette yesterday indicated the pacific policy of Russia. It declared that peace was assured unless Russia should be provoked by aggressive acts of her neighbors. The Novoe Vremya protests that the Russian armaments are purely defensive. The Svet disputes The Wochenblatt's figures, and tries to prove that Germany can concentrate 1,000,000 men on the frontier of Poland within ten days, while Russia's huge areas of territory and imperfect means of transportation render difficult the work of mobilization. The postponement of the rupture is not in accordance with the strategy of the Berlin office, nor within the wishes of the Viennese, but continues due to the irresolution of the Austrian Government. Although convinced that war is inevitable and that it would be preferable for Austria sooner or later, Count Kalnoky persists in waiting Russia's time. Public sentiment in Vienna and Pesth displays irritation over the position. The Hungarian papers charge Kalnoky with too great subservience to Bismarck, and urge that action be taken without waiting for an order from Berlin. The truth of the position, however, is that Prince Bismarck has already fully possessed Count Kalnoky of the fact that a German initiative to war is impossible, leaving the Austrian Government free to open hostilities when it deems the time ripe.

Another version is semi-officially issued in Vienna to-night of the Russian Military Attache Zojef's recent statement that two new divisions of Russian troops had arrived at the Galician frontier. The first version of this statement, which was also semi-officially given, was distinctly menacing. It is now stated that M. Zojef, while conversing with Austrian officials, only stated that a displacement of divisions would be effected gradually in the course of the present year. He further explained the hope that no advance would be made, as such a movement would be weakening to Russia's defensive position and would compel her to take large measures. This interpretation is obviously issued to allay the impatience of the military and political circles of Austria-Hungary, where Count Kalnoky is becoming distrusted and pleurs are mustering to substitute a more energetic Minister. Count Andrassy will supplant Kalnoky ere long if a powerful section of native politicians succeed in their plans.

The Polish group in Vienna rely on Count Andrassy to assist in the revival of a Polish Kingdom, consisting of Russian and Austrian Poland under an Austrian Prince. The expectancy of the Poles rapidly increases. Their organs in Cracow and Lemberg, while preaching prudence, declare that the people of Poland will go solid for Austria if assured of some form of restored independence. Bishop Dunajewski of Cracow, who is recognized by the Poles as their ecclesiastical leader, has been entreated to assist in the development of a national movement by making a public declaration, but he responds by advising the greatest reserve until events justify action.

The Russian Minister to Roumania, M. Hitrovo, declared to-day that Russia would certainly soon regain her influence in Bulgaria, and that the people of that country would again ask Russia to deliver them from the slavery to which they are subjected at the present time.

A sentence of six weeks' imprisonment and a fine of 150 roubles have been imposed on Mr. Feodoroff, the editor of The Novoe Vremya, for having libelled Major Vittamus, military attache of the German Legation at St. Petersburg.

The Socialists were prevented from holding a meeting in Trafalgar-square, London, to-day by the police, who arrested two of them. There was no disorder.

The Paris Bourse was steady during the past week, with limited dealings. The increase include 3 per cent. Rentes, 30 f.; Credit Foncier, 2½f., and Suez Canal 15f. Panama Canal shares declined 7½f. yesterday, making the fall for the week 25f.

The Berlin Bourse was quiet during the week, with a firm tendency.

Prices on the Frankfort Bourse were firm and there was a rising tendency in foreign stocks.

The Rome correspondent of The Chronicle says that Cardinal Manning has written to the Pope telling him in substance that if any outspoken opposition is made to Gladstone by the Vatican, it will produce among Irish and English Catholics a disaffection that will have the most disastrous results.

E. S. COX & CO. SUSPEND.

The Well-Known Toronto-street Brokers Put up Their Shutters.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.

Owing to circumstances we temporarily suspend. Close all trades at closing prices and mail statement showing amount due each creditor. Agents will please remain at their offices until all trades are checked. We hope to settle shortly. COX & CO.

Toronto, Jan. 21.

The above despatch was sent to the forty-five branch houses of Cox & Co., the Toronto-street stock brokers, in Ontario and Montreal Saturday afternoon just before the close of business. Shortly afterwards the news became known on the "street" and created a sensation. It being Saturday afternoon the news was not so rapidly spread as if it had come on a "long" day, but by nightfall the suspension was the gossip of the hotels and clubs. Mr. E. S. Cox being one of the best known men in the city. Coupled with the proceedings at Osgoode Hall re Central Bank affairs, the town was considerably worked up after business hours and yesterday. Notwithstanding all the street talk the reporters of the evening papers are wondering what struck them; they all went to press without even the slightest reference to the suspension, although it was known on the street as early as 2.45.

The suspension of Cox & Co. will cause considerable excitement throughout the province, as the firm had some forty-five branches doing business in all the principal cities and towns of Ontario. There were also branches in Montreal. Mr. Cox left the city on Wednesday last and presided over a special meeting of the International Baseball Association, of which he is chairman, at Buffalo on Thursday. He has not been in Toronto since. His examination in connection with the Central Bank is still in progress before Special Examiner Evans, and it cannot be proceeded with until he returns, which, his friends say, will be in a day or two. The circular wired to the branches on Saturday was despatched by Mr C. K. Humphries, one of the firm's clerks. Mr. Humphries received his instructions from Mr. Cox from Buffalo, where he is now said to be. Mr. R. G. Cox of St. Catharines, brother of E. S., arrived in the city last evening and will take charge of the suspended firm's affairs until the return of Mr. Cox. In some quarters it was said the crash was a gigantic one, while in others it was not looked upon as being heavy.

Very little outside information is obtainable in the absence of Mr. Cox, but Mr. C. K. Humphries made this statement of the suspension to a reporter: "The cause of the suspension is chiefly due to the extravagant reports circulated about Mr. Cox in connection with the Central Bank, which almost stopped trading at the branch offices and which also embarrassed our business operations in Toronto. Our customers will be paid in full. The amounts due them are small, but cannot be correctly estimated until we make up a statement. In the city the balances due customers, I think, will not exceed $2500. As to the branches I think it will amount to about $15,000. Mr. Cox has been for some time urged by his friends to go out of this branch (the speculative) of business, and to restrict himself to ordinary brokerage. He has decided to do so. He will return to town as soon as he has completed certain arrangements in New York, and I look for him at any time."

Of course there is a good deal of speculation as to what brought about the suspension, but it is generally ascribed to the rumors which have been circulated connecting Mr. Cox's name with the Central Bank failure. As Mr. Cox's examination before Mr. Evans was in private, the public has no means at present of knowing what his connections with the defunct institution are. The firm has been in existence for seven or eight years, the former name being Cox and Worts. Cox & Co. employed a large force of clerks and telegraph operators in their Toronto office and the branches.

CLEARING UP THE WRECK

THE MASTER TALKS BUSINESS AND LAW.

A Distress for Rent Warrant—The Hypothecated 84. Catharines Bonds and the Niagara Central Notes—Cashier A. A. Allen on the Stand—A Mountain of Exhibits.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.

The Master-in-Ordinary's court room at Osgoode Hall was kept going from 11 o'clock Saturday morning until after 4 o'clock, with two short intermissions, disposing of Central Bank affairs, which came up in a variety of forms. There was a rent dispute, the Niagara Central Railway directors were in court, Cashier Allen was put on the stand and other important proceedings took place.

There was a large collection of counsel and interested persons. Among those in the room were Capt. S. Neelon of St. Catharines and John Carroll, directors of the Niagara Central; Liquidators Campbell, Howland and Gooderham; Lyman Dwight, director of the defunct bank; John Bell, Grand Trunk solicitor; Henry O'Brien, the Central's solicitor. Cashier Allen sat in a back seat and looked perplexed.

The first matter that the Master was asked to adjudicate upon was an appeal from Mr. G. H. Watson, who appeared for Foster & McCabe, wholesale milliners. This firm are subtenants in the Central Bank building, on whom Col. Gzowski, the owner of the property, had threatened to distrain for the rent of the whole building for the quarter past, amounting to $600. Bailiff Ted Gegg was to descend on his clients at 12 o'clock Saturday, and Mr. Watson sought to ward off the distress. After argument the matter was referred to Chancellor Boyd, who directed that Foster & McCabe pay direct to the landlord the $206 rent due by them as sub-tenants.

Then the court rose for an hour to give an opportunity to hear the next motion. Before leaving his seat Mr. Hodgins said:

"I hold in my hand the duly certified return made by the Central Bank, under date Nov. 9, 1887, six days before the suspension, in which it is reported to the Government that on Oct. 31 there was not only a surplus of $200,000 actually over and above all liabilities, but sufficient securities on current loans, etc., to cover all liabilities. I must take this statement as true, and the directors and officials of the bank shall be required to give an account of what disposition of this large surplus they made between Oct. 31 and Nov. 15, when the bank suspended. The law calls on them, as custodians of the trust placed in their hands, for which they are responsible to the beneficiaries, who in this case are the shareholders primarily, to give a rigid account to the last cent.

"The criminal law holds them accountable if the returns are fictitious. Under the provisions of the Windingup Act, not only shareholders, but any creditor, has the right to examine minutely all directors and officials, and to scrutinize their dealings. If false returns are made, the officials making such returns are criminally liable; they may be imprisoned and compelled to pay all such amounts, with interest. Presidents and directors and officials of banks must know, and the sooner they realize their responsibility the more will it be to their advantage, that they cannot shelter themselves behind a mere pretence.

"The returns they make must be true in figure and in fact—the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. With the large judicial powers vested in this tribunal by the act, I shall call upon the liquidators to make the most minutely searching investigation. This tribunal possesses large inquisitorial powers; they shall be exercised to the full, and everything probed. It is a duty to the law, to the court, to public justice, and to those whose property and means of livelihood have been imperilled. In the interest of those vitally interested, as well as of our other institutions every other previous fact and circumstance leading to the suspension must be laid bare."

Mr. W. A. Foster, who as usual represented the liquidators, replied to the Master that they were impressed with a due sense of their liability and would perform every duty.

At 1 o'clock the Master again faced the lawyers. Mr. James Maclennan, Q.C., on behalf of the Niagara Central Railway directors, made application for an order similar to the one already made in respect of one note, directing the liquidators to retire the following notes, as they mature, out of the funds of the Central Bank in liquidation: A note for $20,000, maturing Saturday, held by the Imperial Bank; one for $10,000, due Feb. 1, by the Dominion Bank, and one for $5000, on March 5, by the Imperial Bank.

Mr. John Bain, Q.C., who appeared for a petitioning creditor, Robert Green, objected that these would be preferential payments. Mr. J. H. Lefroy, who assisted Mr. Foster on behalf of the liquidators, spoke at length on the motion.

Then Mr. Maclennan replied that the Dominion Bank was not a creditor in the case. The bank could not compel the Niagara Central directors to pay these notes. The Central Bank had deposited certain bonds of the City of St. Catharines given the directors of the Niagara Central from a written agreement and re-hypothecated them with the Dominion and Imperial Banks. This was a fraudulent transaction. The Central Bank had loaned the Niagara Central road $100,000, and was given as security the bonds of the City of St. Catharines. These bonds were to be taken up on June 1 next and other securities given. The Central Bank ignored the written agreement, detached the bonds and borrowed money on them, for which they had given notes. The liquidators were now responsible for these notes.

A number of affidavits were read and filed, there was considerable more argument by counsel, and the Master made the order applied for by Mr. Maclennan. Then Capt. Neelon and Mr. Carroll left the court room.

Mr. Foster next took the floor. It was now 2.30. He first handed up to the Master a bulky looking document, composed of many pages, which were securely tied together. This was the list of shareholders which the Master had previously ordered to be produced. "I merely put this in now," said Mr. Foster, "to see, sir, if you approve of the form. If it is all right I will file it as a sworn affidavit on Monday."

"What does it show?" asked the Master.

"It is prepared according to the clause of the act," replied Mr. Foster. "The names of all the present shareholders are given, also the transfers made within thirty days preceding the bank's suspension, which was on Nov. 15 last. It has been prepared at great expense and trouble."

"Are the transferees and the persons making the transfers given?"

"Yes," said Mr. Foster.

"What about the statement of the bank's assets?" the Master next asked.

Liquidator Campbell stood up and said he had been working hard on the statement and hoped to have it ready by Wednesday.

"He will require more assistance in its preparation," said Mr. Foster.

The Master: "He can have any necessary assistance, but the statement should be handed in as soon as possible. The rule followed in England is for the liquidators to make their first duties the preparation of the assets of a defunct institution, so that the creditors may know just what they amount to. There is no recognized practice in this country in such cases, but I am sure the creditors are all anxious to learn the extent and nature of the bank's assets."

"I think I will have it ready by Wednesday," said Mr. Campbell.

"I would now like to call Cashier Allan," put in Mr. Foster.

"We will adjourn for half an hour," said the Master "and then examine Mr. Allan."

At 4.20 Mr. Almer Abbot Allan was sworn. Over an hour was taken up in filing a number of exhibits, consisting of correspondence, checks and telegrams and various other documents. Mr. Allan also handed in a great square parcel of documents, which he said were all connected with Central Bank matters but were his personal property. He had no books or papers in his possession the property of the bank.

A number of the exhibits put in by Mr. Foster had also been exhibited at the private examination of Mr. E. S. Cox before Mr. G. S. Evans. They and the additional ones produced Saturday made up a formidable array and completely covered the Master's desk. None of them were read, however. They embraced three or four $10,000 checks drawn on the Central Bank with Mr. E. S. Cox's name attached, a mass of correspondence between James Baxter & Co. of Montreal and Cox and Co., Cox & Co.'s "cypher code," letters of various kinds, telegrams, etc. Mr. Allan identified the hand-writing of Mr. Cox on many of them, and also explained the cypher on several telegrams which passed between Mr. Cox while in Montreal and his Toronto office. One cypher message which seemed a mystery to Mr. Foster was signed "Peter." It was something about an $8000 check.

Mr. Foster said to the Master that he did not intend to proceed further with Mr. Allan at present. He merely wanted to arrange the exhibits, and asked for an adjournment till to-morrow at 2 p.m., which was granted.

Mr. Foster then gathered up all the papers and placed them carefully away in his well-known leather satchel—that satchel of small appearance but of great capacity.

To the reporters he said he could not at present give them access to these papers. There was nothing that he wanted to hide, but he desired to thoroughly examine their contents before they were filed as affidavits.

"You will get the whole business on Tuesday," said Mr. Foster.

THE DEADLY WATER GAS.

Family Nearly Killed by a Leaking Main—One Child in a Critical Condition.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 20.—Early this morning, through the leakage of the street gas main, gas began running into an old drain, and thence found its way into a cellar under a tenement house on Water-street. A family of four persons named Million were partly asphyxiated. Fortunately one of the night watchmen was in the vicinity, and smelling the gas traced it up, made an entrance into the house and carried the family out; had it been discovered a few minutes later they might have been beyond recovery. As it is, one child is not yet out of danger. The kind of gas used here is known as water gas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—In the House of Representatives to-day the joint resolution accepting the invitation extended to the United States to participate in the Melbourne exposition was passed.

Grand Junction Suit.

In view of the fact that the County Council meets on Tuesday, we give below the full text of the judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council, in the appeal case of the Grand Junction Railway vs the County of Peterborough. It will, no doubt, be read with much interest :—

The Grand Junction Railway Company and the Midland Railway of Canada vs. the Corporation of the County of Peterborough.

Judgement was delivered on Saturday, the 3rd inst., in this appeal from a judgement of the Court of Appeal for Ontario of the 7th September, 1886, confirming a decision of Mr. Justice Galt. A statement of the facts and of the arguments of Counsel has already appeared in the Canadian Gazette.

LORD HOBHOUSE, after narrating the circumstances of the case, said that it was impossible to give due effect to the Ontario Act of 1871, without holding that the Grand Junction Company was empowered to receive money in order to construct and equip the railway, and to do any of the works authorised by their charter; and that implied incorporation. If the Company had not been incorporated by that Act, they would be incorporated by the subsequent Act of 1874; and the effects of the two Acts was to give to the plaintiffs, who were the Grand Junction Railway Company so incorporated, all the benefit of the by-law which was voted on by the ratepayers of Peterborough and which provided the bonus for the de facto Grand Junction Railway Company. The effect of the Act of 1871 was not only to charge the rates and to cure the lack of the third reading, but to make that by-law which the ratepayers voted on legal, valid, and binding on the incorporation. The refusal of the prerogative writ of mandamus could not be pleaded as res judicata in bar of the suit, because, first, the jurisdiction exercised in such a refusal was a discretional jurisdiction; and secondly, if the mandamus had been granted, it would not have allowed the other side to do anything except to make a return. Their lordships were further of opinion that the plaintiffs' works were completed in time. The Act of 1876 enlarged the time for completing the Grand Junction Railway to the 1st May, 1881. There was no reason for cutting down the generality of this expression as the respondents urged. In fact it would be very unlikely that in February, 1876, an extension of time should be required for that part of the railway which need not be completed till May, 1880, but for that part which was to be completed by May, 1876. It had been earnestly contended by the defendants that the railway was not constructed in accordance with the conditions of the by-law. Those conditions were that the "said Grand Junction Railway shall have been completely graded from the eastern limit of the County of Peterborough to the town of Peterborough ;" that "the iron of the said railway shall have been completely laid from the said eastern limit of the County of Peterborough to the said town of Peterborough ;" that the line shall cross the river Trent at a certain point, and proceeding between certain villages. All that had been done, and apparently upon land acquired in the usual way by the Company, except for the last two miles or so nearest Peterborough, where the plaintiffs had availed themselves of an unused track and station ground formerly belonging to another company, shortly called the Cobourg Road. The plaintiffs used this road under a written agreement affirmed by the Legislature. By the agreement the Cobourg Road demised and granted to the plaintiffs the right to use the unused track and grounds forever free from rent, on two conditions. The first is that the plaintiffs shall at their own cost repair and put in efficient working order so much of the track and premises as they require to use, and so to keep the same. The second is that in a certain event the Cobourg Road shall have a right to use the road and premises so used by the plaintiffs upon terms to be agreed upon or settled by arbitration. It was argued that this right of the Cobourg Road prevented the plaintiffs from using that a railway which has been constructed by them according to the terms of the by-law is their railway. Their lordships thought that the grading was the grading of the Grand Junction Railway, and the iron was the iron of that railway, none of the Company's, because they held the land only under a grant of perpetual use, or because another Company might claim the privilege of running over their works. Another condition of the by-law was that unless the construction of the portion within the County of Peterborough was commenced on or before the 1st of May, 1872, the by-law so far as it provided for the issue of debentures for $75,000 should be void. It was not disputed that to satisfy the condition the commencement must be a substantial commencement followed up by substantial exertions to continue the work. Some work was done on the land of a Mr. Johnson on the 17th April, 1872, but both the Secretary and the President of the plaintiffs said it was done formally, and in order to save the by-law. Still, if that formal commencement, though accelerated in order to save the by-law, were followed up in good time by an actual beginning of the work it might be sufficient. The plaintiffs' witnesses went on to show that some further work was done in Peterborough county, and that by November, 1874, about $[illegible] dollars were expended in wages on the line. On the other hand, it appeared that on Johnson's land the work was discontinued after two or three days, and not resumed till the year 1880; that up to November, 1874, not more than 24,000 dollars were even alleged to have been spent in Peterborough county; that the plaintiffs did not make any contract for the work until the 29th March, 1872; that they then handed over all the business to Brooks the contractor, but did not make any stipulation as to the time when he should commence the Peterborough works or any works that the plans required by law, for the exercise of compulsory powers were not deposited until June, 1873. But on the 29th May, 1872, it was brought before the directors that anxiety was felt by stockholders and by parties in the county, in consequence of the unexpected delay in commencing the work, and that the board resolved to ask the contractor to name as early a date as possible. With this evidence their lordships were not satisfied that there was any substantial commencement of the work in Peterborough county as early as the 1st of May, 1872, so as to fulfil the condition of the by-law. There was yet another condition of the by-law, viz., that payment should be made only on the certificate of the engineer of the plaintiffs as to the portion of the work stipulated. This condition had not been performed, but the plaintiffs urged that it should not apply to the issue of debentures to trustees, and that they ought to have relief in that form. The by-law provided that the sum of 75,000 dollars should be paid to the plaintiffs in debentures, and that the warden should pay and deliver such debentures as to 25,000 dollars, when the railway had been graded; and as to the 50,000 dollars when the iron had been laid, and that only on the certificate of the chief engineer of the said railway of the performance of the said conditions. The 8th clause of the by-law ran as follows :—"That in the event of any trustee or trustees being hereafter appointed by the Legislature for the receiving and holding of monies or securities for moneys awarded by way of bonus towards the construction of the said Grand Junction Railway, the said Warden shall, within six weeks after the final passage of this by-law, or within six weeks after the passing of such legislative enactment, whichever shall last occur, hand over and deliver such debentures to the said amount of seventy-five thousand dollars to such trustee or trustees, to be by them held and paid over and delivered to the said Company in accordance with and subject to the provisoes and conditions of this by-law and not otherwise." By the Ontario Act of 1871 it was enacted that "whenever any municipality or portion of a municipality shall grant a bonus to aid the said Company in the making, equipping, and completion of the said railway, the debentures therefor may, at the option of the said municipality, within six months after the passing of the by-law authorising the same, be delivered to three trustees to be named, one by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, one by the said Company, and one by the heads of the municipalities granting such bonuses, or the majority of them, who shall attend a meeting for that purpose, notice of which shall be sent to each reeve, mayor, or warden, by mail, at least fourteen days before the day appointed; all of the trustees to be residents of the Province of Ontario. Provided that if the said reeve, mayor, or warden shall refuse or neglect to name such trustee, or if the Lieutenant-Governor in Council shall neglect or refuse to name such trustee within one month after notice in writing to him of the appointment of the other trustees, the Company shall be at liberty to name such trustees. The said trustees shall receive the said debentures in trust, firstly, to convert the same into money; secondly, to deposit the amount realized from the sale of such debentures in some one or more of the chartered banks, having an office in the town of Belleville, in the name of the 'Grand Junction Railway Municipal Trust Account,' and to pay the same out to the said Company from time to time, on the certificate of the chief engineer of the said railway, in the form set out in schedule 'A' hereto, or to the like effect, setting out the portion of the railway to which the money to be paid out is applied, and the total amount expended on such to the date of the certificate." Those provisions were repeated in the Act of 1874; trustees had been appointed in accordance in them, and such trustees still existed. On the 21st November, 1879, the plaintiffs obtained rule nisi for a mandamus commanding the defendants forthwith to issue debentures for 75,000 dollars, and to deliver those debentures to the trustees appointed for receiving the bonuses. At that date the work was not done. It was completed about the 27th November, 1880, and opened for traffic on the 6th December, 1880. It was obvious, therefore, that at that time the plaintiffs were not in a position to ask for any payment or delivery to themselves. The plaintiffs obtained a rule absolute from the Court of Queen's Bench, which, however, was set aside by the Court of Appeal in Ontario, and that decision was upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada. In that Court, at least two of the judges rested weight on the circumstance that in 1872, when they commenced working, the plaintiffs had the same right to ask for delivery to the trustees as they had when they moved for a mandamus, and that if they were now right in saying they had completed the work they were in a position to insist upon payment to themselves. The Supreme Court disposed of the case in 1883, judgment being delivered in January, 1883. The prayer was to the effect that the defendants amend the order to pay 75,000 dollars to the plaintiffs, or that a mandamus be issued to compel the plaintiffs to issue debentures to that amount, and to deliver the same to the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs expressly averred that all conditions precedent had been conformed with, and that the chief engineer's certificate had been duly given in accordance with the terms of the by-law. The defendants insisted that the plaintiffs should prove strictly the performance of every condition precedent. At the trial no certificate was forthcoming. The plaintiffs' counsel proposed to call a witness—one of the statutory trustees—to prove that a certificate had been given, and that witness was not recalled. He also urged that under paragraph 8 the debentures might be delivered to trustees without a certificate, and that the statutory trustees were trustees within the meaning of the by-law; but if the Court thought otherwise it could appoint trustees, and the pleadings might be amended for that purpose. It was clear that from the 27th November, 1880, when the works were completed, until now, there has been no engineer's certificate. It was suggested, rather in argument, at the bar, that the certificate was intended for the sole benefit of the plaintiffs, and further that to give a certificate had become an impossibility because the original engineer was dead. But these suggestions met with no acceptance from their lordships. It certainly seemed that after a railway had been in active work, a certain time after it had been [illegible] work a certificate that it had been completely graded, and the iron completely laid would not be practically necessary. But here the defendants expressly stipulated for it as a condition of their liability, and it was not forthcoming, although the necessity of it was, and must always have been, so obvious, and its absence was so unaccountable as to point to the existence of some substantial difficulty, though its nature was not apparent. As regarded delivery to trustees, it was contended that the pleadings might be amended by praying delivery to the statutory trustees, and that relief might be given in accordance with the prayer. Such amendments were quite exceptional. They were apt to be attended with great inconvenience, and should not be granted except in obvious cases where it was clear no injustice would be done. In this case their lordships thought it unnecessary to inquire whether an appointment by donees, with powers conferred by the legislature, was an appointment, by the legislature such as the by-law contemplated, or whether the trust differed in such a way that the statutory trustees could not lawfully receive the debentures under the conditions of the by-law. The substantial objection is that the trust is spent. The time for acting through trustees is passed, as was pointed out in the Supreme Court, and as was clearly seen by those who framed the claim. If the trustees were to take the debentures over either on the Trustee Acts or on those of the by-law, they would have no duty except to hand them over to the plaintiffs on the engineer's certificate. Their lordships were asked to add a purely illusory machinery for no purpose whatever except to relieve the plaintiffs from the observance of the condition precedent, which, either by extraordinary neglect or from some unexplained difficulty in substance, they had left unperformed. Their lordships could not do that; they would humbly advise Her Majesty that the appeal should be dismissed. The costs must follow the event.

Rheumatic Pains

Require no description, since with rare exception, all at some time have experienced their twinges. Rheumatism is not easily dislodged, only the most powerfully penetrating remedies reach to its very foundations. The most successful treatment known, and it is now frequently resorted to by medical men, is the application of that now famous remedy for pain—Polson's Nerviline. It is safe to say that nothing yet discovered has afforded equal satisfaction to the suffering. A trial can be made at a small cost, as sample bottles of Nerviline can be had at the drug stores for ten cents, large bottles 25 cts. 6d4w

LONDON AND SAN FRANCISCO.

A Conversation Yesterday Over 8000 Miles of Wire—What Was Said.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 22.—Mr. Henry Norman, the special commissioner who is making a tour through the different colonies that form the British Empire, arrived here last night, and to-day carried on a conversation over the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's wire. At one end of the line was Mr. Hearst of The Examiner, San Francisco, and at the other end Mr. Stead of The Pall Mall Gazette, London. There was an unbroken telegraph circuit extending from San Francisco to New York, 4600 miles; the distance from New York to London via Canso, N.S., being 3560 miles, or 8160 in all. The telegraph lines ran from San Francisco to New York via Vancouver, B.C., and Montreal.

The conversation was kept up for a couple of hours. Among other things, Mr. Norman said: "This is something more than an exhibition of telegraphic prowess. I have sailed in an English ship, the Polynesian, 3000 miles across the Atlantic with the English cable below, traveled by an English railway 3000 miles through primeval forests, by the greatest lakes in the world, across splendid prairies, the wheat fields of the Empire, over four colossal mountain ranges to where I can see the Pacific, and in a few days shall start for a 4000 miles voyage in another English ship, the Parthia, over another ocean, yet am able here to report myself to you, and talk as quickly and easily as if we were speaking through the tube in Northumberland-street. Is not the wire which unites us a most striking symbol of our Imperial unity, and an unfailing forteller of the federation which will one day girdle the globe? And is not the click of this key, heard in two hemispheres, more eloquent than all the arguments of Empire ever penned?"

"Almost Prostrated With Emotion"—Congratulatory Letters.

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—Kilrush was illuminated this evening and the streets were crowded with people. The Government proclamation, prohibiting the meeting announced to be held there to-day, was publicly burned. All bonfires and blazing tar barrels were extinguished by the police. There was a conflict at Kilrea between the police and the people and one policeman was severely injured.

Mr. O'Brien, who is almost prostrated with emotion, intends to attend the banquet to be given in his honor by his constituents, and then to rest for a few weeks in accordance with his doctor's advice. In spite of this endeavor to prevent his whereabouts from becoming generally known, every mail brings him many congratulatory letters. He is residing with a friend in Dublin. In an interview to-day he says: "I felt so well on leaving prison that I have over-taxed my strength, and as a result I am sleepless and worn out. There was a portmanteau full of letters awaiting me at the prison on leaving and the number I have received since is so great that I am quite unable to deal with them. Those I have read affected me more than I can describe, but it is surprising that I have received not one threatening letter. I have formed no plans for future action yet, but it matters little because the spirit of the country among all classes has amounted to a degree altogether beyond former experience.

"The National League," he continued, "instead of being effaced as the coercionists prophesied, was more firmly rooted than ever. The action of the Land Commissioners had been equivalent to cenburing the moderation of the Plan of Campaign. Mr. Balfour had found that the League could only be suppressed by suppressing society. The action of the Government in prosecuting priests showed that the hopes of muzzling them by means of intrigues at Rome had been frustrated. It was an attempt to outrage the people into an exhibition of violence as a setoff against Mr. Balfour's wanton brutality. If Mr. Blunt had never revealed Mr. Balfour's intentions toward the Parnellites the course pursued by the Chief Secretary was evidence enough that Mr. Balfour would push matters to extremities until public opinion deterred him.

MR. MERCIER'S MISSION.

It is Said He will Endeavor to Stay Consolidation of Quebec's Debt.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—It is whispered amongst politicians that the mission to France of Premier Mercier is not alone to arrange for the province being represented at the Paris Exposition, but that he has in view a large financial undertaking with the Credit Lyonnais for the consolidation of the provincial debt.

Mr. Savary, who is an authority on French financial transactions and who is believed to be posted on Mr. Mercier's mission, says the Minister loses on the whole compares favorably with former provincial loans, but still is not so advantageous as is claimed. It was guaranteed at 4 per cent. nominally at 97 per value. But if we take into account a delay of two months and a half in the payment of interest stipulated for by the Credit Lyonnais as also the bank and exchange commissions, the Government will not realize more than 95. It is noteworthy that it is slightly inferior to a loan recently effected by the city of Toronto.

As to the consolidation of the entire provincial debt by the Credit Lyonnais, as is proposed, Mr. Savary considers that some of the temporary loans of the province might be made permanent and a reduction of interest thus effected. But there is an insuperable obstacle to the debt of Quebec being entirely consolidated. Most of the money, unlike the loans of the English and French Governments, has been borrowed for a fixed period, and the principal cannot be repaid without the consent of the creditors. It is not very likely that these creditors would convert their bonds into others bearing less interest. The debt of Quebec is now $19,000,000, and bears $960,000 interest, slightly over 4.80 per cent.

The latest rumor in connection with Mr. Mercier's visit to Europe is that he goes to Rome to urge upon the Pope to permit the Jesuits to position the Government for the restitution of their confiscated property. The source of this information is an ecclesiastical one.

Over-Ruling Objections.

Rev. Mr. Tovell preached in the Charlotte street church Sunday evening upon the "Reasons given for not being a Christian." He dealt with the subject in a masterly manner, merely mentioning atheism and agnosticism, which he said he did not intend to discuss. He cited several of the reasons advanced by unconverted people for not becoming Christians—the apathy of professing Christians in regard to the salvation of others; the fanaticism or enthusiasm of other christians; the inconsistencies in the lives of so-called believers. Each of these point he dealt with separately, urging convicted sinners to not be influenced by the unworthy examples of Christianity but look up to the highest standard of perfection as an example. Rev. Mr. Tovell announced that he would continue the subject two weeks hence, when he would come down to more personal matters.

Gough's Problem.

A Mathematical Problem.

If a 200-yard spool of 6 cord cotton (best quality) costs 2c. at Gough's, how much should a 100-yard spool of 3 cord cotton (inferior quality) cost from a delusive advertiser in order to be as cheap as Gough's?—The first school boy giving the correct answer to the above through the columns of the EXAMINER will receive a pair of skates for a prize.

The following answers have been received to the above problem :—

If 200 yds. spool of 6 cord cotton cost 2c. 100 yds. spool of 6 cord cotton will cost 1c. Therefore, a 100 yds spool of 3 cord cotton will cost 1c.

WILLIE ROADHOUSE.

Received at 8:45 a.m. Monday, Jan. 22rd, 1888.

If Mr. Gough sells a 200 yd. spool of 6 cord for 2c. this is equal to 200x6=1200 yds of single cord for 2c. or 600 yds single cord for 1c. best quality. And delusive advertiser sells a 100 yd. spool of 3 cord for 2c., this is equal to 100×6=600 yds of single cord for 2c. or 150 yds. single cord for 1c., inferior quality. Therefore delusive advertiser's spools are equal in cost to Mr. Gough's as 600 is to 150, or 150 : 600 :: 1c. : what delusive advertiser ought to get when Mr. Gough ought to get 1c.

The Closing Session—How to make a Honeery—Prof. Robertson on Dairy Cattle—How to Exterminate Weeds.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Mr. F. J. BELL, secretary, read a paper by Mr. J. Baptie on the subject of "How to make a Honeery." Honeeries, the paper stated, should be well drained and perfectly dry with good ventilation. The writer ventilated by means of tile pipes at top and bottom, and opened the windows in summer and on warm winter days. The best building was of plain sounding frame, low at the north side and high at the south. Any kind of lumber would do if tarred paper was placed underneath. The best roosts were made of 2x4 scantlings with shaved edges. The writer also used a platform to catch the droppings.

Mr. T. E. BELL made a few remarks upon the importance of the poultry interests in Canada.

DAIRY CATTLE.

PROF. ROBERTSON, of the Guelph Agricultural College, next addressed the meeting on "The best kind of cow to keep and how to keep her." The dairy cow, he said, had done more for the farmer in Ontario than anything else, and was a source of greater profit, though he estimated that last year less than one-fourth of the farmers had made money by supplying milk to the cheese factories. He next proceeded to point out the distinguishing features of a good dairy cow, using by way of illustration a printed chart of a "business" cow. A good dairy cow, he said, should have good breathing power, rapid circulation and vigorous digestion. She should have an abundance of nervous power, and be of gentle disposition. The following distinguishing features of the head he recommended farmers to procure in selecting dairy cattle—a full, broad head between the horns, a long reach from the horns to the eyes, full eyes, wide mouth, and broad nostrils. Then she should have a head well set on the shoulders, a tapering neck, a strong back bone slightly arched if anything, hips rough to the touch and with not too much fat. Coming down to the udder, he showed how important to a good flow of milk was a rapid circulation of blood and strong nervous power. Anything interfering with these functions interfered with the milk supply. Cows with square, pointed teats, he said, were always easy milkers, while those with cone shaped teats would generally be found harder milkers. The stabling, feeding, working and handling of a cow, he said, should be guided by this. As to rearing, he said, first get a good breed of cow and then give it good feed. In order to get the best calves the best breeds of parents should be brought together. A calf should not be dropped later than February, both for the calf's sake and for the sake of the mother's milk supply. The early calf, he said, could be fattened on sweet skim milk, while the late-comer was obliged to exist on sour milk and slops. Calves' food should always be warm. The Professor said a gallon each of warm water and milk mixed was better than two gallons of cold milk. The same principle applied to the care of little pigs. He did not believe in feeding porridge, as he thought it would be better for digestion to feed the meal dry. He said a cow's milk flow should be forced as soon as she has calved. In feeding, the Professor said, chopped stuffs should not be fed apart from rough, coarse feed. He would feed straw and hay—not ripe straw, though, but rather when it is on the green side. Good cornstalks, well saved in a silo, he considered about three or four times as cheap and fully as good as timothy or clover hay. Bran, chopped oats, barley and peas, in about the order named, he said, were particularly helpful in cold weather. He would mix it with hay, straw or ensilage, and feed it all together. He would prefer to cut the straw before feeding.

A WASTE OF MEAL.

Mr. LEARMONTH thought the straw should be sprinkled so that when the meal was put on it would stick to it, for when it was dry the animals just nosed through the hay and the meal dropped down and was lost.

Prof. ROBERTSON agreed with Mr. Learmonth on that point, but said he would rather lose a little that way than feed the hay and meal separately. There should not be much waste in any way, though, as cows should only be fed when hungry, not five times a day; twice a day was plenty if the cow got enough each time. This, he said, had been proved by experience. As to the cow's treatment, she should be given a comfortable, warm, well ventilated stable, as the process of "chilling" was most deleterious to the animal's nervous system. To ventilate a stable all that was necessary was to build a ventilating shaft or box in the ceiling. Then the gases peculiar to stables should be prevented from rising. The liquid manure should be preserved, and a little gypsum sprinkled in the gutters would preserve the ammonia in the liquid and prevent it from rising. Then, cows should be watered in the stable on cold days in winter. The lack of exercise, he said would not do any harm. It was a mistaken idea, he said, that dairy cows must have a certain amount of exercise. He didn't think, from past experience and records, they needed hay. The water, too, should be pure, especially in summer. The speaker denounced the habit of "dogging" cattle.

In reply to questions PROF. ROBERTSON said he did not favor boiling food, and if he fed turnips at all he would feed them just after milking so that the taste would not be noticed.

Mr. JOHN MCCLELLAND sent in his regrets that he was unable to attend the meeting and read his paper on poultry.

NOXIOUS WEEDS.

Mr. T. N. WILLAN, of South Monaghan, read a paper on weeds. Beginning with wild oats, he said they could be distinguished by the fact that they ripened before the civilized oat. Then they had a little furry head and moved about by the action of the dew and the sun. Wild peas were also a nuisance, as almost everything they grew around they smothered. They resembled vitches, and were round. Then there was mustard, and a small, blue burr that grows so thick that they will perfectly cover the ground. To exterminate these weeds the field should be summer-followed while the land is moist, then harrowed and rolled. Then when the weeds have grown sufficiently to exhaust the seed, plow under again as before. By this time the land will begin to get warm and other seeds will spring up. Plow again, and then not only will the weeds be killed but the land will be mellow. Then he would seed down with clover and follow with a crop of early peas, being careful to pull all the weeds. Weeds which grow from roots should be treated in another way. The land should be allowed to become dry before it is ploughed, and allowed to remain unharrowed until the roots be dry and dead. Then use a spring tooth harrow to bring the roots to the surface, and let them lay until sufficiently dry that they will not grow again. Proceed as before, seed down with clover; if this is followed out the writer claimed that they had nothing to fear from weeds, except from threshing machines which certainly carried about large quantities of pernicious seeds. The writer then described his method of summer-fallowing, which he claimed was much better than the old plan.

OTHER PAPERS.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS read an interesting paper on "What I Saw of Farming in England." He said the farmers of England were away behind them of progressive young Canada in their methods, and, as a consequence, in their financial remuneration. He contrasted the methods in vogue there with those followed here. After all his observations he had come to the conclusion that there was no country in the world better for farmers than Canada.

Mr. T. N. WILLAN read a paper, copied from an article by a celebrated writer, showing the civilizing influences the wheat plant has had on humanity wherever it is grown. He attributed all the progress, enterprise and improvement, in mechanical pursuits in particular, to the influences of the wheat plant.

Votes of thanks were moved to the speakers and those who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

After it had been decided on motion to hold another similar meeting in February, the date to be fixed later by the Board, the meeting adjourned.

A FIGHT TO A FINISH.

Between Tom White and Billy Dempsey at Fort Hamilton—The Latter Killed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A party of sporting men went down to Fort Hamilton late Saturday night and stopped at the Live Oak House. Among them were the light-weight pugilists Tom White, better known as "Swipes, the Newsboy," and Billy Dempsey, who was employed in the press-room of a morning paper in this city, who were matched to fight to a finish with skin-tight gloves for a purse amounting to about $60. There were about twenty in the party. The men took possession of a room and the principals were soon in fighting costume and began work.

Dempsey led with a stinging blow on Swipes' face. In fighting followed and then Dempsey received a blow on the right side over the short ribs; he staggered forward and was met by a swinging blow on the temple that sent him to the floor unconscious. His seconds raised his head and said he had a fit. He did not recover consciousness and Swipes was declared the winner. The latter declined to take the purse, saying he would wait until Dempsey recovered and fight it out. Dempsey did not recover, and the party became alarmed. Thompson, the hotel-keeper, was told of the mishap, and sent four men in search of a doctor, but they failed either to get one or return. Those who remained suddenly discovered that Dempsey was dead, and there was a general flight.

Justice Church and Coroner Rooney were notified to-day. Dempsey's body was removed to his late residence. Although Dempsey was but 22 years old he had been married a year and a half and leaves a widow and a 9-months-old child.

An autopsy will be held to-morrow. Swipes surrendered himself and was locked up. It is probable that all the others concerned in the fight will be arrested.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tories mean business mean sure enough; would have one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how preposterous it is, the Public, like sheep will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the People don't care a button how much a man has stuck on his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual amount SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and cover no luxury, but such Goods as go in every domestic at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $3.75. This is an All Wool Cloth, with satin, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the trade.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy trash, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00. SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

ON THE SHORE OF NIAGARA

A VERY, VERY WICKED STORY VENTILATED IN A COURT-ROOM.

Opening of the Irving-Smith Crim. Con. Case—Nurse Stoughton's Tale of a Wife's Perfidity—Watchman Raynor's Kindly Care Over Lone Women—What a "Peeping Tom" Saw and Heard From the Top of a Verandah—The Plaintiff's Side of the Action Closed.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—An immense crowd was drawn to the Civil Assize Court yesterday from the fact that the celebrated case of Irving v. Smith was to be called. The upper corridor was filled with a motley throng an hour before the opening of the case, and all were eager to gain admittance to the room where the scandalous details of the case were to be aired. When the doors were opened, however, only jurymen, counsel and reporters were admitted.

The following are the pleadings filed in the case of Andrew Maxwell Irving against Harold G. Smith. The case was in progress from 11 a.m. until 6.30 last evening.

On Aug. 31, 1885, plaintiff was duly and legally married to Maria Louise Irving, at St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, by Rev. Mr. Greene, and since said date she has been and was at the time of the committal of the wrongful acts hereafter referred to, and still is, the lawful wife of the said plaintiff.

The only issue of the marriage is one child born on Oct. 29, 1886, which child is still living.

On or about July 1 last the plaintiff, with the object of benefiting the health of his wife and child, rented and furnished a cottage in the Town of Niagara for occupancy during the summer months, and thence forward until the first week in October last the plaintiff's wife and child resided there, and were visited by the plaintiff weekly, or as often as his employment in the city permitted.

While the said Maria Louise Irving resided in the said cottage the defendant, Harold G. Smith, wrongfully intending to injure the plaintiff and deprive the plaintiff of her affections and assistance, did, in the Town of Niagara, and on divers days and times in the months of July, August, September and October, in the years 1887, and before the commencement of this action, wrongfully assault and debauch her, the said defendant, being well aware that she was the lawful wife of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff did not become aware of the wrongful acts of the defendant until immediately before the commencement of this action.

By reason of the said wrongful acts of the defendant the plaintiff has lost the society and service of his wife, and has otherwise suffered anguish of mind, disgrace and loss, and been put to expense, and is prosecuting an application to the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada for a bill of divorce from his wife, notice of which has been given.

The plaintiff claims $20,000 damages, the cost of the action and such other relief as the court may be pleased to grant.

The defendant admits the allegations contained in the first paragraph of the plaintiff's statement of claim, but denies that he intended to, or did, injure the plaintiff, and deprive him of the affections and assistance of the said Maria Louise Irving. He also denies that he did wrongfully assault and debauch her, as alleged, and says he is not guilty of the allegations made against him.

The case was punctually started. The court opened at 11 o'clock and by 11.20 Clerk Nicoll had a jury sworn in. There was but one challenge, a Mr. Secord. The jury chosen was:

Charles Peters, farmer, Etobicoke.
William Bayne, trafficer, Toronto.
Thomas Gates, farmer, Georgina.
William Tabor, farmer, York.
William Spence, coal dealer, Toronto.
Richard Easley, tanner, Markham.
William Turnbull, shoemaker, Toronto.
James Leighton, builder, Toronto.
John Taylor, tanner, Georgina.
Francis Lockwood, plasterer, Toronto.
John A. Ball, carriage maker, York.
Charles J. Mayes, stair builder, Toronto.

Mr. Osler stepped over to the front of the jury box, and opened his case with this statement:

This case is of a somewhat unusual character. It is brought by Andrew Maxwell Irving, who is a gentleman engaged in connection with the Toronto News Company, and he also served as Lieutenant in the Royal Grenadiers. The action is brought against Harold G. Smith to recover damages for betraying the wife of the plaintiff—the betrayal being accomplished under circumstances of peculiar atrocity so far as the rights of the injured were concerned.

The plaintiff is a young man about 27 years of age, and some time ago was married to a Miss Skelton, who was living with her mother at the time of marriage. She was a young lady, 22 years old, and after an engagement of six or seven months the couple were married in August, 1885. The plaintiff, having a fair and remunerative income able to suitably maintain his wife and family, hired and furnished a house on Adelaide street, and lived on happy terms with his wife. In October, 1886, a child was born. In July, 1887, the plaintiff, for the sake of giving his wife a holiday and also for the benefit of the child, took a cottage at Niagara, where the wife and child went to stay some months in this, the plaintiff frequently visiting them, coming over on the boat on Saturday and returning to business on Monday morning.

Up to that time we have no knowledge of the plaintiff having any suspicion of the familiarity existing between his wife and the defendant. After the cottage was taken, Harold G. Smith, who formerly lived in Montreal, and who is now supposed to reside in England, and who is said to be a man of wealth and leisure and who was about 28 years of age, commenced visiting Mrs. Irving during the absence of the husband. At the request of the wife and his wife there is evidence to show that on or about the 29th of August, 1887, the defendant, Smith, did wrongfully take advantage of the absence of the husband, of the position, and was then and there guilty of the crime which he evidently commenced

The evidence, so far as I can see, is consistent in an unbroken adultery. If that is so, it puts what you, gentlemen, to consider, the question of damages very plainly. The facts will speak louder and stronger than any words I can utter. If this case is clearly made out it is intended for you to assess where to visit your hands in the matter of damages. The happiness of a home has been blighted, his wife, who was and is a beautiful woman, and his child are lost to his affections.

This man utterly destroys the plaintiff's happiness and deprives all the enjoyments of their lives, and wrongs a gentleman upon whom his wife and the child [illegible] and, having [illegible] at his disposal, leaving [illegible] to [illegible] gets him, contrary and against the [illegible] of these laws for the purpose of destroying the plaintiff's happiness. I need not further enlarge upon this, gentlemen, to the matter.

His Lordship then said he would adjourn the court until 1.15 and he cautioned the jury not to talk about the case to anyone during the recess. The court re-assembled at 1.20, and Mr. Osler first called ex-Ald. Richard Tinning. Mr. Tinning's evidence was merely formal and the evident idea of calling him was to prove the marriage between the plaintiff and Marie Louise Skelton, familiarly known in Toronto as Marie Louise Wall previous to her marriage with Mr. Irving.

Witness further stated that he had never spoken to plaintiff in any way about Mrs Irving's alleged misconduct after it became a matter of common rumor.

Rev. Canon Dumoulin was called and produced the register of St. James' Cathedral. In it was recorded the marriage of Andrew Max well Irving and Marie Louise Skelton on Aug. 5, 1885.

Margaret Stoughton, a woman apparently 30 years of age, was the next witness. She was on the stand for about two hours. Miss Stoughton was the plaintiff's chief witness and she told a story which the crowded court room listened to with wrapt attention. Mr Osler examined her first as follows:

Q—Did you go with Mrs. Irving and her child to Niagara? A—Yes.

Q—Where did you and Mrs. Irving and the child live? A—In a small frame cottage, with a large verandah on it.

Q—How long did you continue to live with Mrs. Irving? A—Till Oct. 1 last.

Q—Did Mr. Irving go to Niagara from time to time? A—Yes; he came on Saturdays and stayed till Monday morning.

Q—Were you the only one living in the house? A—Yes, besides Mrs. Irving and the child.

Q—Now, do you know a man named H. G Smith? A—Yes.

Q—Did he go visiting to the cottage? A—Yes, he did.

Q—When did he first put in his appearance? A—Shortly after we moved to Niagara; I do not remember the date.

Q—Then after he first came, how often did he come? A—He came frequently.

Q—Did he come when Mr. Irving was there A—No, sir.

Q—He came while Mr. Irving was away? A—Yes.

Q—Do you know of anything between him self and Mrs. Irving? Do you know what terms they were on after he had been going there? A—They were friends.

Q—Anything more? A—Yes, they were more than friends.

Q—Just relate anything you know about the relations of Mrs. Irving with the defendant Smith. Well, describe him. A—He was a tall, dark man about 28 or 30.

Q—Describe to me anything you have seen between them. A—I have not seen very much, but I know they were more than friends.

Q—Tell us how you know. A—Because he was so much there.

Q—How late did he stay? A—He stayed all day and all night till morning.

Q—What have you seen done in the morning? A—I have not seen anything done.

Q—Do you know where he stayed? A—Yes.

Q—How do you know? A—I heard him speaking.

Q—Which room did he stay in? A—He stayed downstairs.

Q—Whose bedroom? A—In Mrs. Irving's.

Q—How long after this did he next go there? A—I think it was in August.

Q—Now, Mrs. Irving's bedroom was on the ground floor, was it not? A—Yes.

Q—And where was yours? A—Upstairs, at the head of the stairs.

Q—Now tell me how you know he stayed in her bedroom that night? A—Because when I came down in the morning I heard him talking.

Q—What did he say? A—I don't know; but I heard him speaking quite often.

Q—Do you know what room he was speaking in? A—Yes; it was Mrs. Irving's.

Q—Do you know if Mrs. Irving stayed there? A—Yes.

Q—Did you see him that evening? A—Yes.

Q—What time did he come in? A—I think between 7 and 8.

Q—Where did he stay when he came in? A—In the drawing-room.

Q—Do you know what time they retired? A—No.

Q—How do you not know that he did not come early the next morning? A—Because I know he was there.

Q—And how do you know? A—I heard him during the night.

Q—What were the partitions in the house, lath and plaster? A—Yes.

Q—Do you remember any occasion when Mrs. Irving took him his breakfast? A—Yes.

Q—Where was he? A—In her bedroom.

Q—Was that the same occasion as that of his spending the night there? A—I think so.

Q—Was that the only occasion of his spending the night there? A—No, sir; there was more than one.

Q—How many times did the defendant spend the night there? A—I don't know, sir.

Q—About how many times? A—About twice a week.

Q—Do you know of any circumstances which would indicate that they had occupied the same bed? A—No, sir.

Q—You did not make up the bed? A—I did once.

Q—And could you tell whether they occupied the same bed? A—I think they did.

John Raynor, a sailor-looking chap of about 45, with black moustache and iron-grey hair, was next put in the box, where he was kept for 1½ hours under examination and rigid cross-firing by Mr. Bigelow. His evidence was in part unfit for publication. Among other things he testified in answer to Mr. Osler's questions:

I was employed as nightwatchman at Niagara-on-the-Lake during last summer. I know Mrs. Irving's cottage at Gates and Perdue-streets. It is owned by Widow Burke. I saw the man called H. G. Smith at the cottage several times during July, August and September. I have seen him there as often as three times a week. The first time I saw Smith at the cottage he was sitting on the verandah, making love, as I thought, with Mrs. Irving. This was about 11 o'clock at night. At 5.30 a.m. when I passed the house curtains were still across them. Then I saw them go into a bedroom just to the left of the hall door and remain there ten or fifteen minutes.

Q—How long were you a nightwatchman a in Niagara? A—From July 12 to Oct. 12, 1887.

Q—Were you employed to watch Mrs. Irving's cottage or to look after burglars? A—I was not employed particularly to watch the cottage, but Councillor Wilkinson, who is a friend of Mr. Irving, I believe, told me to keep an eye on it, as there was a lonely woman down there and several valuable articles. All that Mr. Wilkinson asked me to do was to keep an eye over "the lone woman."

Q—Were you told to look after other lone women? A—I was not. I told Mr. Wilkinson about what I saw at the cottage between Mrs. Irving and Smith. I was first spoken to about the evidence I would give at the trial shortly after the Chicora stopped running. It was after the cottage was broken up. I received a telegram from Mr. H. S. Irving about it.

Lyman Dwight of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company was next sworn, and asked to produce certain telegrams set forth in a subpœna served on him.

Mr. Dwight said he had copies of the telegrams in question, but he refused to produce them unless so ordered by the court.

Mr. Osler—Oh, you don't want to pay $100 and go to jail, do you?

"Lymie" remembered the fate of his father, who was fined $100 for refusing to produce telegrams in court, and said no.

His Lordship—I make the order for production.

A bundle of copies of telegrams were then handed Mr. Osler.

Herbert Walsh, a youthful-looking operator who was stationed at Niagara last summer, was sworn, and he identified the telegrams as having been sent and received by him. Mrs. Irving had given him some of the telegrams herself, and he had delivered some of them received as he was office to her.

Mr. Edward W. Gardner ("Teddy" of the Palace) was called after Watchman Raynor had been put on the stand again without saying anything new. Mr. Gardner knew H. G. Smith, but he did not know if he had any address in Toronto in July and August last. I was once in partnership with Smith in the livery and sales business. I remember the tally-ho coach well. Smith took it to Niagara last summer. Smith was not the sole owner of it. It was let out for hire and not for pleasure.

With a view of identifying Smith with the address, "No. 77½ King-street west," to which number the telegrams referred to were sent, Mr. Osler questioned Mr. Gardner particularly about this. Mr. Gardner said he was only at No. 77½ once. There were six or seven offices there. He went there with Smith for a few minutes and saw Col. Hale there. He knew the "Kentucky Stables" in rear of Score's tailor shop. On the sign was, "H. G. Smith, Kentucky Stables."

To Mr. Bigelow—I am not aware that Smith is now in the country. I came here for the express purpose of finding out if he were.

His Lordship said he would allow the copies of telegrams which had been produced to be read. They were seven in number and were all handed in at the Niagara office by Mrs Irving, according to Operator Walsh's statement, and were addressed to "Harold G Smith, 77½ King-street west, Toronto." They were signed "Wilkins." Their dates and contents are as follows:

Sept. 28, 1887.—To meet me, where? Are you referring to Thursday? If so, that is for you to say. WILKINS.

Sept. 28, 1887.—Why have I not heard from you? Come over by the Empress to-day, as I leave for Buffalo to-morrow. Answer. WILKINS.

Sept. 29.—I will expect you at 4.30. Impossible for me to go. WILKINS.

Sept. 29.—Leave at 11 on Chicora. Meet me at 1.30. Be prepared to return with me at 2. Will be at Niagara to-night. WILKINS.

Albert Davies, who described himself as a clerk and a member of the Provincial Police Force for three months every summer, with his home at Niagara, was next sworn. Davies' evidence, which was principally unpublishable, seemed to cause a great deal of amusement for the court-room. His story was to the effect that he and a young man named Thos. C. Blain, also of Niagara, had heard certain rumors about Mrs. Irving and Smith, and on Thursday night, Sept. 29, 1887, they determined to go to the cottage and play the "Peeping Tom" role. Arriving at the cottage fence late at night they could hear or see nothing from this vantage ground, and they climbed over into the garden. Blain got tired waiting and left, as he (Blain) was afraid his old mon would "get on to him." Davies then clambered up on the verandah, but could see nothing through the blinds. He heard Smith talking inside, because he knew his voice. He described certain noises, and repeated a vulgarism which he declared he heard Mrs. Irving address to her alleged paramour. Witness then rubbed a stick up and down the window shutter and decamped.

In cross-examination by Mr. Bigelow he said he didn't know of there being any more people like himself in Niagara.

Q—What did you get up on the verandah for; were you interested in Mrs. Irving or Smith? A—No I merely went there to satisfy my own curosity.

Q—And you a member of the Provincial Police. A—Yes.

Q—Did you dot down what you heard? A—I did.

Thomas C. Blain was sworn and said he was Mrs. Irving and Smith came off the Chicora on the night of Sept. 29. He did not know if they came off together.

To Mr. Bigelow—I didn't think I was doing anything very mean in going to the cottage.

Mr. Bigelow—Oh, you don't, eh? Is that the kind of a town Niagara is?

Mr. Osler then said: "That's the case, your Lordship."

Mr. Bigelow then announced that he had eight or nine witnesses to call for the defence, and said he would be ready to go on at 9.30 this morning.

Capt. F. F. Manley will be the first witness called this morning. J. T. Dunn has been subpœned. It is said that Harold G. Smith will also be in court to-day, as he arrived in Buffalo yesterday afternoon.

Preparations for the opening of the Legislature on Tuesday are being actively pushed as the Parliament buildings.

The derrick used for hoisting stone at the new Canada Life building, King-street west, broke yesterday afternoon. John Purdie, a teamster living at 4 Rose-avenue, was struck by one of the beams. His left arm and leg were broken. After being attended to by Drs. Musgrove, Mackenzie and Stevenson, he was removed to the hospital, where he died at 8.15.

The 12-year-old domestic, Annie Diamond, who robbed her mistress, Mrs. W. J. Morrison, 244 Huron-street, on Sunday night, of two gold watches, a pair of gold bracelets, a diamond ring, a seal skin toque and a $5 bill, has been nabbed at Belleville. The detectives suspected that she would go to her home at Trenton and so wired the stations along the line and gave outgoing conductors a description of her. She was arrested in the train at Belleville and wore the sealskin and all the jewelry. Detective Davis goes down to-day to bring her back.

BROKER COX'S SUSPENSION.

He is Still in Buffalo—"Judge" Humphries on the Stand at Osgoode Hall.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.

There were no startling developments yesterday in connection with the suspension of the firm of Cox & Co. Mr. Humphries, who is in charge of the office as Mr. Cox's representative, was besieged by at least thirty of the firm's creditors, who had come in from outside points to learn what prospects there were of getting a settlement. Noted as he is for the possession of that peculiar ability to deal with such cases, the "Judge" was not altogether successful in persuading the callers to be hopeful as to the ultimate result.

In the afternoon Mr. Humphries was examined before the Master-in-Ordinary. He deposed that his duties with the firm consisted of inspecting the branches, drawing money for Mr. Cox and attending to the correspondence. Several documents produced in Mr. Allen's examination were submitted, and witness identified some of them as being in the handwriting of Mr. E. S. Cox. Witness believed that several messages received over their wire and signed "Bonner" were sent by James Baxter & Co., Montreal. In reply to a question put by Mr. Coyne, witness said he had not brought with him any documents relating to Cox & Co.'s transactions with the Central Bank. Mr. Cox kept his private papers in his desk. He had not seen any such papers, and did not know if there were any in the office now. Mr. Cox cleaned up his desk before he went away, and he did not know what he did with his papers. Mr. Cox was not in town. The witness declared he had not seen the letters produced in Mr. Allen's handwriting.

The court then adjourned till 3 o'clock to-day.

A Cigar-Making Machine.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—A German in this city named Smale is the inventor of a machine which, it is claimed, will revolutionize the cigar manufacturing industry. The machine is so simple that a girl 16 years old can be taught to run it in an hour. It will cut the wrapper, fill, roll and finish the cigar so rapidly that as many cigars will be turned out by the machine in a day as three expert men could make in the same time.

Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company.

The first annual general meeting of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company was held in the council chamber, Board of Trade Rooms, Toronto, on Tuesday, 17th January current.

The president, Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald occupied the chair, and Mr. J. B Carlile, Managing Director, acted as Secretary.

At the request of the Chairman the report was read to the meeting by Mr. J. F. Ellis, one of the Directors. It is as follows:—

REPORT.

"The Directors have pleasure in announcing at this their first annual meeting, that the operations of the Company during the five months of its history, have been of a most satisfactory character, having far exceeded in importance their most sanguine expectations.

"A year ago our Company was not in existence. About that time our indefatigable Managing Director, Mr. Carlile, was beginning to think that there was room for another life insurance company in Canada, and, with him to think was to act, so that during the year just past, obstacles that seemed almost insurmountable have been overcome, and results accomplished which are usually only reached by years of steady application.

"Since then the charter has been obtained from the Dominion Parliament. Capital stock to the amount of $621,000 has been subscribed, $125,800 of which has been paid up. All the intricate forms incident to the organization and carrying on of the business of a life insurance company have been prepared; its plans have been in the main part devised; its tables of rates have been calculated, and among its schemes we find some hitherto adopted by no other company, but all bearing the endorsement of some of the ablest actuaries on the continent. Its agency department has been so far organized that it forms a complete network over the whole Dominion, only needing a slight revision to make it equal in all respects to the organizations which it has taken other companies years to build up. So rapidly and so quietly has this all been accomplished that the statements which are made here to-day are almost incredible. The Company issued its first policy on the 19th day of August, 1887, leaving less than five months for active operations in procuring business.

"The best efforts of our valued staff of agents have been put forth in the meantime, with results never before approached in the history of life insurance.

"On the 29th day of December the business aggregated the handsome sum of $2,564,500, on which the annual premium is $62,000. In closing our books on the date mentioned, we had in view the requirements of the insurance department, as we could have readily put on our books—had we chosen to keep them open until now—over $3,000,000.

"Indeed, we can say that the insurances already written exceed that amount. We preferred, however, to close our books promptly, believing that nothing is gained by issuing policies up to the first of March in any one year, and crediting the business to the previous year.

"We have been called upon to pay one claim for $7,000 under a policy on the life of our first agent, the late Andrew Wilson, in whom the Company has lost one of its most efficient workers, and whose place it will be difficult to fill.

"Although it is an unusual course for new companies to pursue, we decided to submit our policies for valuation to an independent actuary, a gentleman of high character and undoubted ability, and his report is before you to-day in the Company's general report, showing that a handsome surplus still remains, after providing for all our liabilities, including the statutory reserve on the policies, and in addition thereto a contingent fund. Of the large item for promoting the company, but $3,355.73 remains unprovided for, which is a most satisfactory state of things, when it would not have been unprecedented had our capital stock been impaired at the end of the first year. We therefore congratulate the stockholders on the very satisfactory state of their account.

"The company received 1,000 applications for insurances, amounting to $2,570,000, there were 915 for $2,564,500, with annual premium amounting to $62,000, which were accepted and issued; others amounting to $119,500, upon 31 lives, have been declined, and applications for $116,000 were in course of completion at the date of the report.

"The report would be incomplete did we not tender our thanks to the agents of the company, everywhere, for their extraordinary efforts on behalf of the company, and also to the office staff, for whom no hours seemed to be too long, no work too heavy. All have borne their fair share in bringing about this most satisfactory state of things.

"All the Directors retire, but are eligible for re-election.

"JOHN A. MACDONALD, President.

"GEO. GOODERHAM, } Vice-Presidents."

To Keep Warm and Well.

Hints for Those Who "Feel Chilly" and Wear Thick Clothing.

When exposed to severe cold a feeling of warmth is really created by repeatedly filling the lungs to their utmost in this manner. Throw the shoulders well back and hold the head well up. Inflate the lungs slowly, the air entering entirely through the nose. When the lungs are completely filled, hold the breath 10 seconds or longer, and then expire it quietly through the mouth. After repeating this exercise while one is "chilly," a feeling of warmth will be felt over the entire body, and even to the feet and hands. It is important for all to practise this exercise many times each day, and especially when in the open air. If the habit ever becomes universal, then consumption and many other diseases will rarely, or ever, be heard of.

Not only while practising the "breathing exercise" must the clothing be loose over the chest, but beginners will do well to remember, in having their clothing fitted, to allow for permanent expansion of the chest of one, two, and even three inches, which will eventually follow. One might with pen nearly say that two many people choke or stifle the skin by an excess of clothing, and, as a consequence all e cold easily. Some impurities are thrown out of the system by the skin, as others are by the lungs, the bowels, and the kidneys.

It is absolutely essential to health that the emanations from the skin pass easily through the clothing. This—which is called "transpiration"—may be interfered with by an excess of clothing, or by clothing of a very thick texture. All who wear India rubber coats know how uncomfortable they cause them to feel after they have been on a short time.

On the accession of Leo X. to the papacy, there was a grand procession at Florence in his honor. A little girl was made to personate the golden age by being casted from head to feet with gold leaf. Before the day was over she died in convulsions, killed because "transpiration," or in other words, because carbonic acid gas and dead, worn-out matter, which should have been thrown out by her skin, were shut up in her system by the metallic covering.

Ordinary clothing will not of course prevent transpiration, but an excess will interfere with it; and where too much clothing is worn the sense soon becomes foul unless the outside air can freely mingle with the gases from the body and so dilute them. Some wear the thickest and heaviest under-vests which they can buy, and such people are very generally the victims of frequent colds. Following the rule of light clothing, they would be much safer from the dangers of exposure were they to wear two light undervests instead of one very thick and heavy.—Boston Herald.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.

The local stock market this morning was generally stronger, and fairly active, with sales of 228 shares.

On St. Lawrence market to-day, 200 bushels of barley were sold at 74½c to 82c a bushel; 200 of wheat at 81c to 83c for fall, 70c to 82c for spring, and 73c to 74c for goose, and two loads of oats at 47c and 48c. The buyers bid 48c for a load for which the owner said he had been offered 50c outside. He was allowed to drive it off unsold. Peas were not offered. During the season just passed not ten loads have been sold, and old buyers remember the days when each of them on St. Lawrence market in the season bought enough to stock a warehouse. In general lines this morning Monday's dullness prevailed, and there was little change in prices.

The following were the ruling prices: Beef, hind quarters, per lb, 6c to 7c; beef, forequarters, per lb, 3c to 4½c; mutton, per carcass, 6c to 7c; lamb, per carcass, 7c to 10c; veal, 7c to 9c; pork, $6.80 to $7.10; chickens, per pair, 50c to 65c; ducks, per pair, 75c to 85c; geese, per lb, 9c to 10c; turkeys, per lb, 10c to 12c; wheat, fall, per bush, 81c to 83c; wheat, spring, per bush, 73c to 82c; wheat, goose, per bush, 73c to 74c; barley, 74½c to 82½c; oats, per bush, 47c to 50c; peas, per bush, 68c to 69½c; timothy, $13 to $14; clover, $11 to $12; straw, $9 to $10; butter, pound rolls, 24c to 26c; butter, tub, 19c to 22c; cheese, per lb, 12c to 15c.

The Fisheries Conference.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Fisheries Conference, after a short session to-day, adjourned until to-morrow.

It is thought that the increasing frequency of the sessions is an indication that the conference is shortly to dissolve, but no intimation can be had from any reliable source as to how its deliberations are progressing, or are likely to terminate.

Baring Bank Robbery.

LIMESTONE, Ind., Jan. 23.—At 11 o'clock on Saturday morning four masked men rode up to the Citizens' Bank and dismounted. The leader entered, and presenting a pistol at the head of the cashier, W. T. Reynolds, demanded that he turn over the cash on hand. Reynolds slammed the door of the safe and turned the lock. He was immediately shot through the heart. All the money in the cash drawer, $2300, was taken. An attempt was made to open the safe, but it failed. The town was aroused, and thirty armed men hurried toward the bank. The robbers were just mounting their horses, when a hot fire started, during which one of the robbers, Thomas Evas, was killed. He was identified as a ranchman, living near town. A posse was organized, and started in pursuit of the robbers and they were surrounded and captured. The three men were tried on Saturday evening. The leader was found guilty of the murder of Reynolds, and forthwith strung up. The other two were started for Fort Washita, where they will be turned over to the United States authorities.

It's Always the way.

"Didn't I tell you so?" said a gentleman to an acquaintance whom he chanced to meet on the street; "its always the way." "What's always the way"? inquired a mutual friend of the two who happened along just then. "Why, just this," replied the first: "you see Smith, here, the last time I met him had one of the worst coughs you ever heard. He complained of a loss of appetite, of night-sweats, of low spirits and other unmistakable premonitory symptoms of consumption. I told him to get a supply Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at once. He did so, and look at him now! Did you ever see a healthier looking man? The 'Discovery' has snatched thousands from consumptives' graves. I knew it would cure Smith. It's always the way." b

Bismarck and Gladstone—The Porte's Missing Policy Recented—Mr. Gladstone's Return.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Cologne Gazette deplores the fact that no attempt was made to arrange a meeting between Mr. Gladstone and Bismarck. It says that such a meeting would convince Mr. Gladstone that the best policy of England would be to adhere to the central powers.

A deputation of Austrian nuns was received by the Pope today; His Holiness entreated the Catholics of Austria to do their share towards helping all other Catholics to effect a change for the better in his present intolerable position, and to enable him to regain temporal power, which he claimed to be essential to the prosperity of the church.

The decision of the Sultan to employ Germans to assist the governors of the provinces in developing agriculture and mining has offended the French and Russian ambassadors to Constantinople. If it proceeds a formal complaint will be made.

The roof of the Bankruptcy Court building in Dublin was hoisted from the walls to-day and the windows smashed owing to an explosion of gas. One workman was killed and another injured.

Advices received at Melbourne, Australia, from the Samoan Islands say that the Germans are enforcing the payment of taxes and that a German judge will soon arrive at Apia. It is expected that a German protectorate will be proclaimed.

Owing to a series of systematic insults, crowned by the recent arrest of one of its attaches, at Bucharest, the Russian Legation has ruptured the relations with Roumania.

W. Mr. J. Lane, M.P., recently sentenced to one month's imprisonment under the Crimes Act, has been removed to Tullamore jail.

On Feb. 6 Mr. Gladstone will return to England. A circular requesting the early presence of members of Parliament in London will be issued by the party chiefs on Wednesday.

Dr. Mackenzie will return to San Remo next week. The paper says that in the Crown Prince's larynx exists a portion of dead connective tissue which must be removed. An attempt to do this will be made by Dr. Mackenzie, during whose stay at San Remo another conference of doctors will be held with a view to reaching a definite decision as to the nature of the Crown Prince's illness. The Crown Prince has been confined to his apartments for eight days, but since Friday last he has been recovering.

A reply has been prepared by the Porte to the recent demand of Russia for the arrears of the war indemnity. The delay in payment is due to a famine in the Villayeh, when it became necessary to divert the tithes from the indemnity fund.

A CUTTER RIDE.

Trouble in a London Family—Banker Taylor's Embezzlement Cases.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—There is trouble at 659 York-street, the residence of Andrew J. Smith, a cooper employed by Workman & Ward. For some time past a young girl named Jennie Hedges has been a frequent visitor at Smith's house, the guest and the host showing such marked interest in one another that Mrs. Smith finally ordered the girl to stay away. Last week Jennie left her place of employment on the plea of homesickness and went to her father's place in London Township, where, on Thursday, she received a letter from Smith inviting her to take a cutter ride with him. The girl's parents got hold of the letter, explained to Smith's wife how matters stood and spoiled the little game. Smith has thought it best to absent himself, and has not been seen since Friday. His wife and two small children are in destitute circumstances.

Four additional charges against Henry Taylor for embezzlement of the Ontario Investment's funds were to have been investigated to-day before Mayor Cowan. County Crown Attorney Hutchinson presented a certificate from Dr. Brown, whom he had engaged to make a critical diagnosis of Taylor's physical condition. Dr. Brown's certificate was to the effect that no danger would arise from Taylor's examination in open court. The Mayor did not consider that Dr. Brown's opinions would outweigh those of Sir Henry Clarke, Dr. Woodruff and Jail Physician Smith, and decided that the examination would have to go on in Taylor's cell or not at all. Mr. Hutchinson said that under these circumstances he would withdraw from the case. The court then adjourned to Taylor's cell where the Mayor discharged the defendant on the remaining charges. The Crown Attorney states that this will not by any means settle the matter, and that if any attempt is made to bail Taylor on the two charges upon which he had been indicted the attempt would be met with fresh warrants.

Driscoll Hanged.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Daniel Driscoll, who on June 26, 1886, shot and killed Bezy Garrity, while trying to slay John McCarthy was hanged this morning in the Tombs prison yard. For the first time in the history of this city and county, a man has paid the highest penalty known to the law on a Monday. Driscoll's neck was broken, and he died instantly. His last words were, "Jesus have mercy on me."

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—A great deal of [illegible] is here for the people of Beaver Valley, a village of 1500 inhabitants in Traverse County, Minn., on the border of Dakota. The place is in the region where casualties were greatest in the blizzard of last Thursday, and no reports have been received directly from there for several days.

THE BEST MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own actions, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The most distressing symptoms quickly yield to it. eod&4

A Boon and a Blessing.

A boon and a blessing to mankind is Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great pain destroyer and healing remedy for external and internal use. Yellow Oil cures all aches and pains, rheumatism, lame back, sore throat, croup, deafness, cramps, contracted cords and lameness. Procure it of your druggist. 2w3d

Do You Believe in Signs?

We do; for instance the signs of torpid liver are yellow eyes, sallow complexion, pain under right shoulder, irregular bowels, headache, low spirits and weariness. All these signs may be removed by Burdock Blood Bitters, which is a sure cure for all irregularities of the liver. 2w3d

Remarkable Restoration.

Matthew Sullivan, of Westover, Ont. was ill with dyspepsia for four years. Finding doctors did little good he tried Burdock Blood Bitters; six bottles cured him and he gained in weight to 178 pounds. B.B.B. cures the worst known cases of cronic dyspepsia after all else fails. 2w3d

Look Out for It.

If you are troubled with a cold or cough, however light the attack, look out for it, do not allow it to settle on the lungs, break up the cough by loosening the tough phlegm with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. 2w3d

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, hook, line and sinker, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and consequently largely. Just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of prospects. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price today is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.00. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 58c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

LOCAL NEWS.

Extension of Time.

A further extension of time has been granted by the British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company to those desirous of becoming policy holders, entitling all those taking out policies at once to share in the coming division of profits on April 11th, prox. Application should be made immediately to E. E. Henderson, General Agent, Peterborough. With all the new schemes of Life Assurance, Henderson still continues a pledder in the good, old, safe, solvent, reliable and enterprising "British Empire," and is fairly entitled to a fair share of the patronage of the insuring public. Those contemplating insurance should first satisfy themselves by investigation of the claims of local agents and the advantages they offer, before disposing of their patronage to wandering agents here to-day and elsewhere to-morrow. Deal with the men you know and with the men who live among you. 2d1w Frankie Kemble.

Last night Frankie Kemble and her comedy company presented "Sybil" at the Opera House. The play is a refined Irish comedy-drama, sparkling, witty, mirth-provoking and tear-creating by turns. Vivacious Frankie Kemble was, of course, the leading figure in the play, but the company was a good one throughout. Only one or perhaps two of the characters, and these of minor importance, showed room for improvement. In the heavy scenes there was a refreshing absence of the monumental and hysterical agony too frequently exhibited on the stage; everything was quiet, realistic and acted to the life. The house was not as good a one as the merits of the performance deserved.

Crossing the River.

Friday night a party of young people of Coldsprings, Otonabee, drove to the residence of Mr. John Mancrief, South Monaghan. On reaching the river a change of horses had to be made, as the ice between the Anti-Scott Act proclivities of the animals wouldn't allow them to take to the (ice) cold water. However, there were no more rivers to cross and the party proceeded on its way rejoicing. A right jolly, good time was enjoyed at Mr. Moncrief's, the host and hostess doing all in their power to entertain their guests, who got home about day-break, almost frozen in body but with hearts full of warm recollections of the past evening's enjoyment.

Three Central Exhibitions.

The Belleville Ontario makes a comparison of the Kingston, Belleville and Peterborough agricultural exhibitions, and the financial standing of each. It says:—"These two cities are rivals of the Quinte Industrial Exhibition held at Belleville, and about figures won't lie, these statements are of special interest. The financial showing is largely in favor of Belleville and of course the fair here must have been superior to the other two. The attendance at the show here was also larger than at either the Kingston or Peterborough fairs. The figures are: Kingston gate receipts, $1,252.25; Peterborough, $1,-065.60; Belleville, $2,672.25. The Kingston fair had for members' subscriptions $672 while Belleville had $485.00 and Peterborough $672. But, notwithstanding these figures the Belleville society showed a profit of nearly $1,000. The trouble lies in the expenditure for running expenses which was too large. Peterborough expended $4,462.-26; Kingston, $4,697.55 and Belleville, $6,-694.93. There is mismanagement somewhere and the new board of directors should make a thorough investigation and begin this year on a sound paying basis. There was one fact commented on by many of the directors at the meeting here yesterday which should be ventilated. An item appeared in the treasurer's statement showing that the secretary had been paid $600, while the treasurer received no remuneration. Comparisons, it is said are odious, but they are nevertheless necessary in certain cases. There should be a permanent secretary who shall receive a good salary, and one who can at least devote a portion of his time to the affairs of the society—not in the fall but six months before the fair is held. If Mr. Pope cannot do this he ought to resign as it cannot be disputed that the life of a fair nowadays depends largely on the ability and time which the secretary can devote to the interests of the show."

A Great Insurance Company.

The interest in life insurance increases with the increase of education on the subject, and the system of insuring is, like any other concern, subject to improvement. The Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, the most recently organized, presents new features and inducements, and its remarkable success during its brief period of existence attests the public confidence in it. This Company began business less than a year ago, and has the largest capital stock (two million dollars) of any company in the world. So far already $621,000 has been subscribed and $126,500 in cash paid up. Though only actually in business five months, yet up to December 29th insurance policies have been issued to the amount of $2,564,500 representing annual premiums of $82,000. The directors of the Manufacturers' point with pride to these facts as indicating achievements unprecedented in life insurance, and more than has been accomplished by some companies after years of business. The best moneyed men of the Dominion are represented among the shareholders. This Company claims to be the first to offer to the public a plan whereby the insured can at the age of 65 withdraw all the accumulations attached to his policy. There are numerous other advantages of insurance with this Company which cannot be detailed here, but may be learned on application at the local agency of the Company, Wilson & Morrison, George street, Peterborough.

The reader is requested to consult the first annual report of the directors, published in another column.

Curlana.

Six rinks of the Toronto Granites are expected here Friday to play a return match.

Lakefield and Keene curlers are playing at the Charlotte street rink this afternoon.

A rink or two of Lindsay Juniors are expected down this evening to tackle the home boys.

The first draw in the 13-point competition for the club medal is out. The contest should be finished by the end of the month.

Next week two rinks of Peterborough curlers are expected to go to Oshawa to play in the Ontario Tankard competition. The club may, however, allow the match to go by default.

Organ Recital.

It is expected that Mr. Charles Harris, organist of St. James' Cathedral, Montreal, one of the most brilliant organ performers in America, will give an organ recital in St. John's Church, on February 13th, prox. Lovers of music will have an opportunity of hearing the best music of the kind ever presented in town.

A Small Fire.

Last evening at half-past six an alarm of fire was rung from No. 3 ward, but by the time the brigade got around the blaze, a small one in the roof of a tenement house on London street, owned by Mr. J. D. Baptie and occupied by Mr. C. J. Leonard and Mrs. MacDonnel, had been extinguished by the efforts of some neighbors. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.

Oyster Rooms Open.

J.C. Craig has opened out his two comfortable oyster parlors on George street, where the delicious bivalves will be served up at all hours, in any style desired. Drop in and try Johnny's stews. Steaks, mutton chops and tea and coffee served until 12 o'clock at night. d

ELECTION OF WARDEN.

The Clerk took the chair, called the council to order, and the election of a Warden was proceeded with.

Mr. A. R. KIDD proposed, seconded by Mr. Finlay, Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald, deputy reeve of Smith, as warden.

Mr. MOLONEY proposed, seconded by Mr. Hicks, Mr. John Walsh, Reeve of Asphodel, as warden.

The first motion being put the division was as follows:—

YEAS—Messrs. Casement, Finlay, Moore, Kidd, Mansfield, Forster, Stewart, Sanderson and Fitzgerald.—9.

NAYS—Messrs. Burnham, Walsh, Brown, Wilde, Elmhirst, Crough, Moloney, Moher, Hicks, Crowe and Anderson.—11.

This motion being lost the second motion was put and carried on the same division reversed.

The WARDEN took his seat and thanked the council for the honor of his election. He did not accept the office because he felt himself qualified for the office, but because the office was due the township he represented for a longer time in the council than his opponents.

Mr. FITZGERALD explained that he was not anxious for the office as he had not asked a single man for a vote. He was in favour of seeing the reeves of the municipalities, in preference to the deputy-reeves, occupy the position.

The Warden nominated as auditor Mr. F. J. Bell, and on motion of Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. Stewart, Mr. J. J. Hall was named as the other auditor.

On motion of Mr. KIDD, seconded by Mr. Finlay, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to strike the standing committees of the Council for the current year:—Messrs. Moloney, Stewart, Sanderson, Burnham, Brown, and the mover and seconder of the motion.

SESSIONAL CLERK.

On motion of Mr. SANDERSON, seconded by Mr. Anderson, Mr. W. A. Stratton was re-appointed sessional clerk.

Their New Furniture Factory.

The Lindsay-Seldon Company Take Possession of Their New Building—A Factory Complete in its Appointments.

The new frame factory erected for the Lindsay-Seldon Furniture Company by Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, is an imposing structure on the Ashburnham side of the river just above the Hunter street bridge. It is four stories high, painted brown, with cupola, its dimensions being 80 x 40 feet. Messrs. Lindsay & Seldon have assumed occupation of their new premises, though as yet half of their machinery has not been moved from the old building. Large quantities of other new machinery are also to arrive by the end of this month, when operations will be begun on a much larger scale.

The first floor of the building is the machinery room. Only two or three machines are running now, but when the six new improved machines, costing three or four thousand dollars, are put in place, things will "hum" with increased vigor.

At the north end, in a separate building, is situated the boiler and kiln. The boiler will be used for heating and drying purposes only. The whole building is to be heated by steam when everything is completed.

At the south end of the factory is the wheel-house, connected with Roger's race above, which furnishes the power, and a large lumber store-house capable of and at the present time holding some 25,000 feet of lumber.

ON THE SECOND FLOOR

is the mechanical department, where, after the goods have been "machined" below and brought up on the large hoist or elevator which is run by power from top to bottom of the building, the different pieces are put together and made into what they were designed for. A small office, with side entrance leading down a flight of steps to the roadway, is partitioned off in the south-west corner.

The third flat is the packing, shipping and sample room. Half of the flat is partitioned off for storing goods awaiting shipment. From the east side of this room an elevated tramway crosses the race to the high bank above, to within a few feet of the branch line of the Grand Trunk Railway leading to the flour mills. When goods are ready to be shipped they are landed on trucks, run close up to the cars and unloaded easily. By means of these trucks and the elevator goods can be taken from the railway car and deposited at any place in the building with only two handlings—once at the car and again when finally dispensed of. The trucks are adapted to run right upon the elevator and carried to any part of the building.

THE FINISHING ROOM

is in the top story, a portion of which is partitioned off as a varnishing room. On this flat the final touches are given the goods which have won such fame and gained such trade for Messrs. Lindsay & Seldon that, though only established about eighteen months, they have steadily advanced until now they have one of the finest factories of the kind in the province. It is to be hoped their run of prosperity will continue; and if enterprise, energy and careful attention to business will bring this, they are almost certain of still greater success in the future.

They expect by the first of February to be in full working order. Their new machinery should have been here now, but it has been delayed. However, when it does come everything is prepared for its reception and no time will be lost in placing it in position. In leaving their old premises on the Dickson race, commodious though they were, they have secured far more comfortable quarters which will admit of giving full swing to their business. When the factory is running full blast 75 or 80 men will be employed.

The class of furniture made by Messrs. Lindsay and Seldon is noted for its cheapness, novelty and at the same time durability and strength. Their designs are among the most unique and their workmanship unexcelled. Their latest patent is a combined bed and bedroom set. There is the bureau and wash-stand in one, and at the back a bed that folds up away against the rear of the bureau during the day, while when it is required for use the top drops down, a rest is placed under the foot and there you have your bed complete. It occupies no more space than a bureau during the day and is handled with the greatest of ease.

The Skates Won.

A Mathematical Problem.

If a 200-yard spool of 6 cord cotton (best quality) costs 2c. at Gough's, how much should a 100-yard spool of 3 cord cotton (inferior quality) cost from a delusive advertiser in order to be as cheap as Gough's?—The first school boy giving the correct answer to the above through the columns of the EXAMINER will receive a pair of skates for a prize.

The following answers have been received to the above problem:—

If 200 yds. spool of 6 cord cotton cost 2c. 100 yds. spool of 6 cord cotton will cost 1c. Therefore, a 100 yds spool of 3 cord cotton will cost ½c.

WILLIE ROADHOUSE.

Received at 6:45 a.m. Monday, Jan. 23rd, 1888.

If Mr. Gough sells a 200 yd. spool of 6 cord for 2c. this is equal to 200x6=1200 yds of single cord for 2c. or 600 yds single cord for 1c. best quality. And delusive advertiser sells a 100 yd. spool of 3 cord for 2c., this is equal to 100 x 3=300 yds. of single cord for 2c. or 150 yds. single cord for 1c., inferior quality. Therefore delusive advertiser's spools are equal in cost to Mr. Gough's as 600 is to 150, or 150÷600=¼c.—what delusive advertiser ought to get when Mr. Gough ought to get 1c.

S. H. MITCHELL.

Received at 9 a.m., Jan. 23rd, 1888.

The Lucky Winner.

According to above Gough sells cotton spools 100 % cheaper than Delusive Advertiser. Right you are, Willie Roadhouse; call and get the skates.

Police Court.

TUESDAY, Jan. 24.

Johnny Sanders, the boy remanded from last week for larceny from Alexis Cope, was this morning committed to the Reformatory for two or three years. His father and sister testified that he was of bad disposition, of too weak a body to work, and in general not one of the brightest boys existing.

The "cock-pit" case came up this morning and aroused considerable interest among the "great unwashed" who filled the outer court. Owing to the absence of two necessary witnesses the case was further enlarged till four o'clock this afternoon.

Personal.

Mr. William Hamilton, jr., was out to-day for a short drive, his first appearance outside, his illness lasting nearly 13 weeks.

Mr. Geo. Walton, of the Emmerson, Man., Times, is revisiting old scenes and relatives in Peterborough and vicinity, after a long absence. Speaking of the weather, Mr. Walton says it was as cold here last Saturday as he has yet experienced during his nine years' residence in that generally supposed to be intensely cold country.

Carnival Notes.

The C.P.R. company have arranged to carry passengers to the carnival Friday night, from points between Pontypool and Havelock, at fare-and-a-third for parties of ten. It is probable the same rates will be secured from the Grand Trunk company.

The Canton "boys" were busily engaged last evening in preparing the rink decorations, which will be elaborate. They made over 800 feet of evergreen festooning.

The rink will be closed to skaters Thursday and Friday to prepare good ice for Friday night. Boys and girls, get your last skate before the carnival on Wednesday night.

Last night Mr. W. J. Morrow's horse, excited by the frigidity of the atmosphere and the noise of the Salvation Army band, ran away from the rear of the shop down George street. It was stopped before doing any damage.

Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company.

(From the Toronto Globe.)

The report of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company will be found in another column.

The company, which was started less than a year ago, has a capital stock of $2,000,000, being the largest capital stock of any company in the world. Already $621,000 has been subscribed and $126,500 in cash paid into the company. The usual deposit has been made with the Insurance Department at Ottawa, and on the 19th August last the first policy was issued. The Company, therefore, has been in operation less than five months, but up to December 29th last had effected insurances to the amount of $2,564,-500, on which the annual premiums are $82,-000. These results, the directors claim, have never been before approached in the history of life insurance. It is claimed, indeed, that the Manufacturers' already has on its books as much business as is achieved by some companies after being years in the field. This, in the face of the tremendous competition which exists in these days, is something to be proud of. The directors are probably right in ascribing these excellent results to the energy and business capability of Managing Director J. B. Carlile, who as it was happily said by one of the shareholders, appears to have the faculty of infusing some of his own "go" into his subordinates.

Among the shareholders of the company are to be found some of the best men in the Dominion. Everything points to a most successful future for this vigorous Canadian company. It is the first company to place a large capital stock as a guarantee for policies issued on the natural premium plan. It is also the first company to offer to the public a plan of insurance under which the insured can, on attaining the age of 65, withdraw all the accumulations attached to his policy, thus practically doing away with one of the greatest hardships in connection with life insurance, i. e., being compelled to pay premiums when there is no longer any insurable interest and when it is really a burden.

NEW P. O. REGULATIONS

A CIRCULAR ISSUED BY THE POST-MASTER-GENERAL.

Parcel Post—Liberal Concessions Made—Be Likelihood of a 2-cent Letter Rate—The Scale of Postage per Ounce.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The subjoined circular has been issued by the Postmaster-General. It will be observed that while the old parcel post rate of 6 cents per 4 oz. is still maintained as regards closed parcels, anything at present as to permit of inspection will, after Feb. 1, be mailable at the reduced rate of 1 cent per ounce. This will cover all blank forms, bonded stationery and the matter recently ruled out from book post privileges. While the deficit in the department stands up to nearly $1,000,000 per annum the Hamilton people's memorial in favor of a 2-cent rate is not likely to meet with much favor. One-third more correspondence would not take place, so that the deficit would only be fearfully increased. It is said that a project is under consideration for utilizing the unemployed time of railway mail clerks as sorters in the city offices. This would ultimately effect a great saving in the salary account, and is so reasonable a reform that it is difficult to see why it has remained for Mr. McLelan to introduce it. The Postmaster-General, who goes to Toronto to-morrow, is bringing sound business judgment and experience to bear upon the conduct of matters within his jurisdiction, and all the reforms which he [illegible] are practical and [illegible] in the interests of the public. Meantime the awful waste of money in the frequent conveyance of letters to distant and sparsely populated parts of the Dominion must be continued, or such a general howl would ensue as has lately sounded simultaneously in Prince Edward Island and British Columbia, though in both instances the Postmaster-General was only [illegible] on offering a perfectly unobjectionable explanation.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, OTTAWA.

In order to simplify the classification of matter passing by mail between places within the Dominion, and also between places within Canada and places without Canada, including Great Britain and the United States, and further to provide for the transmission by mail at reduced rates of certain articles of merchandise enclosed in packages not to exceed [illegible] pounds in weight, the following regulations will be [illegible] on and after the first day of February next, and will [illegible] into force on that day.

FIRST CLASS.—Will include letters and post cards.

SECOND CLASS.—Newspapers and periodicals, printed and published under the conditions now [illegible] by the Postmaster-General, and [illegible] them to pass free to regular subscribers.

THIRD CLASS.—Other newspapers and periodicals not entitled to free transmission, books printed matter generally, [illegible] circulars, [illegible] and other matter now prohibited by the present regulations, and [illegible] of seeds and other matter now prohibited, [illegible] 50 grammes (1¾ ounces) and not exceeding 5 pounds in weight, at the [illegible] rate of 1 cent per 4 oz. or fraction of 4 oz.

FOURTH CLASS.—Closed parcels of [illegible] matter, at the rate of 6 cents per 4 oz. or fraction of 4 oz. [illegible] to be made in the postmaster [illegible] in the case of parcels [illegible] to be made from the office of mailing to the office of delivery, and [illegible] parcels to [illegible] to pass by mail between places within the Dominion.

FIFTH CLASS.—Will include miscellaneous matters of all descriptions not coming within the first four classes, and [illegible] with respect to the [illegible] matter. Fifth-class matter must be so put up as to be open for examination in the usual form, and [illegible] of ready and full examination by the officers of the postoffice. The postage on fifth-class matter must be prepaid by postage stamps [illegible] affixed thereto, at the rate of 1 cent for [illegible] or fraction of an ounce. The limit of weight for fifth-class matter will be 4 pounds for any single package, and an aggregate of 4 pounds, the ordinary limit of 2 feet in length and 2 feet in width or depth. The [illegible] of the fifth class will be subject to the general prohibitory regulations excluding from the mails all matter liable to destroy, deface or otherwise damage the other contents of the mail bags or injure the person of any officer or servant of the [illegible] as well as all obscene or immoral matter. A packet of fifth class matter may be posted for registration on prepayment, by 5 cent registration stamp, or 5 cents in addition to the postage prepaid, and it will be the duty of a postmaster, to give the person making a registration certificate for the same. This regulation will go into operation on and from Feb. 1 next.

W. H. GRIFFIN,
Deputy Postmaster-General.

On Thursday the anniversary of Governor Phillips proclaiming at Sydney Cove the founding of the colony, there will be a general illumination. The city is crowded with visitors, and the gathering thoroughly represents Australia. Special thanksgiving services were held to-day in the Anglican and Catholic cathedrals.

John Bright, writing on Gladstonian partisanship in municipal elections, says: "The followers of Mr. Gladstone have adopted a policy that is opposed to genuine Liberal principles. They have swallowed doctrines which, up to two years ago, they condemned and abhorred. THE CONVICT-MURDERER IN COURT.

Robert Neil Placed in the Dock to Answer for his Terrible Crime.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—Robert Neil, the Central Prison convict, was brought down to the court cells yesterday by two guards. He wore the convict garb and was manacled and fettered. At the special request of Judge Falconbridge, Mr. N. G. Bigelow will defend Neil, and he is preparing his defence.

Neil was brought up by two constables and placed in the dock for arraignment. He was subdued in manner though somewhat nervous when told to stand up. He is a young man with a bright, fresh-looking face, smoothly shaven, with his hair closely cut. His features reveal a persistent, degreed determinative force although the head is not of a very bad shape phrenologically considered. He quietly gazed about him at the many faces eagerly scanning his appearance, but did not show that the terrible trial for his life now awaiting him made any very deep impression upon him.

He pleaded not guilty and asked to be tried at the next Assizes, giving as a reason that he wanted to retain Mr. Bigelow in the [illegible] and [illegible] him.

The Judge did not think it was sufficient to grant an adjournment, and the trial will begin on Thursday.

CALLING OFF CAMPBELL.

HIS REMOVAL FROM THE LIQUIDATORSHIP PETITIONED FOR.

W. H. Howland and Wardens Gooderham Have no Fight in the Administrative Remedy—The Wandering Jew's Connection With the Burnett Bank—A Fight Say in the Master-in-Ordinary's Court—"Judge" Hamilton, Solicitor J. B. Read and Cashier Allen on the Stand.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.

[illegible] A Director of [illegible]

The above names not cannot the most familiarly known in the proceedings now going on daily before the Master-in-Ordinary at Osgoode Hall in connection with the [illegible] Central Bank. Gradually light is being let in upon several of the hitherto mysterious phases of the bank's history, and by degrees the real condition of affairs is being unravelled. Yesterday was a field day in the Master-in-Ordinary's Court, and an important step was taken by Liquidators William Holmes Howland and William Gooderham against their ex-liquidator Archibald Campbell of Montreal. This was none other than the filing of a petition in the High Court of Justice for the removal of Mr. Campbell as [illegible] from the position.

Another important stage reached was the examination of Mr. James E. Read, solicitor, Cashier A. A. Allen and three others before the Master. Mr. Read's examination was chiefly in connection with the dealings of Roland G. Ireland Burnett with the Central Bank. Mr. Read acted as solicitor for Burnett during the latter gentleman's recent residence in this city.

Mr. Burnett seems to have been quietly doing [illegible] his way of doing up the Central, but this exact modus operandi has not yet been clearly evolved. Mr. Read, as his solicitor, declined to tell the Master's Court all he knew about Burnett business he had acted as his solicitor and was privileged in his examination. A gentleman named S. Maynes Davis, who has quarters in the Quebec Bank Building and who is a brother-in-law of Burnett, is also said to be familiar with Burnett's peculiar methods. Then there is D. J. Darrell, a young man whom Burnett always spoke of as "my treasurer" around the Central Bank. "My treasurer" was in the court room yesterday afternoon, and appeared to take a deep interest in everything that was said about his friend.

An event previously the chief step taken yesterday was the filing of a petition in the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, for the removal of Provisional Liquidator Campbell. The petition was prepared by Mr. J. H. Coyne (Coyne & Moss, St. Thomas), who is assisting Mr. W. A. Foster on behalf of the liquidators. A copy of the petition was personally served on Mr. Campbell last evening. Chancellor Boyd will consider the petition at 11 o'clock this morning. It reads as follows:

To the Honorable the Judges of the High Court of Justice:

The petition of Wm. H. Howland and William Gooderham, liquidators of the Central Bank.

1. By a winding-up order, dated Dec. 21, 1887, your petitioners were appointed with one Archibald Campbell, of Montreal, the liquidators of the above named bank.

2. When your petitioners entered upon their duties they deemed it advisable, in the interests of the shareholders and creditors, to have an inquiry made into the accounts not only of large debtors of the bank, but also into the accounts of the directors. On this point a conflict arose between your petitioners and the said Campbell as to the propriety of investigating such accounts, with the object of ascertaining how and in what manner the funds of the bank had been misappropriated, the said Archibald Campbell contending that our duty as liquidators was limited to realizing the assets and did not comprise an inquiry into the circumstances attending past transactions.

3. At and prior to the time such enquiry was suggested your petitioners believe that the said Campbell had in his possession as professional and sole liquidator certain correspondence and memoranda which indicates, in your petitioners' judgment, that extensive frauds had been committed against the said bank in certain parties whom it is not, in the interests of justice, as your petitioners believe, desirable to name at present. The said correspondence and memoranda further disclosed that a number of fictitious deposits receipts had been issued by the said bank, or on its behalf, which were not entered in the books. That the said correspondence and memoranda appeared to justify the suspicion that an organized attempt had been made to wreck the bank by certain parties whose names appeared therein, and the said correspondence also disclosed that the said Campbell arose these prior to the suspension of the said bank had close business relations with some of the parties to the said correspondence which, in the interests of the shareholders creditors and public justice it is desirable should be investigated to the fullest possible extent.

4. That your petitioners have been, and believe that they will be, greatly embarrassed in pursuing such investigations by the chosen agency of the said Campbell being in possession of the assets, books and papers of the said bank along with your petitioners. That the said correspondence referred to was found in the handwriting of the said Campbell, and would appear to have been received by him during the [illegible] of the said bank, and [illegible] the liquidation the said Campbell was also aware of the bank without the execution of the [illegible] and without the sanction of the [illegible] court.

5. That prior to the appointment of your petitioners, and while the said Campbell was acting as [illegible] liquidator certain of the bank assets came into his hands. Up to the present time no statement or schedule of the [illegible] has been furnished to your petitioners, although the said Campbell has been frequently pressed to [illegible] to your petitioners. The Master-in-Ordinary on Jan. 9, 1888, ordered and directed all the said Campbell's liabilities to produce to or [illegible] before him, the said Master, but up to the present time no sufficient answer has been furnished.

6. Your petitioners are in this position to-day They have no list or schedule of the assets which came to the hands of the [illegible] liquidator. They have further not been able to procure a [illegible] schedule or statement of the assets of the bank at the time of their appointment as co-liquidators, although repeated efforts [illegible] made by them to procure the same.

7. Your petitioners have [illegible] entered at the conclusion that they cannot give him that trust and confidence which they believe should exist between the liquidators in order that the matters hereinbefore referred to may be fully and thoroughly investigated, and the general interests of the shareholders and creditors of the bank properly looked after.

8. That your petitioner, William Gooderham, is a shareholder in the bank to the extent of $20,000, and your petitioner, William H. Howland, is the vice-president of and a shareholder in a company which is a creditor of the said bank.

10. Your petitioners have been informed by the Master-in-Ordinary of this honorable court that the said Archibald Campbell has passed a liquidator without security. Your petitioners, having the facts hereinbefore stated the said Archibald Campbell still continues to occupy the fiduciary and confidential position of a liquidator.

10. The correspondence and memoranda above referred to are now in the hands of your petitioners, and your petitioners are ready to submit the same to this honorable court in such manner as may be deemed most expedient for the protection of the interests of the shareholders and creditors of the said bank and of public justice.

Your petitioners therefore pray that the matter may be inquired into, and that the said Campbell may be called to account to answer the said matters, and that such further directions may be given to your petitioners in the premises as may seem meet.

The Master-in-Ordinary had five witnesses before him yesterday. They were Joseph H. Mead, Chester D. Humphrey (better known as "the Judge"), who is now in charge of Cox & Co.'s office; Gen. H. Carlyle, one of Mr. Cox's operators; James E. Read and A. A. Allen. The court sat from 11 a.m. till 12.45, and from 2.30 till 5 o'clock. Mr. Foster examined the witnesses. The court room was crowded throughout the afternoon by persons who are now becoming well known as these hearings.

It having reached the liquidators' ears that Mr. Joseph H. Mead was trying to dispose of a $18,000 deposit receipt of the Central Bank, they thought they would find out where the Captain got the same. It was quietly whispered among themselves that it might have passed through Mr. Cox's hands. So Mr. Mead was summoned. His evidence was simple enough. He said he had merely got the privilege of negotiating a deposit receipt for $18,000; he was allowed the [illegible] buying for 65 cents and getting 75 cents. A lady, who was a friend of his, had made a deposit in the bank, on advice from him, and after the suspension he endeavored to do the best for her. He spoke to Mr. Thos. Walmsley, who offered 60 cents on to $18,000. Witness was told by Mr. Knappelle that one depositor was selling at 60 cents. The name was Hill or Hall, not Cox. That was before any following [illegible] had come out about the bank.

TORONTO TOPICS.

At a meeting of James Nelson's creditors yesterday, it was decided to accept 30 cents on the dollar, provided there are satisfactory securities. The assets are $20,284.69; liabilities, $66,000.

R. Spain, a Queen-street tailor, whose creditors held a meeting yesterday, offered to compromise at 35 cents. This the creditors indignantly refused, the estate showing a surplus of $135 over the liabilities.

A verdict by consent for $500 and costs was entered yesterday in the Assize Court in favor of plaintiff in the case of Irving v. Smith.

The Royal Labor Commission resumed its sessions last night in the Pontefract building.

The Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25, 1888.

MR. WARDEN WALSH.

We take pleasure in extending the congratulations of Mr. John Walsh, reeve of the township of Asphodel, upon the occasion of his being elected to the honorable position of Warden of the County of Peterborough. Mr. Walsh is a son of the late Richard Walsh, of Asphodel, who came from the County of Clare to Canada with the "Robinson Colonists" in 1823. He is fifty years of age having been born in 1838. Mr. Walsh has had a length of experience in municipal matters that should abundantly qualify him for the position he now holds. Twenty-five years ago he was elected a member of the township council of Asphodel, a relation he has maintained continuously with the exception of three years. On the separation of Norwood from the township he was elected deputy-reeve (in 1878), and was re-elected every year till 1883, when he became reeve, and has remained reeve to this time. In the county council Mr. Walsh has occupied positions on several important committees, having held the chairmanship of the Committee on Schools since 1882.

Farmers Beware.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I see in your last issue an account of Mr. George Walton, of Smith, being fined $5 for cutting a boys head with a hayfork, while Mr. Walton swears positively to did not. The facts of the case are these:—Mr. Walton was going down street with a load of hay; three boys got on his load from behind and broke his binding pole. When the boys got off the boys were getting on again. Mr. Walton was a little angry and ordered them off and struck at them with the fork, the boys being on the lifted end of the sleigh. When the fork was raised the horses started and the rack being a light one the load went down and one of the boys fell with his head on the runner of the rack. The boy laughed at complaining with the Police Magistrate and Mr. Walton was fined $5 and costs. I would like to ask the Police Magistrate, or any other legal gentleman, if the driver of a sleigh is not warranted in putting boys off his sleigh, even if he does use a hayfork. I never saw any boys on Mr. Dutchie's, Mr. Weeks's, Mr. Rogers's or any of the town sleighs, yet farmers must have every one dog that pilfers and also fill either teapots or forks for fear of being mauled or fined. I think, Mr. Editor, it is time farmers should claim their rights.

Another case in point. Either the day before or after, young Mr. Barnard also sold a load of hay to Mr. Howden. On his way up street five men or boys jumped on one side of the rack and upset the sleigh with Mr. Barnard under the horses, which ran away and he was badly bruised, and it took the price of the hay to repair the sleigh and harness. And he received no redress. If this state of affairs goes on much longer farmers will not be safe to drive on the streets at all. I am obliged to you for the space in your valuable paper, and hope the next boy who gets hurt will take it as a warning to keep away.

I may have to trouble you again.

Yours, etc.,

A FARMER.

Centreville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Centreville Debating Society held their third fortnightly meeting on Tuesday last, Jan. 17th, in the Agricultural Society's Hall. The programme consisted of readings, recitations, songs, dialogues and instrumental music. The subject for debate was:—"Whether the equestrian or the dancer is the most injurious to society." The result was proved in favor of the equestrian. The house was fuller than ever expected on account of the inclemency of the weather. The chief orators were Mr. J. Fair for the equestrian and Mr. Robt. Lang, jr., for the other. Mr. Wm. Bamford occupied his services most efficiently as chairman. The next meeting will be held in the above mentioned hall on Jan. 31st, when an entertaining good programme may be expected, the subject for debate being: "Resolved, that Art is more beautiful than Nature." The chief speakers will be Mr. Thos. Hopkins for art and Mr. Thos. H. Willis for nature.

We are glad to be able to announce that Mr. E. B. Cookson and Mr. T. Smith are both recovering from their late illnesses.

We hear that Mr. Jno. Mowbray has lately purchased from Messrs. Dundas & Grundy an imported filly, and Mr. W. H. Hutchinson has also invested in a very fine two-year-old stallion. We wish them both every success with their new purchases.

Smith Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The council of Smith for 1888 met at the town hall on the 16th inst., and organized. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

A resolution was passed requiring the County Treasurer to refund to Mr. Shirley the sum of $7.37 paid by him as taxes on 1 acre of lot 26, con. 12, said tax being charged in error as the lot was returned as reclaimed and non-resident rolls. Councillors McIlmoyle and Graham were appointed a committee to examine the claims for the road allowance between lots 43 and 44 in 12th concession, with power to dispose of the same.

A petition from S. Barnard and others asking to have broken lots 26 and 25, in concession 18, detached from S.S. No. 10 of Smith, and annexed to S.S. No. 5 of Harvey, forming a union school section, was received and the Clerk instructed to notify all parties interested that said application would be considered at the next meeting of the council, to be held on the 30th inst.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay R. Grant the sum of $12 for work performed on his road division, and to pay for the several polling booths used at the last provincial election the sum of $2 each.

The following officers for 1888 were then appointed, viz.:—R. Warnn, assessor and collector; John Black and Andrew Young, auditors.

The council then adjourned till Monday, the 30th inst.

Harvey.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Harvey Council met at the town hall, as the Municipal Act provides, on the 16th of January, 1888. James Hicks, reeve, and councillors Flynn, Ingram, McIlmoyle and Chester having filed their several declarations of qualification and office with the Clerk, took their seats at the Council Board for the current year.

A by-law was passed confirming the appointment of John Elliott and W. S. Chase as auditors of the township accounts.

A by-law was passed re-appointing the Clerk, Treasurer and Assessor for the current year.

The Reeve was instructed to attend the sale of lands for taxes in person, in the interest of the municipality. Orders drawn on the Township Treasurer in favor of the three deputy returning officers for the sum of five dollars each, for holding the late by-election.

James Elliott, six dollars as caretaker of the town hall for 1887. He was also re-appointed caretaker for 1888. J. C. Chisholm, on postage account, $6.50; Treasurer S.S. No. 7 for use of house holding the polls, $3; Mrs. McMartin for use of house holding the polls in subdivision No. 3, $3; the Statute Labor tax charged against Wm. Simpson and Alvin Windover, on the Collector's roll for 1887, was, by order of the Council, removed from the said roll, as they had performed their road work since the returns made by the path-masters.

The Council adjourned to meet at the Clerk's office on the second Monday in March next.

TO BE MADE IN THE DEPARTMENT AT OTTAWA.

Startling Abstract of the Postmaster-General's Report, the Largest Known. Nearly $40,000,000—Story of Success and Record of Gladness equal.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—It is understood that the Postmaster General has decided to make some important changes in the organization of his department with a view to consolidating several branches of somewhat similar service, thereby securing greater efficiency, and at the same time effecting a considerable saving in working expenses. The most important of these changes will be the consolidation of the Postoffice Saving Bank and money order branch with the office, dealing with revenue and accounts, and the transfer of the former work will fall to Mr. J. Cunningham Stewart, who will have the title of Comptroller of Postal Finances. The magnitude of the business which is involved in the conducting of the Postoffice Department can be realized when it is known that the receipts and disbursements for the past fiscal year reached nearly $40,000,000, a larger amount in point of fact than is taken or administered by the Minister of Finance. Mr. Stewart has been twenty years in the service and is an excellent officer, in every way qualified for the position, and will, no doubt, fill the new position with credit. A tour of inspection of the postal systems of England, France, and the United States will enable him to introduce any desirable features in the systems of those countries which have not yet been adopted by Canada, if there are any such features. The new arrangement will probably necessitate the supernumeration of the quarter of the Department, Mr. John Ambrorth, and several other old employes who have served their country long and faithfully, but it is understood that these supernumerations will not take place until May.

The Department of Agriculture has published the usual monthly statement of the number of deaths in the various cities of the Dominion for the month of December last. The total number of deaths in this city from zymic preponderated is 17. The following is the record: Montreal 511, Toronto 162, Quebec 102, Hamilton 59, Halifax 53, Ottawa 50, St. John, N.B., 50, London 42, Winnipeg 32, Kingston 21, Charlottetown 22, Brantford 11, Hull 46, Guelph 20, Belleville 11, St. Thomas 9, Three Rivers 16, Chatham, 4, Sherbrooke 19, Fredericton 22.

The Department of Justice to-day received some further particulars with regard to the recent international entanglement at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The particulars are in the shape of affidavits, from which it appears that the man Nelson, who had escaped from the American authorities and was followed across the ice by the American officers, was arrested by them on Canadian territory, hoodwinked down, bound and forcibly abducted to the American side. It is understood that the Government is having a statement of the case prepared for presentation to the United States Government through the British Minister at Washington.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Toronto, Jan. 25.

Business on the local stock market this morning was remarkably dull. The only stocks that could boast of transactions were Commercial and Northwest Land, the former, 10, 111½ and 112 to 111½; the latter, 10, 75½ and 76 to 75½.

The arctic temperature did not prevent farmers and jobbers gathering in St. Lawrence Market this morning in large crowds. Meats of all kinds were offered in large quantities at low prices. Potatoes remained easy at $1.05 to $1.15 per bag. Any amount of lard could be purchased at 9c and 10c per pound. The hay market was lively, prices ruling a little lower, timothy brought $14, clover $11, straw $10.

Dairy products were much easier to-day than they have been for some time. Hogs were also easy and could be bought as low as $6.60. Chickens were scarce. One lead sold at 60c a pair. Retail prices for general did not change.

The transactions in grain were brisk this morning, Barley in fact is growing firmer every day; 2000 bushels of barley brought 52c to 53c; 800 bushels of fall wheat at 83c to 85c for fall, 75c to 80c for spring and 70c to 74c for geese. About 500 bushels of oats were sold at 37c to 38c. Two loads of peas came in and brought 68c.

The following were the ruling prices: Beef, hindquarters, per lb, 6c to 7c; best, forequarters, per lb, 3c to 4½c; mutton, per carcass, 6c to 7c; lamb, per carcass, 7c to 10c; veal, 7c to 8c; pork, $6.50 to $6.60.

THE WRIT FOR HALTON CO.

Some Constituencies Vacant Yet in Ontario—Report of the Electoral Commissioners—Names, the Method Taken, Etc., and Standard Fixed with—The Rank Constituencies.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The remaining Electoral Commissioners' Reports were received [illegible] Feb. 7.

There are still five vacancies from Ontario [illegible], Prince Edward, Russell, Glengarry and Prescott, for which writs have not been issued.

Mr. W. S. Lindsay, Secretary of the Railway Commission, yesterday presented to the Government the report of the commission. The report is very voluminous and sealed with all the questions submitted for consideration. The commissioners were unanimous in their recommendation which will, no doubt, be submitted to Parliament at its early date for consideration.

When asked yesterday whether it was true, as stated in some of the newspapers, that the Government was considering the question of modifying the Mail subsidies and substituting Dominion penny stamps, the Hon. A. Mackenzie stated that he had not seen, and had not even heard, such a proposal discussed in Council.

It is understood that the Hon. Mr. Chapleau, by law having applied without any application for a writ of habeas corpus, stating bail, applied for in the case of J.W. Young, who is in the Queen's jail in Toronto, the Department of Justice yesterday issued a warrant for his extradition, and he will at once be handed over to the American authorities.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN MANITOBA.

Greene Claims Against and the Whitney—Startling Revelations Promised.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 24.—A member of the new Government, in conversation with a reporter yesterday, said that a public meeting of the Conservatives would be held to-night, when [illegible] developments in connection with the [illegible] administration of affairs by the late Government which would startle all the country. Although in office only a couple of days they had learned sufficient to warrant them in making a thorough investigation, and by the time that was done he believed a state of affairs would be revealed which would astonish the public. For instance, there were only $24,298.17 in the treasury when the new Government took hold, despite the fact that the half-year's subsidy of $200,000 had been received from Ottawa a few days ago. The Government, having a statement of affairs prepared, so that they would know exactly where they were. As to dissolution a short delay might occur, in order that it may be learned just where they were, and what acts the old Government were guilty of, but it was altogether probable a dissolution would take place almost immediately.

The Best Medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own actions, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This relieved pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The most distressing symptoms quickly yield to it. eodw4

It is expected the races at Peterborough will be held next Thursday and Friday.

Sleighing By Moonlight.

Sleighing parties are quite the "proper caper" these splendid moon light evenings. Last night about half a dozen or more "bee loads" of young people left town for different points. A party marshalled by Mr. H. Le Brun, comprising about sixty, drove out to Bridgenorth and took possession of Robert's hotel, while another party, including the "Rose of District Vale" combination, and a number of others, in all about thirty, drove up at the town hall in that village. Still another large party made Dunn's hotel, Lakefield, its headquarters. All arrived home delighted with the pleasant drive and enjoyable time spent in the neighbouring villages.

The Secretary's Salary.

Agriculturists were much interested in the comparative statements of Belleville and Peterborough exhibitions published yesterday, and all were agreed as to the value and necessity of the services of a permanent secretary for an Agricultural Society. One gentleman drew our scribe's attention to the fact that if the directors of the Peterborough Society are to reap the full benefits of their permanent secretary's labors it might be well to increase his salary from the paltry one now paid him to an amount that would enable him to devote more time to his work and do it more thoroughly. Here is a suggestion for the directors to consider.

Ontario Legislature.

The second session of the sixth Ontario Legislature was opened quietly at two o'clock by Sir Alexander Campbell, K.C.M.G., Q.C., Lieutenant-Governor, the occasion being the first on which he has acted in such a capacity at the opening of a legislature.

We've Had a-Touch of It.

Waterworks.

Belleville rejoices in a system of waterworks. The formal test was made on Saturday, and though the pressure was blandly said the test satisfied experts that the city had got a good system of waterworks. There was a little disappointment to notice that, doubtless, caused slumbering fire representatives. The stream thrown for the purpose did not come up to the height expected, but the explanation seemed to be that at the time of the test there were seven streams thrown at once through 1½ inch, and two through 1½ inch nozzles—that the weather was blustery cold and that the mains were still partially filled with air, but that the application of the fire in the John street Presbyterian church, which, instead of being damaged to the extent of $6,000, would have been destroyed but for the water under which, though it may not throw water as a jimpy test over the city hall tower, is clearly invaluable for practical purposes of fire extinction. Compared with our own water works the Belleville system cannot show quite as good results for fire purposes. There are more large-diameter mains in Peterborough, and there is, consequently, less friction and better results. The work on the Peterborough system of mains is better done and the hydrants more correctly set. The pumping apparatus of the Belleville works, as in our own, is quite up the mark. Though the members will never die, Belleville will ere long receive practical proofs of the utility and benefit of her system of water works.

A Proclamation.

The following verbose paragraph is intended to convey to the dull comprehension of the reader of the Canada Gazette, that intimation that parliament had been further prorogued till Thursday, February 23rd:—"Whereas the meeting of our parliament of Canada stands prorogued, to the thirty-first day of the month of January instant, nevertheless, for certain causes and considerations, we have thought fit further to prorogue the same; so that neither you, nor any of you on the said day at our city of Ottawa to appear are to be held and constrained, for we do will that you and each of you, be as to you, in this matter, entirely discharged, commanding, and by the tenor of these presents enjoining you, and each of you, and all others in this behalf interested, that on Thursday, the twenty-third day of the month of February next, at our city of Ottawa aforesaid, personally you be and appear, for the despatch of business, to treat, do, act, and conclude upon those things which in our said parliament of Canada, by the common council of our said Dominion, may, by the favor of God, be ordained."

Mortuary Statistics.

The twenty-six principal cities and towns in Canada which make monthly returns of deaths to the department of Agriculture in Ottawa, returned a total record for December of 1,441 deaths; 70 more than November. The total rate of mortality for the month was over 23 per 1,000 of population per annum. An increase in the mortality in December in this clime, after the usual decrease during the autumn, is usual. During the month there were 511 deaths in Montreal, 90 of these being from diphtheria. In Toronto the number was 182; London, 108; Hamilton, 59; Halifax, 66; Ottawa, 60, of which 17 were seriously typhoid; St. John, N. B., 80; London, 49; Winnipeg, 26, 17 of these being from measles; Kingston, 21; Charlottetown, 22; Brantford, 11; Hull, 46; Guelph, 20; Belleville, 11 St. Thomas, 6; Three Rivers, 10; Chatham, 4; Peterborough, 23; Woodstock, 19; Galt, 10.

Ashburnham Council.

Moore, charity orders, $2.20; McKee & Davidson, nails, $22.46; and the assessors' salaries, $16; were paid. An account of R. B. Ingram; assessor—Jonathan Stevenson; chief constable, etc.—John Craig; Treasurer—A. H. Peck. On motion the Treasurer's salary was increased to $60 and Constable Craig was instructed to rent a site for pound, wood yard, etc. The meeting then adjourned.

Sale of Periodicals.

The sale of periodicals in connection with the reading room of the Y.M.C.A., for the year 1888, will be held in the rooms on Thursday evening, Jan. 26th, at 7.30. The working comprise "Grip," "Illustrated London News," "Punch," "Scientific American," etc.; and the monthlies, "Century," "Sunday at Home," "Cassell's Family Paper," "Cassell's Magazine," "Work and Play," "Boys' Own Paper," etc. Each subscriber's guinea will be kept for him each month, and, with the new issues, all magazines will be kept in good order. 1d Installation of Officers.

Tuesday evening, Mr. Robert Ferguson, D. D.G.M.W., Orono, paid an official visit to Peterborough Lodge, No. 126, A.O.U.W., and installed the officers whose names appeared in the EXAMINER a few days since. Bro. W. R. Ferguson acted as D.G.M.W., and Bro. C. W. Sowers as G.G. He was well pleased with the manner in which the several officers kept their books, and with the thrifty condition of the lodge. At the close of the session the District Deputy was entertained to a supper at Long's restaurant. He goes from here to Norwood.

Marriage.

Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock the marriage of Mr. George Abrams and Miss Mary Keenan was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. P. Redihan. Mr. W. Redihan was groomsman and Miss Halpin, bridesmaid. After the ceremony the bridal party adjourned to the Americal hotel, where some host Halpin presented a delectable repast. The presents to the bride were numerous and costly.

Stuck in a Bank.

The C. P. R. express which is due here at 11.30 a.m., did not reach town till about half past three—nearly four hours late. This is owing to a freight train ahead of the express getting stuck in a snow drift in a cut near Bradburn. Help had to be despatched from Toronto to dig it out.

A Runaway.

A sleighing party came to grief last night. They bowled gaily away down Smithtown hill, across the bluish bridge to Ashburnham and through the village towards Peterborough, being stopped just this side of the toll gate. The occupants were thrown out and a couple of the ladies pretty severely hurt.

Over the Snow.

Last evening the Y.M.C.A. snowshoe club held its weekly tramp. After a long walk about the outskirts of the town the party stopped at the residence of Mr. Aaron Cox, where a substantial spread was supplied by Mrs. Cox to the hungry snowshoers.

Diphtheria Discussed.

A Discussion Has Resulted in Favour of Introduction of Systems.

The following is an extract from a late New York Medical publication:—"There is, perhaps, no remedy about which there is more confusion of opinion. Even such as think they have conscientiously discarded from the sleeping dolmen find it hard to acknowledge frankly to themselves that the opinion of some one else upon a matter they have studied very very well to be deserving of respect on their own. If in Medicine anything does study even. If we could all get rid of this 'last infirmity,' as it truly of 'noble minds,' how of enmity all human minds, how much less friction there would be in life, how much less bitterness and heart burning and envy and all unchristianliness."

In an upbraiding editorial of the newspaper was found the following peculiar commentary on the editorial:

"The bitterness of the controversy in the American Synod over the question of prohibition was very great. This neither should the Anglican Synod of Toronto and convert further discussion upon it. The members of the board, one of whom said he had always thought such questions were decided by prayer. But if this debate was not altogether Christian in spirit, it was strictly parliamentary. The brethren didn't forget to put a copy of Cushion's Manual in their valise along with their Bibles, and apparently some of them consulted it oftener than the Bible."

Is it a fact that there is but little toleration in this country, and less than in others?

"Comparisons are odorous," said Mrs. Malaprop. Perhaps we have been claiming too much for this free nation.

We must admit that in the professions there is yet much of the old time prejudice against new ideas. Preachers preach the old doctrines and doctors prescribe the old medicines. Bitter controversies arise when anything new is proposed.

But the march of progress is not stayed. Men are travelling heavenward under new creeds and being cured by new medicines.

Much the same state of taste seems to exist in other countries.

When Dr. Reiner, a leading physician of London formerly of the Royal Navy, proclaimed that Warner's safe cure was a specific to kidney derangements, the kidney-bound school to which he belonged threatened to debar him from practice, if he did not recant. But he replied that the statement was based on such evidence that he could not recant.

Since then, Dr. Wilson, F. R. S. E. editor of "Health," a recognized English authority, announces in his magazine that "Warner's safe cure is of a perfectly safe character and perfectly reliable." Many English physicians are now prescribing it.

The "Schools" in this country still fear all proprietary medicines. But Dr. Gunn, Dean of a New York Medical College, long since published: "Warner's safe cure is a very valuable remedy;" and says he knows that many physicians prescribe it, though not by name.

Good things in creed or practice are not to be cried down by the old cusps simply because the sun now. The spirit of toleration thrives on opposition.

Otonabee.

Mr. P. G. Walker, the Inventor, puts Down the Brakes—His new Patent Sleigh Stops.

Mr. P. G. Walker, the farmer inventor of Otonabee whose name is so widely know in connection with his patent rock lifter, has secured letters patent for a new and meritorious brake called the "Jumbo", to be used on sleighs in descending hills. It consists of a simple fixture that can be applied to any sleigh. Its essential part consists of a transverse bar extending across the sleigh, and under and to the outer edge of the "raves," and pivoted in the middle. The portion of this transverse bar under the "raves" is thickened to a wedge shape. Under this wedge on each side a small gate or movable piece of each runner and when at rest its point remains even with the lower edge of the runner. The cross bar, however, being worked either by a foot trip on the hind part of the front bob or by a lever operated from the seat in long sleighs, the wedge shape of the cross bar presses down the parts before mentioned, and their ends being forced below the runners form a most powerful and effective brake. This brake is easily operated and applied, is simple of construction, of low cost, easily applied to any sleigh, will not become clogged with snow or ice and is warranted to do its work every time and gives ease to horses and is a great saving to harness.

Mr. Walker is rather a prolific inventor. It will be remembered that in 1884 he secured a patent for a "rock lifter." This has met with great success. Mr. Walker has received for these erected in different barns the large sum of $2,500. He has collected that amount and has never had one complaint of over-charge or non-fulfilment of the terms of a bargain. During four years the expenses of repairing his "rock lifters" has not amounted to $1.00, yet twenty of his lifters have been in use four seasons. These facts go to point out the merit of Mr. Walker's inventions, and his thorough honesty and reliability.

THE WORK OF THE SESSION

WHAT THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE FORESHADOWS.

Sir Alexander Campbell Formally Opens the Second Session of the Sixth Parliament of Ontario—Important Work Before the Statesmen.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—No boom of artillery or roll of drums, as in former years, heralded the approach of the Lieut.-Governor, as with a small detachment of "C" Company as a guard of honor, he proceeded from Government House at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to formally open the Ontario Legislature. Long before the hour appointed the galleries were well filled with an expectant crowd of sightseers, while the seats below contained a goodly number of invited personages, together with the M.P.P.s who were in the city, to grace the event. Dressed in his Windsor uniform, His Honor, attended by Aide-de-Camp Law, proceeded to the throne, from which he read the following speech:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I have much pleasure in welcoming you to your annual duties as representatives of the people, for the first time since my appointment as Lieutenant-Governor. I should like to believe that my long experience in Canadian public life may give me some special advantages for rendering in my new position useful service to the province which has long been my home, and in whose progress and prosperity I take the deepest interest.

Since your last session the Supreme Court of Canada has affirmed the judgments of the High Court and Court of Appeal in favor of the provincial claim to crown lands to which the so-called Indian title had not been extinguished until after confederation. The defendants have appealed from all these decisions to Her Majesty's Privy Council, and the appeal will probably be heard and decided during the present year. Meanwhile, in reliance on the decisions already obtained, patents have been issued by the province to claimants who have applied to my Government for patents, and have shown their right to receive them on like grounds and parcels as are recognized and acted on with respect to other provincial lands. There has been some correspondence with the Federal Government on the subject which will be laid before you.

I am happy to inform you that the Federal Government has recently intimated to me its intention of conserving in the steps necessary for obtaining at the next session of the Imperial Parliament an act confirming the western boundary of the province, agreeably to the order of Her Majesty-in-Council made in August, 1884. Negotiations have commenced respecting our northern boundary also, so far as the same has not already been determined.

I regret that no substantial progress has been made towards the settlement of the long pending accounts, and other questions, between the Dominion and the Province. The correspondence on these subjects will be submitted to you.

As respects the unsettled matters between Ontario and Quebec, in which the Dominion has no interest, including the claim of this Province on behalf of the municipalities to the Land Improvement Fund in respect of collections from Crown Lands before Confederation, an agreement has been arrived at between the two Provincial Governments for settling these matters by a friendly arbitration, in case the proposal shall receive your approval.

The resolutions respecting provincial matters adopted unanimously at the recent Inter-provincial Conference at Quebec, will be submitted for your consideration; and bills are in preparation for carrying into effect such of the resolutions as require present legislation on the part of this Province.

I regret exceedingly that the Province has experienced a considerable amount of agricultural depression by reason of the severe drouth of last year, and its unprecedented duration. On the other hand, I am glad to say that there has been more than the usual activity in the settlement of our crown lands and in mining enterprise; and that the revenue from crown lands (exclusive of timber sales) has been greater than for several years previously.

The Legislature has always given special attention to the development of the agricultural resources of the Province and to the improvement of the condition of those who follow agricultural pursuits. To further promote these objects, and in view of the increasing wealth of the environment departments from year to year, I recommend for your consideration the establishment of a subsidiary to advise generally all matters relating to agriculture and kindred subjects may be transferred. A bill for this purpose will be laid before you.

The value of our timber limits having greatly increased of late years, it was recently thought that the time had arrived for making such alterations in general rents and timber dues as should bring to the provincial revenue a substantial increase without being unduly oppressive to persons engaged in the lumber trade. [illegible] were consulted, and that they were not unreasonable or inopportune has been shown by the large prices obtained for limits at the timber sale which was afterwards held.

I was glad to have it in my power to issue the necessary proclamation for bringing into force at the close of the year the newly Revised Statutes of the Province, embodying some more in two convenient volumes the whole public statute law. The report of the commissioners (which will be laid before you) recommends the passing of a Confederation Act, as was done in the case of the revision in 1877, and I commend their suggestion to your consideration.

In connection with the revision of our public statutes, all statutory provisions affecting practice or procedure, and all the rules and orders issued by the various courts during the last thirty years, have been consolidated and revised under the superintendence and direction of the Judges of the Ontario Supreme Court, with the view of completing the fusing of the courts contemplated by the Judicature Act, and of providing uniformity [illegible] in equal proceedings. The consolidated rules have been adopted under the authority given to the judges for this purpose by statute; and they recommend that their work as enacted should receive legislative confirmation; and I also commend [illegible] suggestion.

I regret that I have not had occasion to call into force by proclamation the act of last session providing for the confederation of other universities with the Provincial University; but I hope to have the pleasure of doing so before the close of the present year. Meanwhile, an efficient medical faculty has been added to the Provincial University, and is now in successful operation. Negotiations have taken place for the establishment of a faculty of law there and I hope that the legal profession, in common with all other learned professions, will soon share in the advantages to be derived from closer relations with the Provincial University.

A site has been reserved for Upper Canada College outside of the city, and yet within convenient distance. Plans of the new buildings have been prepared, and will be laid before you, with a view to the erection of the buildings being commenced during the present year.

I have the pleasure of informing you that very gratifying progress has been made during the past season in the erection of the new departmental and parliament buildings, and that equally satisfactory progress is confidently expected to be made during the present year.

Much needed additional room has been made in the present [illegible] for the library and offices of the Legislature, and which will accommodate 200 patients. The south wing of the new building at Hamilton, which has the same capacity as the north wing, will, it is confidently hoped, be completed and ready for occupation during the coming summer.

It has for some time been evident that it would not be practicable to continue occupying for the uses of the Toronto Asylum the large tract of land within the city heretofore used for farm purposes in connection with the institution. The growth of the city and the value of property within its limits rendered it desirable to limit the future occupation to as small an area as may be consistent with the positive necessities of the institution, and to dispose of the remainder for asylum purposes. I therefore commend to your attention the expediency of making immediate provision for the erection of asylum cottages on land of the province at Mimico, with a view to the removal thereto of patients who may derive benefit from farm work, and of others whose removal to the same locality may be expedient; the management to be in connection with the Toronto Asylum, and by its officers.

You will, I doubt not, concur with me in the opinion that the hours of daily labor for children and young girls in ordinary retail shops should not be so prolonged or exhausting as to be injurious to health; and that the time has arrived when some provisions of law may be made to limit the number of hours during which in any week young persons can be employed in those shops. A bill for this purpose and to promote also the early closing of retail stores in cities, towns and villages at such periods of the year as, in the judgment of the municipal authorities, the circumstances of the respective municipalities may make desirable, will be submitted to your consideration.

Amongst other measures intended to be laid before you are, a bill respecting the franchise; a bill respecting friendly societies; a bill respecting alimony; and a bill for the separation of Parry Sound and Muskoka from the adjoining counties for certain purposes.

In consequence of representations as to the necessity of important amendments in the Municipal Law affecting cities specially but not exclusively, I [illegible] commission during the [illegible] the experience of other countries, states and provinces, as well as our own, in regard to the matters referred to, with the object of putting you in possession of materials which may be of service in this department of legislative duty. I hope to receive in a few days the first report of the commissioners. This report, when received, and all departmental and other usual reports, will be laid before you for your information.

THE ESTIMATES WILL BE FOUND ECONOMICAL.

The estimates for the current year will, at an early date, be submitted for your approval. They will be found to have been prepared with all the economy consistent with the efficiency of the public service.

I am glad to feel assured that your legislative labors during the present session will be characterized by the same earnest care and thoughtful attention which have heretofore marked the work of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario.

At 3.45 the House went into session and sat till 6 o'clock. After prayers by the Speaker, the reports of the judges on the controverted election trials were read, and Mr. Meyers made the usual verbal motions respecting the standing committees, etc. The House will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

COMMENTS FROM THE CORRIDORS.

It was said by intimate friends that Dr. Oster has given it as his opinion that with proper care Mr. Pardee will be all right in three months. Mr. Pardee left his home yesterday at Sarnia for Florida.

The Hamilton contingent is planning for renegotiation. Either Mr. Gibson, member for the city, or Mr. Awrey, one of the members for the county, will be put forward for cabinet preferment. The Hamilton Times of last night speaking of the opening, says: "The Government is strong enough in the House to down their radical leanings, but if pressure must come from the back benches it cannot come too early in the session."

Hon. A. S. Hardy was not at the opening yesterday. He was summoned to London by telegraph, his father being seriously ill at the Forest City. He left by the 12.30 train.

Mr. Fraser will be Acting Minister of Crown Lands during Mr. Pardee's absence. He will sit beside Mr. Meyers.

Mr. Smeaton of West Peterboro will move the address to-day and Dr. Angus McKay of South Oxford will second it. Both are young men.

The members were nearly all in their places yesterday. They are for the most part billeted as usual in the city hotels, being divided among the Queen's, Rossin, Palmer, Walker, Continental and Grand Trunk.

A RECEPTION AT THE REFORM CLUB.

Sir Richard Did Not Arrive, But There Was Enjoyment All the Same.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.

Sir Richard Cartwright, Trenchon, was expected in town yesterday afternoon, and the Reform Club made preparations to receive him at the club house in Wellington-street.

Sir Richard did not come, but the reception went on notwithstanding. From 4 until 6 o'clock about 400 people came and went. Mrs. Mackenzie received the guests. Large numbers of the ladies and gentlemen, including members, walked over from the Parliament Buildings after the opening ceremonies to be present at the reception.

The members' old building was brightly lighted up; the reception rooms were crowded; the others had a busy time, and the convivial good humor which prevailed made the scene one of sprightly animation.

In the southern reception room there was a band of [illegible] whose dulcet strains filled the whole house. In the same room silent young men, in swallow-tail coats and red vests, stood behind the flower-decked refreshment table and dispensed the club's hospitality.

The annual meeting of the club will be held this afternoon.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS

IMPENDING TROUBLES BETWEEN TENANTS AND BAILIFFS.

Lord Dufferin and His Tenants—Hostility Emigrants for the Northwest—Feels and Promises — Imperial Defences — The Pope's Encyclical Letter.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—In reply to his Irish tenants, who ask a 40 per cent. reduction of rents, Lord Dufferin said that the matter rests with his agent. The latter will grant only a 10 per cent. reduction, and the tenants are greatly discontented.

Sir John Lister Kaye, who is actively promoting a settlement scheme for the Northwest, is receiving a great number of applications from desirable immigrants. Between 200 and 300 farm laborers will probably come out in the spring. There is much activity shown by the church and children's emigration societies.

A London despatch to The New York Tribune says that the Local Government Bill will be brought in at the beginning of the session. It will be democratic in character and will receive the hearty support of every member of the Government. The bill was seen by Lord Harrington, who approves it.

Following American precedents, closure by a bare majority will be proposed. Further more, a new and efficient means of checking obstruction will be called into existence under the name of automatic closure. At midnight debates will be suspended without a motion being made, and the Speaker will put either the main question, or if called upon will wish each debate take the sense of the house as to whether the main question shall or shall not be put.

A bill for the Government of London has been drafted, and will probably be brought in at once. The attempt to organize this huge city into a single municipality has been abandoned, and the present scheme provides for four separate municipalities.

In a speech at Ely this evening the Marquis of Ripon denied that the abandonment of the proposed Dublin banquet was due to difficulty in regard to the customary toast to the Queen.

Advices from London to The New York Times say that the lull in war rumors has never become so marked that it is confidently hoped the war cause is permanently ended. Such is not the case, however. It may be a week, or it may be longer, but the recurrence of the panic is sure to come.

Numerous new ejectments decrees have been issued at Greenlaw, County Donegal, and another campaign between tenants and bailiffs is impending.

The Vienna Political Correspondence publishes a letter from its Rome correspondent in which it says that the Pope's encyclical on the condition of the working classes will advocate the principle of State intervention in favor of artisans, and will exhort Catholics to support their governments in efforts to bring about social reforms and to better the condition of the working classes.

Dr. Jacobski, a member of the Lower House of the Prussian Diet, interpellated the Government, on behalf of the Polish section concerning the order given to discontinue the instruction in the Polish language in the national schools in the Province of Posen. Dr. Von Gossler, Minister of Public Instruction said the object of the decree was to make Prussian subjects, whose mother tongue was Polish, [illegible] with the German language.

Baron Rosmy delivered a lecture to-day before the London Chamber of Commerce, on the unselfishness defences of the sailing stations.

When he had finished the Duke of Cambridge ordered his views and said that the existence of the Empire depended upon the power to keep commerce free from alarm. He was unable to understand why the commercial community could not see that the preparations for embarkation was the truest economy. Lord Charles Beresford explained that the resigned the office of a Junior Lord of the Admiralty because the interests of the military and naval services had been subordinated to political exigencies.

Negotiations have been renewed between France and Italy for a treaty of commerce.

On the occasion of the anniversary of the marriage of the Crown Prince and Princess to-day they were presented with handsome bouquets by the municipal authorities at San Remo.

The French Minister of Agriculture has declared in favor of placing a surtax of 60f. on foreign alcohol and liquors.

In a speech at Birmingham to-night, Mr. Jesse Collings said he intended to introduce in Parliament a bill providing for the teaching of the principles of agriculture in rural schools, and the establishment of school gardens for purposes of illumination.

The report published by The Times that Mr. Chamberlain would succeed Lord Lansdowne, failed to arouse much interest here, being generally regarded as absurd. The only London paper commenting on the statement is The Star, which says: "We would give Mr. Chamberlain six months, and if by that time he had not embroiled every party, insulted every tradition, complicated every difficulty in the Dominion, we would take him straight back to the bosom of the Liberal party."

The Manchester Guardian comments to-day on the agitation by the Toronto Trades and Labor Council against assisted immigration. It admits that a good deal may be said on both sides. In the discontent expressed by the council, it is impossible not to see evidence of the adverse influences of the Protestant system.

Manitoba bonds have risen one in a week. Canada Northwest Land shares continue to advance and have now reached three. It is understood there is no truth in the recent market reports as to that company concerning some new colonization scheme, and that the advance is due to the excellent prospects in the Northwest. Toronto issues are also rising.

A G.T.R. Station Burnt.

FLESHERTON, Jan. 26.—The station and freight house of the Canadian Pacific Railway here was burnt to the ground last night. The freight agent and family, who resided in the building, lost everything, barely escaping with their lives. The station agent's loss is also heavy. The fire is supposed to have originated in the office.

East Northumberland Nominations.

WARKWORTH, Jan. 26.—At the Local House nomination for East Northumberland held here to-day Dr. W. A. Willoughby, Conservative, and Richard Clark, Liberal, were nominated.

The December bank statement shows that there are now five bankrupt chartered banks in the Dominion.

It is asserted that more cotton goods are manufactured in Lancashire, England, than in all the rest of the world put together.

The St. Louis Globe (Democrat) has an article on the abolition of the Senate. It is not exactly entitled that, but it treats of the methods to prevent persons being buried alive, which amounts to preventing the immurement of decayed politicians in the senatorial cemetery.

Carleton County has the champion modest municipal politician. Mr. John Dawson was on Tuesday re-elected Warden of Carleton County, by his own casting vote. Perhaps Mr. Dawson was justified in preferring himself. He knew better than anybody else his qualifications for the position.

During last year 715 miles of new railway was laid in Dakota, besides a great deal of grading which was not ironed. Dakota's total railway mileage is now 4,907, which places her thirteenth in the list of states. No state in the south, with the exception of Texas, has a railway mileage equal to that of Dakota. Yet the railway system of Dakota is now and has for some time past been so literally snowed under and blizzard blown that for railway facilities the state is no better off than Labrador or Greenland.

The seats in the Commons now vacant give majorities as follows at the general election :—

Victoria, B.C., Conservative majority, 303.

Carleton, Conservative majority, 1,085.

Kent, Liberal majority, 112.

Prince Edward, Liberal majority, 71.

Russell, Liberal majority, 155.

Halton, Liberal majority, 9.

Glengarry, Liberal majority, 206.

New elections have been ordered for Carleton on Feb. 1, Victoria on Feb. 5, and Halton on Feb. 7. The dates for polling in the other counties have not been announced. The Government bring on the bye-elections on somewhat the same principle as Mr. Pope gazetted the names of members returned at the general election, to insure moral prestige for the government candidates.

At the Division Court recently held a Mallorytown, Judge Macdonald tried a case of no little interest to the farmers of this county where the cheese industry on the co-operative plan so largely exists. It was a suit brought by a cheesemaker against the proprietor of a factory to recover wages. The proprietor objected to payment on the ground that the cheese made was below the standard. The cheesemaker said this was due to the improper condition of the factory, and substantiated his assertion by the evidence of the maker who succeeded him. Judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff. This decision only emphasizes the lessons of experience, and should shew the owners of cheese factory buildings that it is an indispensable requisite, as well as a paying investment, to give cheesemakers no possible excuse for making inferior cheese. A poor cheesemaker will never, except by accident, make first class cheese, and the best cheesemaker in the world cannot, even by accident, make good cheese if the appliances at his command and the cleanliness and general condition of the premises are not what they should be. No farmer would give his "hired man" a rameshackle, out-of-date reaper and expect him to do as good work as a farm servant equipped with one of Hamilton's twine binders, nor would he be justified in refusing to pay the man's wages because his work in quality and quantity was not equal to that of his better furnished fellow-laborer.

The seat in the Dominion Parliament for Queen's county, New Brunswick, was obtained by Mr. Geo. F. Baird, a government supporter, by the illegal assumption of authority by a partisan deputy returning officer, and last Wednesday the seat was again won by the most outrageously illegal and unjust methods. To begin with Mr. Baird in his nomination speech used the patronage of the Government in the way of palpable bribing of the constituency wholesale. Speaking, it is to be assumed, in the name of the Government, he stated as plainly as if he had used these identical words, that if the electors did not elect a Government supporter no Government money would be spent in the riding. This is as direct bribery as the retail way of giving Hodge $5 for the refusal of his ballot, and there will be no approximation to purity in election contests, until every form of bribery, whether by a government or an individual, is made punishable by law. In addition to the wholesale bribery indulged in by Mr. Baird, there was outrageously iniquitous manipulation of the ballots shewing a determination on the part of the friends of the government candidate and his allies to win at all hazard. There is no doubt that the election of Mr. Baird was marked by so many illegal acts that a hundredth part proven, will void the election.

TRADE AND NAVIGATION.

A LARGE INCREASE IN THE PAST YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The Total Amount of Exports $89,515,811 and of Imports $119,982,295—Statement of Canada's Trade by Countries—Per centage of Duty Collected.

Totals	$105,689,429	$22,469,799

The average percentage of duty on the total value of goods entered for consumption dutiable and free was 21.64, which is 1.74 per cent. more than last year and the highest average ever reached. The amount of duty per head of population, taking the population as 4,856,236, was $4.63, which is 14 cents more than last year and the highest ever reached with the exception of 1861 and 1862.

INVENTION has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal: any one can do the work; either sex, young or old: no special ability required. Capital not needed: you are started free. SCOTTISH RITE.

Annual Session of the Valley of Hamilton —A Painful Accident.

HAMILTON, Jan. 25.—This morning the "sublime bodies of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, Valley of Hamilton," opened the eighth annual session here. Fourteen candidates were put through the 14°. There are eleven candidates in the Rose Croix chapter. This year the 32° will also be worked.

Last night Mr. James Sturdy found a man in his empty ice house who said his name was George Gregory and that he came from Toronto. He had taken a lot of the floor planks and built a fire in the middle of the building. Gregory was given ninety days in the Police Court this morning.

A 15-year-old lad named Robert Wester went into Mulholland Bros.' wood yard yesterday and in going through a narrow passage his overcoat caught on a circular saw. His thigh was terribly cut and he received painful injuries about the head.

The project to hold a winter carnival here on Feb. 15 and 16 is being pushed with energy.

At the meeting of the County Council to-day John I. Flatt was elected warden.

THE ORME TRAGEDY.

Continuation of the Inquest Yesterday—A Verdict Expected To-Day.

LUCAN, Jan. 25.—The Orme inquest met this forenoon, and the examination of witnesses lasted until 9.30 p.m. A very large number of witnesses were sworn and examined. The chief question was whether the deceased was a man likely to commit suicide.

Wm. Gurd, gunsmith, of London, swore to the revolver and described the purchaser as a farmer-looking man between 40 and 50 years of age, medium, long beard of a brown color. Frank McGahan, who sold the revolver, gave similar evidence.

Dr. Sutton of Clandeboye, who performed the post mortem, stated that he found no marks of violence except the bullet-wound in the forehead, which caused instantaneous death. When the revolver was fired the muzzle must have been placed directly against the skull to cause the abrasions in the scalp. The revolver could very easily have been fired by an assassin providing the deceased's head was inclined towards him.

At this stage an adjournment was made until 1 o'clock to-morrow.

LAFLAMME V. THE MAIL.

The Ex-Organ Offered an Opportunity to Settle for $2000.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25.—Judgment is to be rendered in a few days by the Court of Appeal in the case of Laflamme v. The Mail, and to-day Mr. Lafleur, on behalf of the present respondent, Hon. Wm. Laflamme, filed a document setting forth his willingness to accept $2000 in settlement of the affair. The appellant was not represented and the court said that they could not well take up the matter without hearing him. Later on Mr. Macmaster appeared on behalf of The Mail and asked until Friday to consider the matter.

The judgment in Mr. Laflamme's favor against which the appeal is pending was for $10,000 and costs.

Carleton Nomination.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—Nominations for Carleton County took place at Bell's Corners to-day. G. L. Dickinson and W. F. Powell were put in nomination. Sir John Macdonald was present, and made a speech, but did not make any announcement in regard to the Fisheries negotiations or any other public issue.

Is It The Ball Before The Storm?

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The Times' London despatch says the lull in war alarms which began on Saturday has now become so marked that everybody is congratulating himself on the war scare having permanently ended. This it has by no means done. It may be a week, and it may be longer, but a grave recurrence of the panic is sure to come.

The Daily Collision.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Jan. 25.—A freight train on the Bessemer Branch Railroad ran into a caboose of another freight train near Lawrence junction yesterday, badly wrecking the caboose and engine. About a dozen track men were in the car at the time and seven of them were severely injured but none killed.

CENTRAL BANK AFFAIRS.

Liquidator Campbell Puts in His Evidence—He is Not Responsible for Anything.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—In reply to the charges made by the ex-liquidators against Mr. Campbell, that gentleman yesterday filed the following affidavit before Chancellor Boyd:

I, Archibald Campbell, one of the liquidators appointed in this matter, make oath and say as follows:

That the petition was only served upon me yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

That I require further time to meet the charges made against me in the said petition, and that I am advised, if time is given me for that purpose, I can satisfactorily refute all the charges therein contained.

That the said petition contains charges against me which are wholly untrue, and which it is of the utmost importance to me should be fully and openly met and refuted, and this I am confident I can satisfactorily do if an opportunity is given me to do so.

With regard to the tenth paragraph of the said petition I say that I furnished security in the amount required in the order under which I was appointed to the satisfaction of the Registrar of this court. On Saturday last I was shown a letter by the Master, Mr. Hodgins, purporting to be from the agent of the London Guarantee and Accident Company, whose bond had been accepted as my security, in which it was stated that the company withdrew the security which had been so furnished. I had also received a letter from the said agent on the previous day to the same effect, and this was the first notification that I received of any intention to withdraw the security.

That on Saturday night I proceeded to Montreal, and on Monday last made arrangements with the manager of the North American Guarantee Company to provide the necessary security to the satisfaction of the court. I only returned to Toronto yesterday morning, and I am ready as soon as the bonds can be prepared and executed to furnish security which will be satisfactory to the court.

Sworn before me at Toronto on Jan. 25, 1888.

ALFRED HOSKIN
ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL.

After argument on the affidavit, the Chancellor ordered the application to stand over till Monday, the Master in the meantime to examine the papers referred to in the petition as to their production, Mr. Campbell's functions to remain in abeyance during this period.

The proceedings before the Master have been postponed till Friday, when Mr. Ross will be further examined. Cashier Allen will be examined next Tuesday.

The principal parties implicated in the Central Bank disaster are becoming more and more difficult to get at. Mr. Blain is at Clifton Springs, N.Y.; Mr. E. S. Cox is said to be in Buffalo; Mr. D. Mitchell Macdonald has been missing from the city for three days now. Some of the most important witnesses have also got certificates from their medical advisers to the effect that a change of climate would benefit their health. Everyone who is implicated seems to have a sudden desire to leave the city.

Rheumatic Pains

Require no description, since with rare exception, all at some time have experienced their twinges. Rheumatism is not easily dislodged, only the most powerfully penetrating remedies reach to its very foundations. The most successful treatment known, and it is now frequently resorted to by medical men, is the application of that now famous remedy for pain—Polson's Nerviline. It is safe to say that nothing yet discovered has afforded equal satisfaction to the suffering. A trial can be made at a small cost, as sample bottles of Nerviline can be had at the drug stores for ten cents, large bottles 25 cts. 6d4w

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment somewhat amused. They say the Tories pursue business methods which would lead one to believe that the Conservative party had taken for its motto: "Buy cheap and sell dear." Whether this is a correct estimate of the Tory policy we will take it all for granted I believe any word it is. Now, to please the public, this is supposing altogether to much. However, it is quite true that the Peterborough people don't care a button how much a man has raised his annual purchases, or always his annual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—DOLLAR. Don't be hood-winked, don't be nit-led with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off. Now these are the figures regulating the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchases. The Geese were bought at Auction for Cash and or course a bargain; just such Goods as you require at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $5.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, cheddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's Chime Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchels cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

A New Coach for the Cricketers.

The Cricket Club are considering the advisability of securing the services of Mr. Turton as coach for the season of 1888. Mr. Turton has been with the Delaware, N.J., club, and is said to be a first class all round man, good left hand bat and medium pace bowler.

Bible Society.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Bible Society will be held in St. Paul's Church on Thursday evening, the 26th instant, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Toronto. All interested in the Bible are requested to attend. 2cod

Another Physician.

Dr. J. Earle Jenner, licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, England, has decided to enter upon the practice of his profession in Peterborough. The first of next month he will enter upon possession of his office and residence, Aibyn Villa, McDonell street, recently occupied by Miss Veale as a ladies' school.

The Gay Carnival.

The carnival at Keene last night was one of the best ever held in that village. The prizes were numerous and elegant, but none of the Peterborough delegation were fortunate in winning any. A couple of 'bus loads of young people will drive to Millbrook to-night to attend the carnival there, a few others having preceded them on the noon train.

The Gannon's Narrows Bridge.

This morning a deputation waited upon the Roads and Bridges Committee of the county council in the interest of the proposed bridge over Gannon's Narrows between Harvey and Ennismore. The deputation consisted of Messrs. W. P. Chase, Andrew Shearer, councillor, J. Weir and J. Chase, Harvey, and Mr. Garrett Galvin, Ennismore.

Mr. Phelan's Grievance.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail says:—"Mr. Edward Phelan, of Peterborough, is in the city. Some time ago he offered a site for a postoffice in Peterborough at what he considered a low value. The site was accepted, but the postoffice was built on another lot. Mr. Phelan claims that his land was sold on condition that the postoffice should be built thereon, and this condition not having been carried out he desires the land to be re-conveyed to him."

Fine Emblem Pins.

Mr. Z. B. D. LaFleur, working jeweller, Hunter street, has just made fifteen gold emblem pins for members of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, some of which are intended to be sent to Pembroke. The pins were made from a model furnished by a Montreal firm, and if anything Mr. LaFleur has improved on the original. The fact that there is such a skilled goldsmith as Mr. LaFleur in town will be good news to those who have been in the habit of sending such work to Montreal and Toronto. When it can be done as well and more cheaply at home they will not hesitate to take advantage of the knowledge.

The Firemen's Selection.

A joint meeting of the Fire, Water and Light and Finance Committees will be held this evening to discuss the matter of increasing the salary of the Fire Brigade members.

Late Again.

The trains were late again to-day, consequent upon the snow drifts which blocked the track. The G. T. R. express was about 45 minutes late at noon, and the 11:20 C.P.R. express over an hour behind.

The Rinks.

The annual winter ice meet of the Peterborough Driving Park Association will be held on the Little Lake course next Thursday and Friday, February 2nd and 3rd.

WHAT is at KENT'S the best man's? Ladies overshoes, $1; men's heavy rubbers, 60 cents; light rubbers, 50 cents; men's felt boots at $1.15; Misses lace boots, 60 cents, solid leather; ladies best "Good Year Glove" rubbers, 50 cents; and other goods in proportion, and he aint selling at cost either.

The Best of Ice.

Mr. John Cousins, the champion ice-maker, has prepared six splendid rinks for the Peterborough - Granite (Toronto) curling contest to-morrow afternoon. The ice is as hard as a commercial traveller's cheek and as slick as his style. It's a hot day when John gets left on making ice.

The Opera House.

An old proverb says "Reading makes a full man," but the reading of his part by an actor should not make him so full that he can't "show up" in his part, the way several members of Harry Webber's troupe are said to have been last night, and which necessitated a change of the bill of the play. "Secrets" was announced to be presented, but "Flint and Steel" was substituted. There was a fair audience present, the majority of whom were considerably disappointed in the performance.

The Finger Post.

The EXAMINER is in receipt of the first number of the Fingerpost, published by the Brixton (London, England) Y. M. C. A., of which Mr. Geo. E. Williams, late secretary of the Peterborough Association, is general secretary. It is a neatly published eight-page periodical, in pamphlet form, and is an evidence of the prosperity of the Brixton branch of the Y. M. C. A. May the result of this new venture, which bears a very suggestive title, abundantly justify its name.

Curlicans.

The junior curlers intend getting up a 13-point game among themselves for a cup, which will be purchased by contributions from each participant.

The Peterborough curlers will not, as was first thought, allow their game in the tankard competition to go by default. Skips Rutherford and Attrill have been delegated to take rinks to Oshawa next Monday to enter the bonspeil of group 2.

Six rinks of the Granite Curling Club, Toronto, will arrive in town by the 11.30 C. P.R. express to-morrow (Friday). They will be escorted to the skating rink by the local club and dinner supplied, after which play will be begun at 1.15 p.m. Twenty ends each will be played.

The curling match at the rink Friday evening between Irishmen and Italians, and Scotchmen and Dudes, will be an interesting feature of the carnival.

The Omemee Burglars.

Samuel Mills, the young man about twenty-four years of age, who was arrested at Peterborough some time ago, was found guilty before Judge Dean, at Lindsay, on Monday, of the robbery of R. J. Mulligan's store at Omemee some months ago, and was sentenced to two years in the Kingston penitentiary. Mills was a resident of Omemee and was respectably connected. The discovery that he was one of the guilty parties was only made a short time ago, and was the result of his being searched when arrested for some other crime, when part of the stolen jewellery was found on his person. He implicated two other young men of the village in the robbery, one of whom is now in Cleveland and has since returned his share of the stolen goods. A very affecting letter from the prisoner's father was read in court asking for clemency. It appears that all the three young men lived lives of idleness.

Carnival Notes.

The first carnival of the season is to be held to-morrow (Friday) evening, under the auspices of Peterborough Canoe.

Parties in costume are requested to hand in their cards with names of characters represented, at the door. A committee will be on hand to take charge of clothing, etc., and give out checks for the same.

The ice will be opened to maskers at 7.45, and for half an hour they will have possession while the judges are deciding. At 8.15 o'clock the races will be begun, for which a number of entries have already been made. The races will be finished by nine o'clock, from which time till 10.30 the ice will be open to the public.

The Grand Trunk and C.P.R. railway companies will carry passengers to the Peterborough carnival at fare and a third for parties of ten, good for two days.

St. Paul's Congregation.

The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Paul's church was held last night. There was a fair attendance. The ladies provided tea before the meeting began. Mr. P. Hamilton occupied the chair. Reports were read of different church departments, all of which were satisfactory and interesting, showing a healthy condition of affairs financially and otherwise. The report showed an increase of 30 in the membership of the church during the year, making a present total of 660. The financial statement showed missionary collections amounting to $1,603.33, and for all purposes $9,415.75. The debt of the church had been reduced $956.56, leaving the present floating debt $2,042.56. To help raise the debt Mr. Wm. Walsh offered $100 if nine others would give a like amount. Messrs. W. Paterson, jr., R. Hall, P. Hamilton, R. Innes and W. Hamilton responded, and it is highly probable that the remaining four will soon be heard from. The four retiring members of the Board, Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, P. Hamilton, R. Innes and M. Millar, were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. Millar who, having removed from town, was replaced by Mr. R. J. Lee.

The Blowers' Blow-Out.

Annual Supper of the Fire Brigade and 57th Batt. Band—A Happy Occasion Which will be of Annual Occurrence.

The first annual supper of the Fire Brigade and 57th Batt. Band was held at the Morgan House Wednesday evening. Miss host A. F. Morgan as usual spread an excellent table, and the occasion was one of rejoicing and merriment; and, as Quarter-Master Millar aptly put it, like a serial story, "to be continued." It is the intention of the band in the future to hold annual gatherings of this nature. Following is a list of those who took their seats about the festive board, which includes guests from the Fire Brigade, the 57th Battalion and press representatives given :—

Mr. F. W. Millar (bandmaster), Chairman.
Major R. W. Bell (57th Batt.), Vice-Chairman.

Jos. Stevenson, M.P.	Sergt.-Major Randell
Quarter-Master Millar	T. Rutherford (Chief
J. Fraser	F. B.)
J. Butcher	J. Craig (Asst.-Chief)
Geo. Crowe	W. J. Beattie
Chas. James	W. Bridges
W. Crowe	J. Logan
R. Main	R. Brown
Jos. Crowe	R. McCabe
R. Moore	Jas. Millar
H. Jones	R. Beach
Geo. Hamilton	F. Jones
W. Robertson	F. H. Dobbin
C. H. Allison.

TOASTS.

After the oysters had been disposed of the customary loyal toast to "Our Queen" was proposed by the chairman, in response to which the company joined in singing the National Anthem.

"Our Dominion Parliament" was next proposed by the vice-chairman, which was replied to by Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., who gave a brief account of his experience while attending the last session of Parliament.

REGRETS.

The secretary, Mr. Beattie, read letters of regret from Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, 57th Batt., Mr. W. A. Sanderson and Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

MORE TOASTS,

The chairman next proposed the "Legislature of Ontario" and said he regretted the unavoidable absence of Mr. Stratton, who had been called away to attend the session of the Ontario Legislature which began to-day.

MAJOR BELL, however, made a happy reply in Mr. Stratton's behalf, referring to his call to attend to his duties in the provincial parliament, and the honor that had been conferred upon him and the county which he represented in the privilege of moving the reply to the speech from the throne.

"The Army and Navy" was proposed by the vice-chairman. After "Rule Britannia" had been sung, Quarter-Master Millar was called up. He spoke in general terms of the bravery and activity of the Canadian volunteers, and the way the men of this district responded to the call to arms in 1885 showed, he said, that there was the right kind of men here. He believed that the town of Peterborough would next year have still greater reason for being proud of her city battalion. The band, too, he was certain, would continue to improve and win fresh laurels for itself.

SERGT.-MAJOR RUNDELL gave an interesting account of his experience as a soldier. He had joined the regular British army in '58 and had served 18 years. He had come out to this country in 1862 in connection with the trouble in the United States, and though he himself felt glad when told that the war had been settled before they landed, his regiment murmured They were twice afterwards called out—once in New Brunswick and again to the West Indies. Neither time, though, did they see active service, and it come to be generally thought that the 17th regiment was doomed to inaction. Since he quit it, however, it had been through pretty rough experience. He had 11 years been battalion instructor, and during his residence in Toronto from 1866 to 1868 had the honor of turning out over 200 cadets for Her Majesty's service. Referring to the 57th Battalion he hoped and felt sure they would get on well together, and he hoped by next year the battalion would be on a still better footing than at present.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

"Our Mayor and Corporation" was proposed by the Chairman, who spoke of the support the band always had from the corporation. They never wanted for money, but one thing they were in need of. Frequently good musicians came to town searching for work, and if employment could be found for these so that they could remain in town the band would be greatly strengthened.

MAYOR STEVENSON in reply to the toast referred to the town's substantial progress and her excellent municipal council. He spoken rather strongly against the Scott Act, which he thought had done much harm to the town, and had caused more false swearing, bitter feeling and drunkenness than ever before.

Sergt.-Major Randell sang "The Ivy Green," which drew forth a round of applause.

THE GUESTS.

The vice-chair proposed "Our Guests, and took occasion to express his appreciation of the services of the band in connection with the Army. Replies to this toast were made by Messrs. Stevenson, Robertson, Dobbin and Allison.

Mr. George Hamilton then sang a solo.

"The Press" was proposed, and was responded to by the press representatives.

THE BLOWERS.

Quartermaster-Sergeant MILLAR proposed "The Blowers," which brought to his feet Bandmaster MILLAR, who briefly recited the history of the band since organization, its first struggles for existence and final success, and said the band was always at the disposal of the public.

Mr. FRASER also responded briefly, and said he hoped the band would continue to improve as it had in the past.

Mr. E. MCCABE, President, expressed the opinion that their worthy bandmaster ought to receive more sympathy and financial help from the battalion and town than he was receiving.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that although not an active member of the band at present, yet as one of the originators of the fire brigade band he felt proud of it and was deeply interested in its welfare. He hoped the citizens generally would take more interest in helping the band to maintain its excellent reputation.

Mr. J. CRAIG considered himself an honorary member of the band, and as such felt it had been largely instrumental in keeping up the standard of the fire brigade. Other members of the band were called on, but their modesty did not allow them to make speeches. Mr. Charles James, however, responded with a song "The Army and Navy."

THE FAIR SEX.

MAJOR BELL, in proposing a toast to the "Ladies," said that, personally, if the officers of the battalion are willing, he would be happy to contribute his share towards the support of the band, and he would bring the matter to the notice of his commanding officer.

To this toast Messrs. Crowe, Beatty, Beach, Hamilton and Brown were called upon. Mr. Hamilton proved himself an ardent champion of the fair sex.

REALITIES.

Mr. ROBERTSON proposed the health of Bandmaster Miller, which was drunk heartily and emphasized by three cheers. Mr. Miller made a feeling reply.

Mr. MILLAR, in proposing the health of Sergt.-Major Randell, remarked upon the value of his services as a citizen and a member of the battalion. The Sergt.-Major spoke of the many warm friends he had in Peterborough and hoped he would long be able to stay amongst them.

Mr. CRAIG proposed the health of the vice-chairman, Major Bell, which was responded to by the subject of the toast.

"Our host and Hostess" were toasted, after which the company dispersed with "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Personal.

Dr. Burnham has been elected a Director of the Mechanics' Institute in place of E. J. Toker, resigned.

It is to be regretted that the Hon. Robt. Hamilton is confined to the house by a very severe cold. Mr. Hamilton was to have acted as one of the judges at the Canton carnival. His place at the carnival will be filled by Mr. E. B. Edwards.

Naturally Indignant.

Mr. F. B. Hayes, an Ottawa Civil Service employe (formerly a resident of Peterborough) is the first to announce himself as one of several probable contributers of $1,000 each to the funds of the American National League, for the benefit of the Cause of Ireland. Ultra Tories, so a despatch from Ottawa says, assert that Mr. Hayes has no right to use the money earned in her Majesty's service to assist "embarassing and even upsetting the government at home." Their indignant is only natural—it is gall and wormwood to your ultra Toryism to see anything done to promote the triumph of Liberal principles, especially with respect to Ireland. Mr. Hayes money after he earns it is his own, and he has a right to dispose of it as he sees fit. Neither the Imperial nor Federal government has any right to it—except, perhaps, the latter, which entertains the idea that civil service employes are in duty bound to contribute of their earnings to government corruption funds. There would be no objections raised to such a disposal of money "earned in Her Majesty's service." In there any clause in the conditions of Mr. Hayes' appointment requiring civil service "cads" to audit the accounts of the expenditure of his income? If a hotel-keeper pays a tradesman's bill, and the latter contributes to the funds of the Scott Act Association out of the money, would the former have any right to object? No; the Ottawa croaking is only the voice of tyranny objecting to the cause of liberty.

Failed to Connect.

The institution of the new Encampment in connection with Otonabee lodge, I. O. O. F., which was to have taken place this afternoon, has been postponed, the grand officers having missed railway connection at Smith's Falls. They will arrive in town at 5 o'clock to morrow morning, and the new "Hiawatha" Encampment will be instituted to-morrow.

Peter R. Peterson fell a victim to the intense cold weather Sunday. He was frozen to death one mile east of Sandy Lake, a sheet of water fourteen miles north of Ellis Junction. He left that place on foot, with a number of companions, for Rawley's lumber camp, and straggled behind the rest. When his companions missed him and went in search of him he was found dead, lying frozen in his tracks. Peterson was a single man. The temperature was 16 below zero at that time.

A day or two ago Miss Clara Higby, of Jackson, was standing by a table playfully scuffling with her mother. Suddenly she screamed and fell to the floor with her knee out of joint as Mrs. Higby discovered on examination. The latter told Clara to get up and she would take her to a doctor as soon as possible. Clara, in attempting to obey rolled over, when her knee slipped back in place as suddenly as it had become dislocated. She is now nearly as well as ever.

THE ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

MR. STRATTON MOVES AND DR. M'KAY SECONDS THE ADDRESS.

The Condition of the Province Elaborated in Two Eloquent Speeches—The Premier and the Leader of the Opposition Address the House.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—The only business set down on the order papers for yesterday as the Ontario Legislature was the moving of the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. There was not a very numerous attendance in the galleries.

Mr. J. S. Stratton moved the address. He referred to the appointment of Sir Alexander Campbell as Lieutenant-Governor and congratulated the province in having at its head a gentleman of high social and political distinction.

The condition of the farming community of Ontario and the great progress being made by the farmers was next referred to, and the speaker attributed it greatly to the establishment of Farmers' Institutes, and to the financial assistance given by the Province.

As for the educational interests of Ontario, he said that while the results might not be seen at once, the expenditure of larger sums of money had given the province a people the "most enlightened, cultured and refined on the face of the earth."

The timber policy of the Government, "one so invulnerable to attack," was referred to as one of inestimable value, one which should be protected and encouraged. To show the difference between the sales of Ontario and Quebec timber lands, he read figures of nine sales in each province. These showed that the average Quebec revenue per square mile was $43.88, while that of Ontario was no less than $360, or nearly nine times as much. [Applause.] It was sometimes said that our forests are too rapidly disappearing. Though fire had done great damage there are still many thousands of square miles of the most valuable timber land. Speaking of the recent successful sale of these lands, he said that the department could not have been entrusted to more competent hands than the Commissioner of Crown Lands, whose health, it was to be hoped, would soon be restored.

As to the removal of Upper Canada College, he said that it had not been decided upon without the utmost consideration. It was satisfactory to know that $300,000 from the sale of the old site would be added to the Endowment Fund. "This old and historic school" had been to a large extent monopolised by the City of Toronto. He read figures of attendance to show that Toronto had as many pupils there as the whole of the rest of the province. Under the new order of things this college would occupy to the University the position of a residential high school, bearing in many respects the same relation as high schools throughout the province. Old pupils of the school might regret to see the change that had been made, but it was done in the interests of the province at large, and sentiment could not be taken into account.

Brief mention was made of the addition of a Faculty of Medicine to the University, and the speaker hoped that ere long there would be established a Faculty of Law.

Mr. Stratton paid a high compliment to the Attorney-General for his services in the revision of the statutes of 1877 and 1887, and he trusted that he would be enabled to exercise his eminent abilities again in 1897.

Touching upon the proposal to make extra provision for lunatics Mr. Stratton said that the Government are anxious to do all they can for that unfortunate class. So greatly was the accommodation needed that last year there were no less than 471 lunatics confined in the common jails because there was no room for them in the asylums. Thus these poor people, instead of being supported by the province, become a burden upon the municipalities.

Attention was also paid to Her Majesty's jubilee and to the Interprovincial Conference at Quebec.

The proposed appointment of a Minister of Agriculture gave an opportunity for the production of these figures to show the value of farm property in Ontario:

Farm lands	$635,695,758
" buildings	154,752,901
" implements	49,245,297
" stock	194,468,698
Total	$976,262,654

But it was to be regretted that the value of field produce had depreciated instead of increasing. The value in 1867 was $105,679,869, while in 1886 it was $110,761,676; and the average value for the last five years was $121,964,980. These figures were enough to prove the necessity of a department to look after the farming interests.

After referring to the new parliament buildings and to the proposed legislation regarding early closing, Mr. Stratton concluded, amid applause, by moving the adoption of the speech.

Dr. A. McKay, South Oxford, rose in his place in the back row of the Opposition side of the House where he forms part of the Government overflow, to second the motion. After referring to Sir Alex. Campbell's appointment he took up the University question and urged that that institution should be most thoroughly equipped in all its departments and assisted with every possible financial aid.

A question which had not been touched upon by the member for Peterboro, said Mr. McKay, was the Manhood Suffrage Bill. The Government in its wisdom had determined that it was time Ontario should have this suffrage, and while the bill may not be passed this session it will be introduced, and there will no doubt be a full and free discussion. The Opposition members might smile, but they would do well to wire to Ottawa that Ontario has a Government so enlightened as to be ready to give the people manhood suffrage.

Touching upon the asylum question, Mr. McKay read figures to show that in the case of the London Asylum, the non-use of alcohol had caused a large reduction in the death rate and an increase in the number of cures. He therefore contended that there was no need of stimulants, and he congratulated the Superintendent of the London Asylum on the success of the non-alcohol system.

The member for South Oxford paid particular attention to the relations between the Federal and the Provincial Governments. The disallowance of provincial bills, he said should be vested only in the Imperial Government. The Senate came in for notice as being a body in which there is great need of change, a body in the nomination of which the people have no voice, a body over whose actions there is no control. A change in the financial arrangements between the Dominion and the Provinces would be most acceptable, while the making and revision of the voters' lists and the appointments of all magistrates should rest solely in the hands of the provincial governments. The making of the bankruptcy laws should rest with the province, especially as there are no Federal laws affecting bankruptcy.

A pounding of the Opposition desk hid greeted Mr. Meredith, the Opposition leader as he rose to reply. He referred first to the appointment of the Lieut.-Governor, and then started out in critical and aggressive style. After she serious and somewhat labored speech of the man from South Bruce, his address roused floor and gallery to interest. With regard to the timber limits, he said he reiterated his previously announced opinion, that the department was not being conducted in accordance with the principles of responsible government by offering for sale large tracts of valuable timber lands without first submitting the matter for the sanction of the people's representatives. He differed altogether with the way in which the Crown Lands Department is being conducted, but he expressed the feelings of his colleagues when he hoped that the head of that department would soon be restored to health so that he might occupy the vacant seat beside the Attorney-General.

Mr. Meredith took occasion to say that legislation that would suit a small town, a village or a township, was not what should be provided for a city of the size of Toronto, whose business was almost the size of that of Quebec Province. He admitted the ability of the members of the Municipal Commission, but contended that three or four members of the Government would have been the proper ones to undertake the work now being done by gentlemen whose knowledge of the subject was at best only theoretical.

As to the Interprovincial Conference he indignantly repudiated the statements that the Opposition had acted traitorously in the matter of the boundary award. He regretted the heartburnings and discord that had been caused by the action of the Government, which, if it had not been so desirous of hanging on to the sweets of office, would have settled the boundary award in a thoroughly business manner. The Government had, he understood, decided at the Interprovincial Conference to suggest changes in the constitution. They had a very good time at Quebec, in fact it was about as pleasant as the recent sale of timber lands here. [Laughter.]

Hon. Mr. Fraser denied that any such changes were proposed, whereupon Mr. Meredith said he had read it in the Government's own organ. The House was not commissioned to deal with this matter, but if it were pushed through the people would have something to say about it.

Against the proposition that the vetoing of provincial bills should be vested only in the Imperial authorities he desired to record his unswerving opposition and he would continue to do so as long as he had a voice in the House. He quoted Hon. Edward Blake in support of his opinion, and said he would prefer to see the veto power swept away altogether rather than see it transferred to Downing-street.

He believed that the Ontario Government was not sincere in its doings at the conference, that members did not go there in the interests of Ontario, but to make political capital. Their insincerity was evident from the fact that they did not ask that one of the articles of agreement should be a demand that the dealing with the temperance question should be left with the provinces.

Mr. Meredith announced his strongest opposition to the proposal to establish another portfolio. There was no need of a seventh Minister. In fact a reduction was more desirable. It was a sorry admission that "this cabinet of lawyers" had for years been running the province without agricultural representation being given. He made some fun at the expense of Mr. Awrey whom he suspected of wanting to be the new Minister of Agriculture.

In concluding Mr. Meredith said he was pleased that the Lieutenant-Governor had done away with some of the business in vogue as former openings of the House. The gentleman opposite maybe say that a firing of guns and all that sort of thing was necessary in order to impress the people with the importance of the Assembly, but he hoped that next season there would be a still further reduction of what he regarded as a piece of tomfoolery.

The Attorney-General, in a most happy humor, rose to reply. He said that the ceremonies to which Mr. Meredith objected were still carried on by his Tory friends at Ottawa, and intimated that it did not lie in the mouth of the Opposition's leader to object. He complimented the mover and seconder of the reply on the ability they had shown and he was glad that the House was strengthened by what would prove to be good debating talent. The remainder of his speech was chiefly in reply to the arguments of Mr. Meredith. He insisted that the conference was not called for political purposes, because Mr. Mercier had invited Sir John and all the provincial Governments whether Conservative or Reform.

On motion of the Attorney-General the address in reply to the speech was adopted and ordered to be engrossed.

The Attorney-General announced that he would move the committees to-day.

U. S. EMIGRATION RETURNS.

Increase Over the Preceding Year—Value of Imports and Exports.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The total number of immigrants arriving at the ports of the United States from the principal foreign countries, except from Canada and Mexico, during the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1887, was 509,291, against 398,631 in 1886.

The total value of the imports and exports of merchandise of the United States during the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1887, was $708,307,311 and $715,330,966 respectively, against $663,420,189 and $713,404,021 in 1886.

Trouble Over Scott Act Enforcement.

OTTERVILLE, Ont., Jan. 26.—Between 9 and 10 o'clock on Saturday night last Constable J. W. Fish, while serving papers to witnesses in a Scott Act case, was assaulted by an anti-Scott Act magistrate, knocked senseless and badly beaten while down. Last night about 12 or 1 o'clock the same constable's residence was broken into by an infuriated mob. Mr. Fish and his wife were alone, and the former by remaining quiet and secluding himself was able to escape.

PRAIRIE PROVINCE POLITICS.

The House Adjourned To March 1—Relative Strength of the Parties.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—In the Legislature to-day Mr. Norquay's resolution to refer the charge against him of collusion with the Hudson Bay Railway Company's contractor to a Queen's Bench judge or a committee of the House was adopted.

The House adjourned to March 1.

Lepine is in the field against Prendergast, Rogers against Greenway, Smith against Martin. There is no opposition yet to Smart, and Jones has not found a place to run.

Gelley sat on the Government side to-day, and the relative strength seems to be: Government 20 Opposition 14, counting the independents as Government supporters.

DIED BY HIS OWN HAND.

The Coroner's Jury Find That R. H. Orme Shot Himself.

LUCAN, Jan. 26.—The coroner's jury investigating the Orme tragedy met at 1 p.m. to-day. After the coroner's charge the jury were locked up at 2.30, and after remaining for three hours returned the following verdict, two of the fourteen jurymen dissenting:

Robert Burns Orme came to his death by a bullet in the head, fired by his own hand from a revolver, either accidentally or intentionally, on Tuesday, Jan. 7, on the townline between the Township of Biddulph and London.

Panic in an Oshawa School.

OSHAWA, Jan. 26.—One of the stoves in Mary-street School upset this afternoon and caused a panic among the teachers and children. The fire alarm was rung and the brigade turned out, but they were not required, as the fire had been extinguished before their arrival.

The Haldimand Election Trial.

CAYUGA, Jan. 26.—The remaining charges of corrupt practices against Dr. Montague were dismissed at the sitting of the court to-day. There only remained the charges of irregularities on the part of deputy returning officers and the scrunity to be gone into.

It was decided to dispose of the charges of irregularities before going into the recount.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Wm. H. Smith, Government leader in the House of Commons, in a letter urges all Conservative members to be present in Parliament on Feb. 9, when questions of the utmost importance will be submitted.

It is stated that warrants have been served obtained in England for the arrest of six Irish members of Parliament and magistrates who are now in hiding.

A gale prevails throughout England. Some casualties of minor importance have been reported.

The Marquis of Ripon says he has not been invited to the Nationalist banquet in Dublin.

Wm. O'Brien went to Mallow to-day. He is still pale from the effects of his confinement in prison, but is in good spirits.

The tenants of Donegal have resolved to withhold the payments of rents during the time Mr. Blain, M.P., for South Armagh, and Father McFadden of Gweedore, are kept in prison. Mr. Blain and Fasher McFadden are now in the Donegal gaol.

United Ireland has opened a fund in aid of news vendors prosecuted under the Crimes Act, heading the list with a subscription of £100.

It is stated that Timothy Sullivan has written in prison a volume entitled, "A Poet Lays in Tullamore."

Prof. Virchow is reported as saying that the disease of the German Crown Prince is probably not cancer, but parichroanditis, which is just as fatal, only slower.

The funeral of Mr. Labiche, the dramatist took place to-day. A deputation from the academy, consisting of MM. Augier, Pailleron Doucet, Rousse and Halevy, acted as pall bearers. Among those who followed the remains to the grave were MM. Sardou Coppee, Herve, Dros and other well known men.

A French opera company appeared in Berlin last night and was accorded a most hearty reception. This is the first time in twenty years that a French company has performed in Berlin.

An officer of the general staff will be attached to each brigade of Russian troops except those charged with the organization of arrangements, the preparations for mobilizing and the supervision of the tactical drill of the reserve battalions. A flotilla of two transports has been formed on the Amu-Darya River.

The Journal de St. Petersbourg refutes the statement made by English and Hungarian newspapers that Russia is seeking to raise a loan for carrying out a warlike object. It points out that M. Vishnigradski the Minister of Finance, stated that should be borrow it would be solely to construct railways which were especially important to Russian industries. It ridicules The Cologne Gazette's story that orders had been given to the Caucasian army corps to march to the Armenian frontier, and says: "Whenever Russia undertakes a great action in Asia Minor she will not think of demanding the Caucasus of half the troops."

The Reichstag Committee was notified to-day by the Minister of War that the loan required on account of the Military Bill would amount to 280,000,000 marks. In his opinion the bill would enable the Government to complete the military organization.

The bill was then read a second time by the committee. The last clause was slightly modified so as to provide that the liability to serve in the second ban of the Landwehr be extended to persons of the age of 39.

The President of the Republic escaped being murdered yesterday. A man, who insisted on delivering a letter into the President's hands was arrested, and a loaded revolver was found in his pocket. His name is Gressel, and he is evidently insane.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

The speech put into the mouth of the Lieutenant Governor on Wednesday by the Mowat administration is pleasant reading, and so unlucuable to hostile criticism that even the Empire can find nothing except vague suggestions of objection to urge. It is characteristic of the Mowat ministry. Every paragraph speaks of progressive spirit in legislation and administration. The agricultural community will be pleased with a further evidence of the interest of the government in the promotion of their well being, in the shape of a new minister, whose department shall be specially devoted to agriculture and kindred interests. Municipal authorities will learn with pleasure that the asylum accomodation for lunatics and idiots will be increased to the relief of our jails. A measure is to be introduced giving municipalities the power to regulate the hours of employment of girls in retail shops, and to provide for the early closing of shops. These may seem to some unimportant matters, but they are fundamental and affect the interests of the bulk of our population and the chief of our industrial interests. There is little comment needed. The country has become accustomed to having promises of good measures by the Ontario Government so literally fulfilled that any new ones are taken as a matter of course.

The Wonders of God's Word.

Annual Meeting of the Bible Society—Reports Show a Satisfactory State of Affairs—The New Officers—Dr. Thomas' address.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Bible Society was held in St. Paul's church Thursday evening, at which there was a good average attendance. On the platform were Rev. Dr. Thomas, of the Jarvis street Baptist Church, Toronto; Rev. Clifton Parker, pastor of the Murray street Baptist Church, town; Rev. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's; Mr. James Stratton, President of the Bible Society, and Mr. J. D. Collins, Secretary. Rev. Mr. Tovell came in later.

After the opening devotional exercises and a well-rendered anthem by the choir, the Secretary read reports as follows:—

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Annual report of the committee of the Peterborough Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society for 1887:

Your Committee beg to report that in the year just closing the Society has been somewhat more successful in its local operations than in the previous year, although not so successful as to have much reason to boast.

Your committee decided to request the ministers of the different churches to ask their congregations for a special collection in aid of the Society, and thus do away with employing collectors in the town. By reference to the Treasurer's statement it will be seen that the sum contributed by the churches amounts to $128.41; the sum obtained by a collector in 1886 being $109.75, which shows an increase of $16.66.

The collectors' books were sent to the collectors in the country, but your committee are sorry to have to report that the amount received from the country as compared with the amount received in 1886 shows a falling off of $34.62. So that although the town has given an increased contribution this year, yet the town and country taken together are $8.76 behind their contributions for 1886.

Your committee thought it advisable to ask the churches for a collection in aid of the Society this year also. Envelopes for the purpose have been provided, and contributors are requested to write their names upon them before placing them upon the plate.

Your committee regret to state that owing to special circumstances they were unable to get the list of subscribers into the report of the Upper Canada Bible Society for 1887, but an arrangement has been made by which they hope to have a full list published in the report for the current year.

The Collector's books have been sent to the country collectors with a request that they should continue to assist in the good work, and we bespeak for them a kind reception and liberal donations from those upon whom they may call.

Your committee sincerely hope that the visit of Rev. Dr. Thomas to our town, and who is to address us this evening, on the work of the Bible Society throughout the world, will result in greatly increasing the interest of our Christian community in the work of the Society, and that they may be willing and liberal subscribers to assist in sending the word of God to all mankind.

Your committee on retiring, according to usual custom, beg leave to recommend that the following gentlemen be the officers and committee for the current year:—

PRESIDENT—Jas. Stratton.

VICE-PRESIDENTS—All the ministers of the Gospel in Peterborough.

SECRETARY—J. D. Collins.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THE BIBLE.

Rev. Dr. THOMAS' address upon the Bible was a masterly effort. He did full justice to the theme, and discoursed eloquently for upwards of half an hour on the divinity, the authoritativeness, the supremacy and the life-giving power of the Bible. He touched upon the effects of its benign influences in subduing the savage, advancing civilization and in every way elevating mankind. The attempts to overthrow the Bible had always been and would be fruitless. That it was the word of God, inspired by divine authority was proven by the fulfillment of all its prophecies. That alone should settle all disputes. The Bible was, he said, a living, glowing life—it was Jesus Christ. Its supremacy had been recognized by monarchs, philosophers, litterateurs and men of renown in every age; and to the humble Christian it was the bread of life. The Bible, said the reverend speaker, defied criticism—it was incomparable, authoritative, inspired and divine. He compared the prevailing state of vice in America and England not many years ago to the now general moral atmosphere enveloping these countries, and attributed the grand transformation to the regenerating influences of the gospel. He prescribed it as a panacea for all the troubles agitating the world today, and concluded by repeating a glowing eulogy of the power of God's holy writ uttered recently by a prominent divine.

After the address a collection was taken up amounting to $22.90 after which votes of thanks were tendered to Rev. Dr. Thomas and Mr. J. S. Parker and the choir.

During the taking up of the collection Miss Ella Cox sang a solo.

The proceedings were brought to a close by singing and prayer.

Trent Valley Canal.

A Lindsay despatch says:—"A joint meeting of the Lindsay Board of Trade and the County Council of Victoria was held here Wednesday night in the interests of the Trent Valley canal. The feeling of the meeting was strongly in favor of the project and a resolution was passed asking the County Council for a note of $1,000, to assist in defraying the expenses of collecting and presenting evidence before the commission appointed by the Dominion Government to take such evidence. The resolution will come before the County Council now in session." Another from Barrie says:—"Simcoe County Council Thursday voted $500 towards the collecting of evidence before the Trent Valley Canal Commission, which will hold a session here at an early date."

It's Always the way.

"Didn't I tell you so?" said a gentleman to an acquaintance whom he chanced to meet on the street; "its always the way." "What's always the way"? inquired a mutual friend of the two who happened along just then. "Why, just this," replied the first: "you see Smith, here, the last time I met him had one of the worst coughs you ever heard. He complained of a loss of appetite, of night-sweats, of low spirits and other unmistakable premonitory symptoms of consumption. I told him to get a supply Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at once. He did so, and look at him now! Did you ever see a healthier looking man? The 'Discovery' has snatched thousands from consumptives' graves. I knew it would cure Smith. It's always the way." b

Remarkable Restoration.

Matthew Sullivan, of Westover, Ont. was ill with dyspepsia for four years. Finding doctors did little good he tried Burdock Blood Bitters; six bottles cured him and he gained in weight to 178 pounds. B.B.B. cures the worst known cases of cronic dyspepsia after all else fails. 2w3d

Look Out for It.

If you are troubled with a cold or cough, however light the attack, look out for it, do not allow it to settle on the lungs, break up the cough by loosening the tough phlegm with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. 2w3d

SKIPPING ACROSS THE LINE.

The Last of the Central's Manipulators Shakes the Toronto Snowflakes Off His Boots and Departs.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.

Another good man was added to the list of absent ones yesterday.

This time it is Cashier A. A. Allen. He has gone to join the Toronto colony which recent developments in connection with the plundered Central Bank has driven across the border.

This makes six of them who are now over there, whether temporarily or permanently remains to be seen. They are:

DAVID BLAIN, President of the Central Bank.

D. MITCHELL McDONALD, Director of the Central Bank.

ALMER A. ALLEN, Cashier of the Central Bank.

E. S. COX, Broker.

R. G. I. BARNETT. (This gentleman went before the mast, however).

S. MAGNUS DAVIS, a particular friend of the "Wandering Jew's."

When Liquidator Howland came down to the Central Bank at 9 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Allen was not there, although he promised to be on hand to give the liquidators some assistance at the books. Mr. Howland waited till 10 o'clock and still there was no Allen. He at once came to the conclusion that Allen had shaken the Toronto snowflakes from his boots and departed.

Mr. H. P. Dwight, one of the directors, went up to Allen's house in Sherbourne-street and was told by the ex-cashier's wife that her husband had gone to the vicinity of Minneapolis, Minn., on the midnight train of Wednesday. Mr. Allen's disappearance was not a surprise to many; the only surprise expressed was that he did not go sooner. However, up to date nothing criminal has been openly charged against him. It is known, however, that after the meeting of the Central directors held in President Blain's on the night of Nov. 13 last some of them were strongly in favor of having Mr. Allen locked up. He had just made the admission to the board that he granted several loans which were of a highly questionable character without the sanction of any of the directors. This so startled some of them that they thought he should have been arrested. This idea was abandoned for the time being and Mr. Allen remained in the city long enough to be finally scared away by the developements which are daily taking place in the Master's Court.

D. Mitchell MacDonald, who preceded Mr. Allen by three days, was the ex-cashier's surety. The liquidators think they will realize about $70,000 on the estate which they took over from Mr. MacDonald. Some of his friends say he will return to the city.

The developments grow still more interesting, and not only interesting but exciting. It is beginning to show an organized scheme of bank wrecking. Briefly the circumstances are these: The bank had got into difficulties of an alarming character. Men of questionable reputation like "Jim" Baxter of Montreal were called in to give assistance. But the aid afforded only increased the difficulties of the situation. Seeing what was coming some of the parties interested endeavored to control the revelations that were likely to follow, and to protect their own reputations as much as possible in the event of an investigation. To this end Mr. Campbell would appear to have been put in as liquidator, and determined efforts were made in other directions to secure at least the control of one of the other liquidators, and if possible have a "friendly" solicitor in charge of the law proceedings. But in all these respects things did not shape themselves as they fondly hoped. Mr. Gooderham and Mr. Howland were appointed liquidators, and Mr. Foster solicitor. This had a damping effect upon the guilty parties, and when the Master-in-Ordinary made his soothing criticism on Saturday last increased consternation seized the parties implicated. Then on the top of this came the notice for the removal of Mr. Campbell, the co-liquidator. This was the last straw on the camel's back, and the birds took wing across the border.

Mr. Howland and Mr. Gooderham will not stop, they say, until they have proved that the Central Bank, which at one time showed every indication of prosperity, was wrecked by an organized band of robbers, the chief of whom worked his lay very successfully for the Montreal end. Mr. Howland will, it is expected, tell a startling story when he is examined to-day with reference to the removal of Mr. Campbell. Mr. Campbell came to Toronto recommended as the liquidator of the Exchange Bank. "Jim" Baxter, it is said, knew a good deal about that liquidation, he now lives in and owns the house which the absconding Manager Craig once called his home.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.

There has been a quiet trade during the week, with but little change in quotations. The receipts continue small, and it is thought that prices will not fall back much. The total amount of grain in store is now 176,000 bushels, as compared with 162,000 bushels last week, and 148,267 bushels at the corresponding period of last year.

FLOUR.—Trade is almost stagnant, and, it is stated, was never worse at this season of the year. No sales are reported, and prices are nominal. Straight roller is quoted at $3.75 to $3.80, and extras at $3.60. Patents sale at $4.25 to $4.35, according to quality. A car of roller superior sold to-day at $3.70, and a car of very choice extra at $3.60. Ten-barrel lots sell as follows: Strong bakers', $4; spring patents, $4.20 to $4.25; fall patents, $4.75 to $4.80; No. 1 Manitoba hard, $5 to $5.10; Manitoba strong bakers', $4.20 to $4.25.

WHEAT.—The market is quiet and without special feature. The demand is restricted to the wants of millers, and prices are steady as offerings are not large. There is no shipping demand, and the movement in Manitoba wheats is less active.

BARLEY.—During the latter part of last week the market was fairly active and firm, there being sales of No. 2 at 72c, No. 3 extra at 74c, and sample lots at 76c. Since then prices are a trifle easier.

OATS.—The market has been strong during the week on limited offerings, and prices are higher. Sales are reported of car lots of good heavy mixed at 44c to 45c on track and to arrive. Light offer at 44c, with buyers at 42c to 42½c.

PEAS.—There is nothing doing, and prices are unchanged. For shipment No. 2 are quoted at 66c to 67c, [illegible] on the street here bring 66c to 67c.

CORN.—The market is dull and prices unchanged, with car lots quoted at 64c on track.

Rheumatic Pains

Require no description, since with rare exception, all at some time have experienced their twinges. Rheumatism is not easily dislodged, only the most powerfully penetrating remedies reach to its very foundations. The most successful treatment known, and it is now frequently resorted to by medical men, is the application of that now famous remedy for pain—Polson's Nerviline. It is safe to say that nothing yet discovered has afforded equal satisfaction to the suffering. A trial can be made at a small cost, as sample bottles of Nerviline can be had at the drug stores for ten cents, large bottles 25 cts. 6d4w

THE BEST MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own actions, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The most distressing symptoms quickly yield to it. eodw4

A Boon and a Blessing.

A boon and a blessing to mankind is Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great pain destroyer and healing remedy for external and internal use. Yellow Oil cures all aches and pains, rheumatism, lame back, sore throat, croup, deafness, cramps, contracted cords and lameness. Procure it of your druggist. 2w3d

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Toronto mean business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the Canadian Community are taken for idiots; what they have only to conduct a settlement, it manages not how grossly untrue it is, the Public will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to please is policy, this is expressing allegiance to mean. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man has about his natural purchases, or about his natural colon, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the Manor giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—How these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchases. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and competed keenly. Last week Goods on sale by auction, at this season of the year, sold in keeping these to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be bamboozled, don't be enticed with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Cant. well made, and SHEPPARD'S price today is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

A Pointer.

An exchange says that a folded newspaper placed under the coat in the small of the back is an excellent substitute for an overcoat. There is a considerable warmth in a newspaper, that's a fact. Many a man has become heated by simply reading an article in a newspaper; and at such times he wants to make it hot for the editor, too.

At Millbrook.

The carnival at the new skating rink in Millbrook last night was the most successful ever held in that village. There were quite a number from Peterborough, but as the prizes were only awarded to local costumes none were brought back to town. It was acknowledged, however, that the Peterborough costumes were the finest on the ice.

Law Society Supperod.

The Peterborough Law Society last night supperod the members of the county council and county officials in the law library at the court house. The oysters were supplied by Mr. E. Welsh. It was an informal supper, gotten up on short notice, and after the cloth had been removed, so to speak, speeches became the order of the evening, nearly all those present making remarks touching upon popular, local and general topics.

An Ashburnham "At Home."

An "At Home" was given on Thursday evening last by Mr. and Mrs. Wand at their residence, Lake street, Ashburnham, in aid of the funds of the Mark Street Methodist Church. The hospitality of the host and hostess is so well known that it is needless to say that no pains were spared to make the evening thoroughly enjoyable. After partaking of refreshments, the young folks repaired to a large room which had been given over to their special use, and enjoyed themselves in various games and amusements in which the soul of youth delights, while their elders spent the time more quietly, but no less agreeably, in social conversation interspersed with music and singing by some of the members of the choir. In spite of the severe weather a large number were present and a nice little sum realized towards the funds of the church.

Revival at Norwood.

A correspondent writes :—"More than two hundred persons have expressed their purpose to live a Christian life in the Union Revival meetings conducted in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches in Norwood. The meetings are conducted by Revs. D.O.Crumley and G. W. Dewey, Evangelists of the Methodist church. The whole country is being moved by the services.

The Fire Brigade.

At a joint meeting of the Fire, Water and Light and Finance Committees of the town council last evening, it was decided to recommend to the council at next Monday night's meeting that the petitions of the Chief and Secretary of the fire brigade be granted, viz., that the chief's salary be $100, the assistant-chief's $75, and each fireman to receive annually $50, the brigade to be reduced to eighteen men. It is expected by this move to greatly increase the efficiency of the brigade, as the members will be able to devote more time and attention to the work. The fireman's life is a hard one, and he is entitled to as much salary as he can get.

The Carnival.

This is the night. The Charlotte street rink is the place. Seven o'clock is the hour. Peterborough Canton the promoters. All amusement-loving citizens the patrons. The price of admission to the "biggest thing on ice" is only 25 cents; children, 15 cents. Caretaker John Cousins has the ice in glorious condition, and devotees of the skatorial art when they wish to do the spread-eagle act and crush their fancy carnival costumes, won't have to search the rink over in order to find a smooth spot. All parties attending in costume are requested to hand in their cards at the door. The public are invited to patronise this carnival, which will be an eclipser. The rink has been beautifully decorated. Parties wishing refreshments will be supplied at the refreshment room in the rink at a reasonable figure. Come one, come all to the carnival to-night.

St. Andrew's Church.

The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Church was held last night. There was a fair attendance of members. Rev. A. Bell was moderator of the session. The customary reports of different apartments of the church work were read and approved of. The general financial statement showed the year's expenditure to have been $2,461.09, and to make up a deficiency in the receipts the Ontario Bank account had been overdrawn to the extent of $254.84. The current subscriptions were $1,615.58; collections, $358.17. The annual statement of the missionary association was presented, showing the collections to have been $160.35. Special subscriptions to the organ fund, including one of $250 by Mrs. Nicholls, amounted to $287.75. The general statement of the building fund showed the receipts (including a loan of $12,000 from the British Empire Life Assurance Co.) were $24,964.55, all of which had been expended. The auditors, Messrs. W. Manson and J.D. Tally, certified to the statements. Mr. John McClelland was re-elected to represent the church on the Nicholls' Hospital Trust. Messrs. J.J. Landy and A. McFarlane, the retiring members of the Board of Management, were re-elected to office. The question of some contemplated changes in the choir was relegated to a special committee.

Ten Days for Bigamy.

Henry Prax, the bigamistic quondam cook of the Oriental Hotel, was, says the Mail, found guilty and sentenced to but ten days' imprisonment at the Toronto Criminal Assizes on Thursday. Rev. D.J. Macdonnell testified that he had married parties purporting to be N. H. Prax and Margaret Wilson, in Toronto during 1881; and the evidence of Samuel Sherin, issuer of marriage licenses, and Rev. Jas. McFarlane, Methodist clergyman at Lakefield, was put in to prove a second marriage of the prisoner on August 24th, 1887, in Lakefield, to Margaret Revis, also known as "Maggie Van Allan." Mrs. O'Neill stated she had been employed at the Rossin house about seven years ago with the prisoner and Margaret Wilson, who announced their intention at a ball one night to get married. They (the prisoner and Wilson) were absent from the festive occasion only three-quarters of an hour, and came back and were introduced to the company as man and wife. They continued to work at the Rossin house for about two months, when they took a house on Adelaide street and lived together for five years. Suddenly the prisoner disappeared and nothing more was heard of him until he turned up in Lakefield, where it appears he married another girl named Margaret Revis. James E. McIntyre, the proprietor of the Oriental hotel, was called and stated that the prisoner and Margaret Revis both were employed by him; that he was present at the marriage of the girl Revis and a man named VanAllan, at the Roman Catholic Church, who was employed as a clerk at the office. VanAllan, however, deserted the girl and skipped to Chicago, and when the marriage took place between Revis and the prisoner the latter was not twenty years of age. The counsel on both sides assented to His Lordship Judge Falconbridge directing the jury to find a verdict of guilty. This was accordingly done, and the prisoner received but ten days in the common gaol. The Globe says the sentence was ten years' imprisonment, but that is wrong. Prax was sentenced to only ten days' imprisonment.

The Reply to the Speech.

The Toronto papers contain the following references to the speech delivered by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., for West Peterborough, moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne. The full text of Mr. Stratton's address will be published to-morrow.

(From the Globe.)

The debate on the address was of more than usual interest. All the speeches were good and the attention of the House was well held throughout. There were not a few ready to agree that Mr. Stratton's was the speech of the day, notwithstanding that the Attorney-General and Mr. Meredith had a vigorous tussinge of half an hour each. This judgment would hardly command the universal assent of the House, but no one will deny that the member for West Peterborough raised himself to a very high position among the debaters of the Assembly, and proved himself the possessor of wide and accurate information on all the leading questions of Provincial concern. Dr. McKay also deserves high praise for his clever and thoughtful speech. The future holds for him a prominent place in public affairs. Both West Peterborough and South Oxford are entitled to take pride in their representatives.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity" is Mr. Stratton's happy description of the lesson for the Federal authorities taught by the failure of their series of attacks upon the legislative and territorial rights of Ontario.

DEMONS ON A PORTFOLIO :—Mr. Stratton made a sympathetic, intelligent and extended reference to the position of the farmers. There seemed almost ground for the suspicion that he had his eye on the new Ministry of Agriculture, and one could imagine the agricultural legislators growing nervous as he proceeded. He said no more, however, in praise of the Government's devotion to the interests of agriculture than is justified by the record:—

The Agricultural College.
The Experimental Farm.
The system of Farmers' Institutes.
The proposal to create a Ministry of Agriculture.

All these provisions show that while the Government has been watchful of all the interests under its care its first concern has been the farmers, who are the bulk of the community and the chief burden-bearers for the Province.

BUNTING'S ROBIN ;—Mr Stratton hinted that if the Federal authorities, assisted by Mr. Meredith's party had had their way the Province would scarcely have timber enough to shelter a Round Robin.

TIMBER :—Here is one of Mr. Stratton's telling comparisons : Up to the last sale of timber limits the average bonus per square mile received for limits sold by the Government was $360. The average price received in Quebec was $43 per square mile. All the Federal Government's receipts have gone into boodle. Then the price received at the last sale was $2,859 per square mile. A lift that would elevate Mr. Kirkland's hair. The Province has still enormous timber resources and under the careful and judicious policy of the Government these must be a safe source of revenue for many years to come.

(From the World.)

Mr. Stratton must hereafter rank as a Parliamentary speaker of some account. His speech yesterday, in moving the address in reply to the Governor's message, was an excellent one, excellently delivered. True, he had it written out and prepared; it would be much better if the same could be said of others who address the House. Mr. Stratton started off without hesitancy and without trepidation, and in a few minutes was perfectly at his ease. He is an editor, proprietor of The Peterboro' EXAMINER, and a young man of about 30 years. His newspaper experience has given him a free command of language. In his speaking he makes good use of "the rising inflexion;" he has yet to acquire the art of gesture.

(From the Mail.)

The gravity of the situation, no doubt, was the cause of the tinge of nervousness noticeable in the members who moved and seconded the Address yesterday. The mover, Mr. Stratton, of West Peterborough, was particularly timid as he began to show cause why the present Government should be sustained. He spoke slowly and distinctly as if giving himself time to recollect and present the sentences which he carefully put together in his sanctum at Peterborough. He made a capital appearance, and as he proceeded, confidence in his own ability to cope with the situation was increasing, until finally he became tolerably eloquent as he enlarged on the virtues of the Mowat Administration. He spoke in a low tone, with few gestures, and with some fluency. The House was pleased with his effort, and his own friends cheered his flagging spirits whenever he happened to make a good point—and it must be admitted he made not a few good ones. The hon. gentleman, however, notwithstanding the many good qualities exhibited by him, developed some weak points. It was not in keeping with true liberalism to discuss the educational aspect of Upper Canada College from the view that it was only in the interests of Toronto. If he consults the masters of liberal thought, he will find that he is not in harmony with them. If Upper Canada College contributed to the intellectual developement of Toronto, Mr. Stratton might well consider whether he himself has not been indirectly illumined by its light-bearing rays. Mr. Stratton's address was on the whole creditable to him, and his journalistic confreres listened to him with some interest and no small pleasure.

(From the Empire.)

Mr. Stratton, M.P.P., for West Peterborough, acquitted himself with considerable fluency in his duty of moving the address. Echoing the announcements of the Ministerial programme his comments on the various themes evinced commendable industry.

In one respect Mr. Stratton showed himself more loyal to the Crown than his party leaders, referring to the celebration, since last session, of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, and describing in glowing terms the share which the people of Canada had taken in duly celebrating this event.

The Quebec conspiracy received enthusiastic praise from the mover of the address. He seemed to think that a planned attack upon our constitution, which he held to be defective and to need remodelling, and an interference of Provincial authorities with matters placed within the jurisdiction of the Dominion, were likely to promote good will, to prevent friction, and to cement the union of our Provinces. In dwelling upon Mr. Mowat's supposed feat of securing as part of our North-western territory (after so long delaying the enforcement of our rights) Mr. Stratton raised a laugh by describing as "a dead issue" the question which he had been discussing at so much length.

In commending the addition of a Minister of Agriculture to the Cabinet, Mr. Stratton gave facts and figures showing how wide from the truth are the statements of some Canadians that the farmers of Ontario are in a state of poverty and distress which only foreign assistance can relieve. He proved, indeed, that the agricultural community of Ontario possesses a vast amount of wealth and enjoys a prosperity which is but the fitting reward of their intelligent industry and enterprise.

Some light was thrown by Mr. Stratton upon one proposal in the Ministerial programme as to which much curiosity has been expressed. It seems that the method to be adopted to prevent too long hours in retail stores is that they are to be closed compulsorily by statute at a fixed hour. This certainly is paternal government with a vengeance. Does it not remind one of a Russian ukase regulating the length of a garment or the cut of a beard? How little confidence they have in the ability of the people to manage their own concerns.

Hiawatha Encampment.

The New Hiawatha Encampment Instituted—List of Charter Members and Officers—The Christening Supper.

Hiawatha Encampment, No. 67, I.O.O.F., was formally instituted at Otonabee lodge rooms at 2.20 o'clock this afternoon, by Mr. John Sinclair, of Petrolia, Grand Patriarch; and Lieut.-Col. M. D. Dawson, of London, Grand Scribe. These gentlemen experienced great difficulty in reaching Peterborough. On Wednesday they established an Encampment at Carleton Place, and Thursday morning left for Peterborough But at Smith's Falls, through the neglect of the brakesman not announcing change of cars, they missed connection. Every effort was made by them to secure passage to Peterborough, and negotiations were even made for the hiring of a special engine, but the charge being far beyond their means the project had to be given up. Telegrams were exchanged with Peterborough and finally arrangements were made whereby they were to arrive in town last midnight on a fast freight. The brethren here prepared for the arrival of but they came not. Then the charter members of the new Encampment, with a number of friends, partook of the supper which had been spread by the ladies in the reception rooms of the hall in honor of the visitors. Mr. Wm Clurton, P.C.P., occupied the chair, and a pleasant little feast was enjoyed after which the company dispersed. Messrs Sinclair and Dawson arrived in town by the early morning train, and registered at the Oriental Hotel. There they were found by the expectant Oddfellows this morning. They expressed the deepest regret at the unavoidable disappointment they had unwittingly caused, and stated that they reached Havelock on the fast freight at eleven o'clock Thursday night, but could get no further by rail. Then the vicinity was scoured to procure horses to drive the rest of the distance, but in vain. So they were obliged to remain where they were all night and take the early morning train.

CHARTER MEMBERS.

The new Encampment was instituted this afternoon with the following charter members :—Bro. Wm. Clurton, P.C.P.; Bro. Dr. R. W. Bell, P.C.P.; Bro. E. E. Henderson, P.C.P.; Bros. W. E. Matthews, Jas. Hendry, W. J. Minore, G. J. Early, John Mathieson, Wm. Troop and R. Stevenson.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

Speech of the Member for West Peterborough in Moving the Address.

Below will be found a full report of the speech of Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., on the occasion of his moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, delivered on Thursday last.

MR. SPEAKER,—I would be possessed of a degree of assurance amounting almost, if not quite, to effrontery, if I did not feel most intensely my inadequacy to the proper performance of the duty I have undertaken, and I should be hopelessly diffident of the slightest degree of success if I could not count, as I feel confident I can do, upon your generous indulgence, while I address myself to the task of making a few remarks in reference to the speech which the representative of Her Majesty has graciously delivered on her behalf. I take this opportunity of making congratulatory reference to the occasion as the first upon which His Honor, the Hon. Sir Alexander Campbell, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario, has appeared in person to open this Legislature. I am sure I give voice to the unanimous feeling of this House in saying that His Honour's appointment is cause for double congratulation. His Honor is to be congratulated on receiving the appointment of Lieutenant-Governor of the largest, most prosperous, most progressive, most enlightened, and—I hope I may commend the assent of my friends on the opposite side of the House in saying so — the best-governed province in this great and flourishing Dominion. This House and this country are warranted in rejoicing that so eminent a gentleman, so well fitted both by gifts of nature and fruits of experience and integrity of character, and distinction of political service, to uphold the dignity of the high office and to guard most efficiently and wisely the important trust committed to him by our illustrious Sovereign, has been selected. I hardly need refer, in guarantee, of the ample fulfilment of all the conditions involved, to the fact that thirty years of varied and brilliant experience, in the various departments of public life, in the Senate, in the House of Commons and in the Dominion Cabinet, inspire the highest degree of confidence that his Honor's share in the administration of the affairs of this Province will be characterized by a wisdom, a prudence, an ability and impartiality, which will add new lustre to a name, now associated in all circles with the highest sentiments of respect.

PROVINCIAL PROSPERITY.

It is a source of great gratification that the Province in general has, to a very large extent, passed a prosperous and happy year. It is true that the operations of the agriculturist, owing largely to an excessively dry season, have not been attended with that degree of success which could be desired or expected as a general rule, yet in some branches, that of dairying for instance, the season was a profitable one, and contributed largely to maintain the average profit of the operations of the farming community. In a Province like Ontario, the prosperity of the farmer has, as a matter of course, a most important and potent bearing upon the general prosperity, and it will be conceded that a policy of encouragement and liberal dealing with his interests, must be conducive to the promotion of the general good. It is to be hailed with gratification that the farmers have awakened to an appreciation of the importance of looking after their own interests. This is shown in one way by the large number of farmers' institutes organised. A no small share of the credit of these results may be given to the countenance and encouragement given by the Government of Ontario, both in the matter of legislation and financial assistance. Ontario is essentially an agricultural Province, and the recognition of this fact by the Government in a practical manner, by a liberal expenditure in the interests of agriculture has been too often and too emphatically endorsed by the people to require any special reference to it on my part. The increasingly active interest taken by the farmers as shown by recent events in their calling and in their determination to have their wishes consulted and their rights respected, is gratifying as showing that they, as a community, are feeling the influences of the spirit of advancement and culture resulting from an admirable and liberally sustained system of education. The upon individuals is, in the majority of cases, almost immediately observable, but its influence in uplifting the mass of the people is not so readily discernable. Yet we have repeated evidences to show that the expenditure of some half million of dollars annually in promoting educational interests, has, as a result, given to the Province of Ontario, the most enlightened, the most cultured and the most prosperous population—urban and rural—on the face of the globe. With an excellent form of government, righteously and wisely administrated, with a country of such varied and boundless resources that a wheat crop is only an incident, it is only the perpetuation of a delightful monotony to congratulate the Province of Ontario upon another year of prosperity and progress.

In respect to the recent sale of timber limits I may refer to it as one of the most successful of the nine sales held since the confederation of the Provinces. The wisdom of holding these sales need not be insisted on. This House has repeatedly endorsed the principle and the electors have justified it, and there is no use entering into a justification of a policy so little vulnerable to attack. The magnitude of the lumber trade attaches considerable importance to the subject. An industry representing an export out-put of over twenty-five millions of dollars for the whole of Canada annually, of which Ontario's share is the lion's share, is one whose preservation and development demand the best attention of the administrators of our public affairs. It is impossible to give an exact estimate of the amount of money invested in the lumber and timber trade, or of the great amount of employment given to the laboring classes of our citizens, or of the direct and indirect stimulus given to other industries through their association with the lumber trade. It is necessary that the vast aggregation of industries centreing around our forest industries should be kept in motion and expansion. That there is an active demand for more lumber territory is shown by the excellent figures obtained at the recent sales, figures many times in excess of any previous sale, and AND VASTLY IN EXCESS of those obtained by any other Province in the Dominion. The average bonus per square mile obtained at different sales since Confederation, excluding the small sales of '73, '79 and '70, is $360 per square mile. While the bonus per square mile secured for the 439 square miles disposed of on December 16th last is the magnificent sum of $2,250.

[Here Mr. Stratton gave a statement of the different sales of timber limits held in Ontario and Quebec since Confederation, giving the dates of sales, number of square miles sold and bonus per square mile obtained, the result showing that the average bonus per square mile in Ontario was $360, as against an average at the Quebec sales of $43.88—nearly nine times as great.]

Mr. Stratton continued:—Those who have followed these figures will have noticed that there is a great difference between those of Ontario and those of the sister Province of Quebec. This is a most gratifying and satisfactory condition of things, and the Government of Ontario and, especially the Honorable the Commissioner of Crown Lands, deserve to be congratulated upon the state of affairs of which I am now treating. Honorable gentlemen opposite have from time to time keenly criticised the management of the woods and forests branch of the Crown Lands Department, but it would seem that they will be with the prices obtained, especially at the sales of December last. They may complain of the way in which our timber sales are managed by the Ontario government, but it has not, I believe, transpired that any of them have found any grave fault with the manner in which our timber in North-western Ontario was disposed of by the Dominion government, securing thereby the magnificent sum of $5 per square mile. Yet all the Dominion Government does is, in their eyes, quite proper and defensible. The contrast of figures I have just quoted, may be further intensified by pointing out that in addition to the bonus for the Ontario limits, the ground rent and timber dues will be a continual source of revenue, whereas in the case of the Dominion Government's sales of our timber limits, the dues will never be collected, owing to the fact that the (to some persons) erratic judgment of a certain Imperial body, has kindly relieved the central Government of all anxiety and responsibility arising out of their assumed custody of our territory. Considerable anxiety is sometimes felt as to the alleged too rapid disappearance of our forests. The fact is either forgotten or ignored that for reasons I have mentioned, it is necessary to keep our timber limits in commission, so to speak. The immense capital embarked in the lumbering industry, and other industries affected by it, must be kept in motion, and the possibility of immense destruction by forest fires must not be forgotten. There are many years of life yet left in the timber limits of the Province of Ontario. There are yet in this Province nearly twenty thousand square miles of timber territory. At the rate at which these lands have been disposed of, these will last from twenty years to a quarter of a century, and would yield in bonuses alone at the average price obtained during the past twenty years, a revenue of $7,200,000; or as the prices—eminent as the recent sales (which will at least rule future prices) $2880 per square mile, these twenty thousand square miles, will yield nearly sixty millions of dollars ($7,180,000). These 20,000 square miles are, it will be noted, that portion of our timber limits which is situated in Ontario proper, and does not, of course, include the

in which, according to an estimate made in 1879 the timber alone is computed to be worth over $125,000,000 of dollars in the way of revenue. There is no way of accurately knowing how many square miles of timber territory this amount actually represents; but, take the figures at which the Dominion Government kindly sold our timber—$5 per square mile—and we have in the once disputed territory—as a result of the division—25,000,000 square miles of timber territory. This is, perhaps, a rough estimate, but we must remember that the quotient obtained in the result of a divisor ($5 per square mile) approved of by Honourable gentlemen opposite, and the dividend as careful estimate as could be made. There can, however, be no doubt that the timber in North-west Ontario, is an exceedingly large item, and, taken together with the extent still existing in the rest of Ontario, gives very little ground for the fears of those pessimists who have had the country completely deforested any time within the past half-dozen years. One thing I may say before leaving this subject, is, that it is, however, placed beyond cavil or dispute that the administration of the forest resources of Ontario could not be entrusted to more careful, trustworthy or capable hands than those they are now in charge of. I am sure I will enlist the sympathy of both sides of the house in referring to the regrettable illness of the Hon. the Minister of Crown Lands, and will be joined by every member in expressing the hope that ere long he will be restored to health and be able to take his seat in the House and resume the discharge of those duties, which he has always fulfilled with the highest credit to his ability, honesty and industry, and in the interests of the Province.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.

The unanimity of the response made by the House to the appeals of the Honourable the Minister of Education at last session, shows the full recognition of the importance of the interests of higher education. The re-organisation of Upper Canada College, and its being placed on a more satisfactory footing, is a subject of no little importance. The matter has not been entered upon without a full survey of the situation and an intelligent forecast of the results. The wisdom of disposing of the site so long occupied by this historic College will not be gainsaid, when it is remembered that a more suitable site and one more literally realizing the idea of academic groves has been secured, besides a gain of $200,000 to the endowment fund of the Provincial University. In regard to the question of site, though other relations have changed, there is no change in the relative situation of the College and Parliament buildings. The old College site is just north of the venerable structure which just now assumes to shelter us from the weather, and the new site is just north of the new parliament buildings and outside the limits of the city of Toronto. From Toronto's standpoint this is, perhaps, a misfortune, but this great and progressive city, with all its phenomenal virtues, possesses in no small degree the virtue of selfishly advancing its own interests at the general expense. It seems that it is none too early for Toronto to cease to be a pensioner on the public.

From a detailed statement of the attendance at Upper Canada College for '85 and '86, it is learned that all the day pupils are from the county of York, otherwise Toronto, while the boarders are from every other part of the Province. This statement shows that Toronto sent nearly as many pupils to the whole of Ontario that year, and if the aggregate attendance of the three preceding years be taken, it is seen that Toronto sent 400 pupils and all the rest of the Province 394. It was certainly not worth while to maintain Upper Canada College at so inconsiderable expense for the benefit of the citizens of the city of Toronto. Under the new order of things, the College will enter upon its proper relation to the Provincial University, that of a residential High School, occupying in other respects about the same relations as the other High Schools throughout the Province do to the Provincial university. It appears that the Government has selected the happy medium between the entire abolition of Upper Canada College and its maintenance in its former unsatisfactory condition. The financial gain by this plan is by no means insignificant, while the advantage to the Provincial University and the promotion of the interests of higher education have been subserved to the fullest extent possible under the circumstances. In this matter the Government has managed, with its usual success, to reconcile conflicting demands and interests, and to make a happy compromise between extinction and resention of the old order of things. It is doubtless a matter of regret to the former students of Upper Canada College to see an institution of fifty years standing yield to the march of events, but the matter is one in which merely sentimental considerations are outweighed by considerations of public policy. The old buildings occupy a very costly site, worth at present, according to moderate computation, $400,000, and this value will rapidly increase, and if the site be wisely utilized it will become a source of revenue, and afford substantial aid to Toronto University, and be one of the factors in promoting the success of university consolidation, and aiding, without imposing fresh burdens on the people, the cause of higher education. We now have the institution under control of the Government and the people though their representatives have got control of the college of the people. It is gratifying to note the interest taken by the Government in Higher Education. The legislation of last session tending to university consolidation was a step in the direction of placing our university system on a solid basis, one that would realise the standard hinted at in the remarks of a prominent Englishman, Sir Lyon Playfair, who said that the difference between an English and a Scotch university was that the former educated the students to spend four or five thousand pounds a year with dignity, and the Scotch universities educated their students to earn four or five thousand pounds a year with dignity. The Scotch type is best suited to the wants of this Province, and it will be no fault of the Government if the Provincial universities do not reach Sir Lyon Playfair's implied standard. The addition of a faculty of law, as well as of medicine would subserve both professional and popular interests

REVISION OF THE STATUTES.

In these days of universal intelligence, there is an increased tendency on the part of the people to depend upon themselves for their legal as well as other information, and from a popular point of view, the revision and consolidation of the statutes, gathers increased importance, and the great benefits accruing to all classes of the community form ample justification for the trouble and expense involved. This House is constantly changing the law, as experience or circumstances require,—new law is being added yearly to the statute books, and it is necessary to consolidate from time to time and classify these enactments, remove dead material and render more accessible the laws governing the various interests of the people. The revision of these statutes now happily and successfully completed, is the second revision since the present administration assumed the reins of power. Hon. Oliver Mowat was the moving spirit in the consolidation of 1877, as he was in 1887, and in both cases his eminent ability as a jurist, his ample experience, sound judgment and indefatigable industry, have contributed largely to the excellence of the results arrived at in both revisions. Hon. Mr. Mowat, as intimated a moment ago, was concerned in the revision of 1877 and 1587, and looking to the future and judging from the past, it may be asserted with confidence that it will only be by the weight of years or failure of bodily forces, and be due to no withdrawal of the popular confidence if the honorable gentlemen does not inspire and superintend the revision of 1887. In the last revision the names of the commissioners to revise and consolidate the statutes, are a guarantee, in addition to that I have intimated, that the work has been well done. We see among these names those of our most learned judges and most brilliant and successful lawyers. While the arrangement of the Revised Statutes of 1887 have been preserved as far as possible, there have been included in one chapter those acts which relate to the same subject, conflicting enactments have been harmonized uniformity of language has been aimed at and every effort made to present the law in the most concise and simple form, to remove obscurity and, in fine, to simplify the statute law, both in wording and arrangement, to the comprehension of the average layman and to his advantage, although the lawyers may not be called on quite so often for advice.

ASYLUM ACCOMODATION.

The intimation that steps were being taken to increase the accommodation for that most unfortunate of classes, the lunatics, of the province, is one which I am sure will be received with the utmost satisfaction throughout the country. That there is necessity for increased accomodation no one will deny. It is well known that applications for admission of unfortunates of this class are being constantly made and it is most painful to be compelled to give the answer that there is no room. In the past there has been every effort made to provide that not one deserving case should be unprovided for. In fact so great has been the anxiety that something very like over-crowding has followed the charitable application of the omnibus guard's principle—"always room for one more," there is a limit however even to this obliging process and, as a consequence, hundreds of unfortunate lunatics are scattered throughout the province, a burden on their friends or the municipality—largely increasing the responsibilities of both.

It is desirable that such a state of affairs should not be continued to a greater extent than absolutely unavoidable. It has been the policy of the present administration of Ontario to maintain these unfortunates, out of the surplus revenues of the province, thus saving a vast expense to the Municipalities, and at the same time securing the best of restraining and curative treatment. Within the past sixteen years there has been a government expenditure for the maintenance of lunatics, of over five millions of dollars, which would have otherwise had to be borne by local authorities, or the suffering left without the care and restraint which their unfortunate condition, as well as the safety of the community, demands. With all the increased accommodation provided from time to time, it is found that last year there were 470 lunatics confined in the common gaols of the province, their misfortune thus converted into a crime and the burden of their maintenance, thrown upon the municipalities. In view of these facts it is eminently proper that provision for extra patients should be made in the asylum accommodation of the province. And the manner of doing so is characteristic of the Government, the minimum of expense being called for, with the maximum of good results, as shown by the intimation of the intention of the Government to adopt the cottage plan at Mimico farm, the property of the province. This arrangement will relieve the congestion at the larger institution and permit of the better isolation and treatment of cases which, if taken in time before the type of insanity becomes chronic, are curable. The advantages in all respects of this proposal are too obvious to need justification.

CONTRARY TO THE POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT,

It is hardly necessary as a matter of information to mention the fact that the past was the jubilee year of her Most Gracious Majesty's reign, yet it is a matter of pleasure to advert to the hearty, spontaneous and unanimous manner in which the occasion was celebrated in this province and no colonial section of the great Empire has better cause to indulge in rejoicings incident to the occasion. The beginning of Her Majesty's reign was marked by the triumph of Liberal principles in Canada, and the past sixteen years of her sway has witnessed, in the province of Ontario especially, a growth, a developement and progress, which a wise and statesmanlike application of those principles alone could bring about. This suggests the idea that the present year is another important anniversary in connection with the Dominion of Canada. This year

THE CONFEDERATION ATTAINS ITS MAJORITY

—reaches its twenty-first year. Though the Dominion is legally of age, still it requires, as experience has taught us considerable training and improvement in a constitutional sense. In view of this fact the Interprovincial Conference, held in the historic city of Quebec in the last week of October of last year, is of especial interest and importance, and it is no unhappy coincidence that that ancient city should have been selected as the place of meeting of the leading statesmen of the several provinces represented. It was in the ancient city of Quebec in 1864, that the conference was held in which Confederation was conceived, and it was in Quebec in 1887 that a conference was held to save Confederation. This might imply that Confederation was in danger. Even the most optimistic cannot deny that the machinery of Confederation has worked with too great an amount of friction to ensure it against the possibility of disastrous derangement. The touch-stone of experience applied to the work of the founders of Confederation, earnest, able, patriotic and wise though they were, has revealed defects, revealed possibilities of trouble which it was the part of wisdom to try to neutralize and remove. The experience of this Province affords ample justification of the wisdom of holding the late Interprovincial Conference. We all know how the principles of provincial autonmy were sought to be outraged. We all know how a large portion of the area of this Province was sought to be erased from the map of this Province. We all know what desperate attempts were made to seize upon the legislative rights of this Province. We all know what persistent attempts were made to defeat the wishes of the people as expressed by their representatives in legislative acts. We all know that unless resisted with firmness and wisdom and an honest loyalty to the interests of this Province, and with most delightful and uniform success, that a blow would have been dealt to the federal system of a most fatal character. During the past ten or twelve years we have been subjected to these attacks and in every instance, the sturdiness of purpose, wisdom of action, and shrewdness of statecraft of one man, whom I need not name, has been the bulwark against which there has been no prevailing, even though every resource of litigation, every discouragement of delay, every artifice of double dealing was exhausted. Although the danger is now happily passed, yet one is almost tempted to shudder to contemplate the results, if during the past ten or a dozen years, another man than Hon. Oliver Mowat had stood in his place and had administered or surrendered the trust reposed in him by the people. In this connection, I may venture to say, that it was something like a special providence that kept up the barrier of the popular will between the opposition members of this House and the treasury benches. Though it is hard to remain for years in the cold shades of opposition, though it is hard to have the sweets of office "so near and yet so far," yet in relation to the provincial rights of Ontario, the people of this province, in regarding the doom of certain honorable gentlemen to remain in perpetual opposition, see in it the happy illustration of the Shakesperian sentiment:—

"Sweet are the uses of adversity."

Suppose for instance; when the Federal claim to a portion of Ontario's territory, as set up in the disputed boundary matter, a certain honorable gentleman who has not always shown an invincible disinclination to occupy the post, suppose I say, this gentleman or some other member of this great Empire holding similar sentiments, had been Premier of Ontario, would he have withstood the demands of his political master, even to the foot of the throne? Would he have subordinated his loyalty to his chieftain to loyalty to his province and saved 100,000 square miles of territory from the hands of the grabbers. Not by any means! If the then policy of the Opposition, had had an opportunity of execution, at this moment the province of Ontario would not in all the wide area of the once disputed territory, own enough land to bury a dead issue in; would not own a tree big enough to shelter even a round robin. That defects of the Federal constitution have not worked irremediable harm to Ontario is because we have at the head of our affairs a man who has proved himself a careful custodian of our interests. This fact does not destroy the force of the demand that the defects alluded to should be eliminated, or of the wisdom of holding the Interprovincial conference.

I will not trouble the House with any specific reference to these resolutions, no doubt a future opportunity, will be presented of giving them full consideration and considering the course of action called for arising out of the resolutions adopted.

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE.

I am sure the paragraphs of the address relating to the appointment of a minister of agriculture will be a source of gratification. In referring to this subject I shall as briefly as may be, submit a few figures to show that its importance entitles it to have a department under a head responsible to Parliament—to have charge of its interests. Take our agricultural interests in Ontario and let us see what a few figures will show. I quote from the latest returns—1887:—

Value of Farm Lands in Ontario,		$693,697,726
" " "	Buildings in	154,722,207
" " "	Improvements	69,448,227
" " "	Live stock	104,033,845
Total Value of Farm property in Ont.		$970,902,004

Here we have the enormous total of nearly a thousand millions of dollars invested in agricultural industries. The annual marketable value of the products of the farms of Ontario may be cited as follows:—

Fall Wheat	$11,220,420
Spring Wheat	4,788,837
Barley	3,715,442
Oats	17,267,443
Rye	432,000
Peas	6,841,224
Corn	5,412,824
Buckwheat	681,600
Beans	370,120
Hay	25,947,745
Potatoes	6,783,751
Carrots	420,000
Turnips	3,360,370
Total value 1887	$130,970,999
To an average on the all field crops for past five years	121,961,999

In view of the immense and important interests involved in Agriculture, it is only fitting, and in fact it becomes the duty of the government to provide for the efficient guardianship of these momentous provincial concerns. No one man, however capable, can be said to be equal to the task of doing two things at the same time and doing both well. The office of Provincial Treasurer, is so important a one that it is simple justice to its incumbent to relieve him of duties which, if fully and faithfully discharged will of a Minister, specifically charged with the duty of administering the department of Agriculture and cognate affairs. Instead of objection being taken to the creation of this new department, one would naturally expect that the progress of the province, the expansion of her industries, the development of her boundless resources, rendering such a course, not only wise—but imperative, would be a subject of felicitation to every loyal citizen of this Province.

The legislation foreshadowed in the address in reference to the protection of the young, who are compelled to seek to earn the means of living in retail shops, indicates that the Government recognizes the responsibility of providing for the protection of what, to some, would seem the most unimportant interests, as well as the most momentous. While capital, proprietary and vested interests, receive due consideration, it is pleasing to know that labour and its demands, its claims and rights, are practical subjects of Governmental recognition. I have no doubt that all the members will learn with pleasure the information contained in a paragraph of the speech, that good progress has been and is being made with the new parliamentary buildings. It will be a happy day, both for legislators and the country, when a suitable legislative chamber is provided, and when a building worthy of the first Province of Confederation is ready for occupancy.

Mr. Stration concluded his speech, which was frequently interrupted with hearty applause, by moving the address.

Trent Valley Canal.

Yesterday afternoon a delegation consisting of Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., Mr. John Carnegie, Secretary of the Trent Navigation Association, and Mr. D. W. Dumble, waited upon the Council and solicited a grant to assist in defraying the expenses which will be incurred by the Association in placing evidence before the T.V.C. Commissioners, in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the Association. The delegates each spoke on the subject, setting forth their claims in a concise manner. This morning the Finance Committee brought in a recommendation that $1,000 be granted for the purpose, which was adopted.

Delayed By Drifts.

The trains were late again to-day in consequence of the snow drifts.

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1888.

A SATISFACTORY PROGRAMME

As was pointed out in the EXAMINER Friday, the speech from the throne as put in the mouth of the Lieutenant-Governor, was of a character placing it beyond the reach of hostile criticism. This was conclusively shown to be correct from the fact that when the debate on the address came on, on Thursday, the leader of the opposition, Mr. Meredith, had not a word of fault to find with the programme of the Government. He had not a single addition to propose, and there was not a single topic, which, he believed, should be touched that was not touched. These facts go to further indicate that the confidence of the people in the Mowat administration has not been misplaced, and that the affairs of the province of Ontario are in charge of gentlemen possessing the ability and integrity necessary to a wise and faithful discharge of that trust. One feature, in reference to the debate on the address, interesting to this riding, is this, that the member for West Peterborough, for the first time in the history of the riding, received on this occasion the honour, shared by the constituency, of being called on to move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Starfe an' Besom.

The Peterboroughs Down Their Former Conquerors.—The Granites Succumb to Superior Play.

The Peterborough curlers tossed their besoms aloft and shouted with a great shout at the rink yesterday afternoon. The Granites, of Toronto, supposed to be unconquerable (by the Peterboroughs at least were defeated by a good majority. The Granites arrived in town at noon yesterday, and after dinner, at the rink play was began. After the match, lunch was served in the refreshment room, and the two hours intervening before train time, was spent in social chat and merriment. Following are the figures :—

THE CANTON CARNIVAL!

Grand Glacial Gathering of the Gay, Grotesque, Gorgeous.

The First Carnival held by the Canton—List of the Characters—The Prize Winners—The Cold Weather Interferes.

The first carnival under the auspices of Canton Peterborough, No. 10, Patriarchs Militant, passed off with great eclat last evening. The attendance of maskers was large and the costumes were of the usual representative nature, as can be seen by a glance at the list appended, though scarcely up to the standard of some previous carnivals. The attendance of both spectators and maskers, however, was no doubt considerably curtailed by the intensely cold weather, which also interfered with the races. The Fire Brigade Band by its music lent an additional charm to the enjoyment of the occasion. The convenience of maskers was attended to by a committee who took charge of all clothing and kept them in a safe place, while in the refreshment room, coffee and sandwiches were to be had at small cost. The carnival was without doubt a grand success, and had the weather not been so inclement it would have no doubt excelled all former events of this nature.

During the evening the Canton gave an exhibition drill on the ice, which was greatly admired by the spectators.

It is worth Remembering for GOUGH never advertises anything he don't do and in order to make room for his Large Spring Stock, which is now being specially manufactured, he will for the next 30 days, sell his Goods at PARALYTIC prices. This is, and ever will be, GOUGH'S greatest offer to the public, as it is only once in a lifetime a man can stand such a sacrifice as I promise for the next 30 days. People will wonder how I can afford to do it—this is GOUGH'S secret. Three years' trial of GOUGH has proven to the people of Peterborough that his goods are reliable.

Other Designing Dealers

who cannot compete buy the Low Trash which is as thread-bare as the cheap name they assume. One trial of such dealers will suffice you. It is a fact conceded by the Wholesale trade of Canada, that as a Clothier GOUGH has no peers in Ontario. GOUGH himself admits of no equal as a Clothing Man in Canada. This Spring he will delight the people of Peterborough with the Finest Custom Made garments in the world. His Spring Announcements will be made in 30 days from now. Other Dealers should take advantage of it, as I am going to Sell them away Below Wholesale Prices.

Revival meetings have been conducted for some time past in the church. The meetings have been well attended and promise good results.

The short connection with Peterborough by the new road has taken the attention of nearly all who drive to town from South Monaghan. It is quite common to shy off what is known as the river road to get on the new one.

The debate of the 19th was given with other interesting parts of a good programme to a full house at the hall. The membership of the Society is increasing, and leisure time will be turned to good account.

The Rossin being a little out of repair, the walls have been taken down. The old material has been made use of, and it is not likely to be rebuilt.

The Farmers' Institute had a fair representation from here last week at the Court House, Peterborough.

A cheese factory, to be built and in operation next season, is talked of. If plans are carried out, it will be built near the centre of the township, and will be in working order as soon as the season is fairly open.

Coal is twenty dollars a ton in San Francisco. When a coal vessel is due the coal carts assemble on the wharf and await its arrival, the delays sometimes covering days during which time the drivers are encamped in close proximity to these vehicles. The cause of the extraordinary price in the scarcity of vessels to carry the coal. If San Francisco had a northern winter it would not be a good place to be poor in.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL

CHANGE OF VENUE IN THE CASE OF THE MONTREAL DETECTIVES.

Exaggerated Reports Concerning the Wesleskin Indians—Appeals to the Supreme Court—A Big Sale of Lumber Intended for South America.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—There is no truth in the sensational report telegraphed from Edmonton Tuesday that the Wesleskin Indians near Victoria were starving to death. The Superintendent-General of Indian affairs to day received information that the reports were greatly exaggerated. There had been some delay in getting in the usual supplies, but provision had been obtained on the spot and there was no want or distress.

A slight flutter has been caused here by the announcement of the change of venue from Montreal to Aylmer in the cases of Fahey, Bureau and Naegele, the Montreal detectives, who will be tried at a special session of the court in Aylmer about the middle of next month. The men will be removed from Montreal at once and preparations were being made to-day at the Aylmer jail for their reception. Judge Wurtele opened the session of the Circuit Court in Hull to-day and corroborated the rumor but could not state whether the men would be tried before him. The authorities say they have been actuated by no other desire than that of securing for the prisoner a fair trial in having the case heard away from Montreal, as they are convinced that it would be almost impossible for them to have a fair and impartial trial in Montreal on account of the intense indignation which prevails against them in that city.

The first appeal from the Northwest to the Supreme Court will come up for trial at the next session of the court. The case is that of the Canada Northwest Land Company v. The Public School Trust of Calgary, and is one of considerable importance. It will be remembered that one of the terms of the contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway was that the lands given them as part of their subsidy were to be exempt from taxation for twenty years. The Canada Northwest Land Company purchased or agreed to purchase large blocks of these lands but refused to pay taxes on them on the ground that the lands were still the property of the railway and that the land company only held them on an agreement to purchase. The Public School Trust of Calgary and the land company for school taxes, etc., gained its case. Hence the appeal.

McIntyre, Lewis & Code, barristers, have entered an appeal in the Supreme Court for Donald Downie, the Montreal lawyer found guilty of perjury. The appeal is set down for Feb. 21. Downie is the man who had the proprietors of The Montreal Star and Gazette arrested for criminal libel a few months ago. He was alleged to have perjured himself in defending a case brought against him in Montreal and the jury found him guilty.

Bronson, Weston & Co. have made a sale of 5,000,000 feet of lumber to the Export Lumber Company of Montreal at about $15 per thousand. The lumber is intended for shipment to South America. The price of lumber just now shows an upward tendency and a good export demand is expected in the spring. The cut this winter in the woods will probably be much larger than last year, and if the drive is successful there will be no scarcity of logs next summer and fall.

Aid For Anarchists' Family.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—The Pioneer Aid and Support Association has fixed the weekly payment to the families of the executed Anarchists at $6 to each of the widows and $3 for each child where there are two children, and $1 for the third child in the case of Mrs. Fischer.

A Toronto Man Killed in a Collision.

STERATOR, Ill., Jan. 26.—Two freight carriages of the Santa Fe road collided on the Vermillion River bridge last evening. Fireman James Anderson of Toronto jumped from his engine and struck on the ice, receiving injuries from which he died instantly.

Autocratic Brewers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 26.—A circular has been issued by the brewers of this city to their 3000 employes notifying them that on Jan. 26 every member of the Brewers' Union, No. 9, in their employ will be discharged unless they consent to leave that organization.

The G. T. R. Absorbs the N. and S. & N. W.

HAMILTON, Jan. 26.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hamilton and Northwestern Railway, held here to-day, an agreement between the Grand Trunk Railway Company, the Northern Railway Company and the Hamilton and Northwestern Railway Company to unite the three companies into one under the name of Grand Trunk Railway, was read and ordered to be executed.

To Avoid Baldness or Grey Hair.

Use Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic. It keeps the scalp clean and free from Dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair. It prevents premature grayness and stops all falling out of the hair. On bald heads, where the roots have not perished, it will invigorate them and force a new growth of hair. Ask for Hair Magic. It is the only reliable. For sale by J. D. Tully and all druggists.

Presence of Mind.

Presence of mind is good in case of accidents and emergencies, and when coupled with Hagyard's Yellow Oil will often save life. Yellow Oil cures all painful injuries, burns, scalds, bruises, frost bites, rheumatic and neuralgic pains, and is in fact a handy and reliable surgical aid. 2w3d

THE HALDIMAND ELECTION.

Charges of Bribery and Votes Swearing Tried—Defensible Grounds.

CAYUGA, Jan. 24.—The trial of the Haldimand election case began here to-day before Judge Street. A. B. Aylesworth appeared for the petitioner, and Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., and Colin G. Snider for the respondent. The first case tried was that of the bribery of John MacFarlane by Glenny & Wimbolme, which was dismissed. It will probably be difficult to prove agency in anything owing to the peculiar organization of the Conservative party in Haldimand, as described by Dr. Montezuma and Mr. Colin G. Snider. There appears to have been no local committees and nobody responsible for the conduct of the campaign in any particular locality. Dr. Montezuma signed all his appointments of agents in blank, leaving Mr. Snider to fill them in and distribute them.

Samuel Tyler, residing in Seneca Township, stated that one George Elliott offered him $10 if he would spoil his ballot. He refused at first, but eventually he told him if he gave him the money it would be all right. Elliott told him he had got something for himself, but could not get anything for others until after the election was over. Witness was told he would find $10 upon his plow. Accordingly the next morning he found a $10 bill in an envelope in the field upon his plow. Witness produced the envelope containing it, but could not identify the writing. He had also taken the number of the bill. Getting hard up he used the money.

George Elliott, a material witness on this charge, was absent, though he had been subpœnaed. Upon the application of Mr. Aylesworth a bench warrant has been issued for his arrest. Evidence upon the charge was not concluded when court adjourned.

There are some fifty charges on each side to be gone into. At the present rate the case will last until the end of the week.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

Against the Late Administration of the Province of Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 24.—A sensation was caused this morning by the publication in The Free Press of charges that not only was there a deficit of $260,000 discovered by Mr. Greenway, but that the cash book had not been written up for sixteen months between September, 1885, and January, 1887. Other debts also existed, the exact amount of which was unknown. The cash deficit was $615,000, and unpaid bonds are out for $150,000.

The Free Press also says that examination shows that the $250,000 subsidy received early this month has all been expended except $4000, and generally accuses the late Government of corruption and theft.

It is the intention of the Government to prosecute the audit and ascertain the exact situation of affairs.

It is stated there will be no dissolution for some time.

Rheumatic Pains

Require no description, since with rare exception, all at some time have experienced their twinges. Rheumatism is not easily dislodged, only the most powerfully penetrating remedies reach to its very foundations. The most successful treatment known, and it is now frequently resorted to by medical men, is the application of that now famous remedy for pain—Polson's Nerviline. It is safe to say that nothing yet discovered has afforded equal satisfaction to the suffering. A trial can be made at a small cost, as sample bottles of Nerviline can be had at the drug stores for ten cents, large bottles 25 cts. 6d4w

THE BEST MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own actions, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The most distressing symptoms quickly yield to it. eodw4

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Toronto house business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, a born-fool, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is exasperating altogether to sensible people. The don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of premium. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and prompt delivery, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchels cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

THE USUAL RESULTS.

"The trail of the serpent is over them all" wherever a provincial government has been in the hands of the Conservative party, there follow the same results of financial squandering and financial embarrassment. When Hon. Mr. Mercier succeeded the Ross-Taillon government in Quebec, he found that the provincial treasury had been struck by a Conservative cyclone. In Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the same effects have been found under similar conditions, and now we have the story repeated in Manitoba. There are many excellent Conservatives, but it seems that Conservative governments are constitutionally incompetent to conduct financial matters without disaster and oppressive embarrassment. They have—to put the matter moderately—had luck in financing. The most recent example is Manitoba. Mr. Norquay has had control, subject, of course, (and this must be mentioned to his credit) to the directing control of the central power at Ottawa, and a pretty mess he has made of matters. Mr. Greenway, the Liberal premier, on taking office found the treasury as empty as Trent Valley Canal promises, and this, in spite of the fact, that the semi-annual Dominion subsidy had been paid over to the province at the beginning of the year. Now Mr. Greenway and his colleagues are confronted with the task of repairing the damage done by years of misrule and they have to enter upon their task with an empty treasury, and with the assurance that in addition they will meet with only unpatriotic obstruction at the hands of their political opponents. The same story all through, under Conservative, or, rather, Tory rule—for there are elements of honesty and patriotism in true Conservatism. We see Quebec saddled with an enormous debt, and Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba suffering from the effects of Tory extravagance and corrupt administration of financial matters. Under practically Tory rule since Confederation, the debt of the Dominion has increased by leaps and bounds. Our expenditure has increased about 300 per cent, and our taxation about 250 per cent. By virtue of these alarming increases and largely explanatory of them, the country is enmeshed in the toils of Tory influence, woven by lavish squandering of the public funds, with such an object actually, if not ostensibly, in view. Look at the contrast in Ontario. We have, as the result of sixteen years of Liberal rule, not only an absence of debt, but an overflowing, instead of an empty, treasury. There may not be much in a name to indicate the character of a political policy, but there is a good deal in the principles professed and practised.

The Only Living War-Horse.

Probably the only horse living which served in the rebellion is owned in Cleveland by Mr. Francis Bramley, of No. 1,074 Forest street, says The Plain Dealer. "Chubb" is his name, but it does not describe the old fellow very well now, for time has shrunken the gallant steed's sinews, roughed his coat, and brought his ribs obtrusively to the front. His early life is shadowed in obscurity. He is known to have spent his youth in the blue-grass region of Kentucky, but who was his father and who was his mother it is impossible at this time to say.

Quartermaster D. S. Trumbull, of the 24th Kentucky rode him through the early years of the war, and in 1863, before the battle of Lookout Mountain, presented him to his friend Bramley, of the 108d Ohio volunteer infantry. Chubb was a good horse then. He was baptized with fire, listened to the roar of artillery, galloped with his master over many a bloody field and served through the entire war.

He was in a score of battles and carried to victory no less distinguished soldiers than Gen. Jack Casement and Col. James Pickands, both gentlemen natives of the Western Reserve, the former now dead, the latter a prominent and wealthy citizen of Cleveland. He never belonged to either of these gentlemen but was loaned to them by Mr. Bramley, who could not be persuaded to part with his trusty horse at any price.

"He's no thoroughbred," said Mr. Bramley yesterday, "but he is blooded and there wasn't a horse in the army better than he was. He went through the entire war. I had him with me in Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama, and North Carolina. He was good all around. He could pull like a mule and I had him working when I had charge of the wagon train. He was a splendid saddle horse and was mighty shrewd, too. I rode him for six months when we were foraging for the army. There wasn't anything could get ahead of him either. When I brought him north with me I used him for driving. I used him so for years."

Two years or so ago, when he was 32 or 33 years old, Chubb had an attack of the old war spirit. Perhaps he heard a bugle or the beat of a drum. Something started him; he became unmanageable and ran away with Mr. Bramley, who was driving him. Then he was deprived of his rank as a carriage horse and ignominiously put to teaming. There was life in the old fellow and he worked hard for his board and lodging for two years. His owner thought he had earned a respite from hard labor and for the past year he has been retired from active service. He banquets daily on a generous supply of oats and enjoys in his old age the companionship of his master's children. Occasionally he goes to a soldier's reunion. He proudly lifts his head at the cheers of his companions of the war. He pricks up his ears at the rattle of a drum and tries to prance at the sound of the bugle and seems to enjoy the occasion as much as any of his two-footed friends. Good old horse, faithful to his country, faithful to his friends, exchanging like Cincinnatus the glories of war for the labor of peace.

Never but once has he resented the insult done him by placing him, the war charger and pride of his regiment, in the harness with a plebeian draught horse.

Hudson said he had been on his place at Locust cottage long enough to see a white mulberry tree, which he had planted with his own hands, grow to the thickness of three feet. Judge Bocage referred to the giant oak he planted, which had grown to three feet in diameter.

It is stated that a hundred years ago a law of Virginia made voting compulsory. That is, says the Culpeper Exponent, "every man qualified to vote and who failed to do so was liable to indictment by the grand jury, and on prosecution to be fined. It was the duty of sheriffs, who were the principal agents in the conduct of elections, to report delinquents, and if they failed to do so they were liable to be fined."

Charles Bradly, colored, now living on the plantation of Capt. W. G. Lewis, near Athens, Ala., is at least 111 years old. He formerly belonged to Maj. James B. Lockheart, and did carpenter work for Col. Nicholas Davis in 1825, and was then considered an old negro, so much so that he was allowed privileges denied the younger men. Col. L. R. Davis says that Charles was 5 or 6 years older than his father, and his father was born in 1781, which makes Charles at least 111 years old.

The county clerk of Lonoke, Ark., says that on going into his garden lately he noticed a jaybird cutting queer antics, and soon discovered that it was fighting a snake. He watched, and as the bird darted at it the snake, which was lying at full length, would tuck its head under its body. This continued some time, until at last the bird raised the snake up—that is, about six feet of it—and it fell dead. He describes the snake as some twelve feet long and eight inches in diameter and quite green.

Jones—But, my dear sir, how can you prove that it's not my umbrella? Smith—By the man who lent it to me a year ago.—Tit-Bits.

A Mother's Meditations.

After the death of her beloved child, Iolia, second eldest daughter of William and Emma Kennedy, Peterborough, who died January 1st, 1888, aged five years.

Remorseless Death, did thou withhold thy deep heartrending power
To make one drink grief's bitterest phial in this —my trying hour?
Beside the death-bed I have stood of friends from earth removed.
How light such grief compared to this for one I so much loved.
Death, why did you not thrust your sword into some heavy mass,
Instead of cutting down this flower in such a tender age?
No pity in your ruthless hand, no mercy in your blow,
Regardless of a mother's grief you laid, Iolia low.

Five years ago God gave to me a form so fair and bright,
Her presence filled her mother's heart with pleasure and delight.
Each time I pressed her to my breast up heavenward went my prayers, Entreating God that he to me my darling long would spare.
False and delusive were my hopes, all my desires were vain,
He only lent her unto me, once to recall again.
Her image bound her to my heart with all a mother's love,
Five years of joy when death from me Iolia did remove.

I watched the first smile on her face as she lay on my knee,
Those smiles shall dwell upon my heart while memory lives in me.
Her joyous laugh, her silvery voice, still sound
sweet in my ear,
While round the room her pattering feet in fancy still I hear.
Her younger brother brings the toys with which they used to play,
He looks for her, then says "Dear Ma, who took my Io away?"
Her elder sister weeps aloud as she walks round alone,
No sister's hand is clasped in hers, dear Iolie is gone.

I thought not of such days of grief when my dear child was born,
Nor that her time would be so short our circle to adorn.
Her presence here was but a glimpse, God called her back to show
She was too pure and sweet a flower in this vile world to grow.
A mother's joy, a father's pride, a sister's true delight,
Our home attraction, words and ways though childlike, yet so bright.
Death often takes the idol first, one dearest to our heart,
While loving parents, children too, must with Iolia part.

Too soon my joy was changed to grief, sad hours of anguish came,
Affliction laid its fatal hand on my Iolia's frame;
Sickness increased, her tender frame could not withstand its power,
The chills of death sapped her young life as autumn nips the flower.
I cooled her burning, feverish brow, and wet her dry, parched tongue;
With bursting heart I watched death's throes on one so fair and young.
Her spirit striving to resign it prison house of clay,
With heaven-lent smiles upon her face—Iolia passed away.

Although I mourn my darling's loss, no doubt
God's plan was wise,
To take her from this world of sin to bliss beyond the skies;
Her short life here allowed no time for sin to gain control,
Far less to leave polluted stains upon her youthful soul
One consolation cheers me up, my aching heart to bliss;
Young children have the promise of a better world than this;
If heavenly music sweeter sounds when children's voices swell,
One more is singing there to-day—there my Iolia dwells.

A Cheap Girl.

"How much does your best girl cost you, old fellow?" was plumped at a beardless boy who makes his bread and butter, on about $8 a week, in the carpenter trade. After demurring, as usual over looking at the sentimental affair in so practical a light, his objections were finally overruled, and he consented to talk. "Me and my girl take in all the museum shows. Ten weeks of museums at 20 cents a week makes $2. All the girls hanker after ice-cream, and I generally put up $2 on ice-cream. I have to get her 10 cents worth of taffy off and on. That comes to 75 cents easy. In summertime we get reckless and go to two big blow-outs any way—most generally picnics. With the car fare that comes to $3. Other evenings we go to the parks and freeze to one of them benches. That don't cost nothing except the car fare. Sixty cents would about settle that, for sometimes we walk, don't you see. When Christmas comes I do the grand, and buy a pair of ear-rings or some other piece of finery, the kind girls like, and never pay less than $2 neither. Let's see $2, $2.75 cents, $3, 80 cents, $2 comes to $10.35. My girl says that's good enough for her.—Buffalo Times.

PROHIBITION SHOE STORE.

TO THE PUBLIC:

As my agreement with the Scott Act Association existed on Dec. 31st and I am no longer in their employ, I beg to inform you that I have opened a Boot & Shoe Store

In Dunsford's New Block East of Market,

where I hope to receive a share of public support in Custom work and repairs. Several attempts to boycott me have been made because of my connection with the Scott Act, to prevent me from obtaining employment, but I am not afraid of opposition under any circumstances, and will endeavor to give to all the value of their money, and use only the best material, and employ the best workmen, so that I can run Prohibition in the shoe trade and Prohibit even water from acting at your soles to upset your understandings, as I have the remedy to heal it all.

As I have launched my bark in the temperance tide, will you help me to keep it afloat?

Yours truly,

WAR RUMORS INCREASING

A CONFLICT BETWEEN RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA INEVITABLE.

Russia on the Alert—Stormy Debate in the Reichstag—Germany's Aim—Austria's Position Defined by the Hungarian Prime Minister—The Sinews of War.

PESTH, Jan. 29.—In the Hungarian Diet yesterday Premier Von Tisza emphatically declared that there was no ground to doubt the reciprocal bona fides of the Powers allied for the preservation of peace and for their own security. In consequence of the marked displacement of Russian troops and their transfer in the direction of the Austrian frontiers, the Government, without doubting the Czar's pacific declarations and avoiding all semblances of provocation, considers it its duty to see that necessary measures are taken to secure the safety of the frontiers and the efficiency of the army in case of an emergency.

Russia on the Alert.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 29.—The semi-official announcement is made that the political situation is unchanged, but that Russia must be on the alert in consequence of the continued increase of the armaments of Germany.

War Accepted as Inevitable.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—HERR VON TISZA'S statement in the Hungarian Diet yesterday has confirmed the conviction that war between Austria and Russia is accepted by both sides as inevitable. Private advices from Vienna state that the diplomatic negotiations recently opened between Prince Lobanoff, the Russian Ambassador, and Count Kalnoky have been abandoned. The conditions of affairs now existing between the two governments is simply that each is lying in wait for the first chance to strike.

Reports received at the War Office from agents on the Polish frontier intimate a renewal of activity among the Russian troops. Austrian war officials suspect that the object in view is the invasion of Bulgaria and that the aim of the Czar's strategy is to entrap Austria into sending the bulk of her forces into Galicia while the real coup is delivered in the Balkan peninsula. If Russia enters Roumania, Austria will hold the step to be a casus belli.

The sinews of war has been obtained by the Russian treasury by a loan arranged in Amsterdam, the amount of which is said to be £4,560,000. Herr Von Tisza has committed negotiations with the Frankfort Rothschilds for a loan of 20,000,000 florins.

Stormy Debate in the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—There was a stormy debate in the Reichstag yesterday, on the Anti-Socialist Bill. In the lobbies the consensus of opinion was that the Government would be defeated if they persisted in attempting to pass the bill.

Germany's Aim.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—In committee on the Military Bill, Dr. Windthorst said the Government had obtained the assent of the Reichstag to the Septennate Bill by representing that the measure would be a guarantee of a pacific future. Now they come again demanding more sacrifice in men and money. When these demands are satisfied, what assurance is there that the country will have anything sufficient to give it rest from its military burdens? Count Von Schellendorf, Minister of War, coolly responded that if the approval of the Septennate Bill had been associated with any promise of permanent peace it was a mistake. The Government's aim was to protect the country, and the best way to do so was to make it strong against all attacks.

Naphtha Explosions at Binghamton.

BINGHAMTON, Jan. 29.—John Sullivan, an employe of the Binghamton Gaslight Company, was fatally burned yesterday by an explosion of naphtha. During the excitement following the accident, naphtha flowed into the street and finding its way into the State street sewer, caused several explosions in business blocks.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS

IRISH AFFAIRS CONTINUE TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF PARLIAMENT.

Earl Beaconsfield's Death—Imprisonment Without Hard Labor—Cheaper Cable Rates in Prospect—France and the Mexican Trade—Spanish Deserters Shot.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The announcement is authoritatively made that the first Government business in Parliament will be the reform of procedure. English politics continues to be mainly Irish politics. The statements of the prison doctor that Mr. McLane, M.P., has become a subject of delusions, owing to the severity of his treatment in prison and insufficient food, have made a profound impression. Yesterday's sentences were the heaviest yet passed.

Rev. Father McFadden and Alexander Blane were taken from Londonderry Jail to Dunfanaghy, County Donegal, where they will be tried. On their arrival at Dunfanaghy, 1000 peasants, armed with sticks, gathered on the hillsides in military order. The military prevented the crowd from entering the town.

Earl Grey will soon publish a book describing his experiences in English and Irish politics. He says that the Union was successful until 1868, but Ireland has been used for party ends since that time.

The appeals of twenty-one tenants on Col. Tottenham's estate at Wexford, against sentences for violation of the Crimes Act, have been dismissed by the court.

Four months' imprisonment with hard labor was the sentence imposed on Joseph R. Cox, M.P., convicted yesterday in Dublin on the charge of addressing proclaimed branches of the National League.

Commenting upon the recent arrests of Irish M.P.'s, The North German Gazette of Berlin says that such prompt and vigorous action will befits a Government which is conscious of its duty.

Herbert Gladstone has sent a letter of regret to Lord Clanricarde, saying that when he applied most offensive epithets to His Lordship, in his Leeds speech, concerning the evictions on the Clanricarde estates, he was prompted by strong feelings.

Bismarck is still suffering from rheumatic pains, but it will not prevent him from speaking in the Reichstag to-morrow.

Tonquin advices say that eighteen French soldiers were recently shot at one time for desertion.

Yesterday Lord Durham obtained a summons against the owner of Bat, a society newspaper, for libel. The paper had stated when Lord Durham failed to get a divorce from his wife on the ground that she was insane, that Lord Durham's brutality had driven her mad.

Three hundred American pilgrims were received by the Pope on Saturday. The Archbishop of Philadelphia, the Bishops of Buffalo, the Vicar-General of Charleston and the Rector of the American College at Rome were among the number.

A conference of the cable companies has been called by John Pender, chairman of the District Cable Company, for the purpose of fixing upon a tariff on a basis of 1 shilling per word.

In the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday, during the debate on the treaty of commerce between France and Mexico, M. Flourens, Minister of Foreign Affairs, said that France should preserve her markets in Mexico, which the United States were trying to take away from her. The Chamber adopted the treaty.

In a speech at Rathkeale to-day, Michael Davitt advised Lord Guillamore's tenants to refuse the offer tendered them to purchase their holdings, on account of the heavy burdens surely to accrue under present circumstances, and also because Lord Guillamore had evicted two of his tenants. He considered persons who took the farms of evicted tenants cowardly, slimy renegades and lepers.

The officers of the garrison in Philippopolis gave a grand ball last night in honor of Prince Ferdinand and his mother, Princess Clementine. At the close of the festivities Prince Ferdinand was borne to his carriage on the shoulders of his followers amid the acclamations of the assembled throngs. Prince Ferdinand has appointed Princess Clementine chief of a Philippopolis regiment, and the Princess has presented her new command with a gift of £1200.

A Paris despatch says Louise Michel is suffering from mental aberration. One of the bullets fired at her by Lucas has been discovered in her bonnet. The doctors still think that the other bullet remains in the region of the temple, but they are afraid to attempt to extract it.

The Joint Stock Association invite applications for the unsubscribed remainder of three hundred six per cent. first mortgage debentures, £100 each, of the Winnipeg Waterworks Company, issued at par.

The news of the fusion of the Grand Trunk, Northern and Hamilton and Northwestern Railways have been received favorably in the markets here.

The stock markets have not shown much activity this week. Canadian stocks were generally firm. Canada four per cents. and Manitoba and Quebec five per cents. were one higher. Among the railways Trunks were flat, second preference 1½ lower, first preference ½ lower. Hamilton and Northwestern bonds have risen one and Northern ½. No changes of importance in miscellaneous shares.

The Financial News publishes a cable from New York stating that the cable war will be settled almost immediately, confirming my statement of a fortnight ago.

The Counties Adopting the Scott Act Should Pay For It.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The Waterloo County Council, now in session here, passed by a unanimous vote a memorial protesting against the Ontario Legislature voting public money in aid of the enforcement of the Scott Act, which, the Council holds, should be enforced entirely at the expense of the counties adopting it, and not at all at the expense of the counties under the license law.

The Haldimand Election Trial.

CAYUGA, Jan. 28.—Judgment was given in the Haldimand election trial yesterday, the petition being dismissed with costs.

Dr. Montague stands elected with a majority of ten.

The case was hotly contested and ably conducted on both sides.

THE JUDGE THE SEVENTH.

"PETER'S DEPARTURE TO WITNESS THE MARDI-GRAS FESTIVITIES.

He "May" Return in a Few Days—Some of the Addresses of the Absent Ones—Brother R. S. Cox's Evidence Before Examiner Evans—A Scene at the Hoffman House Cafe—Mr. Cox at Cleveland.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.

The events of Saturday in connection with Central Bank affairs was the filing in court of R. S. Cox's evidence taken in private before Special Examiner Geo. Evans and the departure from town of Mr. C. K. Humphries (better known as "The Judge"), Mr. Cox's confidential clerk. This swells the number of the departed to seven. "The Judge" told his friends that he was merely going to Buffalo for a trip, and that he would return in a few days. A portion of his baggage is still at Thomas' Eurocean Chop House, where he was a guest. The Judge did not, as some of the illustrious gentlemen who helped to wreck the bank, steal away under the cover of night. Like a presumably honest little gentleman, he took the 3.55 Grand Trunk train, which, when on time, leaves the city in broad daylight, for Buffalo the Blest. Several of his friends were at the station to see him off. From the rear steps of the Erie sleeper he waved his elegant, bejeweled, snow-white Italian hand to the little party on the platform and promised to see them later. He said he would probably visit his native New Orleans to attend the mardi gras festivities ere his return. There is a lurking suspicion around town that Mr. Humphries is the mysterious "Peter," mentioned frequently in the cypher despatches that passed between Broker Cox and Cashier Allen prior to the bank's suspension.

The following are the addresses of the absent ones:

DAVID BLAIN, Tift House, Buffalo.
A. A. ALLEN, West House, Minneapolis, Minn.
R. S. COX, Weddell House, Cleveland.

Mr. Cox arrived in Cleveland a week ago Saturday morning.

R. G. I. Barnett and S. Magnus Davis are in New York. Barnett anxiously scans the Toronto arrivals at the hotels, and invariably calls on any of them who are known as "the boys."

D. Mitchell McDonald, it is said, was seen in Omaha on Friday. He and his family were en route for California.

A party of Toronto merchants and business men were seated in the Hoffman House cafe in New York City Saturday morning. As an adjoining table sat Roland G. I. Barnett, who has played such an important part in Central Bank affairs. The "Wandering Jew" and the Toronto visitors were soon engaged in conversation and the talk naturally turned upon the defunct bank and the men alleged to be responsible for the wreck. Barnett said he could tell quite a story if he was in a position to talk, and endeavored to create the impression that he had not got away with any of the spoil. "Why," he said, "I haven't even got a watch and you know I had one in Toronto."

MR. ROAF AGAIN ON THE STAND.

Letters and Papers Produced By Him—A New York Lawyer's Forewarning.

The Master-in-Ordinary and Mr. Foster worked from 11.30 o'clock on Saturday morning till 3 p.m. to find out what Mr. J. R. Roaf further knew about the Central Bank failure.

When Mr. Roaf mounted the stand the Master said he had been looking over the power of attorney put in by Mr. Roaf some days ago as a proof that he was not relieved from client's privilege. He had concluded that the functions of agent and the functions of solicitor were entirely distinct. Mr. Roaf was at liberty to disclose everything except matters professional. To clinch this Mr. Foster produced a letter from Barnett, written from Detroit, stating that Mr. Roaf was "at liberty to disclose all knowledge you obtained as my solicitor." Mr. Roaf was then examined.

The blue bag, which sat on the Master's left waiting for the decision, was opened, emptied, and a pile of documents were ready for Mr. Foster to dissect. They were a varied collection. There were many letters, one of Barnett's pass books, some check books and a rod of James Baxter & Co.'s letter heads.

It appears that Mr. Allen was warned of Barnett's scoundrelly transactions in other quarters only when Barnett had become too heavy a "pull" on him, by some way nobody knows. This letter, written by Samuel G. Barnard, a New York lawyer, should have put Allen on his guard, if he did not already know with what kind of a man he was dealing.

NEW YORK, June 27, 1886.

A. A. Allen, Manager Central Bank, Canada.

It has just come recently to my knowledge that you are a victim in the hands of a notorious person by the name of Roland G. Barnett, who under the guise of friendship and confidence is insidiously working your ruin. I speak in this plain manner as then there may be no mistake. He has some few weeks since cashed a sight draft for $2000 on your bank, honored by you. He has two other drafts of a like amount, which he is now negotiating. Heaven only knows what large sums of money he has had prior from you. This much I know of the scoundrel, that your earlier confidence he is using as a vehicle to extort these large sums of money, which must eventually prove your ruin and disgrace. He is a swindler and a criminal of the most pronounced type, and even now is a fugitive from justice in England, having a warrant for his apprehension. It is only the other day that one Fraser, a confederate of his, who, I understand got $2000 from you, was arrested here. Now, I wish to save you from the blackmailer and his harpies, and inasmuch as I am furnished with a full and complete history of his past and present I feel that I shall only be doing my duty in averting the further injury that must necessarily occur to the bank and you. Throw off the yoke at once and relieve yourself from further consequences. Telegraph me immediately on receipt of this letter, as I leave New York on Tuesday evening for the Arlington Hotel, Hot Springs, Ark. Pray do what I suggest and you may depend on my legal and moral protection.

Allen must have either had great confidence in Barnett, or was obliged by circumstances to submit meekly to the contest Barnett had over him, as the letter was never answered, but copied out by Allen and the copy forwarded to Barnett. This letter is the one which was produced in court. Mr. Barnard receiving no reply, wrote to Mr. Blain to the same effect some time after.

Barnett was amazingly importunate. Reginals, plead and plain, pounded away with letters. Here are a couple of Allen's letters to him:

TORONTO, Sept. 12, 1887.

DEAR SIR,—Your favor received. It is impossible for me to comply with your request, and for the reasons given you so often that I am weary of repeating them. A. A. ALLEN.

TORONTO, July 23, 1887.

DEAR SIR,—It is no use; I cannot make the advance. We are putting the screws on to our customers to pay up, and dare not make a dollar of fresh loans. You were unfortunate enough to stumble on the very director who wrote me a letter about you. A. A. ALLEN.

Notwithstanding this, he follows the cashier up the next day with the following epistle:

TORONTO, Aug. 22, 1887.

DEAR SIR: I will hand you a diamond that will nearly cover the amount I am so sorely pressed for, coupled with a note that is good. If you will strain a point to assist me and cash it, you will be serving me. It will save my name. It is an old matter that has cropped up and they will ruin me if they take the proceedings they threaten. Recriminations will not do anybody any good, and I am on the edge of a precipice. Give this your grave consideration and do it for me. I will come over myself with the diamond and note if you will arrange it for me. I have got until to-morrow. Your consent will be received with my sincerest thanks. This is the last but one other to the shape of old dishonored checks on the Central Bank that I have out. I have settled all the others. ROLAND I. G. BARNETT.

Allen is tired of refusing. He returned the letter with these words added: "I dare not do anything. It is as much as my position is worth. Please do not worry me, as I am already perplexed with business to-day."

Neither has any effect on the irrepressible Barnett. He comes out with a new proposal, and makes such a pressing, pitiful appeal that Allen replies:

TORONTO, March 16, 1887.

DEAR SIR—As was stated to you yesterday, it is impossible at present to increase your account with the bank. As you are anxious to embark in business again, and think your prospects are bright, I will, in order to assist you to retrieve yourself, propose that if it is perfectly satisfactory and agreeable to Mr. Roaf, but not otherwise, I will open a special credit for Mr. J. R. Roaf, or his firm, to the extent of $2000 or $3000 for three months (not in any way to interfere with his own account or requirement for the bank) for your benefit, and will execute such assurance or lodge with him or them such securities as will be satisfactory and save them harmless in case of your failure to pay at end of three months. This will give me a chance to realize upon securities in hand, such as diamonds, etc., to recoup Messrs. R. in case of your failure to come to time. . . . . This advance is made on the understanding that you will give all necessary assistance and information to enable us to benefit or realize on our securities. A. A. A.

The other letters are unimportant.

Mr. Foster put a few questions to Mr. Roaf after the identification of the papers. The crowded court room was eager with expectation, as Mr. Roaf, being Barnett's solicitor, was supposed to know a good deal of Barnett's methods. Mr. Roaf, however, did not seem, from his replies, to be in keeping of any deep secrets. He denied that he ever dictated a letter to his clerk to be addressed to himself.

In reply to Mr. Foster, he said that Barnett had asked him to try to arrange a new line of credit at the Central for $15,000, but he refused. He did not know that there was an "organized combination to wreck the bank." At least he did not remember using these words. Magnus Davis had met him on the street one day and he understood that there was a combination of brokers formed to "bear" the stock, and spread rumors that the bank was weak. The name was not Solomon Magnus Davis; he thought it was Solomon Magnus.

TO GO INTO LIQUIDATION.

THE FEDERAL BANK WILL WIND UP ITS BUSINESS.

Shareholders Will Realize Seventy-five Per Cent.—Assistance from all the Other Banks—Depositors and Noteholders to be Paid at Once.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—At the conclusion of the meeting of all the bankers and of the directors of the Federal, after midnight this morning, the following announcement was sent to the press:

It is officially announced that the Directors of the Federal Bank of Canada have decided that it is in the interests of the Shareholders that the business of the Bank should be wound up. The other Banks, after a thorough investigation, have agreed to place the assistance required to pay the note-holders and depositors whenever demanded.

The outstanding note circulation is about three-quarters of a million and it will be redeemed by any of the banks or by the Federal on presentation.

The deposits are about two millions and these will be paid forthwith. If the Federal cannot realize on its assets sufficiently fast to do this the other banks have agreed to furnish the money necessary. So that depositors will be paid off at once.

The head office will be kept open as usual. It will not, however, receive deposits nor pay out notes. It will redeem its bills, pay depositors and make such arrangements with its customers as the circumstances suggest.

The outside agencies will be closed as soon as possible and the staff paid off.

The customers of the bank are free to go where they see fit. The Commerce seems to be showing considerable activity in taking over the business of the Federal. They will get the Norwich Toronto business. The London agency, which did a large line, will be divided up among the banks doing business in that city.

Mr. Hammond says the shareholders will realize 70 to 80 cents on the dollar, and perhaps better.

The liquidation will proceed rapidly and without outside interference, and as at as little cost as possible.

The decision arrived at is put forth as "in the interest of the shareholders."

All the Toronto banks were represented at the conferences of yesterday; so was the Western Bank of Oshawa; the Bank of Montreal was represented by Mr. MacNider and the Merchants' by Mr. Gault.

Telegrams will be sent out this morning to the agents all over notifying them of the decision.

The Federal was started with a million of $5 of capital, which, in times of inflation, was increased to three millions. The floating of this new stock was made an immense stock-jobbing deal, in which fortunes were made and still larger fortunes were lost. When the great drop in Federal came a million and a half of stock was wiped out to make up for losses sustained by bad debts, and many persons were wrecked. Nearly every stock-broker had to pass through the fiery furnace; the shareholders lost sixty to seventy per cent. of their investment (they bought mostly at a premium), and the concerns that lent money on the inflated stock were heavy losers. Many a man is still suffering to-day from the effects of that event.

The new management, it was hoped, would revivify the concern, but it has not succeeded. The running expenses were high, altogether too high for the earning capacity of the capital. And this perhaps was the reason why Mr. Nordheimer could not agree with Mr. Yarker. Somehow the public avoided the bank, perhaps because they imagined that some of those who were in the administration also distrusted it and secured themselves in advance. At all events, since the Central trouble over a million and a half of the Federal's deposits have been withdrawn.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Norquay's leadership of the Conservative Opposition practices to be short. There is a movement, which had its origin in Ottawa and has been carefully engineered by some of the "Old Guard" of unscrupulous Sir John men, to oust Norquay from the leadership of the party. The crime for which he is to suffer political decapitation is not that he has mismanaged Manitoban affairs (that not being considered an offence in those quarters), but that he of late has not been as obedient as he should have been to the great Mogul in Ottawa. Several caucuses were held yesterday to discuss the situation, Messrs. Smith and Hay, M.P.'s, being the ring-leaders. H. M. Howell, Q.C., is mentioned as the man whom the most factions of the party could unite on. Dr. Harrison was never spoken of.

At a mass meeting of the Conservatives of Brandon to-day it was decided, in view of early dissolution, not to oppose Smart, but his platform was repudiated and Greenway denounced. Norquay was renounced as leader of the Conservatives.

It is rumored that a compromise has been offered the province by Sir John for the abandonment of the Red River Valley Railway. The exact terms are not stated, but it is understood they include improvement of rivers and extension of branch lines, the monopoly to be retained till 1891. Opinion as to its acceptance are very diverse.

THE DREAD MESSENGER.

Death at London of Mr. Russell Hardy—His Life and Character.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Mr. Russell Hardy, father of Hon. A. S. Hardy, died last night at his residence in this city, having been ill for about a week.

[Russell Hardy was born in Ancaster, Brant County, in 1812, where his parents had settled after leaving the Niagara District in 1776. He was for many years a merchant in Brantford, where [illegible] he was married, Mrs. Hardy still surviving. Deceased leaves four sons and six daughters, the latter with one exception being married. The sons are Eugene B. and Edgar R. Hardy, who reside in Southern Illinois, Hon. A. S. Hardy, and A. D. Hardy, barrister of this city. Mr. Hardy was of a quiet, retiring disposition, a pronounced Liberal and a firm adherent of the Christian faith. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon.]

The Crushed Worm Will Turn.

MILTON, Jan. 27.—Constable Brothers went to Georgetown yesterday to serve Scott Act summonses on several hotelkeepers. A mob, under the leadership of Hotelkeeper Bennett of Georgetown, chased Brothers through the town pelting him with rotten eggs. The constable at last turned upon his persuers and fired two shots into the crowd, one of which passed within an inch of Bennett's head and lodged in a club he carried on his shoulder. The local authorities then arrested Brothers, Bennett and another hotelkeeper. Brothers was released this morning.

I have been troubled with catarrh for the past ten years and have tried a number of remedies but found no relief until I purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. I consider it the most reliable preparation for catarrh and cold in the head. —Geo. Candall, P. M., Quonochawntaug, R. I.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm, some five months ago. It has done for me what other so-called cures failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. —Clarence L. Hoff, Biddeford, Me. eod5

In a Dangerous Condition.

Any person troubled with irregular acting kidneys or any form of kidney complaint, however slight it may seem, is in a dangerous condition if the trouble is neglected. Burdock Blood Bitters should be taken at once; it is the best regulator of the kidneys, liver and blood known to the world. 2w5d

Important to Working Men.

Artizans, mechanics and labouring men are liable to sudden accidents and injuries as well as painful corns, stiff joints and lameness. To all thus troubled we would recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the handy and reliable pain cure for outward or internal use. 2w5d

A Timely Precaution.

To prevent serious disease, regulate the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and blood with Burdock Blood Bitters. Remember that prevention is better than cure. 2w5d

Horse or Harness?

Saturday night, when the hose wagon was being taken out of the fire hall, the horse in the shafts made one wild bound and went right through the harness. About five minutes' delay was experienced in repairing the damage. The question is, was the horse too strong or the harness too weak? The harness is generally blamed.

The Second of the Season.

The question has been asked, when will the next carnival be held. Canton Peterborough is to the fore with a ready reply. They promise another grand ghostal spectacle two weeks from next Tuesday, Feb. 14th. If it is favored with better weather than the one last Friday it will, without doubt, excel all previous carnivals. Bear the date in mind, Feb. 17th.

Hear, Hear.

Christ Church, Belleville, has a concert on Feb. 9th, and the Intelligencer has the following item in regard to it:—"The tickets are selling rapidly and we can predict a full house. Some of the best talent of Peterborough has been engaged, and our neighboring town has a recognized music-loving public and artists of very creditable ability."

The Carter's Grevivance.

The carters of Peterborough are agitating for a new by-law to reconstruct the tariff of license and rates. They complain that the by-law is not enforced and that their rights are frequently infringed upon by parties who pay no license. They are willing to pay a higher license in order to secure better protection.

The Race Course.

Bear in mind the date of the Peterborough races, Thursday and Friday of this week, Feb. 2nd and 3rd.

Lindsay races are on Tuesday and Wednesday next, 7th and 8th. Among the list of probable contestants are the following Peterborough horses:—Royal Jim, Billy W., Sleepy Dan and Gladstone.

Saturday Night's Fire.

Saturday night about eight o'clock a fire was discovered in the small rough-cast residence of Mrs. Burley, College street. The family were all away, and the fire had gained good headway before it was detected. The fire brigade were soon on hand and prevented the flames from spreading to the neighboring houses, which were only separated by a few feet of space from the burning building. All the furniture, upon which there was an insurance of $300 in the Norwich Union, was destroyed, and the building was badly damaged. It was insured for $600 in the Western.

About to Leave Town.

Mr. D. D. Galletly, late in Mr. Hill's insurance agency, has accepted a position with Mr. W. J. Ross, inspector of bridges and buildings on the western division of the C.P.R., including the whole district from Port Arthur to Donald, B.C. Mr. Galletly leaves for the west the latter part of this week or early next week. He will be greatly missed in town, and particularly in musical circles, where his talent was recognized and appreciated. Mr. Galletly has for a number of years been choir-master of St. Andrew's Church, and it will be difficult to replace him by one with his ability and competency. He has also been secretary of the Agricultural Society for a number of years, a position which he filled ably.

Fined for Assault.

P.M. Edmison held court at Ashburnham on Friday, when a couple of assault cases were disposed of, both entered by Henry O'Brien against Nelson and Paul Collier. The assault was committed in North Monaghan, where the parties live. The evidence went to show that one morning as O'Brien was passing Collier's lumber shanty the two defendants and Henry Shane assaulted him without provocation. It seems that the dispute originally arose over some wood-chopping. Only the two Colliers were arraigned before the magistrate, the summons in Shane's case not having been served. The defendants were each fined $2 and costs.

A Successful Farmer.

The following from the Omemee Herald is in reference to Mr. Robert Ford, of Emily, concerning whose Manitoba experience the EXAMINER some time ago published an interesting article, which the Herald regrets not:—"An old friend sent us the following news item:—I saw a piece in your paper how Robert Ford has prospered in Manitoba. He started for home last Friday with a car load of horses and other articles. He bought one span brown mares from Ed. Walsh, Peterboro, one span bay mares from D. Woods, 7th con. Cavan, and one blackmare at Omemee. He bought from Jas Fowler one Maxwell mower and a sulky rake; one of Porter Bros. top buggies; two set single harness, on market; one bureau and a table from D. Bellegham; one set double harness from Shortly; two sets dishes from China Hall; some lumber, shingles and other small stuff to fill the car; one set double harness at Omemee. He owns 160 acres near Carberry; he had 5000 bushels of grain, the threshing of which cost him $171; they charge 4 cents a bushel for threshing wheat and 3 cents for oats and barley, eleven men go with the machine, the party getting the threshing [illegible] to take away the grain and straw. THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Various Government Business Get a First Handle.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—The Speaker took the chair 3 o'clock.

Hon. Mr. Fraser introduced a bill to regulate the closing of shops and the hours of labor for children and young women. He explained that the bill did not, as stated in some of the newspapers, propose to enact by statute a fixed hours at which shops should be closed. The Government recognized that the hour of closing in one locality might not be suitable in another. The bill, therefore, merely provided that it might be permissive for municipalities to fix an hour for closing shops within their bounds. With regard to the statutory provisions, the bill proposed to regulate the number of hours for which young persons might be employed in stores by limiting the entire number of hours in the week to 74. In the Factory Act the hours were limited to 60 during the week and ten hours during the day. In employment in shops, however, the number of hours per day was regulated by the particular business engaged in, and no rule could be conveniently laid down. The Government were not committed to the particular number of hours mentioned per week. A full discussion hereafter would probably indicate the proper number of hours to be fixed. He thought the legislation proposed should receive the support of the House, being in the direction of avoiding the perpetuation of evils from which older countries suffered, and which were there difficult to remedy, on account of their having been sanctioned by time.

Mr. Meredith—Do you propose that where a man and wife keep a store they must shut down at a certain time?

Mr. Fraser—So far as closing is concerned the municipalities would have the power to decide. The only statutory features were in regard to the hours of labor in stores for boys under 14 and girls under 16 years of age.

The bill was read the first time.

The Attorney-General introd duceanother bill respecting the law of alimony. The bill provides for a simpler and cheaper process of injured wives recovering alimony from their husbands. The act is framed from an English statute, introduced a couple of years ago and found to work very satisfactorily. Bill read a first time.

The House went into committee of supply and passed the usual interim appropriation for the carrying on of the civil government.

He was on the stand for over four hours, and would have been examined further on Jan. 20 but for his leaving the city.

BROKER COX AT CLEVELAND.

He Will Return to Toronto as Soon as His Affairs are Straightened Out.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 29.—E. Strachan Cox broker, of Toronto, is in this city, and has been stopping here for a few days past under an assumed name. He registered at the Weddell House as "W. D. Darling, Hamilton, Ont.," and was not recognized until this evening, when a local newspaper man, who had met him in Toronto, saw him in the hotel and recognized him. He at first attempted to conceal his identity, but finally gave in. Though at first reluctant to make any statement for publication, Mr. Cox at last unbosomed himself.

The interview was in substance: "Why are you in Cleveland under an assumed name?"

"That's easily explained. I knew if I came here and registered as 'E. S. Cox of Toronto' that I would be overwhelmed with reporters and would have no peace or comfort, so I concluded to carry another name for the time being. I came here a week ago Saturday and shall remain here until my affairs are in such shape that I can form some estimate as to how I stand. I was attending a meeting of the International Baseball Association when the crisis came, and at once wired my head man in Toronto to make an assignment. Then I came to Cleveland. I had nothing to do with the failure of the Central Bank, directly or indirectly, and am not in any way responsible for the suspension of that institution. The published statements have done me a great injustice. My failure was brought about by too great an expansion of my business. I had too many irons in the fire. I have been in the brokerage business sixteen years and had nearly fifty exchanges throughout Canada. Then, too, the failure of the Central Bank crippled me."

"Will you return to Canada?"

"Most certainly. Just as soon as my affairs are in such shape as I can do so."

Mr. Cox was very nervous and excited during the interview. He bit his lip and walked up and down the room, trying to control himself.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Provincial Board of Health adjourned on Saturday to meet again in May.

A Lesson

is to be learnt from the sight of a bald head. Falling out and premature grayness of the hair can be stopped if taken in time. Do not let it run on without making an effort to save it. Get a bottle of Dr. Dorenwend's German "Hair Magic." It stimulates the growth, gives fresh vitality and keeps the hair its natural color, besides being a superb dressing. All druggists sell it. dw

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tradies across business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, humb-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is supposing altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't enjoy a beating how much a man likes about his actual purchase—or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and consequently, barely, just such Goods as can be picked up at the end of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR made 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $9.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 99c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Autoballs cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Revolutions in Hayti are hardly worthy of notice now-a-days as these occur so frequently, and have so little significance that they no longer add zest to one's coffee. ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald.
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will,
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called
There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.
But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.
Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail.
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This new famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge Street, Toronto. For sale by J. D. Tully and all druggists. dw

THE YEAR'S IMMIGRATION.

A VERY LARGE INCREASE OVER PRECEDING YEARS.

The Voters' Lists to be Printed at the Capital—Fishery Matters Under Discussion—Meeting of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Hon. Mr. Chapleau expects to effect a saving of about $60,000 by having the voters' lists for the whole Dominion printed in Ottawa instead of in the various constituencies, as was done in 1881. That the task of resetting the list is a very considerable one may be gathered from the fact that about 1,000,000 names have to be set, and to each name has to be added the voter's qualification, residence, postoffice, address and other particulars required by the Franchise Act. In the temporary office in St. Patrick-street, which will be used pending the completion of the printing bureau, between forty and fifty printers will be employed, and it is estimated that it will take very nearly a year to get the list set up, revised and corrected. A sufficiently large plant will be purchased to set all the lists, and the matter will be kept standing, which will reduce the cost of correcting the lists after each revision to a minimum.

There was a meeting of Council this afternoon, at which, it was understood, fishery matters were discussed, but nothing has transpired except that Prof. Geo. M. Dawson of the Geological Survey will leave for Washington to-night on business connected with Alaska. Dr. Dawson was engaged this summer on a survey in the Yukon district, and his departure for Washington is regarded as indicating that the question of the boundary between British Columbia and Alaska is being considered by the commission.

Chancellor Boyd, C. E. Gregory, Q.C., and T. C. Keefer, C.E., the arbitrators appointed to enquire into the claims of the Canadian Pacific Railway with reference to the western section of the road, including the Onderdonk contract, will meet here on Wednesday for the purpose of organizing, and will probably commence taking evidence shortly.

The Railway Committee of the Privy Council will meet to-morrow morning, when the first case taken up will be that of the crossing of the Canadian Pacific Railway track in Quebec by the Quebec, Montmorency and Charlevoix Railway.

The immigration statistics for last year have not yet been finally made up by the Department of Agriculture, but they are sufficiently advanced to leave no doubt that the increase has been very large. From correspondence received by the department the present indications are that the increase during the present year will be even greater.

The Department of Railways and Canals has been advised that the snow blockade on the Intercolonial was raised on Saturday and passenger trains are running regularly. Ocean bound traffic is reaching Halifax in large quantities owing to the transfer of the Allans' business from Portland to that port on account of a dispute with the Grand Trunk Railway. It is being hurried on rapidly as possible, and the delays have not amounted to anything outside of the output of coal, which has increased in such large quantities that this could not be avoided. At the Spring Hill mine alone 1200 tons a day is being mined, which is an excess of about 300 tons. This coal finds its way as far west as Brockville, but the greater bulk of it is consumed in Montreal.

Among the results brought about by the proposed changes in the management of the Post-office Department will be the promotion of Mr. Smithson, formerly assistant accountant, to the accountantship; of Mr. Matthewson, assistant superintendent of the Savings Bank, to the superintendency, and of Mr. Everett, assistant superintendent of the money order branch, to the superintendency thereof. The positions previously held by these gentlemen, all three of whom are excellent and painstaking officials, will be abolished. With a favorable consideration of the work the Postmaster-General confidently expects to do away with the necessity for some [illegible] at least of addition to the [illegible] from ten to twelve clerks every year. The post-[illegible] will be [illegible] and the [illegible] which will be obtained through with even greater despatch.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Paris says that Cardinal Gibbons has written another letter urging the Vatican not to condemn Henry George's writings, on the ground that George only follows the theories of Spencer and Mills, and it is better to allow false theories to die a peaceful death than to fan them by giving them artificial importance.

While several Russian soldiers were fishing in a stream near the Prussian border to-day, they crossed the frontier. A curious case was decided in the Court of Chancery to-day. The question was whether one Collyer, a farmer in Manitoba, had a right to take his son, 15 years old, who has been living with relations in England, to Manitoba for education as a farmer. The English relatives urged that the £900 which the boy possessed be used to educate him for the army. The judge described the application as an unwarrantable interference with the father's rights and gave the father leave to take his son to Manitoba, where the money could be more profitably expended than here.

Mr. Mercier leaves London for Paris on Wednesday.

The agitating crofters in the Highlands are holding meetings to condemn the British Columbia emigration scheme, and entreating all the people in the Highlands to oppose emigration while a single acre available for cultivation lies waste in their native country. Little doubt is felt, however, that voluntary emigration is regarded by the Government as the one effectual remedy, and that if British Columbia accedes to the Imperial offer, a large number of crofters will be glad to exchange misery and starvation for comfort and plenty.

IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Mysterious Abduction of a 12-year-old Girl at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Jan. 30.—This morning Miss Lucy Bowman, the 12-year-old daughter of Wm. Bowman, left her home, 59 Hunter-street west, to attend school at the Wesleyan Ladies' College. She walked along Hunter-street to Hughson-street, and was accosted by two men in a rough market sleigh. They asked her which way they could get to the mountain. She told them that they could go up James-street or John-street. They drove away and Miss Bowman continued along Hughson-street. She had got past Kilgour's piano factory when she was seized from behind by one of the men who had previously spoken to her and flung into the sleigh. She was too frightened to scream or to resist, and lay quietly in the bottom of the sleigh. The excitement was too much for the girl, and she fainted. All because a blank after that until she came to and found herself lying on a hard snow bank on the old John-street road, near the steps. Her school books were beside her and not a soul was in sight. Fortunately she was uninjured, and she got up and walked home.

Last evening a horse belonging to Thos. C. Bowker was standing in front of a store on James-street north, opposite Vincent-st reet, when some person stabbed it in the nostril, inflicting a wound about ten inches deep. A young man named Wm. Hull is under arrest for the cruel act.

The Northern and Northwestern train from the north, which was due here on Friday night did not arrive until 7.35 Sunday evening, and the train due Saturday got in about midnight Sunday night. They had a hard time on the road.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The running of ferry boats across the North and East Rivers is much impeded by ice. CENTRAL BANK AFFAIRS.

YESTERDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS OF A RATHER QUIET NATURE.

Three Star Chamber Proceedings—Mr. E. A. Cox Leaves Cleveland—Shrewd Remarks at Avon Springs, N.Y.—"The Judge" Returns to Town.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.

Mr. Blain and Mr. Campbell spent considerable time in the Master's private room yesterday morning, and after the conference the reporters were allowed to see the Master's book, in which this memorandum was written:

MASTER'S OFFICE, Jan. 30, 1888.

Mr. John Bain, Q.C., attends with Mr. Campbell as provisional liquidator. He states that the statement has been prepared according to the usual practice of bankers in banks. He proposes to file the same and asks leave to look further into the accounts so as to see alleged imperfection in the accounts which he finds has crept into the statement. After further discussion Mr. Bain contends that the liquidators have no right to enquire these accounts to be brought in, and that I have no jurisdiction to order the accounts to be brought in and filed by the provisional liquidator. Mr. Foster supports as a portion of these proceedings.

At 1.45 p.m. Mr. Campbell handed in to the Master an amended copy of the accounts of the Central Bank and a statement of all the transactions made by him as interim liquidator from Dec. 21 up to last Tuesday, the day of the filing of the petition for his removal. The Master said he would look over the accounts before allowing the reporters access to them.

Mr. J. R. Roaf's examination was not proceeded with further yesterday.

Special Examiner J. Bruce will commence at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at his chambers in the Court House examination of a number of witnesses on behalf of Mr. Campbell in connection with the petition. They are R. H. Bethune, A. C. Over, J. L. Brodie, S. Treas E. P. Dwight, J. P. Kilfedder, A. B. Order F. V. Philpott, W. Wallace, C. S. Millichamp and E. Bobbas.

A statement of the bank's assets would be about as welcome a document as the liquidators could present at the present time. The interested parties are dying of anxiety to see how the plundered estate will pan out.

E. A. Cox Leaves Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 28.—The despatch from this city printed in The Toronto Mail of to-day does Mr. E. A. Cox a manifest injustice. The interview telegraphed from this city and printed in The Toronto World is about all that transpired between Mr. Cox and the Cleveland reporters. The clerks at the Weddell House said to me to-day that Mr. Cox has never been out at night after 10 o'clock, that he never boards or drank a bottle of wine in the hotel and that the story about his cutting a swell in Euclid-avenue with a fast horse and fancy cutter is a falsehood.

Mr. F. H. Brunell, sporting editor of The Cleveland Plaindealer, who was in Toronto last summer during the ball season, was the person who recognized Mr. Cox in the corridor of the Weddell House. Mr. Cox attracted little attention about the hotel outside of the fact that he wore a rich sealskin coat which he brought with him from Toronto. He spent his time quietly around the hotel and was not mixed up with any crowd of young swells, as alleged in The Mail despatch.

Mr. Cox left the city this morning, but he did not say where he was going, but is is thought he went to Cincinnati. He said again that he would return to Toronto shortly.

President Blain at Avon Springs.

BUFFALO, Jan. 28.—David Blain, President of the defunct Central Bank of Canada, who was registered at the Tifft House in this city for several days, has gone to Avon Springs, near Rochester. These springs are noted for their medicinal properties.

"The Judge" Returns to Town.

When Grand Trunk mixed No. 2 came into Union Station at 12.20 this morning from Hamilton the first man to step off was C. E. Humphries, alias "The Judge." To a reporter Mr. Humphries said he had merely been to Buffalo arranging a little business. "I left Toronto in daylight," he said, "and I would have returned to it in daylight had the train brought me quick enough."

Bank Discussions.

From The Montreal Herald, Jan. 30.

The proceedings before the Ontario courts in the Central Bank matter indicate several things and suggest others. It appears that several of the persons concerned in that institution have gone to the United States in search of better health, and the shareholders are left to search for traces of their money and the path through which it disappeared. Judging by what has already been made known there seems to be a probability of further interesting disclosures being made. Mr. Campbell, one of the liquidators of the Central Bank, was a liquidator of the Exchange Bank in this city, and what has already transpired leads to the belief that, if mixed in proper form, he could be able to throw more light on the affairs of that unfortunate institution. While the case is still before the courts it would be improper to offer any opinion as to the trustworthiness or otherwise of the several persons concerned in its management and liquidation, but if the developments continue as they have begun, the propriety of opening up the affairs of the Exchange Bank, with such light upon them as may be gained from other quarters, will clearly be in order.

The Laprairie Contested Election.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—The Laprairie contested election case was continued to-day, when the proceedings for disqualification of Hon. Jas. Mofhane were commenced. Several carters, farmers and laborers testified to their having been paid for voting. Mr. Mofhane was not present during the whole day and Judge Loranger issued a rule against him.

Young Women's Work.

The following article is reproduced by request from the last issue of the Woman's Journal:

God loves patience! Souls that dwell in stillness,
Doing the little things, or resting quite,
May just as perfectly fulfil their mission,
As they who grapple with some giant evil,
Clearing a path that every one may see;
Our Saviour cares for cheerful acquiescence,
Rather than for a busy ministry.
Then seek to please Him, whatsoe'er He bids thee,
Whether to do, t suffer, or lie still;
It will matter little by what path He led us,
If in it we seek to do His will.

MY DEAR YOUNG WOMEN: In a little book entitled "Conflicting Duties," there is a sentence something like this: "Recognize His higher planning as put forth upon the 'steps' as well as the 'steps', upon the hindrances as well as the calls." Our sympathies go out to those of our sisters whose cherished plans have been all upset, whether from defeat in a campaign, emptiness of hands of accustomed work, or, deeper still, of homes bereaved of dear ones

We cannot help thinking of the question of that grand old negro, Sojourner Truth, to Frederick Douglass when he was picturing the horrors of slavery and saw no help ahead: "Frederick, is the Lord dead?" Let us then go forward into this new year hopefully and cheerfully. As Daniel Quorn says, "What if a few splashy puddles under foot and a bit of a storm now and then? Why we'll only take hold of his hand a little tighter." Of course we don't know the way, and don't want to either. Our Father looks out all along the way, and he leads us right.

We have not much news from the different Y. W. C. T. Unions, and we wish every Union would send in a short report every month of what is going on. We have added a new leaflet to the literature Department on "How to conduct a Sewing School," which may be a help, and we would earnestly recommend every member of a "Y" to provide herself with a copy of the Annual Report which is now for sale for the small sum of 12 cents. Miss Orford's paper on "Motive Power in Service," and De Mill College paper on "The sin of doing nothing" with others are alone worth far more than the price, and can be used in devotional meetings.

Every clergyman and editor and public school teacher ought to be supplied with a copy. We hope also that the "Y's" will lose no time in petitioning school boards for introduction of the temperance text books into the schools.

Are we making use enough of of our voices? In every place where there is a "Y" could they not form a choir of sweet and strong voices which would be of much assistance in Gospel services or entertainments. In our meetings let us keep to the constitution and have it occasionally read so we may give a "reason why" for our existence and know the duties of Officers. One, which is that "the treasurer shall devise means to increase the funds of the organization," we fear is some times over-looked.

We are often asked "can we take in young ladies who want assist in the different branches but will not sign the pledge? Emphatically, No!

Peterborough "Y's" new President is Miss L. Sanderson, and we are sure the loving care with which Miss Edwards regarded the Union, will be sustained under the new regime.

Brockville "Y" is holding Reading Circles at which papers on temperance subjects are read.

Ottawa "Y" took charge of the Bible Readings of the Week of Prayer and held them in the W. C. T. U. Hall over the Coffee House, with crowded audiences.

The Evangelistic Department has commenced a new work.

The Home for Friendless Women, 412 Wellington street, was formally opened Monday January 9th. There was a large attendance of ladies, besides the Rev. Messrs. Bogart, Meikle, Crossley, Scott, Scanlon and Gavin. Addresses were given by Rev. Messrs. Scanlon and Bogart. The institution has already four inmates, and has room for double that number, and is fairly well furnished. It is under the sole management of a matron.

Mr. Falconer said the great credit for the institution was due to Miss Wright, of St. Andrew's church, and that she was encouraged to go on by one Carleton man in the city offering a donation of $400. This was the first powerful encouragement she got.

Mr. R. F. Palmer made an admirable speech in support of the institution, and clinched it by offering the Home a subscription of $30 a year towards it for the future.

Mr. Meikle, the Presbyterian evangelist, offered a touching dedicatory prayer, formally opening the institution, after which Rev. Mr. Crossley, the Methodist evangelist, gave an earnest practical address.

It is the intention to add a "creche" or day nursery to the institution where hard working mothers, employed during the day may have their little ones attended to. In addition to two sewing schools, kitchen garden, girls' night school, flower mission, etc., etc., the Ottawa "Y's" will have their hands full this winter.

We are delighted to hear of the prospect of a "Y" in Barrie and hope for great results from Miss Shinnet's visit to that place.

We re-echo the "wail" of our American sister who writes "where is the temperance society that has all the young women of leisure that it needs for its various offices? What society does not look till its heart aches for helpers? What organization does not have more work for ready pungent quick hands than it can possibly get done? Oh for some quickening power that would stir up the half-hearted ones in every union who really are knowing the right look, the girls who seem to pride themselves in saying "I belong to that union," but never attend a meeting.

As a motto for 1888 will every "Y" in Ontario take the words found in I. Tim. 4, 12, "Be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity."

And believe me
Ever Your's Lovingly,
MARY SCOTT.

FRENCH SCHOOLS IN ONTARIO.

Report to the Legislature Says there are 65 in Prescott and Russell.

TORONTO, JAN. 31.

The Legislature went into session at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and remained there just about three minutes and a half.

A number of petitions were presented. The Attorney-General introduced a bill respecting the Revised Statutes. Mr. Meredith said it was time the Revised Statutes were in the hands of the people. He inquired the cause of the delay. Mr. Mowat replied it was on account of certain tables. They would be put in the hands of the people as speedily as possible.

The Provincial Secretary presented a number of orders-in-council referring to printing text books, raising the Chatham High School to the status of a Collegiate Institute, and regulations respecting the Education Department and the Factory Act.

Hon. Mr. Hardy also presented the report of the Public School Inspector in regard to the French schools in Prescott and Russell. There are sixty-five French schools in these counties. The Inspector, Mr. O. Dufard, says: "The schools are doing better work than when under the supervision of English inspectors, who had not enough knowledge of French to address the pupils in their mother tongue, much less to correct the pronunciation and examine in the various subjects taught." The phonetic method of teaching reading was progressing notwithstanding the opposition of the parents, who desired their children taught the French-Canadian pronunciation. Arithmetic, which was formerly taught but once a week, was now receiving more attention. The parents offered no opposition to it. The Inspector continues: "As it has been publicly asserted that the French are particularly averse to having English taught, I must mention that forty-three teachers and four assistants teach English reading and spelling, and in some cases the translation of English into French is also taught. Twenty-seven teach nothing but French, but of these 21 have a knowledge of English, so that there are only 6 teachers who have no knowledge of English."

Hon. Mr. Hardy also laid reports from the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities before the House. The attendance at the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, at Belleville, on Sept 6 was 236, 141 boys and 97 girls. The total expenditure at this institute in 1887 was $39,666.61, or $171.10 a pupil. In 1886 it was $41,039.71, or $168.84 a pupil. At the Institute for the Blind at Brantford there were 135 in attendance, 80 males and 55 females. The expenses for 1887 were $32,887.94, or $247.27 a pupil. In 1886 the expenses were $32,574.75, or $246.78 a pupil.

A TORONTO GIRL'S ADVENTURE.

She Leaves Home and is Found With a Street Car Driver at Hamilton.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.

A dark-eyed beauty is Ellen Fraser, the 15-year-old daughter of Simon Fraser, proprietor of a confectionery store doing a snug business at 196 Queen-street east. She is the pet of the household, and has a score of young admirers who gladly parted with their small change for candies when the fair girl was behind the counter.

A week ago last Friday she left home without the knowledge of her parents or any of her admirers, and apparently with no particular point as her destination, though she had a ticket for Chicago. Eight days subsequently the family heard she was in Hamilton, and the father went to the Ambitious City on Sunday. He found her in a York-street boarding house in company with John Maxwell, a pleasant looking young fellow who drives a Toronto street car. The presence of Maxwell in the girl's room seemed to warrant his detention by the Hamilton authorities, and he was held till yesterday, while the Frasers returned home the same evening. Maxwell went to Hamilton on Saturday night to induce the girl, as he says, to return home. He passed Sunday night in the cells, but as there was no charge on which to detain him, the Hamilton magistrate yesterday discharged him, and he came back to this city.

A reporter called at Mr. Fraser's store last night to get a statement of the case. Both parents declare their daughter was induced to leave home by Mrs. Hill, the wife of Edward Hill, barber at 293 Queen-street east. The girl said Mrs. Hill some time ago made her promise to go away with her. She believed the place was Port Arthur, where Mrs. Hill's mother lives. With this intention, she commenced to pilfer daily from the cash drawer, taking altogether a sum she fixes at $75, which she gave Mrs. Hill, who said to buy her a silk dress, a hat and other articles needed for the prospective trip. On the day of her departure, Robert Hill, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Hill, drove her to Union Station where he gave her a valise containing the silk dress and hat, bought by Mrs. Hill, a ticket to Chicago and $35. Mrs. Hill was not there but it had been arranged that Ellen was to proceed alone as far as Chicago, where she was to remain till joined by Mrs. Hill. Reaching Hamilton, however, Ellen concluded to abandon the trip, and return home. She went to the American Hotel on Friday night and on the day following took rooms in a boarding house on York-street, from which she was removed by her father, her whereabouts having been discovered from letters sent to Toronto. The girl described Maxwell's predicament when he was found in her room in an artless way. She seemed to think the scene ludicrous.

Mrs. Hill was not at home when a reporter called. Her husband was told what the Frasers had said about his wife. "That's a funny story, but it is untrue in every particular."

A CRISIS AT HAND.

An Attempt to be Made to Break up the Bleeding Strikes.

READING, PA., Jan. 30.—The reports from the coal regions are not so favorable. The storm having interfered with the working of collieries and transportation of coal, the strikers took advantage of the delay and by exercising an influence over the miners have again aroused a feeling in favor of standing by the railroad employes and continuing the strike. An effort will now be made to operate several of the largest individual collieries with non-union men. It is said if these hands go to work in the mines next Monday there will be trouble. Several non-union miners while on their way to work at the Henry Clay and Bear Valley collieries were halted while crossing the mountain at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning and commanded to return home, which command they obeyed. They were stopped at various points on the mountain paths, but were unable to recognise the parties who halted them, as it was quite dark. They were told if they persisted in going to work they would be killed. The coal and iron police are daily escorting some of the men who were threatened to and from work.

A Great Sufferer.

That person who is afflicted with rheumatism is a great sufferer, and greatly to be pitied if they cannot procure Hagyard's Yellow Oil. This remedy is a certain cure, not only for rheumatism, but for all external and internal pains. 2w5d

Ahead of All.

I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in my family for years and have found it ahead of any preparation of the kind in curing colds, etc. I can especially recommend it for children. ALEX. MOFFAT, Millbrook, Ont. 2w5d

"Don't Marry Him"!

"He is such a fickle, inconstant fellow, you will never be happy with him," said Esther's friends when they learned of her engagement to a young man who bore the reputation of being a sad flirt. Esther, however, knew that her lover had good qualities, and she was willing to take the risk. In some cases out of ten it would have proved a mistake; but Esther was an uncommon girl and to every one's surprise Fred made a model husband. How was it? Well, Esther had "it cheerful, sunny temper and a great deal of tact. Then she enjoyed perfect health and was always to sweet, neat and wholesome that Fred found his home most pleasant, and his own wife more agreeable, than any other being. As the year passed and he saw other women of Esther's age grow sickly, faded and querulous, he realized more and more that he had "a jewel of a wife." Good health was half the secret of Esther's success. She retained her vitality and good looks, because she [illegible] and attended by the use of Dr. Pierce's [illegible] Prescription.

PROHIBITION SHOE STORE.

TO THE PUBLIC:

AS my agreement with the Scott Act Association expired on Dec. 31st, and I am no longer in their employ, I beg to inform you that I have opened a Boot & Shoe Store

In Dunsford's New Block East of Market,

where I hope to receive a share of public support in Custom work and repairs. Several attempts to boycott me have been made because of my connection with the Scott Act, to prevent me from obtaining employment, but I am not afraid of opposition under any circumstances, and will endeavor to give to all the value of their money, and use only the best material, and employ the best workmen, so that I can run Prohibition in the shoe trade, and Prohibit even water from running at your soles to upset your calculations, as I have the remedy to hand to all.

As I have launched my bark in the happy [illegible] will you help me to [illegible]?

Yours truly,

HENRY BOSSETT.

GUELPH BANK SUSPENDED.

The Federal Falls a Victim to Corn in the Royal City.

GUELPH, Jan. 30.—The Guelph Banking Company, a private bank conducted by W. H. Cottle, suspended payment here to-day. The failure is a consequence of the withdrawal of the Federal Bank from business, as the Federal usually re-discounted for Mr. Cottle's bank.

The first intimation of difficulty was given when a clerk of the Federal to cash Fitzsimmons, a depositor of "The Guelph," was refused for want of funds. On payment being demanded at "The Guelph," the same reply in substance was given.

The Million Guesser.

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 30.—Mr. McLeod, the Reform candidate, is going to poll a very large vote in this town and vicinity. Every kind of trick is suspected to by his opponents to have him defeated, but Mr. McLeod is personally popular here and he is going to poll a strong Conservative vote. So far he has held meetings at Glenwilliams and Norval, and to-night he holds a [illegible] at Stewarttown, Brookville, Nassagaweya, [illegible]. Colin Hastings is this evening to address a meeting at Norval, [illegible] of The Brampton Conservator, who fell into disrepute among Halstonians in a former contest for a misstatement as a public meeting. A Conservative meeting here on Friday night. The hall was little more than half full, and the meeting was one of the dullest ever held in a Halton campaign. Reformers are rallying and are bound to make Hendrie's defeat a most decisive one.

Another Fish Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Treasury Department has overruled the action of the Collector of Customs at Burlington, Vt., in assessing duty at the rate of 1c per pound on certain fresh fish caught in an arm of Lake Champlain imported into his district in barrels and then sent to Boston and New York for market. The collector explained that, while none of the importations exceeded 1000 pounds, they were sufficiently large in his opinion to raise a doubt of their being intended for immediate consumption. The department held, however, that the quantity was too small to justify any doubt on the subject. The collector was, therefore, instructed to readjust the entries exacted.

Against Sir Adolphe.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Mr. Joseph Martin, who was Sir Adolphe Caron's opponent in Quebec County at the last Dominion election, to-day had papers served on Sir Adolphe in connection with the penal action which is being brought by an elector of the county against the Minister for personal bribery. Mr. Martin claims to have documentary evidence over Sir Adolphe's own signature sufficient to sustain the action taken. He has also completed arrangements for hearing by the Supreme Court of the appeal from the decision of Judge Caron dismissing the petition against the Minister of Militia because of the expiration of six months.

Accident on the L. S. and M. S.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—A freight train on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway went through a culvert near Pine Station, Ind., this morning. Brakesman Cadwell was buried in the ruins. Five engines were sent from Chicago to extinguish the conflagration which followed. Two or three men were badly burned in [illegible].

POLITICS IN MANITOBA.

Mr. Greenway to Appeal to the Province for an Attempt to Compromise.

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—[illegible], Conservative leader in the Manitoba Legislature, and [illegible] Q.C., have left for Ottawa on behalf of the Conservatives of Manitoba, although any compromise on the school question, and refuses to accept the advances made by Mr. Smith and Sir John's agents on the subject. [illegible] have been troubled with catarrh for the past ten years and have tried a number of remedies but found no relief until I purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. I consider it the most reliable preparation for catarrh and cold in the head. —Geo. Crandall, P. M., Quonochawntang, R. I.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm, some five months ago. It has done for me what other so-called cures failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clayton L. Huff, Biddeford, Me. eod8

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the important, unimportant announced. They say the Tories cannot hoodwink men are promising would lead one to believe that the General Conspiracy are taken for fools; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the people will take it as read believe any word [illegible]. Now, to please it boldly, this is supporting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the people don't care a button how much a man has ab ve his actual purchases, or about his normal sales, they are after the best values, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchases. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and cannot a penny, but each Goods to the [illegible] Because I am this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 40 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $5.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats [illegible] to Mens' sizes, regular price, $5.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt to $3.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ⅓ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned [illegible], but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Their Mistake.

At the last meeting of the Orillia town council, Mayor Robinson was appointed, the Packet says, "to attend, as a delegate, a meeting of representatives from municipalities interested in Trent Valley Canal matters, to be held in Peterborough on the 20th." This is a mistake. The Executive Committee at its last meeting adjourned till Feb. 8th, not the 20th.

The Tankard Competition.

In the tankard competition at Oshawa yesterday afternoon Whitby beat Lindsay by 40 points to 39, and Bowmanville performed the same pleasant operation upon Oshawa by 14 points, Orillia allowed the match to go by default, and Peterborough took the bye. In the evening Whitby beat Peterborough by 33 points. Rutherford's rink was 15 points behind and Attrill's 18. Whitby and Bowmanville play off the final to-day.

Scott; a duet by Misses Butcher and Cox; solos by Misses Mulligan and Harry Stevens, both of whom were encored; an instrumental duet by Misses Butcher and Smart; a recitation by Miss Saunders and vocal solos by Miss Maggie Allen and Miss Paine.

Peterborough Cigars Seized.

A despatch from Hamilton, yesterday, says:—"Mr. W. F. Millar, collector of Inland Revenue, seized 1,250 cigars from J. F. Wetherspoon, 110 Catharine street north, on suspicion of some irregularity in regard to the duty. Mr. Wetherspoon was a partner in a cigar factory in Peterborough, and when the partnership was dissolved last Christmas he received $50 worth of cigars in lieu of money which he had put in the business. He says that he understood the duty on the cigars was paid."

Graduation Exercises.

A Pleasant Evening at the Business College.

At 8 o'clock last evening the Business College was brilliantly lighted up and tastefully decorated. On the platform were Principal Sawyer, in the chair, and Messrs. R. B. Stone, barrister, and S. B. Armstrong, editor Review. The programme opened by the Principal giving an introductory address setting forth the origin, progress and influence of Commercial Education as a distinct department.

Essays on "Success" were read by Misses Moffat and Robinson, and Messrs. Armstrong and Carter. The College Mirror was read by Miss Ella Hurley, a graduate.

Diplomas were then awarded by the Principal as follows:—Grace Robinson, Bobcaygeon; W. G. Matthews, Ashburnham; Wilbur Pratt, Ottawa; Edith Huston, Otonabee; Lizzie Fowler, Smith; J. C. Wilgar, Millbrook; Silas Carter (C. to B. certificate, raised), Norwood; Robert Armstrong, Norwood; Robert Brodie, Ashburnham; and Maud M. Moffat, Baltimore.

Miss Moffat received a diploma of fellowship, the highest honor that can be conferred by the College. She is only the 12th graduate who has obtained a fellowship.

Addresses were next given by Messrs. Stone and Armstrong, and a very pleasant evening was ended by singing the National Anthem.

Personal.

Mr. John McKee leaves this evening to attend the first meeting of the newly elected Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy.

Peterborough Industries.

The Toronto Mail to day devotes over a page to a brief review of the progress made during the past year by some of the more important industrial centres of the province, to give a general idea of the importance to which Ontario has risen as a manufacturing section. Peterborough receives attention to the length of a column, the Central Iron Bridge Works, the Ontario Canoe Company (limited), and Moldrum, Davidson & Co.'s elevator and flour mills being described. The Mail says:—"In no town in the Dominion, and it is questionable if in any place of its size on the American Continent, can there be found such a diversity of manufacturing institutions in operation as are conducted in Peterborough. Their magnitude, too, is a noticeable feature, and that they are making rapid onward strides is fully proven by the extensive increases that the majority have made in their facilities during the past year. The numerous additions made during the year just passed to the number of manufacturing institutions already in operation has given Peterborough a great lift, the streets of the town presenting all the appearance of a city of considerable proportions. By thus providing employment to a large extra force of hands, building through the year was prosecuted with great vigor, and the number of houses erected in 1887 for their accommodation runs well up into three figures. The new post office was completed during the year and will shortly be ready for occupancy; and without exception all the important manufacturing enterprises in operation extended their facilities during the year, either by the erection of additional buildings or the introduction of more machinery and a greater force of hands, and in most cases by both."

The Small Boys' Chances.

Mr. Moore's by-law to prohibit children from jumping on sleighs and railway trains, introduced at last night's council, was the cause of a great deal of amusement. The councillors poked fun at it in every shape, and said they considered such legislation impracticable and undesirable. One of the councillors was particularly combative, and said he believed in letting the boys enjoy themselves as much as possible. "You know," he said, "we were all boys once, but when we grow up and come here to make laws we seem to forget that the small boy has any privileges at all." He wanted to see the boys have all the fun possible, and if there were any accidents, let them run their chances. Boys couldn't coast on the hills any more, and if this by-law passed they had better send all the boys out of town. Mr. Moore said he only wanted the by-law passed as a warning, because he believed there should really something be done to prevent these accidents which are happening every day. Mr. Hall supported him, and said that that very day his sleigh had run over a small boy who had fallen off and been pretty severely hurt. Finally the by-law was placed on the table under a paper-weight, for future consideration.

Something's Going to Happen.

It's beyond a doubt. The carnival a week from Tuesday next, is to be simply a superb symphony of scrumptiousness. All the girls for miles round are going to get there with both feet, the band is practising on a selection of music specially adapted for skating, the decorations are to be unique, original and regularly slap-up; Mr. Cousins has a patent combination for making ice, and when everything gets in full swing on Tuesday night, the 14th, the senses will dissolve into that sweet enthusm of emotion, sometimes felt by fair ones, when beneath the melting influence of kindling language poured into their ears by the melodious voices of their lovers. Yes, sirree, bub. It is going to be tip-top.

A False Report.

A rumor having obtained currency that the heating apparatus of the new post office, for which Messrs. McAndrew & Noble had the contract is a failure, it is just to state that it is incorrect. The heating apparatus, which was put in according to the specifications of the architect, is working with perfect satisfaction, but it has been found that there was trouble in getting the cold air expelled. When once the building becomes heated there will be no difficulty experienced in keeping the premises warm.

Change of Business.

Mr. Thomas Thompson, of Victoria Road, Victoria county, has purchased from Mr. Wm. VanEvery the "City Depot" grocery and provision business, Hunter street. Mr. Thompson has had ten years' experience as a practical miller and intends devoting special attention to flour and feed. He will, at the same time, keep up the reputation of the City Depot for first-class groceries, in which he has also had several years' experience.

—The town council has signed contracts for the delivery of 114 cords, of mixed wood for the city purposes at an average price of $1.67½ per cord.

PETERBORO'S PARLIAMENT

Regular Meeting of the Town Council.

A Grant to the Trent Valley Canal Scheme—Assessors Appointed—Charges Against the Fire Brigade—Contracts For Wood and Lumber Let.

All the members were present at Monday night's council meeting.

Mr. E. B. Edwards sent in three communications, the first enclosing a draft of a memorial to the Legislature to pass a bill from the town now before the House; another stating that the market tolls, as collected on the local market, are fully within the provisions of the law; the third contained his legal opinion, as town solicitor, that the authorities could not prevent people building over the creek, on the ground that they were obstructions. — The communications were received.

A protest was read from Mr. H. Best against the re-appointment of Mr. Aldridge, as assessor, alleging neglect of duty last year —Received.

Mr. CORKERY, Secretary of the Separate School Board, sent in a request the town collect the taxes for them.—Received.

Mr. J. Doherty, market clerk, complained that he had met with serious loss this season by farmers refusing to pay certain tolls, on the ground that they were unjust. He asked that the by-law be re-constructed.—Referred to the Market Committee.

Mr. WM. HUELIN drew attention to the bent in the bridge over the creek on Charlotte street, which he claimed would block up the ice in the spring under his factory and thereby perhaps cause serious injury.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Petitions were read from Messrs. J. P. Metheral, asking for position of caretaker, etc.; from Thos. McKee, applying for the assessorship; from Mr. G. W. Coon, asking further time to pay his taxes. Mr. McKee's application was referred to the Committee on Appointments; the others were received.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Mr. John Carnegie, Secretary of the Trent Navigation Association, and Mr. D. W. Dumble appeared before the council in the interests of the Association, asking the council for a grant to assist the Association in placing evidence before the Commission. Both gentlemen made brief addresses, pointing out the advantages of the canal and the necessity for prompt action in placing the matter before the Commission in as favorable a light as possible.

Mayor STEVENSON vacated his official chair and also addressed the council on the subject, stating that he had always accepted every opportunity to urge the matter upon the government, and at his instance the Commission had been appointed. He guaranteed that the action of the government would be based upon the report of these Commissioners, men who were reliable and perfectly capable of handling the subject. He considered it to be to the interest of Peterborough to have the matter pressed on. It was, he said, the future hope of our town.

Councillor DOUGLASS made a few remarks advocating the scheme.

Mr. MOORE enquired if the government would bear the expenses of witness attending the sittings of the Commissioners.

Mayor STEVENSON said he had no advice from the government on the subject.

After a little discussion the following motion was carried:—

Moved by Mr. MCNEIL, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the sum of $1,000 be granted to the Trent Valley Navigation Association on the same conditions as the $1,000 granted by the county.

FINANCE.

Mr. DAVIDSON reported for the Finance Committee recommending payment of the following accounts:—D. Ballegeon, $7; D. Sullivan, $11; the metropolitan grocery, $26.25; Jas. Edgecombe, $18; Fortye & Phelan, $39.05; Ormsbee & Walsh, $2.15; Lock Co., $1.75; P. Caddel & Co., $64.50; G. A. May, $10; J. W. Flavelle, $8.10; W. Metheral & Sons, $2; Porter Bros., $67.30; Jas. English, $9.75; J. McKee, $3.20; H. C. Rogers, $2; Grace Elliott, $1.50; Wm. Metcalfe, to be paid when certified to; the account of Wesley Hazzard was referred to the Charity Committee.

The report was adopted.

FIREMEN'S SALARIES.

Mr. A. MCNEIL, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, reported on the application of the members of the Fire Brigade for an increase of salary, recommending that the brigade consist of 18 men and a chief engineer; that the chief engineer receive $100 per annum and the assistant-chief $25; that the captain of the company be assistant-engineer; that each member receive $60 per annum, to date from 1st January, 1888; that the Fire, Water and Light Committee have a by-law prepared in conformity with these recommendations; that the account of the Canada Rubber Company be not entertained, and that the Clerk send the company a reply citing rule 60, of the rules of order.

Mr. MOORE wanted to know why this big jump in the firemen's salaries was recommended. Either the firemen had been neglected in the past or there was some urgent reason for this recommendation. In any case he thought it better to let the report stand until the by-law came up.

Mr. MCNEIL made a full explanation of the Committee's reasons for making the recommendation. They had considered it better to reduce the number of firemen and pay them better salaries.

Mr. MOORE said some crooked things, in connection with the fire brigade, had just come to light. The by-law provided that the force should not exceed 30 men, they to receive $15 per year, each. It had transpired, he said, that there were really only about 20 members, but they got the money for the other 10 just the same. He said the chairman of the Finance Committee had something to answer for. Mr. Moore said he didn't want to be understood as running down the brigade. If they needed more money he would give it to them. But last year the salaries were $500; this year a jump was made to over $1,000. He wanted the whole thing ventilated.

Mr. DAVIDSON explained for himself that the Chief of the brigade sent in his statement of claim for pay for 30 men, and he (Mr. Davidson) considered his responsibility ended there. It had only come to his knowledge a couple of weeks ago that there was anything wrong.

THE WOOD SUPPLY.

Mr. HALL presented the report of the Charity Committee, recommending the following contracts for wood:—D. White, 50 cords white pine and hemlock, at $1.70; Alex. Scott, 25 cords white pine, at $1.75; Jos. Forster, 4 cords ash and elm, at $2; Geo. Young, 10 cords, at $2; in all 115 cords. The report was adopted.

THE TOWN CONTRACTS.

Mr. CARNEW presented the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, recommending that the tender of W. R. Kelly for square cedar for a quantity of 50,000 feet or more, as may be determined by the committee, be accepted at $2.50 per m., to be in equal quantities of 8x10, 10x10 and 10x12; that the tender of Alfred McDonald for supplying all the cedar necessary for the current year at $2.50 per m. be accepted; that 50,000 feet or more, as the committee may determine, of hemlock plank be purchased from Mr. George Hilliard at $9 per m., the square cedar above referred to being intended for the cribbing of Crescent street; the committee recommend that they be authorized to deal with the matter as to them may seem in the best interests of the town.

The report was adopted.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. KENDRY presented the report of the Committee on Appointments, recommending the appointment of Messrs. Wm. Aldridge and T. McGrath as assessors for 1888, at $250 per year.—Received.

MOVING FOR INVESTIGATION.

Mr. DAVIDSON, in presenting the following motion, said his attention had been called to the fact that of late numerous delays had occurred in the handling of the hose cart. He also understood that Terry Smith made a practice of purchasing horses, training them in the stables of the fire hall and afterwards selling them at profit. He moved, seconded by Mr. Moore, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee investigate the causes of delay in getting hose to the late fires.—Carried.

BY-LAWS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. KENDRY presented a by-law confirming the appointment of the assessors. There was some talk about the protest of Mr. Best against Mr. Aldridge, but finally the by-law was passed as recommended by the Committee.

The petition to the Ontario Legislature, presented at the beginning of the meeting by Mr. Edwards, was read by Mr. Moore. It prayed the Legislature to confirm the by-law passed by the town providing for the issuing of $20,000 debentures to cover the expenses of bridge building and cribbing. The petition was passed.

Mr. MOORE presented another memorial to be presented to the Legislature to have the Ontario Assessment Act amended so as to do away with "farm lands" for assessment purposes within the corporation; so that all lands within the corporation be placed on an equal footing for assessment.

Mr. MOORE moved the first reading of a by-law to prohibit children from jumping on sleighs and waggons and moving railway trains.

Mr. DAVIDSON moved that the Printing Committee have power to award the contracts for printing and posting for the current year.—Carried.

Mr. HARTLEY moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the Street inspector be directed to have the snow shovelled off the sidewalk on Water street north.—Carried.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

—The entries for the ice races are coming in well, and there is a certainty that there will be a good field for the coming races.

—Every night now witnesses several social gatherings.—Lent is approaching rapidly. Mr. R. W. Muncaster's residence was the scene of festivities last night.

—The ten days in jail which Prax got for bigamy seems a light punishment—a much severer one would have been to sentence him to live with both wives.

—The town and county councils in each granting $1,000 to the Trent Valley Navigation Association, did more than was expected of them. Only $1,000 was asked between them, but they "went one better" and have made it $2,000. This should show that they are in earnest.

A. CAMPBELL IN REBUTTAL

A REPLY TO THE PETITION OF HIS CO-LIQUIDATORS.

The Impeached Liquidator Makes a Lengthy Statement of Defence—He Denies Having Withheld Correspondence—Also the Story of the Diamonds.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.

Up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon but little had transpired at Osgoode Hall of interest in Central Bank affairs. At that hour Mr. Archibald Campbell's affidavis in answer to the petition of Liquidators Howland and Gooderham was filed in the office of Clerk of Records and Writs Geo. M. Lee. The document is a lengthy one and answers, paragraph by paragraph, the charges contained in the petition for Mr. Campbell's removal from the liquidatorship of the bank.

Mr. Campbell's Statement of Accounts.

The statement of accounts filed late Monday afternoon by Mr. Campbell was given to the reporters yesterday for inspection. The statement covered over 50 pages of a large ledger and was accompanied by an affidavit. It would take a graduate of the Institute of Chartered Accounts to understand it all. It was divided into two sections, "A" and "B." At the end of one of the statements were these figures:

Dec. 3, 1887.
Bills receivable	$648,728 66
Teller's cash	133,250 74
Treasury	211,700 00
	$994,732 77
Dec. 21, 1887.
Payments and allowances	$115,499 28
Teller's cash	65,299 73
Treasury	826,260 00
	$966,269 17
Balance	2546 40

The following entry was also made in the statement:

This surplus is only apparent. The cash book has been continued as previously used as a cash book and journal, and contained entries of all transactions, some of them not cash, and in eliminating the cash transactions from the journal entries, I have not been able to exactly balance. With further time I have no doubt I could do this. Not being the actual bookkeeper or party handling the cash, I found it very troublesome to trace the items.

BEFORE THE MASTER.

James Baxter Says He Cannot Come to Toronto for Examination.

When the Master in Ordinary took his seat at 11.30 yesterday morning Mr. J. J. Maclaren, Q.C., said he appeared on behalf of Mr. James Baxter of Montreal. Mr. Maclaren put in affidavits and arguments to the effect that it was almost impossible for Mr. Baxter to come to Toronto to give evidence in Central Bank affairs without great personal inconvenience and pecuniary loss. He promised, however, if examined in Montreal, to give all the information in his possession. A statement by Mr. Maclaren that Mr. Baxter was a creditor for the Central Bank seemed to amuse Mr. Foster very much.

In further answer to Mr. Maclaren, Mr. Foster said he would require a day or two to consider whether he would consent to the withdrawl of the Master's order for the apprehension of Baxter for disobeying the court's subpoena, served in Montreal on Jan. 23.

Mr. George C. Gibbons of London was put in the box. It did not take him but a minute to say that he knew nothing "good, bad or indifferent" about the Central Bank failure and its other affairs. Mr. Gibbons seemed greatly surprised that he should be examined.

The Strike in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The report of the Commerce Committee on the Anderson resolution for an investigation of the Reading Railroad strike will be submitted to the House on Tuesday and a motion will be made for unanimous consent to take it up for immediate consideration. The majority report will recommend the reference of the matter to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Representative Raynor, of Maryland, will present the minority report in favor of investigation by a special committee of Congress.

Summons have been issued against Father Kennedy and eight farmers, under the Crimes Act, for attending a meeting of a suppressed branch of the league in Mealin, County Cork. Summonses have also been issued for a similar offence at Kanturk in the same county against eight other persons.

Extensive Evictions in Londonderry—The Question of Treatment in the Case of Father McFadden—The Perils of the Deep—Effects of Poisonous Food.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Mr. W. H. Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, in a speech at Chelsea yesterday, said the government were firm in their intention to enforce the rules, and prevent obstruction of business in Parliament. He said he had no belief in "protection as" a remedy for depression, because countries where protection was carried out to the fullest extent suffered equally with others.

Mr. Gladstone has taken a town house at No. 16 James-street, where he will reside during the coming session of Parliament.

Mr. Firth, formerly Member of Parliament for Chelsea, has been chosen as the Gladstonian candidate for the Dundee Division of Forfarshire.

Mr. Charles Herbert James is about to resign his seat in Parliament. He has represented Merthyr Tydvil since 1880 and is a Liberal and Home Ruler.

Hon. Mr. Mercier is now in London and leaves for Paris to-morrow morning in company with Mr. Garneau.

The trial of Mr. Cox, member for East Clare, on the charge of violating the Crimes Act by addressing the tenants of Kildysart, was begun to-day. The people of Kildysart and the surrounding neighborhood gathered and, headed by priests, marched towards the court house. They were charged by the police, who used their batons freely, and succeeded in clearing the streets. Many persons were injured. The people collected again, and finally the police decided to allow them to remain. The court room was filled with priests.

The trial was adjourned. The people offered no violent resistance to the police to-day, but intense excitement prevails.

Two evictions were made at Kilmohill, County Clare, to-day. The sheriff was protected by 200 policemen. A mob in sympathy with the tenants tolled the chapel bell, groaned and threw missiles at the evictors. The police charged the people and a hot skirmish took place.

Messrs. Roche and Boland, merchants of Longford, have been sentenced to three months' imprisonment each and nine farmers to one month each for taking part in an unlawful assemblage on the occasion of the release from prison of Father Egan.

Mr. T. D. Sullivan will be released from Tullamore Jail to-morrow morning. His wife and a large number of friends have arrived at Tullamore to welcome him. Preparations for a triumphal progress are being made at the towns through which he will pass on his way to Dublin. Numerous addresses and floral gifts are arriving at Tullamore for Mr. Sullivan.

The prison officials have made no change in their treatment of Mr. Blunt. The distinguished prisoner is still confined in a cell, notwithstanding the advice of the prison doctor that he be sent to the hospital.

At a political meeting held at Dundee tonight the Unionist candidate for Parliament was hissed and hooted and the meeting broke up in great disorder.

The statement is repeated to-day that in official quarters there never has been any confident belief that Mr. Chamberlain's mission would be successful. It is said that Mr. Chamberlain from the first foresaw and was forewarned by Lord Salisbury of the true position. Mr. Chamberlain is expected to take passage home by the end of next week.

two leaders of the crofters who have been interviewed by The Pall Mall Gazette urge views on emigration fully confirming my previous cables. It is contended that the Government before spending £150 per family to start the crofters in Manitoba, should advance £50 to give a start in the Old Country. The crofters, however, favor voluntary emigration, provided they can send their own representatives to inspect and report upon the new location. It is worthy of note in connection with State-aided emigration, that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce yesterday discussed the desirability of the Government fostering emigration by every possible means. A resolution to this effect, supported by Sir William Houldsworth, one of the leading advocates of emigration in the Commons, was defeated by only one vote.

There have been five hundred processes and ejectment notices issued at Maugherfelt, Londonderry, against tenants on the Drapers' estate.

Mr. Blane, M.P. for South Armagh, was to-day sentenced to four months' imprisonment, on conviction of inciting tenants to resist the authorities. He gave notice of appeal. BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS FOR THE CURRENT YEAR.

President Ince's Valedictory—A Satisfactory Financial Condition—Mr. Ince Gives a Masterly Review of the Trade of the Dominion.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Fully 400 members of the Board of Trade were present at the annual meeting of that body held in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon. At 3.15 President Wm. Ince called the meeting to order.

The president first called upon the treasurer to present his annual report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1887. Treasurer Geo. Maclean Rose congratulated the board on the healthy condition of its finances and the numerical strength gained during the year. He presented this statement:

Members' annual subscriptions	$ 9,188 00
Entrance fees of 92 members at $100	653 00
Rents for use of rooms	102 50
Transfer fees	29 00
Sales of Statistical Reports	23 50
Interest on bank deposits	247 25
Visiting in all	$10,247 25
Our expenses have amounted to	$ 5,973 98
Leaving the sum of	$ 4,273 27
To be carried forward. This added to the	2,791 47
At your credit at the beginning of the year, gives	$ 7,065 74
Now in hand	7,065 74

During the year 6 new certificates were issued, and 69 transfers were effected. The membership now numbers 913, including 1 life member. Of the above number 238 members have taken advantage of the gratuity scheme. Eight members were lost by death during the year.

The report was received and adopted without discussion.

President Ince arose and for 23 minutes read his farewell address, following the custom of his predecessors. The address was a masterly review of every possible question affecting the trade and commerce, not only of Toronto, but of the Province of Ontario and even the Dominion of Canada. It was divided into the expression of Mr. Ince's opinion on about twenty points and it is regretted that its length, which would occupy the larger part of a World's page, prevents its reproduction in this report. The points of Mr. Ince's address were with reference to:

Grain and Flour—A shortage in Ontario had in part been compensated for by the millers being busy with a bounteous Northwest crop.

Manufactures—While the manufacturing interests appear to be fairly prosperous there is over-production and consequently unremunerative prices in some branches. Persons starting factories should see that there is room for their enterprises.

Lumber and Timber—Reference was made to the satisfactory condition of the past season's trade, to the big amount realised by the recent Ontario Government sale, to the injurious effects of the carpenters' strike, and suggesting that an arrangement to settle differences between employers and employes would be advantageous.

Dry Goods—The results of excessive importations, the forcing of sale upon small margins or at below cost, excessive credit, etc., were referred to. The remedy was the lessening of imports proportionate to the country's consumption. Care in the opening of accounts in distant provinces was also suggested.

Groceries—The chief point made was that the grocerie business had closed with a fair average as to volume and profits, and the profit on sugar had increased. A warning was given against over importation.

Hardware—Doing very well.

Payments—Well maintained, notwithstanding shortage of the cereal crops.

Banking—The business has been better than usual although marked by two suspensions. "Unfortunately the recent suspension of the Central Bank, brought about by reckless mismanagement, has had a disturbing influence, and institutions well conducted and perfectly sound have suffered undeservedly in consequence. It is to be hoped that no attempt will be made for some time to come to establish new banks, those at present in existence being fully sufficient for the requirements of the country for many years."

Insolvency—The need of a Dominion Insolvency Bill and the power of discharge being left in the hands of the creditors was referred to.

Commercial Union—The well-known result of the Board's decision on this subject was communicated.

Property—It was hoped that steps would be taken to erect a building on the site now occupied by the American Hotel and which has been purchased by the Board.

Gratuity Fund—The deaths for the year were reported to have been only ten, while the limit of assessment was only thirteen; the reserve now amounts to $19,000.

The address concluded with references to the banquet to ex-President Darling, to the Governor-General's visit, to the recent annual dinner and to the valuable services of the Secretary.

At the nomination meeting a week ago these officers were elected without opposition:

W. D. MATTHEWS, Jr., grain merchant, President.

JOHN I. DAVIDSON, wholesale grocer, Second Vice-President.

G. M. ROSE, publisher, Treasurer.

The elections yesterday were for First Vice-President, Council, Board of Arbitration, Representatives on Harbor Commission, Representatives on Industrial Exhibition. There were just 469 ballots cast, and of these only three were spoiled. The counting commenced at 3.45 and was not concluded till 5.45.

The vote for First Vice-President resulted:
D. R. WILKIE, Manager Imperial Bank.... 232

The Council—Fifteen Members.

Wm. JOHN MACDONALD, importer dry goods	338
Jas. CRUDDIS, biscuit manufacturer	338
W. R. BROCK, wholesale dry goods merchant	337
Wm. INCE, wholesale grocer	337
H. W. DARLING, importer of dry goods	336
ELIAS ROGERS, coal merchant	311
J. GURNEY, stove manufacturer	311
HUGH BLAIN, wholesale grocer	311
J. M. BAIRD, grain merchant	196
W. B. HAMILTON, boot and shoe manufacturer	171
H. W. ELLIOT, wholesale druggist	171
ROBT. JAFFRAY, president Toronto Real Estate Co.	167
A. M. SMITH, wholesale grocer	165
A. B. LEE, wholesale hardware	156
S. F. MCKINNON, wholesale millinery	146

Board of Arbitration—Twelve Members.

W. D. MATTHEWS, JR., president-elect of the board	353
ELIAS ROGERS, coal merchant	353
J. GURNEY, stove manufacturer	349
WM. GALBRAITH, flour merchant	331
G. M. ROSE, treasurer of the board	323
J. D. LAIDLAW, grain merchant	315
R. CUMBERLAND, steamship agent	305
J. H. G. MCGARVEY, steamship owner	193
THOS. FLYNN, grain merchant	164
J. L. SPINK, miller	163
JOHN SARA, chartered freight agent, G.T.R.	149
R. S. BAIRD (Confederation Life Insurance Co.)	141

The Secretary read a lengthy report regarding the advancement of the Board, which was adopted. Mr. George A. Chapman presented a comprehensive report of the Harbor Trust. On motion of Mr. H. W. Darling, the new president, Mr. Matthews, took the chair and Mr. Ince, the retiring president, was tendered a vote of thanks.

President Matthews made a short introductory speech. He made reference to bucket shops which he described as "leeches upon society." There were about 120 of them in the province and eight of them in Toronto, and he hoped the Board would have influence brought to bear upon the Government to have them wiped out. They were nothing more than gambling places, and if the Government could stop pool selling at horse races they could stop bucket shop dealings. He made reference to a member of the Board who had been concerned in the Central Bank business and hoped such crookedness would be stopped by the Board.

A BATCH OF PETITIONS.

The Ontario Legislature Sits Ten Minutes Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.

Yesterday's session of the Legislature was measured by a very few waggles of the Gallery clock's pendulum. The members took their seats at 3.10 and left them ten minutes later.

These petitions were presented:

By Mr. Hilliard, North Lanark, for assistance to remove obstructions in the Mississippi River, so that a considerable extent of land might be reclaimed.

By Mr. Stewart, Dufferin, for an amendment to the Assessment Act exempting farm stock from assessment, and claiming that it was impossible for assessors to fix the amount stock was worth.

By Mr. Ingram, Elgin, applying for a pension for J. Ellwood, an old man injured in the rebellion of '37.

By Mr. Gibson, of Hamilton, on behalf of Cynthia Fuller, applying for confirmation of certain conveyances and mortgages made by the churchwardens of Christ Church, Hamilton.

By Mr. Widdifield, North York, for leave, in behalf of the Episcopal Methodist Church, Aurora, to enclose a piece of ground for use as a cemetery.

By Mr. Bronson, Ottawa, asking that the Ottawa Orphans' Home be given leave to borrow $6000 on building and site.

By Hon. A. M. Ross, for an amendment to the act relating to mortgages.

By Hon. A. M. Ross for an amendment to the High School Act making it compulsory on high schools and collegiate institute boards to charge a minimum fee to students attending the same.

By Hon. A. M. Ross for an amendment to the Municipal Act, relieving municipal councils of liability for two-thirds the expenditure of license commissioners in towns and cities where the Canada Temperance Act is in force; or an order to have accounts of such expenditure placed before the councils for approval and criticism.

By Mr. Fell, North Victoria, for certain amendments to the Municipal Act so as to enable the Lindsay Town Council to get assistance to carry out necessary sanitary reforms.

Mr. Fraser presented the report of the Special Committee to appoint standing committees. It was adopted. The committees are substantially the same as those of last session.

Legislative Echoes.

The question, "Who's to be the minister?" is still much discussed in the lobbies.

A deputation from Owen Sound, consisting of Mayor Morrison, Councillor Kennedy, License Inspector Dobie and Mr. Chisholm, yesterday waited on the Provincial Secretary with reference to local license matters.

The press representatives have not come to a conclusion as to the allotment of seats in the press gallery. The committee brought in a report recommending that The Empire should have the three first seats on the Opposition side, but the report was sent back for reconsideration.

There is a probability that two or more competent geologists will be appointed to act in conjunction with Mr. Blue in preparing a statement of Ontario's mineral wealth. The name of Gordon Richardson is spoken of as one likely to be appointed.

Colored Carolinians Lynched.

PLYMOUTH, N.C., Jan. 29.—Jack Blount, his brother, Matthew Blount, and Patterson Spruitt, all colored, were taken from jail by a masked mob on Thursday night and shot to death. They were charged with killing John Dawson, a pedlar, on New Year's Day.

FARMING EXPERIMENTS.

The next annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union will be held at the Agricultural College, Guelph, on February 16th and 17th. Since its formation several years ago, this organization has done a great deal to advance the cause of the farmer, and it deserves the co-operation of all progressive agriculturists. Its work is all the more necessary in these days of small profits. The following with respect to the objects of the Association is taken from the Secretary's circular, and will be of interest to every enterprising farmer:—

The Union is composed of students, ex-students, and the officers, past and present, of the Agricultural College. In order to secure the co-operation of the Farmers, the Presidents of the various Agricultural Societies have been elected honorary members of the Union. The above, and many others interested in the advancement of agriculture are invited to take part in such experiments as the committee appointed by the Union may decide upon.

The course of testing during the last two years has been for the object of obtaining a better practical knowledge of the effects of some of the most easily procured Canadian fertilizers upon cereal crops. No less than 180 packages of fertilizers, and 330 packages of grain have been sent free of charge from the Experimental Farm to members of the Union and other prominent agriculturists during the last season. The results of the tests will come before the next annual meeting. Many farmers are desirous of gaining a better acquaintance with the most economical methods of obtaining the greatest results from their fields, stock, etc., and often resolve to do a little testing on their own farm. The advantage of co-operative experimenting is that each individual, while making the tests, knows that many others over the Province are carrying on precisely the same line of work, with which comparison of results can be made. The compilation of such tests is almost certain to afford very valuable information. Experiments in fruit culture, dairying, stock feeding and raising, bee-keeping, and results from other experiments outside of the systematic Union work are also solicited and if sent in and approved will be published in the annual report.

It will be seen from the above that the Union has a worthy object in view, and has entered upon a new and useful field of labor. In order to be of the greatest benefit to the country, the co-operation not only of every ex-student, but of every intelligent farmer is required to conduct experiments and give results from all parts of the Province. This body is growing year by year in strength and usefulness. Prominent agriculturists were at our meeting last year from whom we heard expressions which were very pleasing and encouraging, and which give us reason to expect their presence at the coming meeting. Several also joined us in the experimental work during the last season.

The next annual meeting of the Union will be held at the Agricultural College, Guelph, on Feb. 16th and 17th, and a hearty invitation is issued to all to be present, and join in the discussions, and assist in such work as may claim the attention of the meeting.

Any one desirous of attending the next meeting can secure reduced rates by applying to the Corresponding Secretary for railway certificates, which must be filled in at the railway ticket office at time of purchasing the ticket.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Manitoba Fever in Russell County—Return of the Commissioners.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—A meeting of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council was held this morning to consider a point in dispute between the Canadian Pacific, Lake St. John, and Quebec, Charlevoix and Montmorency railways and the Harbor Trust of Quebec, touching the rights of these corporations in connection with a railway track on the St. Charles River. The railway corporations wanted a connection with and desires to control a track along the works. To avoid trouble in the future similar to that which exists in connection with the Toronto Esplanade, the Harbor Trust were anxious to have all the lines make their connections at a certain point and at their own expense. They finally came to such an agreement which was approved of by the committee. The Quebec, Charlevoix and Montmorency Railway also asked for the approval of certain plans of a bridge over the St. Charles River above the works, but no definite settlement of this question was arrived at.

The Department of Fisheries offer a reward of $60 to any person who furnishes such information as will lead to the conviction of the person or persons who on Nov. 5 last at Lansdowne Bay fired several shots at Mr. John G. Wallace, fishery overseer at Wallace Island.

The custom officers at Quebec have seized a large quantity of jewelry valued at $16,000, the property of Mr. D. Levi, a German merchant, who had brought it into Canada for trade purposes while making a tour of the country in company with his wife and which he neglected to report for enter on arrival at Quebec, being under the impression that the customs laws in Canada and Great Britain were similar, and the articles were not subject to duty. In consideration of his ignorance of Canadian law, and the fact that he appeared to act without any intention of deliberate fraud the Minister of Customs has consented to a release of the seizure on payment of the legal duty on the goods with a mitigated fine of $400 imposed in consequence of Mr. Levi having failed to avail himself of such means as would enable him to understand the requirement of the law.

Mr. Cunningham Stewart will enter upon his duties as comptroller of postal finances to-morrow, when the new arrangements in the Postoffice Department will come into force.

A considerable number of farmers in the vicinity of Winchester, Russell County, are making arrangements for an early move to Manitoba, and it is likely that many others will follow their example.

There is some expectation that Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. Mr. Thompson will return from Washington next week. The impression continues to gain ground that the commissioners are arriving at an agreement which will definitely settle certain points of difference between Canada and the United States and open the way to a settlement being reached on other points.

Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, left for Quebec this afternoon. He will return on Friday. Senator Howland had an interview to-day with the Postmaster-General with reference to the winter service between Prince Edward Island and the Mainland.

THE FISHERY NEGOTIATIONS.

Another Session Yesterday—The Alaskan Boundary Matter.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The Fisheries Conference was in session this afternoon and resumes to-morrow.

Dr. Dawson of Ottawa, who is expected to arrive to-morrow, and Prof. Dall of the Smithsonian Institution will, it is understood, confer together and report to the plenipotentiaries such data and information as will enable the conference to discuss more satisfactorily and intelligently the Alaskan boundary matter.

Mr. Weldon, M.P. for St. John, is here on his return trip from Cuba. Messrs. Kemper and Perrault of the Kemper syndicate are in the city.

A Surprise.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—A Washington despatch says: "The Fishery Commissioners and the State Department have furnished a surprise. Late last night a message was presented to the Senate in executive session, containing a draft of a treaty relative to the fisheries. The nature of the draft cannot be stated from any definite official knowledge, but it is believed that the draft proposes to refer the subject in dispute to arbitration."

Resolution for an Open Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Riddleberger (Va.) offered a resolution that the treaty between this Government and that of Great Britain, now before the Senate in executive session, be considered in open session and asked for its immediate consideration. Under objection the resolution went over.

MANITOBA POLITICS.

Greenway Likely to Go in by Acclamation—Liberal Opposition to Jones.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 31.—Attorney-General Martin's return is being hotly opposed. A meeting was held to-night at Portage at which Mr. Norquay and others spoke. Mr. Greenway is likely to be returned by acclamation. Mr. Pendergast has two opponents.

The Sun to-night says Liberal opposition to Treasurer Jones still exists.

Political Notes.

MORRISBURG, Jan. 31.—J. P. Whitney (Conservative) was elected in Dundas to-day over Dr. Chamberlain by a majority of 32. Dr. Chamberlain is the unseated Reform (local) candidate.

MILTON, Jan. 31.—The nominations for the House of Commons took place here to-day. Mr. David Henderson of Acton was the Conservative nominee, and Mr. Wm. McLeod of Georgetown was nominated by the Liberals.

COLBORNE, Jan. 31.—The election (local) for East Northumberland takes place to-morrow. The candidates are Dr. Willoughby (unseated, Con.,) and Richard Clarke, Reform.

Proposed Reductions in U.S. Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Chairman Mills said yesterday that the Tariff Bill would not be ready for two weeks. In general the proposed reduction will be $25,000,000 from internal taxes and $60,000,000 from customs as follows: On woollen goods $10,000,000, free wool $4,000,000, cottons and other articles of general use $15,000,000, sugar 20 per cent., making about $10,000,000, steel rails reduced to $13 a ton, pig iron $4.50 a ton, chemicals, a large reduction by articles enumerated. To the free list, besides wool, will be added coal, iron ore, salt and lumber. The reduction of the tax on manufactured tobacco, exclusive of cigars and cigarettes and other minor items, is expected to make up $35,000,000 from this source.

Verdict in the Lacrosse Libel Suit.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—The jury in the lacrosse libel suit brought in the following verdict to-night: 1. Were the said publications substantially true? A—No. 2. If not did the plaintiff thereby suffer damage, and at what sum, if any, do you fix said damage? A—None. His Honor said they had better withdraw their verdict and return one for a cent or two of damages. The jury added: "At the suggestion of the court, we assess the damages at 25 cents."

Bowmanville Beats Whitby.

OSHAWA, Jan. 31.—The match played in the new curling rink here to-day between Whitby and Bowmanville resulted in favor of the latter by 11 shots.

Tried to Run the Town.

RAPID CITY, Dak., Jan. 31.—Yesterday two cowboys, named Arthur and Potts, attempted to run the town of Buffalo Gap. The citizens killed both of them.

TO THE PUBLIC:

AS my agreement with the Scott Act Association expired on Dec. 31st, and I am no longer in their employ, I beg to inform you that I have opened a Boot & Shoe Store

In Dunsford's New Block East of Market,

where I hope to receive a share of public support in Custom work and repairs. Several attempts to boycott me have been made because of my connection with the Scott Act, to prevent me from obtaining employment, but I am not afraid of opposition under any circumstances, and will endeavor to give to all the value of their money, and use only the best material, and employ the best workmen, so that I can rue Prohibition in the shoe trade, and Prohibit even water from acting at your soles to upset your understandings, as I have the remedy to heal it all.

As I have launched my bark in the temperance tide, will you help me to keep it afloat?

FIRE AT ST. THOMAS.

Losses and Insurance—A Bystander Overcome With Excitement Drops Dead.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 31.—Fire broke out at 12.30 this morning in J. J. Blackmore's hardware and house furnishing establishment, starting probably in oily rags which had accumulated about the oil tank. Following are the losses: building, owned by the estate of the late Lewis Samuel of Toronto, $4000, insured in Norwich Union for $2000; J. J. Blackmore's stock $15,000, insured for $1500 in Hartford, $3000 British American, $2000 Imperial, $1500 Northern; building occupied by James Ashison, hardware, $600, insured for $2000 in Phoenix; James Ashison on stock $1600; Criterion restaurant building $300, fully insured; contents $400, insured for $1200 in London, Liverpool & Globe; Foster's drug store $100, fully insured.

Lost Her Lover and Her Reason.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 31.—For some time a young man named Blakely has been paying attention to Miss Estes, a 16-year-old girl, living at Wallace, Mo. Her family objected to Blakely, but on Sunday night the couple attended church, and after the service they were met outside by Peter Estes, the girl's father, and William, her 19-year-old brother. A quarrel arose between Blakely and the Estes, which resulted in father and son killing Blakely. The girl has lost her reason.

The Old Silver Spoon.

How fresh in my mind are the days of my sickness,
When I tossed me in pain, all fevered and sore;
The burning, the nausea, the sinking and weakness,
And even the old spoon that my medicine bore.
The old silver spoon the family spoon,
The sick-chamber spoon that my medicine bore.

How loth were my fever-parched lips to receive it,
How nauseous the stuff that it bore to my tongue,
And the pain at my inwards, oh, naught could relieve it,
Though tears of disgust from my eyeballs it wrung.
The old silver spoon, the medicine spoon,
How awful the stuff that it left on my tongue.

Such is the effect of nauseous, griping medicines which make the sick-room a rendezvous of horror. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, on the contrary, are small, sugar-coated, easy to take, purely vegetable and perfectly effective. 25 cents a vial. a

The Postal Tactics.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—What appears to be a veritable tempest in a teapot has been caused by reports published in some of the Conservative newspapers that Mr. L. O. David, M.P.P. for Montreal East and a leading light of the National party, had in an address, delivered at Holyoke, declared in favor of the annexation of Canada to the United States. The Loyalist organs at once took him to task for his alleged utterances, and charged him with a gross lack of patriotism in desiring to do away with the French-Canadian nationality. It now turns out that Mr. David did not make use of the expressions attributed to him; and that, in fact, he did not even refer in his speech to the question of annexation. The Conservative press, however, are endeavoring to make capital out of the incident, notwithstanding Mr. David's emphatic denial.

Death of an Aged Lady at London.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Eliza M., widow of the late Samuel Glass, died very suddenly yesterday from paralysis, in the 77th year of her age. The deceased lady, who was born in Armagh, Ireland, came to this section of the country in 1819, while the site of London was yet a dense forest. In 1876 Mr. and Mrs. Glass celebrated their golden wedding, Mr. Glass dying one year later, while his widow enjoyed uninterrupted health until yesterday. Five sons survived Mrs. Glass: William, who is Sheriff of Middlesex; Samuel and Archibald, also residents of this city; David Glass, Q.C., of Winnipeg, and James, a resident of Detroit. Mrs. Glass was a worthy member of the Methodist denomination and was highly esteemed by a wide circle of acquaintances and friends.

No hopes are now entertained of the recovery of Vicar-General Bruyere, who is suffering from paralysis.

It is rumored that one of them will resign in a day or two and that the other two will try to qualify.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, lamb-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, if is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and comprise largely, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of presents. All the staff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realising a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95, Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 99c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchels cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

The Star of Bethlehem.

Science is all very well in its way, but those citizens of Peterborough who a month or two ago upset the coal scuttle and barked their shins, besides losing a night's rest, in their anxiety to see the star of Bethlehem in the east, will be disgusted with the following article, which has a striking tendency to knock out the popular belief on the subject and placard them as ignoramuses :—"The English scientific journal, Nature, calls attention to the singular craze now, it would appear, widely prevalent in England concerning the alleged re-appearance in the heavens of the Star of Bethlehem, and which has been observed in Canada and talked of as the re-appearance of the star that led the shepherds to Christ. The star which the ignorant people, amongst whom the craze obtains, insist upon regarding as the Star of Bethlehem, is simply the planet Venus shining in her usual place as Morning Star. She has been very brilliant of late, but not more so than she always is at the same point in her course round the sun. And yet, in connection with this quite ordinary occurrence, there has risen, says Nature, "a flood of superstitious fears only to be equalled in modern times by that which the members of the Eclipse expidition observed in Grenada last year among the semi-civilized inhabitants of that island."

Incompatible Positions.

A correspondent of the Montreal Herald, alluding to the recent meeting of the new insurance company of which Sir John Macdonald is president, says :—"It is rather unfortunate that Sir John, in thanking the audience for the gift of his portrait, should have alluded to 'corruption and boodle principles,' at least failing to find a place in life insurance! Surely he could not have reflected on the position he now occupies before the public of being the victim of the most glaring case of charlatanism ever perpetrated in his career. No one has objection to Sir John as a private individual receiving the honor and emoluments of the presidency of any company, but when he prostitutes his public position as the civil head of the nation to further the interests of a commercial enterprise, one of whose claims to public patronage is the proud position its president holds—which, in fact, is the Joker, and used solely for that purpose among benighted people — it is time for the more sensible public and those with some degree of honor left, to protest. I would ask Sir John where he can find a parallel for his present anomalous position! Not at least among English statesmen nor even among Canadian. Mr. Mackenzie accepted his presidency only when he ceased to be Prime Minister! The late Luther H. Holton held the honor of Parliament and purity of action so sacred that to my personal knowledge he resigned, before entering the House, his position as director in an insurance office a bank and a chipping company, and further disposed of his stock, not to be trammelled by any influence when doing his duty to the public. Better increase Sir John's salary by the $4,000 he may receive from the company than allow his name to be sullied by a lot of hungry insurance agents who were as loud in their praise of Mr. Mackenzie last year as they are of Sir John this year."

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

Bismarck Thinks it Will Undergo a Prolonged but Peaceful Solution.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—The Bundesrath to-day fixed the sum for carrying out the provisions of the new Military Bill at 281,500,000 marks. The bill was immediately afterward introduced in the Reichstag.

It is reported that Prince Bismarck in a recent conversation expressed the conviction that the international situation would undergo a prolonged but peaceful solution. At the same time Prince Bismarck considers it possible that Russia may preserve the Bulgarian question as an open sore with a view to further political chances.

Provisions Ordered for 200,000 Men.

VIENNA, Jan. 31.—The commissariat of Bessarabia has been ordered to supply provisions and fodder for an army of 200,000 men.

Baron Fejervary and Count Pejecsvich, Hungarian Minister of Defence and Commander-in-Chief, have arrived here for the purpose of being present at the military councils, which have been resumed.

It is rumored that Turkey has asked the Russian Government to explain the massing of troops upon her frontier.

Austria Will Inquire What it Wants.

VIENNA, Jan. 31.—A report is current in diplomatic circles here that the armaments still proceeding in the interior of Russia will shortly form the subject of a formal inquiry on the part of Austria.

Russian Opinion.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 31.—The Novoe Vremya has a leading editorial article to-day on the prospects of war. The writer expresses the opinion "That the nations of Europe ought really not to break their necks for the sake of Bulgaria."

TORONTO TOPICS.

C. L. Van Wormer, the well known weekly payment storekeeper and proprietor of the Grand Pacific Hotel, made an assignment yesterday for the benefit of his creditors.

The duty collected at Toronto for the month of January was $368,992.80, as against $379,625.96 for the corresponding month last year, being a decrease of $10 633.16.

At London yesterday Raymond & Thorne's hat and fur stock was sold for 55½ cents on the $1 to R. C. McPhee & Co. Smith & Bryson of Trenton are offering 75 cents on the $1. A great many unfair comments have been made about this failure.

The Master-in-Ordinery was engaged all yesterday afternoon at Osgoode Hall hearing evidence in the dispute between Mr. George Gooderham and the estate of John Turner of ferry boat fame. The dispute between the parties amounts to $1700, and is the outcome of Mr. Gooderham's advancing $22,000 on the steamers of the line, in anticipation that he would get the exclusive privilege of running them to the Island, and their subsequent transfer to the Doty Brothers. This estate has proven one of the most troublesome that Trustee E. R. C. Clarkson ever handled.

It leaked out at the meeting of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Club last night that J. S. Lyon and S. T. Moore, two of its members, were also members of the Young Men's Liberal Club. This led after some discussion to the introduction of a notice of motion requesting them to withdraw, and an alteration of the constitution so as to preclude any such contingency again arising.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Appointment Always Agreeable to Mr. Speaker—Chairmen of the Standing Committees Appointed.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.

The Speaker took the chair at 3 o'clock.

Dr. Widdifield presented the report of the Committee on Standing Orders.

The following bills were introduced and read the first time.

Mr. French—To amend the Act respecting mortgages. He explained the bill was simply to define the law respecting arrears of interest.

Mr. Lees—To amend the Canadian Road Companies Act.

Mr. Garson—Respecting the examination of engineers and inspectors of boilers.

Mr. McKay—Respecting the prevention of accidents by fire in hotels and other public buildings.

Mr. Nairn—Respecting the conditional sale of chattels.

Mr. Wallace—Respecting the Municipal Act; also, to amend the Assessment Act; also, to amend the Ditches and Watercourses Act; also, to enable the widows and unmarried women to vote for members of the Legislature. (Laughter, and cries of "Carried.")

Mr. French—To authorize the appointment of fit guardians and prevention of bush fires.

Mr. Meredith called attention to the issue of supply of Government bills. He referred especially to the bill respecting the closing of shops.

Hon. Mr. Mowat said an extra edition would be issued of the Bill.

The House adjourned at 3.30 p.m.

The following notices of motion were given:

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton)—on Friday next—Order of the House for a return, furnishing (a) copy of description of that portion of the Queen's park appropriated for the purpose of the new Parliament buildings; (b) copy of all correspondence between the Government and the authorities of the University of Toronto regarding compensation for such land; (c) copy of all valuations of such lands.

Mr. Clarke (Wellington)—Bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Balfour—Bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Garson—Bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. French—Order of the House for a return from each registrar of deeds in the province showing the number of instruments registered against lands which purport to have been made for the purpose of procuring credit, on the sale of goods or whereby a purchaser of goods merely represents that he owns certain lands.

Around the Rotunda.

The farmers of the House met yesterday and organized for the session. There were about thirteen members present, both political parties being fairly represented. The object of the meetings will be to consider any proposed legislation affecting agriculture, as well as deliberate on all matters relating to municipal law, with a view to make amendments in the interests of the industry which the members represent. The meeting, after appointing Mr. Dewey chairman and Mr. Awrey secretary, considered the necessary rules and regulations to guide their meetings. A committee was appointed to draw up these, and the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

The standing committees met yesterday for the purpose of organization. The only changes in the heads of the committees from that of last session is, that Mr. Fraser takes Mr. Pardee's place as chairman of railways. The other will be recorded over as follows: Privileges and Elections, Mr. Hardy; Printing, Mr. Rykert; Standing Orders, Mr. Widdifield; Municipal, Mr. Hardy; Private Bills, Mr. Gibson (Hamilton). The Public Accounts Committee did not meet.

Mr. Balfour has a bill before the House to abolish the powers which municipalities now have of granting bonuses to manufacturing industries within their precincts.

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

JOHN GAMBLE FOUND GUILTY OF LIZZIE BRAY'S MURDER.

The Prisoner's Trial in the Assize Court Yesterday—"Guilty, With a Strong Recommendation for Mercy"—March 6 Fixed as the Day of Execution.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 21, a coroner's jury held an enquiry into the cause of death of Lizzie Bray, who it was supposed had died from the effects of an abortion. The deceased lived at 69 Walton street and had been intimate with a young man named John Gamble, also a boarder in the house. Gamble had come up from Bowmanville, where he was well known and respectably connected, about six months before Miss Bray's death.

At the inquest Mrs. Mary Ann Parsons, an aunt of the deceased girl, told how Lizzie had lived with her since she was 3 years of age. She had been employed at the Crompton Corset Company. A few days before the girl's death Mrs. Parsons received an anonymous letter asking her if she thought there was anything wrong between her neice and Gamble. Eight or nine weeks before this Gamble had been ordered out of the house by Mrs. Parsons, who told him that she did not want him—a married man—going about with Lizzie. Gamble went. Four weeks after Gamble had left the house Lizzie had stayed away two days and two nights, saying she had gone to visit a young lady friend, but Mrs. Parsons ascertained she had been with Gamble and told the coroner she was certain that Gamble was the man, because she was told by her boarders that such was the case and because since the girl's death she had learned that Lizzie had told a lady boarder that Gamble was the cause of the trouble. A married sister of Lizzie had seen her drinking some liquid out of a flask a few days before the death.

Yesterday morning when the case was called in the Assize Court before Mr. Justice Rose Cambridge the court room was crowded. Mr. Murdoch conducted the prisoner Gamble who pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder, looked rather broken up when he entered the dock. His sallow complexion and general appearance showed that the crime with which he was charged had worried him considerably. For the greater part of the day he leaned his head on his hand and remained in a corner of the dock. When Mrs. Parsons was put in the box he straightened up and eyed her closely. He bestowed his counsel to him only once, and that was when Mr. Murdoch was cross-examining Lillie Bray, Lizzie's sister.

Mr. Murdoch called the prisoner's mother and brother to give evidence as to good character.

In his address to the jury Mr. Murdoch held that the abortion might have been performed by the girl herself. All along Gamble had told everybody who spoke to him that he had too much sense to get the girl into trouble. He had told Lillie Bray that he had an intension of working for a miscarriage.

Mr. Lount in his address to the jury reminded them that an attempt to commit an abortion was equivalent to having committed the crime. He went over the case and laid special stress on the testimony of the deceased girl's aunt, Mrs. Parsons, and of her sister, holding that there was proof that the prisoner and Lizzie had been intimate. The fact that Gamble had left town and gone to the States, Mr. Lount held, was an acknowledgment that he had been concerned in the girl's death.

His Lordship's review of the evidence was brief, but he forcibly impressed upon the jurors the grave and responsible nature of their duties and pointed them on the law governing the case.

The jury retired at 5.30 and was still out when the Court rose at 6 o'clock for two hours' recess.

When His Lordship took his seat at 8 o'clock the jury had been out for 2½ hours, and a constable told the Judge that the verdict was ready. The jury was called in and Foreman W. J. Louden said: "We find the prisoner guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy." Everybody was amazed. His Lordship looked as surprised as any of them. Gamble leaned his head on the rail and broke down completely. Mr. Murdoch had the jury polled and every man of them said "guilty." Mr. Lount asked for the sentence of the Court. His Lordship sentenced Gamble to be hanged on March 6; intimating that the recommendation for mercy would be forwarded to the Department of Justice.

Gamble stood up and faltered "I am an innocent man, Your Lordship," and then sank into his seat.

THE COLLIERS' STRIKE.

Several Hundred Men and Boys at Work in the Williams Penn Mine.

READING, Pa., Feb. 1.—Every highway to the coal breaker of the William Penn colliery was guarded this morning by members of the Strike Committee and all miners who approached to go to work were appealed to not to go in. Many said they were in need of money and had to go to work. Money was offered and a number accepted it and went home. The superintendent of the colliery reports that he has several hundred men and boys at work. If individual collieries can ship coal on Reading cars without molestation the strike may end quickly.

THOSE CREMATED NOTES.

CASHIER BROOKE TELLS WHAT HE KNOWS OF BURNING BANK BILLS.

Evidence of Mr. Campbell's Efficiency as Liquidator of the Standard Bank—Something About that $6000 Draft—A Batch of Examiner's Correspondence.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.

Special Examiner J. Bruce took a hand in the Central Bank muddle at his chambers in the Court House yesterday. Nine banking gentlemen were examined in support of Mr. Campbell's affidavit in answer to the petition of Messrs. Gemmell, Gemmell and Howland. Mr. J. H. Cowan, who is assisting Mr. Foster in behalf of the liquidators, was present.

Mr. J. L. Beatty, cashier of the Standard Bank, was the first on the stand. He explained, in reply to Mr. Bain's inquiry, the system adopted in destroying mutilated bank notes. The way in which the Central Bank notes were destroyed immediately after the suspension, was, so far as he knew, the proper one. The only time new notes were ever destroyed in the bank he remembered was when the Dominion Government called in the denomination of $5s.

Mr. R. H. Bethune, General Manager of the Dominion Bank, was examined on the same point. He held that it was proper to burn up mutilated bills which could not be restored, as there was more or less risk in keeping them. He said to Mr. Cayley, though, that burning new notes would prevent issuing by mistakes. If there was an object in issuing the notes, it would be an improper thing to burn new notes after the suspension of the Central Bank, as such a thing were done. To Mr. Bain, he said that the authority to burn notes of any kind would come from the directors. Then to Mr. Cayley he remembered a $6000 draft being cashed at his bank some two years ago, drawn by R. I. G. Bellette and accepted by the Central Bank. It was either Magnus David, James Baxter or their agent that presented it, and he went over to Mr. Allen to see if it was properly accepted. Witness told him of Barnett's steady character. Mr. Allen replied that he held good collaterals in it.

Mr. H. P. Dwight, one of the directors of the bank, said he was present at the burning of the notes. He thought it was a proper thing to do, as he could not look customers to it. The notes were all counted, the then value being $22,482,80. They were 20's and 5's. The odd 80s was made by the destruction of a $100 of a $20 bill. They were all carefully inspected by himself and Mr. S. Trees, and afterwards by Mr. Campbell. Witness was questioned by both counsel as to whether Mr. Campbell did or did not get the consent of the Board of Directors to destroy them; neither could remember dates, but Mr. Campbell came to town the next day after the board meeting at Mr. Blake's house, and at that meeting Mr. Blake announced that he had telegraphed for Mr. Campbell. He understood that the directors were agreed as to the destruction of the notes.

The evidence of Mr. S. Trees, Vice-President of the Colonial, corroborated that of Mr. Dwight.

Mr. H. Beaden was next called. He had heard of the $6000 draft in 1885. He had known it in Toronto and talked of it in Montreal with Mr. Campbell. "He did not dissuade me," said Mr. Campbell brushed the subject.

Mr. A. B. Ord's testimony went to show that Mr. Campbell had been worked hard to introduce liquidator and as permanent liquidator. As accountants of the bank he and all the clerks were hard at work just after the suspension. The preparation of statements could not have been undertaken by the staff without impeding the work. The bank inspector was the same to that done in ordinary banking institutions. He had never seen Mr. Campbell obstruct Mr. Howland or Mr. Gemmell. He had received instructions from Mr. Campbell to give them any information he could.

C. S. Mickleborough and J. P. Mickleborough, clerks at the bank, testified as to Mr. Campbell's hard work and the difficulty there would have been to get into the documents Messrs. Gemmell and Howland asked for.

Mr. W. B. Caswell, broker, denied that Mr. Campbell ever offered to sell him Dominion bonds. Mr. Campbell told him to make an offer and he offered 101. Mr. Campbell did not signify any willingness to accept the offer.

Mr. Dobson, recalled, said that the $6000 draft had been negotiated at their bank for James Baxter.

COMING LEGISLATION.

Hon. Mr. Fraser has introduced into the Ontario Legislature the bill foreshadowed in the speech from the throne in relation to the regulation of the employment of minors in retail shops. The bill proposes to give municipalities power to fix hours for the closing of retail shops or shops in any general line of trade, and declares that no boy under fourteen and no girl under sixteen years of age may work for more than 74 hours a week, but in doing not limit upon the equal number of hours' work on each day of the week. It is intended that in case, where three-fourths of the storekeeps of any town or village municipality, or any class of those storekeepers petition the council, that the stores generally of those of the particular class in question to close during that part or all any part of any year, or all day throughout the day, it shall be compulsory on the council to pass by-laws to that effect. The compulsory clauses of the bill have the same tendency as those of the Factory Act, designed to protect persons of young and tender years from being subjected to such long hours of labor as to endanger their health. That this legislation is in every in the right direction cannot be denied. Children of immature physique and tender age are liable to receive permanent injury by being forced to too long confinement in close shops. The greed or necessity of parents and the greed of employers make them oblivious to this danger, and here the Government very properly steps in to act as parents. It is desirable too, that early closing movements should be facilitated by statutory enactment. Clerks and salesmen are often subjected to arduous confinement and unreasonably long hours, and the past has shown that voluntary compacts between employers and employed seem to be violated by some one; and the entire agreement thus violated. Compulsory closing of definite hours, as provided for in the bill, can work no injustice. All will be placed upon an equal footing, and the public will soon learn to understand their convenience to terms of business adopted by the several establishments concerned.

It is now in order for the enemies of Hon. Edward Blake to resort that he has gone over to Rome. The latest information from Mr. Blake is that he is in Rome and is enjoying better health. It is not expected that he will take his seat in parliament during the coming session, but he will return to Canada before autumn."

The proposed new United States tariff bill proposes a reduction which will diminish the yearly revenue above seventy-five million dollars, twenty-five million on internal taxation and the balance on customs. The bill proposes to add wool, coal, iron ore, salt and lumber to the free list. The removal of the tax from coal will give an impetus to the export trade of Canadian coal mines, in both the eastern and western extremities of the Dominion.

O'Donovan Rossa's funds must be getting low. The money he has swindled confiding servant girls and other dupes out of, on the plea of devoting the funds they contributed to the cause of Ireland, has been spent in riotous living. And now the scoundrel is making another appeal to patriotic credulity. He advises a policy of dynamite and assassination and a discontinuance of constitutional struggle. But the real friends of Ireland know almost the opposite to be policy to their country upon a plane which commands the sympathy of all [illegible] promise to be realized for Irish [illegible] but it's whiskey he wants and he expects a new dynamite fund would fill the need. But he is too late. The Irish cause is to triumph by peaceful methods to be imperilled by the adoption of the counsels of blood and violence. Nothing would delight the enemies of Irish constitutional agitation better than the barbarous policy of Rossa, and the colleagues in the Tory Government justified by the adoption by the Irish party of a policy of allied brutality and violent disregard of the canons of christian civilization.

Isaiah Yeomans and his two sons, James and Robert, live together in the one house. For the past two months the father has been of unbalanced mind, at times violently so, and the boys were rather afraid of him. On Thursday of last week the younger son, Robert, went to Pine Grove for a supply of provisions, arriving home again Sunday morning. James asked why, and his father replied, "You are going to with it." "No, father," replied the son, "I wouldn't do that." He went on with his shaving preparations, without paying any attention to his father's motions, when suddenly he heard a pistol report and a bullet struck him about in the centre of the forehead. He fell back over the chair and sat stunned for a few minutes, when, recovering sufficiently, he groped his way [illegible] bleeding profusely from the wound. After a few minutes he came to [illegible] the house, but found the door locked, and his father refused to let him [illegible] so proceeded also to cut his throat. In this condition he was found by his brother Robert, who returned shortly afterwards. Thinking the bullet was lodged in James' brain, Robert got water and dressed the wound as best he could and started out for assistance. He first met a settler, but as the neighbors were afraid of the old man he refused to go back with him. Robert then tramped again to Pine Lake and secured some help, but soon after [illegible] Pine Lake.

[illegible] THE PRISONER

in the [illegible] Early [illegible] back. Then Robert laid an information before a Justice of the Peace, a warrant was placed in a constable's hands, and with the officer of the law he returned to his home. In the meantime the settler first [illegible] had gone to Lakefield and informed Constable Cochrane. He reached [illegible] Tuesday night and swore out a warrant before J. F. Hall. Wednesday morning constables Cochrane and McElmeyle, Dr. Bell and the settler in question started for the north, but when a short distance beyond Buckhorn they met the Pine Lake constable with his prisoner and the two brothers. A transfer was made to the Lakefield officers, who returned to the village. The prisoner received a preliminary trial before J. F. Hall, who committed him for trial. Last night he was brought to town and lodged in the jail here.

[illegible] WOUND

is not a mortal one. By the [illegible] the bandages of gunny sacks, the injured man explained that [illegible] James Yeomans has a [illegible] forehead, sloping away to the roots of the hair. It is supposed he was sitting with his head well thrown back, when the bullet intended for his brother glanced off and made only a slight wound. This shooting was done with a heavy 38 calibre [illegible] revolver.

Cupid Matters Forty.

Everybody voted the "old-fashioned hop" given by Capt. and Mrs. A. McNeil, on behalf of Canton Peterborough, in the roller rink last night, the most enjoyable and thoroughly appreciated "hoe-down," (as one of the guests remarked,) of the season. It was an informal gathering of the most intimate friends of the host and hostess, and to say that the latter succeed in making their guests "at home," and in generally [illegible] a pleasant evening's entertainment, will but feebly express the [illegible] the hundred [illegible] delighted devotees of Terpsichore who whirled through the dizzy mazes of the waltz and the rythmic regularity of the figure dance to excellent music supplied by Prof. Dorsey's orchestra. Mr. J. Coughlin acted most efficiently as floor manager. The programme of dances comprised a great variety of the old-fashioned "sets" including the time-honored and vivacious Irish jig, which, perhaps, was the cause of more merriment than all the other events of the evening. The spacious hall was handsomely decorated with flags, banners and bunting of variegated colors, from which the gaslight cast a soft reflection upon the gay assembly beneath. In the refreshment room Mr. W. B. Bowman catered satisfactorily to the needs of vigorous appetites. Taken altogether the "party" [illegible] was the most generally successful one of the season. Many and hearty were the congratulations showered upon Mr. and Mrs. McNeil by the departing guests, who left for their homes only when the programme was exhausted, about 4 a.m.

[illegible] Lakefield Public School [illegible] Monday evening, and much credit is due the teachers for their success in [illegible] the exercises and entertainment of the Little folks. In the early part of the evening excellent refreshments were distributed to the pupils, supplemented with some of the entertainment with little packets of sweets. After the feast a very entertaining musical programme, introduced by the pastor, was given. It consisted of songs, choruses, glees, recitations, etc. The little people who took part were Lizzie Dawson, Lily Pratt, Lily Foot, Sarah Comstock, Maggie and Lily Fronts, Herbert Foster, Thos. Bradley, Willie Cook, the Misses Woodhead, Annie Sherwood and Hilda and Clara Hoag. Miss Cottingham also rendered a solo and Miss Louie Yeomans contributed a violin solo. The entertainment closed with a very entertaining exhibition of magic lantern slides, which met with enthusiastic expressions of [illegible] The [illegible] of work fell to Miss Hilda Hall, who supplied all the piano accompaniments in a very satisfactory manner.

[illegible] Harvest.

[illegible] a fire broke out in the stables in rear of the residence of Mrs. John Rodgers, Queen Street, Lakefield. The building, was a wooden one and was closely surrounded by other wooden structures, which, if the fire had spread beyond the first place would probably have swept that side of the street. But the [illegible] brigade, under the gallant captain, Jennison Grills, worked heroically and succeeded in confining the fire to the stables of Mrs. Rodgers, though Eastland's building was only about four feet distant. Origin of the fire, loss and insurance not known.

Prof. Dorsey's orchestra will be present at Mrs. Dever Social to-night.

CHRISTIANS IN THE WORLD

Their Responsibilities and Duties.

SERMON BY LATHAM.

(Written for the Examiner.)

There are a great many pretending Christians in the world but very few real ones. So few are they, if this [illegible] of the [illegible] they may almost be told off to their [illegible] presence is like the earth with a dark night with here and there, at long intervals, dim [illegible] sparsely distributed, but [illegible] lamps to guide the traveller on his way. All the intervening spaces are in darkness and full of troubles and difficulties, but the dim lights in the distance give encouragement and hope. Hope to the weary soul as it passes into eternity. Europe and America are called Christian lands and their peoples Christian peoples. But the vast majority of them are so only in name. The Bible stands as an open book before them, but they scarcely look upon its pages or understand their contents; and if too real, true, Christ-like Christians were required to save the lives of a million of their fellow creatures it is doubtful if they could be found—found any saving them irrespective of [illegible] to save from destruction a great city. The religious prospect of the world is dark and gloomy. Four-fifths of the earth's surface is occupied by barbarians and heathens. And in the major part of it the Bible is unknown. Population is rapidly increasing, increasing so fast that the efforts of Christian teachers cannot keep pace with it. And it certainly looks, as things go now, that unless some more effective means of dealing with the people and convincing them of the realities and saving [illegible] of the Christian [illegible] twelve hundred millions of people are to-day entirely ignorant of the birth and death and resurrection of the Saviour. And the little efforts that have been made to enlighten and improve them have had no greater effect in staying the progress of barbarism and heathenism than would be the effort of a man's hand in stopping the onward flow of the great falls of Niagara, which have gone on thus for unknown ages in the past and which will go on for countless ages to come. The great difficulty to be encounter in what are called Christian countries is to stop the examples of the merely nominal Christians in the rising generations and to the people around them. The young, as they grow up, are assailed on all sides by the most pernicious influences, which are the more dangerous because they come from people who are, in a general way, looked upon to be [illegible] and [illegible] Christians, [illegible] guilty of practices which tend to throw doubt on the truths of that Christianity, which they pretend to serve. But the voices and demands of human nature are so powerful that it seems impossible to contend against them. The land is studded with churches to which people are supposed to go to worship the Most High, but it would be hard to tell how many of all those people really do worship God in spirit and in truth and by spiritual [illegible] And it is to be feared that very few of those churches open to pass very a dull Sunday and to observe a custom of attending religious than for any other purpose. They go to church also because it is fashionable and respectable. They go for amusement also. They go to hear the playing of a grand organ and the singing of a paid choir, whose music is more like that of the theatre than that of the sanctuary. And the tunes which they hear are not the old soul-stirring tunes of primitive times, but the flimsy and flashy tunes altogether incapable of stirring up the souls of the hearers to a love of their heavenly father or to make them feel like warm hearted Christians, waiting for a purer and a higher faith. And then comes the minister with his high-toned sermon, delivered in a style of [illegible] of feeling and position. And when all is over the hearers go [illegible] away, asking themselves what it is all about and if such sermons are to prepare them for heaven, and for the [illegible] of a future life. And it may be asked how many of all those gone on in paid to go to Christians after the fashion of [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] many of them, inculcating their ministers, would do as Christ told the young man to do who asked Him what he should do to be saved? And whose answer was "go sell all thou hast and give it to the poor and follow me." There we have a standard, established by Christ himself, of what really constitutes a true Christian. And how many do we reckon think there are of such in the world?

Wife, wife! I've found the model church! worshipped there to-day!
It made me think of good old times before my hairs were grey!
The music—hallowed—almost lifted up more than they were years ago...
But then I felt, when I went in, it wasn't built for show.
The [illegible] didn't send me away back by the door.
He knew that I was old and deaf, as well as old and poor.
He must have been a Christian, for he felt my [illegible] boldly thrown's
The long mane of that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
I wish I had heard the singin'; it had the olden time ring.
The preacher said, with trumpet voice, "Let all the people sing!"
The tune was "Coronation," and the music up-wound rolled...
Till I thought I heard the angels striking all their harps of gold.
My deafness seemed to melt away; my spirit caught the fire;
I joined my feeble, trembling voice with that melodious choir.
And sang as in my youthful days, "Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem, and crown Him Lord of all."
I tell [illegible] I didn't mind to sing [illegible] once more;
I felt like [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
I almost wanted to lay down this [illegible] here.
And shorter in that blessed part for [illegible] the glories.
The preacher said: "Well, I won't [illegible] tell you the [illegible] [illegible]
I know it wasn't written; I know it wasn't [illegible]
But hadn't time to read it, for the lightnin' of his eye
Went flashin' long down pew to pew, nor guessed a sinner by.
The sermon wasn't flowery; 'twas simple gospel truth;
It fitted poor men just like me; it fitted hopeful youth;
'Twas full of consolation for weary hearts that [illegible]
'Twas full of invitations to Christ' dear not to [illegible] erred.
The preacher made no bidness to Gentiles and to Jews,
He shot the golden sentences down in the finest [illegible]
And though I can't see very well—I saw the [illegible] tear
That told me half was comin' ways all, and Heaven was very near.
How every [illegible] minute fled within that house of prayer!
How happily happened the visit of Heaven from [illegible]
And [illegible] that [illegible] when friend shall meet with friend—
When [illegible] no more break up, and [illegible] [illegible] no end—
I hope to meet that minister—that congregation [illegible]—
In that dear home beyond the stars that shine from Heaven's blue;
I doubt not I'll remember, beyond life's evenin' [illegible]
The [illegible] [illegible] of whitelily in that model church
Dear wife, the light will soon be bright—the [illegible]

Personal.

Mr. John McKim, druggist, a member of the new council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, was at the inaugural meeting elected a member of the Executive, and Finance and Educational Committees.

The following appears in the "Around the House" notes of the Mail:—"Tuesday's session brought unspeakable joy to the weary members of the press gallery, they being made the recipients of a box of the choicest Havanas from the genial and handsome member for West Peterborough. It was not alone the exquisite flavour of the cigars that roused the enthusiasm of the members of the fourth estate, but the following [illegible] of their [illegible] which [illegible] and [illegible] the box, and which told the tale of the author of the [illegible] and the cendor of the happy pledge of his good wishes:—

Sweet cherubs of the press-gang left.
To you my thoughts turn warm and oft;
Recognizant of worth and power,
Accept, as merit's widest dower,
These sparkling weeds, and as you blow
The fragrant wreaths, I'll let you know
One brief half hour of peaceful state
Nocturnal "takes" alleviates.

An impromptu meeting was immediately summoned, and a resolution declaring Mr. Stratton to be a [illegible] politician, a good post and an excellent judge of cigars, was carried amidst [illegible]

The Belleville papers are very complimentary in their notices of the performance of Peterborough artists at Christ church concert in the Bay City, Tuesday evening. The Intelligencer says:—"Mr. Dugas, Miss Dunn and Mr. Tierney were from Peterborough, the only foreign talent on the programme. They achieved confirmed [illegible] that will ever assure them a hearty welcome by a Belleville audience." The Ontario says:—"Undoubtedly the feature of the evening was a vocal trio composed of Miss Dunn, Mr. Tierney and Mr. Dunn, who established themselves in the affections of the audience so strongly as to never be shaken. Mr. Dunn's vocal solo, "Ere Peacetis" was well received. * * * Mr. Tierney gave a tenor solo entitled "Ave Verum," which was exceedingly well [illegible] * * * The speaker was followed by Miss Dunn in a soprano solo "Ave Maria," which done really fine, and delivered with an ease that cannot fail to stamp her as an accomplished soloist."

EARLY RIPENING OF WHEAT IN THE NORTHWEST.

No Prorogation of Parliament Probable—Grievances of the Ex-Cadets of the Royal Military College—Satisfactory Fog Alarm Service—Personal.

OTTAWA, Jan. 2.—There is no truth whatever in the statement made in to-night's Free Press and probably telegraphed to other papers that a further prorogation of Parliament had been decided on. The fact of the matter is the subject has not even been discussed in Council. The estimates are well advanced, a great deal of the business to be laid before Parliament is ready and there does not at present appear to be anything to prevent the House meeting on Feb. 23.

The contract for the huts for C Battalion of Artillery at Victoria, B.C., has been let to Mr. Joshua Holland. The price is about $10,000.

The subject of the early ripening of wheat in the Northwest, and the results of the work in that connection by the experimental farm is attracting attention abroad. The Washington authorities are in communication with the Department of Agriculture on the subject, and are anxious to know what samples can be obtained.

The ex-cadets of the Royal Military College have brought their grievances before the Militia Department. As the regulations now stand a graduate loses his commission if he misses two consecutive annual trainings. The nature of the occupation of many of the cadets, it is claimed, makes it inconvenient to throw up a position to fulfil the required regulation, and in some cases they claim an exemption clause should be put in force. They also urge that graduates should have the preference in any appointment on the permanent force.

A report received by the Marine Department from the engineer of the fog alarm recently erected at Cranberry Head, near Sydney Mines, C.B., states that the fog alarm there is giving much satisfaction, and is of great service to vessels approaching there from seaward.

The Comptroller of Mounted Police has been advised of the destruction by fire of the Mounted Police Hospital at Fort Saskatchewan, with all the medical stores. The buildings were inexpensive and will be easily replaced. The total loss will probably be less than $1000.

Mr. Onderdonk, who was contractor for the British Columbia section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, now the subject of arbitration, is in the city. Hon. Joseph Trutch, Dominion Government agent in British Columbia, is expected to arrive shortly in connection with the arbitration.

Hon. Mr. Plumb, Speaker of the Senate, is in the city looking after official matter.

Trotting at Dunnville.

DUNNVILLE, Feb. 22.—The Winter Trotting Meeting was continued here to-day with a large attendance. There were seven starters in the sweepstake race, which was won by the Port Colborne mare, Little Gertie, in the fourth heat. Gladstone, owned by Mr. Cowan of Thorold, was awarded second money, and the Welland horse, Curtis Hamilton, third. The best time was 2.50½, made by Gladstone in the third heat. The free-for-all was unfinished. Five heats were trotted, two being won by Mr. Teeter's (Smithville) Grey Tom, two heats by John Wallace, owned by D. Lambert of Dundas, and the fifth heat by the Port Dover horse, Rarie F. Best time, 2.35. The race will be finished to-morrow.

Brady et al. Asked to Resign.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—The directors of the National Amateur Athletic Association have decided to ask Brady, Patterson and McNaughton, who figured in the lacrosse libel suit, to send in their resignations.

The directors of the association have called a meeting for to-morrow evening to take steps for the expulsion of Brady and Patterson from the Association on the ground that their conduct at the Cornwall match was unsportsmanly. McNaughton, it is understood, has tendered his resignation and in future will play with the Cornwall club.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.

LORD RIPON AND JOHN MORLEY HONORED IN DUBLIN.

More Convictions and Arrests in Ireland—A Grievance of Mr. Sullivan—A Charge of Fraud—O'Brien's Improved Health—A Serious Inquiry Demanded.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—In the Marylebone Police Court to-day five fashionably-dressed men were charged with attempting to obtain £20,000 from the Bank of England upon forged or stolen bonds of the Hamilton and North-western Railway of Canada. There was one other man in the gang whom the police failed to secure. They also failed to capture the bonds. One of the prisoners had posed as Lord Fairfax and had lived in style at the Grand Hotel in Paris. All five were remanded. The attempt to swindle the Bank of England out of £20,000 proves to be a complicated case. It appears that one of the swindlers some time ago purchased one of the bonds of the road for a price above its real value, and it is supposed that this staple bond was obtained for the purpose of forging others. When the police to-day arrested five of the gang they seized a tin box, which they expected contained the other bonds, but upon opening it it was found to be empty. It is suspected that to-day's move was simply a reconnoitre, and that further developments will follow.

A sentence of imprisonment for one week with hard labor has been dealt out to sixteen youths of Drumcre, Ireland. They had celebrated the release of Wm. O'Brien by lighting bonfires.

The German War office, says The Berlin Kreuz Zeitung, has advised the Government that it is necessary to make a serious inquiry as to whether or not an extension of strategic measures is not imperative for the security of the Eastern frontier.

The attitude of the German Government crowns on the Anti-Socialist Bill indicates a complete surrender by the Government, a willingness to accept a two years' extension of the operative period of the present law, and to abandon the obnoxious amendments.

Eight persons convicted at Kantork of attending meetings of a suppressed branch of the National League, have been sentenced to two months' imprisonment with hard labor. Five arrests were also made at Donegal for offences under the Crimes Act, and more are expected.

Advices received from the continent say that William O'Brien is in good health and will be present in the House of Commons on Feb. 9.

The freedom of the City of Dublin was conferred on the Marquis of Ripon and John Morley as a meeting of the Corporation; ex-Lord Mayor Sullivan presided, and there were present many members of Parliament, Mayors and members of various city corporations.

The Marquis of Ripon, in an address thanking the corporation for the honor conferred on him, assured them that the object of British Liberals was to see that Ireland was accorded at the earliest opportunity full recognition of its real and legitimate political aspirations. There was a growing conviction among the masses of England in favor of Home Rule for Ireland.

Mr. Morley also expressed his thanks to the corporation and said the freedom of the city was bestowed upon the Marquis of Ripon and himself because they represented a great political cause and the advancement of a great constitutional reform movement in Ireland. There would be no peace in Ireland until the question was settled, and the sooner it was settled the better.

The London committee in charge of the proposed demonstration in honor of O'Brien and Sullivan have been refused the use of a hall by all the owners of large halls in London.

In an interview in Dublin Mr. Sullivan said to-day that he was in good health. He thought he should have been allowed to edit his paper while in prison, a privilege granted Messrs. Stead and Yates during their imprisonment. He is willing to undergo further imprisonment for Ireland's sake. In the course of a speech after his release he said that once he desired a greater measure of independence for Ireland, but now he thought that the proposals of Mr. Gladstone were a fair compromise, and their adoption would unite the two nations in peace and good-fellowship.

Some comment is made to-day upon Lord Salisbury's attitude on emigration while receiving a deputation on behalf of the unemployed yesterday. His remarks, following those of Mr. Shipton, the workingmen's representative, show clearly that the advocates of State aid have much yet to overcome before securing the support of the Government or the working classes on a large scale.

It is not often that Canada is urged to borrow more, but The Financial News to-day publishes a strange article, urging that Canada should follow the example of the Australasian Colonies and make more use of its credit, to the advantage of both the British investors and the Canadians themselves.

Mr. Cox, M.P., who is in prison at Limerick, put on the jail dress without protest and went to work in the prison yard chopping wood and doing other labors of ordinary criminals. He was visited to-day and found in a cheerful mood.

Lord Spencer in a speech at Manchester this evening said that he acquired the conviction in the last three momentous years of his government of Ireland that a radical change was necessary. Mr. Gladstone's present position, he said, was the result of a national development, but his (the speaker's), was a distinct conversion.

The German Government will take part officially in the Paris exposition by sending exhibits to the fine art department.

It has been decided by the members of the French Right to interpellate the Government in reference to its action towards the persons implicated in the sale of decorations.

A large decrease is reported in the Grand Trunk traffic returns, which has affected stocks; but at the close of the day the quotations were scarcely altered. Pacific are strong at a rise of a half on some repurchases after the recent depression.

The Alleged Hoxie Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—It is stated at the White House, and also at the State Department, that there is no truth whatever in the report that the President has sent a message to the Senate in regard to the Canadian fisheries, transmitting a draft of a treaty.

Federal Stock on The Montreal Exchange.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—Yesterday the manager of the Federal Bank wired to the Secretary of the Stock Exchange here asking that the stock of that bank be not officially called, as the directors of the bank deemed it for the best interests of the shareholders that the stock should not be called. The Board, however, after deliberation and upon consulting their solicitors, decided that it would be for the best interests of all parties concerned to make no exception with regard to Federal stock, and all transactions in that stock will continue to be regulated by the bylaws of the exchange.

The Laprairie Election Case.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—In the Laprairie local election case to-day a carter named Francois Houle identified Hon. Mr. McShane as the man who went into houses of electors and tried to bribe them during the contest. Annie Barranza, who skipped to the States and against whom a rule for contempt of court was issued, made default.

WELLAND, Feb. 2.—J. R. Hewitt, postmaster at Hewitt, has been arrested for forging notes, which he sold to different parties. He has been remanded until Friday.

U.S. Senator Kenna on Protection.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Kenna (W. Va.) made a speech on the tariff, criticising Senator Sherman's address on the President's message. He claimed that the system of protection had made more strikes, driven more men from employment, filled the country with more tramps, aggravated more distress, created more discontent and produced more starvation and death than any other system the country ever saw.

Little London's Wordy War.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—As an outcome of the wordy war waged on Tuesday evening between Mayor Cowan and Commissioner Emery at the meeting of the Waterworks Board, steps have been taken to have Mr. Emery unseated, it having been discovered, so it is alleged, that he has not the legal property qualification.

A Suicide Identified.

QUEBEC, Feb. 2.—The woman who suicided near the Falls of Montmorenci last autumn has been identified as Miss Clara Leavenworth. None of her friends have claimed the body, and it is probable that it will be interred this week in some of the city cemeteries.

The Boy Pianist.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Josef Hoffman, the boy pianist, underwent an examination at the Mayor's office to-day, as the result of a complaint that he was being overworked. The Mayor decided that the boy should be allowed to give four performances a week. Afterward Mr. Gerry announced that a wealthy gentleman had authorized him to offer Hoffman's father $50,000 for the education of the boy, provided he were withdrawn from public performance until he became of age. Mr. Hoffman said he thought $100,000 would be necessary for the purpose.

IS IT INCOMPATIBILITY?

THE TROUBLE BETWEEN THE CENTRAL BANK LIQUIDATORS.

The Case Before Justice Robertson—How His Lordship Looks at It—Campbell to be Cross-Examined on Tuesday—Baxter's Books, Papers, etc., to be Produced.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.

Before Mr. Justice Robertson, in the Chancery Court yesterday, Mr. Foster, Q.C., on behalf of Liquidators Howland and Gooderham applied for the appointment of a day for the cross-examination of Suspended Liquidator Campbell on the allegations of his affidavit. Owing to the importance of this case and pressure of other engagements Mr. Foster said he could not be ready before Tuesday next.

Mr. James Maclennan, Q.C., and Mr. Bain, Q.C., appeared for Mr. Campbell, and the first-named counsel stated that their client had categorically and seriatim by affidavit denied the truth of these charges against him. In the meantime he asked that the restrictions upon Mr. Campbell as acting liquidator should be removed. The charges were very discreditable to him, and their bona fides should be investigated as soon as possible.

His Lordship said that before he could remove the restrictions referred to it would be necessary to know what Mr. Campbell had to say in answer to the charges. The matter had been before the Chancellor, who was more familiar with the circumstances than he (the learned judge) was, and he could not undertake at present to remove the restrictions imposed. The only question was the enlargement of the time for the proceedings in this case. No extension should be allowed, not even for an hour, longer than was absolutely necessary for Mr. Campbell to justify his defence.

Mr. Maclennan said he would not for a moment throw any obstacle in the way of the full cross-examination of Mr. Campbell, but he thought the postponement suggested by his learned friend was too long.

The Judge said the point appeared to be the alleged incompatibility in working of the three liquidators. Two of them set forth grounds for the removal of their co-liquidator, and alleged that they had lost confidence in him. His Lordship pointed out the analogy of this case to a commercial partnership, in which incompatibility would be a ground for dissolving the partnership.

Mr. Maclennan said this was not the case of one wishing to retire. It was the case of putting one of the liquidators out.

His Lordship said that if Mr. Campbell satisfied the Court that there was no ground for the petition apart from the charge of incompatibility the Court would deal with it on that ground alone. Then Mr. Campbell would be honorably acquitted of the serious charges against him. But he could not ignore the interests of the stockholders, creditors and the general interests of the public. It was quite competent for Mr. Campbell to withdraw under the statute.

Mr. Maclennan said it might become a question as to whether the petitioners, Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, should retire. [Laughter.]

The Judge said the Court of Chancery would see that the liquidators in this winding-up were fully competent and qualified. From what he had heard of Mr. Campbell he appeared a man of great experience in this respect, and one eminently qualified for the post to which he had been appointed.

Mr. Foster said it must be borne in mind that Mr. Campbell alleged that Messrs. Howland and Gooderham were incompetent.

The Judge said that the cross-examination might result in the ruling of these two out. [Laughter.] It seemed to him a long time for Mr. Campbell to lie under such serious imputations, which had been by the press scattered broadcast over the country. Addressing Mr. Foster, His Lordship asked: "You do not feel safe to take Mr. Campbell's affidavit apart from his cross-examination?"

Mr. Foster—I think it much safer to have him fully cross-examined. [Laughter.]

Further discussion followed, and ultimately His Lordship ordered that the cross-examination of Mr. Campbell proceed on Tuesday next.

Before Mr. Thos. Hodgins, Q.C., Mr. Macaren, Q.C., appeared on behalf of Mr. James Baxter, of Montreal, and Mr. Foster, Q.C., for Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, petitioning liquidators.

A conference took place between counsel, the result of which was that it was stated to the Master that counsel would be satisfied if Mr. Baxter furnished to the Court all books, letters and documents relating to Central Bank affairs and especially with reference to dealings with Messrs. Campbell, Allen, Cox, Davis, Barnett and Greenshields. Upon the production and perusal of these documents counsel would consent that if the balance of convenience were in favor of Mr. Baxter's examination being taken in Montreal they would readily assent to such direction of the court. All that was wished was a full investigation whether in this city or Montreal.

The Master assented to this arrangement and the parties concerned withdrew.

The Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1888.

THE petition against the return of Dr. Wilson, Liberal member for East Elgin, has been dismissed, the petitioner dropping the case after the exhaustive investigation of over 100 charges failed to elicit the slightest evidence of corrupt practice on the part of either the Liberal candidate or his agents.

ACCORDING to the London Advertiser it is said that Mr. Mercier, having had an expert accountant going over the books of the late Quebec Government, has a surprise party of a thrilling nature in store for the House when it meets. It is said that the Manitoba disclosures will be nothing to it.

The Stratford Beacon suggests as one of the improvements to be wrought by the adoption of manhood suffrage that it "would dispose of the revising barrister, and the revising barrister is one of the main props of Toryism and bad government.

WE don't hear the organs "whooping it up" so strongly in favor of the beauties of the Franchise Act since the Government decided to do the printing of the lists at Ottawa. Loss of the fat takes of printing, represents a proportionate decline of enthusiasm.

THE little band on the Opposition side o the Ontario Legislature had a little temporary jubilation over the defeat of Dr. Chamberlain, in Dundas, and the accession of another member to their modest ranks; but they have to bewail the loss of Dr. Willoughby in East Northumberland, and the accession of a Government supporter in the person of Mr. Clarke.

THE Bobcaygeon Independent thinks, with considerable horizontality of head, that there "can be little doubt that the object in the appointment of the Trent Valley Commission, is to find some means of relief from inconvenient promises, or in other words how not to do it. * * * The total cost as given by Mr. Page, which would include the cost of existing works, is a trifle under ten millions dollars, Rubidge's estimate to complete is a trifle over eight and a half millions. By an ingenious process of calculating the speed of boats passing through the Welland route at nine miles an hour, and the Trent route at six miles an hour for the lakes and three for the canal, this clever old figurer brings out a balance of eight hours on the journey, in favor of the Welland. To this elegant piece of finagkering, Mr. Page, the eminent Engineer of the Department, is good enough to add that it should be borne in mind that a vessel by the former route can take a cargo from six to seven times greater than could be done by a vessel using the line of navigation represented as suited to the Trent Valley route."

THE Hamilton Times alludes to Dr. Montague's escape in the election courts as being "by the skin of his teeth." The Times points out what grave irregularities occurred in the conduct of the election, such as a deputy-returning officer closing the polling booth, putting the ballots in his pockets and going off to dinner. It also points out that a Liberal voter was driven from a booth and not allowed to vote because he refused to swear, although, being a Tanker, he was willing to affirm. Mention is also made by the Times of the fact that thirty-six voters at one polling booth where there were found in the ballot box only ten votes for the Liberal candidate, were prepared to swear that they voted for Mr. Cotter, but were not allowed to give their testimony. The Times also points out that the votes of persons who were on the revised lists as "farmers' sons" were counted as good, although evidence was available that they had not fulfilled the conditions as to residence required by the election law, the judge having declined to admit evidence regarding their qualifications. The Times does not say that justice has not been done, but hints that all the facts were not elicited and that the bench's interpretation of the law was not such as to command universal concurrence. The result of the trial of the petition only shows that there was not, in the opinion of the learned Judge, sufficient evidence to connect the wholesale bribery that evidently aided in securing Dr. Montagues return with the eloquent doctor, either in propria persona or through his agents. In Dr. Montague's case there is no verdict of "not guilty,"—but one of "not proven."

The House adjourned at 4.35 o'clock.

Around the Lobbies.

The Attorney-General introduced two measures yesterday, one dealing with the new portfolio of Agriculture, and the other with the appointment of arbitrators on the outstanding claims between Quebec and Ontario. The arbitrators will be called upon to interpret the award made by those who were originally appointed to settle the amount coming to Upper and Lower Canada as Confederation. It was decided then Ontario was entitled to the land improvement fund, but just what was included in this nobody appears to know. The arbitrators to be appointed under the Act will ascertain how much this province is entitled to under this and other heads.

Mr. Lyons, West Algoma, is in his old sequestered seat on the Government back benches. Mr. Lyons did not experience—thanks to the arrival of a breath of civilization in that district—the same hardships in coming to his legislative duties as he encountered in former years. He crossed over from Manitoulin Island to the mainland by team, a distance of seventy miles, and then took the C.P.R. train.

"Don't Marry Him"!

"He is such a fickle, inconstant fellow, you will never be happy with him," said Esther's friends when they learned of her engagement to a young man who bore the reputation of being a sad flirt. Esther, however, knew that her lover had good qualities, and she was willing to take the risk. In nine cases out of ten it would have proved a mistake; but Esther was an uncommon girl and to every one's surprise Fred made a model husband. How was it? Well, Esther had a cheerful, sunny temper and a great deal of tact. Then she enjoyed perfect health and was always so sweet, neat and wholesome that Fred found his home most pleasant, and his own wife more agreeable, than any other being. As the year passed and he saw other women of Esther's age grow sickly, faded and querulous, he realized more and more that he had "a jewel of a wife." Good health was half the secret of Esther's success. She retained her vitality and good looks, because she warded off feminine weakness and ailments by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. b

PROHIBITION

SHOE STORE.

TO THE PUBLIC:

AS my agreement with the Scott Act Association expired on Dec. 31st, and I am no longer in their employ, I beg to inform you that I have opened a Boot & Shoe Store

In Dunsford's New Block East of Market,

where I hope to receive a share of public support in Custom work and repairs. Several attempts to boycott me have been made because of my connection with the Scott Act, to prevent me from obtaining employment, but I am not afraid of opposition under any circumstances, and will endeavor to give to all the value of their money, and use only the best material, and employ the best workmen, so that I can run Prohibition in the shoe trade and Prohibit even water from getting at your socks to upset your understandings, as I have the remedy to keep it all.

As I have launched my bark in the temperance tide, will you help me to keep it afloat?

Yours truly,

HENRY ROSSITER.

RICHLY Rewarded are those who read and then act; they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for every industrious person, many have made and are now making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for any one to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either sex, young or old; capital not needed; we start you. Everything new. No special ability required; you, reader, can do it as well as anyone. Write to us at once for full particulars which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine. ddm-wly

Hamilton Detective Boyle's Find—A Commercial Traveler's Sudden Death.

HAMILTON, Feb. 2.—Mr. William Inkson, a native of Renfrewire, Scotland, and one of the best known commercial men on the road, died suddenly at his home in this city at 11.30 last night.

Mr. James Diggle, for many years a well-known butcher, who lost his reason by becoming a prey to the idea that he would fail in business, died at the Asylum last night.

Last night Detective Boyle arrested a middle-aged man who said his name was George Woodruff. Three hats, a quantity of dress goods and several silver napkin rings marked "J. R. H., St. Catharines," were found upon him at the station.

At the Police Court to-day Jacob Burgess was sent to the Central Prison for four months for stealing a horse and some groceries from a farmer's sleigh.

At a meeting of a special committee of the County Council to-day the question of purchasing the toll roads was discussed.

The Bank of Hamilton will open a branch at Simcoe next Monday.

A raid was made last night on a disorderly house at Jackson and Hughson streets and several well-known disreputables were captured.

TAX ON CANADIAN MONEY.

Circulation of Dominion Notes in Frontier Cities to be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Complaints have recently been made to the Internal Revenue Bureau alleging that a number of banks along the Canadian border are circulating Canadian notes as currency. A statutory provision intended to protect the national currency imposes a tax of 10 per cent. on all notes other than those of national banks or of the United States which are paid out and used by banks as a circulating medium. The tax imposed is of course prohibitive, as it was intended by its framers that it should be. Commissioner Miller has ordered that an investigation of the matter be made, and it is expected that reports of the result of this investigation will be received next week upon which official action can be based.

The Halton Contest.

GEORGETOWN, Feb. 2.—Mr. McLeod is meeting with an enthusiastic reception wherever he goes in the county. In fact when he appeared at a Conservative meeting Reformers were largely in the majority. The Tories have many imported speakers, but yet nearly every one of their meetings falls flat, owing to a lack of interest in the success of Mr. Henderson. Last night the Conservatives held a meeting at Glenwilliams. After the small boys left there were barely enough present to form a Tory quorum. W. W. Bell, the "Temperance" orator, was chairman, and Dr. Webster of Norval was the chief speaker. It was just such a meeting as will help to elect Wm. McLeod, a man of whom Halton has a right to feel proud.

Nearly Asphyxiated.

KINGSTON, Jan. 30.—Gas from a leak in the pipe entered the Megan Hotel last night and seriously affected the inmates. One young woman was found prostrate on the floor unconscious, and was with difficulty restored to consciousness and her life saved. The most liberal accident policy issued is that of the Manufacturers' Accident Insurance Company of Toronto.

Blasting Accident at Arkona.

ARKONA, Feb. 2.—William Cameron, while blasting rock at the Sauble River this afternoon, was injured by a premature discharge of powder. Hopes are entertained that his injuries may not prove fatal, but he may lose the use of his eye.

DAILY MARKET REVIEW.

TORONTO, Feb 2.

Stocks to-day both at home and Montreal were dull and weaker. In New York and London the markets were fairly active, though stocks irregular. The grain and produce markets were quiet and steady here, and abroad firm.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

Bradstreet's reports to-day: Floating cargoes—Wheat steady, corn firm. Arrivals—Wheat 2, corn 8; sold, wheat 1; waiting orders, wheat 3, corn 8; sold, corn 1. Cargoes on passage—Wheat rather firmer, held higher. French country markets firm. Liverpool—Wheat and corn quiet and steady.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

The Horse Market.

BRAMPTON, Ont., Feb. 2.—Our monthly horse fair was held here to-day. The attendance was large, there being ten or twelve buyers from different parts of Ontario and Buffalo, N.Y. The horses offered were principally heavy draft and general purpose class. About forty changed hands, and the prices realized were good, averaging from $100 to $200 each. Farmers were inclined to ask many more than buyers were disposed to pay. The next fair, a month hence will be largely attended.

TORONTO TOPICS.

At the meeting of the Ontario College of Pharmacy yesterday, the following gentlemen were appointed examiners for 1888: A. R. Ferrier, Toronto, dispensing pharmacy; R. Jackes, Toronto, chemistry; D. S. Kerr, Toronto, materia medica; Frank Holman, London, pharmacy; C. R. Sneath, Penetanguishene, botany; A. W. Bell, Toronto, dispensing.

Lawyer W. G. Murdoch, counsel for the unfortunate John Gamble, who was sentenced to death for murder on Wednesday, has handed the following document, signed by all the jurymen who sat on the case:

It is the individual and united opinion of the jurors unanimously signing, who were the jury who tried John Gamble on Wednesday, Feb. 1, 1888, at the Criminal Assizes in Toronto, Mr. Justice Proudfoot presiding, on a charge of murder, that, while they were unanimous in rendering a verdict of guilty of murder, coupled with a strong recommendation to mercy, the said Gamble had only assisted in or conspired towards the committing of an abortion; the evidence convinced us that the said ... person was murdered and ... have in abortion procured, but that he actually did ... or that death resulted from his actions or advice. We were not certain or convinced, and the bringing of our verdict was that evidence of this kind, the procuring of abortions or attempts to procure abortions, are deserving of punishment, and should be discountenanced.

We do not think the prisoner, Gamble, should be hanged, or that he should be inflicted with more punishment than would follow on a conviction for his attempt to procure an abortion on the deceased girl. The jury believed Alex. Butler's evidence when given.

In the matter of the burned forged notes Messrs. Manning, Snelling and Strachy were committed for trial. Mr. Rogers was discharged.

Lavern Leharre, the young man who fell from a high building on Bay-street Wednesday afternoon, died in the Hospital yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. He was aged 21 and lived at No. 1 Bishop-street.

Thomas Mathews writes from Newcastle, Ont., (postoffice box 117) to the police for information as to the whereabouts of Zechariah Thrasher or heirs, also of David McConaghey or heirs. They were farmers near Toronto twenty-five years ago.

Master Hodgins yesterday made an order adding the liquidators of the Central Bank as parties to the action brought by Mr. S. H. Janes to compel Mr. J. K. Kerr to accept sixty-three shares of Central Bank stock. The case comes on before Mr. Justice Proudfoot at Osgoode Hall this forenoon.

I have been troubled with catarrh for the past ten years and have tried a number of remedies but found no relief until I purchased a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. I consider it the most reliable preparation for catarrh and cold in the head. —Geo. Crandall, P. M., Quonochawntaug, R. I.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm, some five months ago. It has done for me what other so-called cures failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hall, Biddeford, Me. cod5 is to be learnt from the sight of a bald head. Falling out and premature grayness of the hair can be stopped if taken in time. Do not let it run on without making an effort to save it. Get a bottle of Dr. Dorenwend's German "Hair Magic." It stimulates the growth, gives fresh vitality and keeps the hair its natural color, besides being a superb dressing. All druggists sell it. dw

In a Dangerous Condition.

Any person troubled with irregular acting kidneys or any form of kidney complaint, however slight it may seem, is in a dangerous condition if the trouble is neglected. Burdock Blood Bitters should be taken at once; it is the best regulator of the kidneys, liver and blood known to the world. 2w5d

Important to Working Men.

Artisans, mechanics and labouring men are liable to sudden accidents and injuries as well as painful cords, stiff joints and lameness. To all thus troubled we would recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the handy and reliable pain cure for outward or internal use. 2w5d

A Timely Precaution.

To prevent serious disease, regulate the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and blood with Burdock Blood Bitters. Remember that prevention is better than cure. 2w5d

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Tories cause business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public will have to take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to please it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't swop a horse here much a man like us has his actual purchases, or should his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures represent ing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and on such a supply, that each Goods as are in hand command at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of presents. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats [illegible] up to "Xmas" sizes, regular price, $6 00, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the Cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trash, shoddy 'tooth' SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchels cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Gigantic Glacial Panorama

Such is the vermillion-hued head-line that graces the large posters announcing the second grand carnival to be given by the Canton on Tuesday, 14th inst. The many features of this carnival promise to make it a brilliant affair. The prize list and programme of events will be read with especial interest. The prizes are about the best that have ever been offered for competition in Peterborough, and should bring out a magnificent lot of costumes. For particulars study the poster.

Belleville's Water Works.

Belleville still indulges in waterworks tests of an informal nature. The Intelligencer says that on Wednesday afternoon the hydrant at the corner of Bridge street and Bleecker Avenue was tested with several lengths of hose and an inch and a quarter nozzle, and threw a stream a distance of 160 feet, horizontally. No doubt for practical purposes the Belleville waterworks will come up to all requirements. Though not up to the standard of the Peterborough works, in many respects the Belleville works will serve.

T. S. Porte	Treasurer

William Morton	Secretary

The Council has secured excellent men for its charter members, and it starts out with every prospect of being a live institution. We wish it success.

The Sweet Singers of Peterborough.

Peterborough is generally acknowledged to be the head-quarters for musical talent of the Midland district. Her singers's services are eagerly sought after by outside towns, and the manner in which they acquit themselves always reflects credit on themselves and the town they hail from. From the Orillia papers it is learned that Miss Begley, of Peterborough, assists at a concert there on the 14th. The Belleville Ontario has the following :—"Christ Church Concert Thursday evening, February 9th, promises to be the finest of the season. Besides our best local talent, Mrs. McIntyre, of Peterborough, assists. Mrs. McIntyre has won distinction at home, and her two songs will be quite a treat to the patrons of this concert."

At the Cox Homestead.

The parlor social and sale of aprons at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis was, as is always the case with affairs of this kind at the Cox mansion, a brilliant success. The spacious and elegantly furnished apartments were thronged with gaily-dressed people, who laughed and chatted away the time and apparently enjoyed themselves thoroughly. In one of the rooms an apron sale was conducted with satisfactory financial result. Refreshments of a substantial nature were also served in abundance. A short musical programme was rendered in the long drawing-room, which comprised a chorus by the choir of the Charlotte street church; a solo by Mrs. W. Daly; a duet by Miss Ella Cox and Mr. Davis; and solos by Mrs. Logan, Miss Cox, Miss Brundrette and Mr. Milligan. Mr. J. S. Parker and Mr. Geo. Schneider presided at the piano, and gave also an instrumental duet. One of the principal charms of the evening was the music supplied by Prof. Doucet's orchestra. The guests left for their homes about eleven o'clock highly pleased with the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, as well as at having an opportunity to renew old associations and friendships with Mr. and Mrs. Cox, who were present and assisted in entertaining.

Annual Winter Races.

Fourth Annual Meet of the Peterborough Driving Association.

The opening day of the winter races on Little Lake was greeted by beautiful weather, which had the effect of attracting a large attendance to the races, including a sprinkling of the fair sex.

There was, of course the usual attendance of fakirs, who between heats roped in the dimes from the gullible.

The track was a splendid mile "track," and the time made was very satisfactory. Much of the success of the races is due to the excellent management of Mr. W. Croft, President; F. J. Daly, Secretary, and E. Brown, Treasurer, who were indefatigable in their efforts to please.

Competent judges were chosen—Messrs. J. J. Daly, Lindsay; M. Williams, Cobourg, and Gus Sawers, Peterborough; timekeeper, Mr. Jas. English.

Presentation and Address.

The members of St. Andrew's Church choir met at the house of their late choirmaster last night and presented him with an illuminated address and a pair of Persian lamb gauntlets, previous to his departure for the Northwest. Mr. Stewart made the presentation and read the address, as follows :—

St. Andrew's Church Choir, Peterborough, to Mr. D. D. Gallestly :

DEAR MR. GALLESTLY,—It is with feelings of profound regret that we, the members of the choir of St. Andrew's Church, have learned of your retirement from its leadership and intended departure from our midst. During the two years you have led us in the service of song in God's house, our relations have been most amicable, and we feel that in losing you we lose a kind Christian friend. You have ever faithfully endeavored to cultivate such talent as we possessed for the songs of praise, so they might be rendered in harmony and with such reverence as would be acceptable to Him to whom our voices were raised. Before separating we trust you will accept from us the accompanying gift (a handsome pair of Persian lamb gauntlets) as a small token of our esteem, and with it also receive assurance of our best wishes for your future happiness and welfare in your new home.

Signed, on behalf of the choir,
A. STEWART.

Peterborough, Ont.,
February 2nd, 1888.

Mr. Gallestly, to whom the presentation came as a surprise, feelingly replied. He said that while the address was being read reminiscences of the happy hours the choir and he had spent together during the last five years, while practising the soul-stirring songs of Zion, now that they were about to separate, perhaps forever, raised a lump to his throat that almost deprived him of the power of utterance. He thanked the choir for their handsome, comfortable gift, but more especially for their kind words and good wishes breathed with heart-felt tenderness in the address. Go where he would so long as the seat of memory held its sway, he would never forget the dear ones who had stood by him like a solid phalanx, and done all in their power to aid him in rendering the praise part of worship, with sincere devotion of heart, hoping and trusting that their offering of praise on God's altar was acceptable "to Him to whom our voices were raised." Mr. Gallestly spoke about the many crosses members of choirs, especially, had sometimes to bear from unkind remarks, made by thoughtless people, but advised them never to heed. The God whom they worshipped would reward them for their labour of love. He concluded by expressing the hope that, though soon to part, they would all meet again in that place where parting is unknown, where voices will be perfectly attuned and join the angelic hosts in singing the praises of the Lamb for ever and ever. An oyster supper had also been provided by the choir, which was done ample justice to, after which a pleasant time was spent enlivened with songs and stories, innocent jokes and repartee terminating with Auld Lang Syne, in which every one joined heartily. Bidding good-bye to Mr. Gallestly the company separated sorry to part and hoping at some future time to meet again.

RUSSIA'S LOVE FOR PEACE

DOES NOT PREVENT HER PREPARATIONS FOR WAR.

A Speech of Lord Ripon—Mr. Cox's Exclusiveness—Dynamiters Sentenced—Driven to Desperation by Poverty—Italian Troops Entrenching.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An article from a well-known Russian military authority is published in The Novoe Vremya, in which it is charged that The Berlin Militair Wochenblatt is deceiving the German public regarding the positions of Russia and Germany. "An impartial and general elucidation of their true positions," it says, "is desirable in the interests of both nations." It adds:

"The only means of protecting Russia from German or Austrian attack is to increase the defensive power of Russian forts and the number of troops on the frontier and to expend the railway systems. From a military view there must not be regarded merely the narrow area of actually protected frontier, but the whole possible theatre of an eventual war. Russia must consider the territory from the western frontier to the Dwina and Dnieper, whereas Germany must guard her country from the Russian frontier to the middle course of the Elbe, including Berlin, while Austria must protect the territory extending to the middle course of the Danube, including Vienna and Pesth. The Invalide Russe correctly pointed out this view.

"Regarding the number of troops on the frontier, if the extent of area be considered, a comparison will give 16½ Austrian and German corps against 8½ Russian corps."

The Novoe Vremya prints details of the Russian frontier armaments and says:

"Russia does not covet an inch of German territory, but will not cede an inch of her own. Russia is animated by a profound love of peace. She will not conceal that she is preparing for defense. So long as Germany remains quiet she will not be menaced with attack from any quarter."

A reception was tendered to Lord Ripon and Mr. Morley in Leinster Hall, Dublin, last evening. Messrs. Davitt, Redmond, Healy, Plimsoll and a large number of Parnellite commoners were present. Lord Ripon addressed the meeting and in the course of his remarks said that the great party of England was on Ireland's side now, and her hopes would soon be crowned with success. He called upon his hearers not to be goaded by violence to commit crime, as it would be the foulest treason to Ireland.

Mr. Morley met with a warm reception. He arraigned the Government, and said its policy was a painful and cruel farce, and had utterly failed to discourage the commission of outrage. Both speakers briefly addressed overflow meetings outside the hall.

At Manchester to-day a chemist named Deeby and his wife and children have been found dead in their dwelling house. Their death was caused by poison, and they had been dead several days. It is believed that the man, driven to desperation by inability to support his family, gave them poison and then committed suicide.

Dr. Barnardo of London is preparing his season's emigration work. He intends to take out 200 boys to Canada in March, fifty of whom will be placed in the new Industrial Farm in Manitoba. These fifty are picked lads, each over 17 years of age. The doctor is confident of the success of his enterprise and is already inundated with requests for farm hands from settlers, but is determined that each youth must first undergo one year's training on the industrial farm.

Decision of the Chancery Court in James v. Kerr—A Central Bank Incident.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.

The case of James v. Kerr was heard by Mr. Justice Ferguson in the Chancery Divisional Court yesterday. Mr. S. H. Janes, through his counsel, Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., applied for an order to compel Mr. J. K. Kerr, Q.C., to accept sixty-three shares of Central Bank stock in part payment of some property purchased by the plaintiff from the defendant, according to an agreement made before the failure of the Central Bank. The liquidators of the bank were made co-defendants. His Lordship's judgment was to this effect:

This Court doth declare that the plaintiff is entitled to the specific performance of the contract in the pleadings set forth and as one of the terms thereof to the execution by the defendant, James Kirkpatrick Kerr, of an acceptance in the proper book of the said bank of the transfer from the plaintiff to him of 63 shares of the capital stock of the said bank.

And this Court doth order and adjudge that the defendant, James Kirkpatrick Kerr, do forthwith specifically perform the said contract and execute the acceptance of the said stock as aforesaid.

And this Court doth direct that the defendants, the said liquidators, do place the said defendant, James Kirkpatrick Kerr, upon the list of contributories in the liquidation of the said bank as holder of the said 63 shares of stock, without prejudice, however, to the liability of the plaintiff to be put also on the list of contributories under section 77 of the Banks Act or any other statute in that behalf in respect of the said 63 shares, as if this action had not been brought.

And it is further ordered and adjudged that the said defendant, James Kirkpatrick Kerr, do indemnify and save harmless the plaintiff from all liability in respect of the said 63 shares of stock.

And it is further ordered and adjudged that the defendant, James Kirkpatrick Kerr, do pay to the plaintiff and to the defendants, the said liquidators, their costs of this action forthwith after taxation thereof.

TOBACCO STOREHOUSES EMPTY.

The Supply Running Short—Excitement Among Kentucky Cultivators.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Heavy buyers of tobacco report great excitement in Kentucky. Every available foot of land is being engaged, and people are paying as high as $60 per acre rent for good fields. A representative of a New York tobacco firm says Spain has recently bought 40,000 hogsheads of logs in New York, which leaves her 1000 short of last year's requirements, with about 18,000 hogsheads for the wants of 1888. The New York warehouses are about empty. Louisville operators are making every effort to get all the dark grades in a few hands, and are credited with the purchase within a week of nearly all the stock in Paducah, Hopkinsville and Nashville.

A $1200 Blaze at Bowmanville.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 3.—Fire broke out about 7 o'clock to-night in the third flat of The Statesman block, occupied as a Masonic Hall, caused, it is thought, from the floor taking fire under the stove. Sir. John H. Hutchinson's law office on the second flat and The Canadian Statesman printing office, owned by M. A. James, on the ground floor were considerably damaged; loss $1200, covered by insurance.

For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 261, made up of 239 failures in the United States and 22 in Canada.

THIRD ANNUAL MEETING OF THE DOMINION ASSOCIATION.

Increasing Membership—Mr. John Dunn Elected President—The Other Officers—Improved Steamship Accommodation for Cattle Wanted—Deputation to go to Ottawa.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.

The third annual meeting of the Dominion Live Stock Association commenced yesterday afternoon in St. Lawrence Hall, under the presidency of Mr. Joseph Featherston, Toronto. Among those present were H. Bong, Toronto; L. O. Robson, St. Marys; E. Baines, Port Hope; H. Rawlings, Forest; C. Flanagan, Toronto; T. Crawford, Toronto; ex-Ald. Ingham, Toronto; G. D. Matheson, Buffalo; J. Coughlin, London; W. F. Rawland, Stratford; Joseph Gould, Oshawa; J. P. Wiser, Prescott; John Dunn, Toronto.

Nearly 150 members of the association were present, and in themselves made an admirable exhibition of fat stock. Spite of the mildness of the weather skin coats and fur caps were in the ascendant, and the members were, as a rule, exemplifications of Dr. Johnson's saying: "Who feeds fat oxen should himself be fat." The portly aspect of the majority suggested an appreciation, if not of "The Roast Beef of Old England," certainly of that of Canada, and it may be doubted if the members of any other Canadian association could vie in robustness and muscular physique with the cheerful, healthy and contented members of the Dominion Live Stock Association.

The Chairman said the association had become a mighty institution and had been productive of much good to the live stock interest, and if continued on its present lines and efficient organization a great future lay before it.

Mr. R. Bickerdike read the annual report of the association, whose headquarters are in Montreal. This stated that it was in a very good position financially and in every other respect. Since the last annual meeting the membership had increased materially, and now stood: Honorary members, 30; active members, 213; total 243. This showed an increase of 117 active members on the year. The committee hoped that the present system of railway privileges would be continued, and that increased prosperity under efficient management would characterize their proceedings in the future.

The next business was the election of officers. After a long discussion it was decided that the election be decided by the members present, ignoring proxies. Half-a-dozen members were proposed and seconded for president. All except Messrs. John Dunn and Joseph Featherston, both of Toronto, retired. The voting resulted in the election of Mr. Dunn by 97 votes to 69 for Featherston. Mr. Dunn then took the chair, thanked the members for their mark of confidence in him for the third time and assured them of his continued exertions on the association's behalf. Mr. C. Flanagan, Toronto, was unanimously elected First Vice-President, and Mr. L. O. Robson, Second Vice-President. Mr. A. J. Thompson, Toronto, was appointed Treasurer, and Mr. R. Bickerdike re-elected Secretary.

At 6.30 an adjournment was made until 8 o'clock.

There was a large attendance at the evening session, over which Mr. Dunn presided. Mr. Wm. Cunningham and Mr. H. Gilchrist, both of Montreal, were elected auditors.

It was moved by Mr. Ingham, seconded by Mr. Matheson, that a deputation from the association go to Ottawa and confer with the Minister of Agriculture with regard to better oversight as to space and the necessity of improved ventilation on cattle steamships. In the discussion which took place it was stated that by statute the space for each bullock should be 2 ft. 6 in. by 5 ft., but this was often curtailed. The injuries which resulted were mentioned, which contributed to the excessive mortality on ocean transit.

Ald. Frankland enlarged on the evils of deficient ventilation, which seriously affected the condition of the stock on landing in England, whereby lower prices were realized. He and his friends had lost thousands of dollars from this cause. Other speakers mentioned bad arrangements of the stalls, projections, hot pipes, etc., which the Government inspector should not permit. More money was lost by the shrinkage of cattle at sea than by a fall in the market price of stock.

The secretary said the inspectors took no account of the space for cattle, but simply examined if they were healthy. Ald. Frankland said if such was the fact the Government inspectors neglected their duty, and the country was being robbed. The motion was carried, and the following appointed the committee: The President, C. Flanagan, A. J. Thompson, W. S. Williamson, G. F. Frankland and Joshua Ingham.

Ald. Frankland moved:

That the Government of the Dominion be requested to take into their consideration at the earliest date the urgent necessity of so amending the law as to provide that no steamer be allowed to load cattle until all other freights are stowed away and the steamer is ready for sea.

The need of more humane treatment was insisted on and the mangling and illusage of cattle at Montreal condemned. The aldermen also advocated cattle docks in a quiet, healthy district east of Montreal. Mr. Featherston said the corporation of Three Rivers would be prepared to do what Ald. Frankland suggested. Mr. T. Crawford seconded the motion, which was carried, as was also the following:

That a committee be appointed to wait on the Local Legislature of the Province of Quebec for the purpose of getting a more suitable Bill of lading for carrying cattle to Europe.

A resolution by Messrs. Featherston and Craig that $6000 of the association's funds be invested in the Live Stock Insurance Company (Limited), was lost by 31 to 24 votes. It was then carried that the members of the association be urged individually to take a greater interest in the company named.

A discussion took place as to insurance, rates and losses, and routine business terminated the annual meeting.

The Ridley Forgery Case.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 3.—In the Ridley forgery case this morning County Crown Attorney Donahue stated to the court that Mr. Crothers, barrister, who had the note in his possession claimed to be forged, had failed to keep his promise to produce it. Magistrate White characterized the conduct of Mr. Crothers as most ungentlemanly and unprofessional. The hearing of the case was adjourned until next Thursday.

Boy Thieves Unearthed in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—A large number of recent robberies in the vicinity of Wentworth-avenue and Twenty-ninth-street have been explained by the discovery of the headquarters of a gang of boy thieves under a sidewalk. Revolvers in great profusion hung about the papered walls, which were decorated with sensational prints. At the station the boys confessed to complicity in several robberies.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The jury that convicted Gamble of murder state they signed no such document as published yesterday. Lawyer Murdoch handed them a type written document, from which the copy in The World was taken, and requested the jurors to put their names to it. This they individually and collectively refused to do, because the document represented that they were of opinion that Gamble had only assisted in or contributed towards the committing of an abortion, whereas the jury had expressed no such opinion. Foreman W. J. Lowden says that the jury was unanimous in its verdict of guilty of murder, but they added a rider recommending the prisoner to the mercy of the court. Beyond this they expressed no opinion whatever. They feel satisfied they returned a just verdict, and they are strengthened in that belief by the remark of Mr. Justice Falconbridge when dismissing them, that he thought they had done justice in every case they had determined during the Assize.

Margaret Colby, aged about 40, residing at 71½ Queen-street east, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon. She purchased four drachms of laudanum at Davidson's drug store, Queen and Church streets, and swallowed nearly the whole of it. She was discovered in an unconscious state, and Dr. King summoned. By his orders she was removed to the Hospital, where last night it was thought she would recover. This is the second attempt she has made to destroy herself.

PHARMACY COLLEGE'S REGISTRAR.

Mr. J. T. Lewis of Toronto Appointed for Six Months—New Lecture Courses.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.

The Council of the College of Pharmacy finished its work of the first meeting by two sessions yesterday. The principal business of the day was the appointment of a Registrar-Treasurer in place of Mr. Geo. Hodgetts, resigned. The Executive and Financial Committee's report recommending the appointment of Mr. J. T. Lewis of Toronto until the meeting next August was adopted. The other applicants for the position were: F. T. Harrison, Toronto; D. A. White, Woodstock; C. R. Sneath, Penetang; J. T. Pepper, Hamilton; W. Lloyd Wood, Toronto; H. H. Curtis, Kingston.

It was moved by Messrs. Sanders and D'Avignon that expert accountants should be employed to audit the college's books since its inception, with a view to investigating the statements made regarding alleged crookedness in the finances. The motion was lost.

At the afternoon session it was decided to institute two courses of lectures next fall and winter each lasting 24 months and commencing in October. The fees are to be $40 for the junior and $60 for the senior class. It was also decided that new diplomas be issued to those who had attended the lectures and passed the final. A committee was appointed to enquire into the expediency of making alterations in the system of conducting the college.

UNWARRANTED ASSUMPTION.

A Peterborough correspondent of the Mail sends the following letter to that journal :—

To the Editor of the Mail :-

SIR,—On the 24th inst. the members-elect of the several municipalities, comprising the County of Peterborough, met at the court house and elected to the office of warden an illiterate man solely because he is a Roman Catholic. He cannot read a resolution nor any paper or document he may, as warden, be required to sign. Can politicians sink lower than the councillors who become parties to so wretched a bit of political claptrap? A Conservative ex-M.P. for East Peterborough was the moving spirit in the business. No one who voted in the majority on the occasion dare say that the person referred to is a fit and proper man for the office.

Yours, etc.,
ONE ASHAMED.

Peterborough, Jan. 26.

There is a great deal in the above epistle that is pure assumption altogether unwarranted by the facts. It is not true that the warden "cannot read a resolution nor any paper or document, he may be required to sign." Mr. Walsh does not assume to be a highly educated man, but he can certainly read; besides, he is a gentleman of good, shrewd mother-wit and sound common sense, sharpened by twenty-five years continuous experience in municipal matters. The people of the township of Asphodel have large interests at stake, and surely, they would not trust their care for a quarter of a century to a man who, as the correspondent seeks to have believed, is an incompetent man. Mr. Walsh was not elected "solely because he was a Roman Catholic;" Mr. Walsh's elevation to the wardenship was a recognition by the council of a principle that has almost invariably been acted on—that the office should fall to reeve of municipalities in rotation, or to deputy-reeve of municipalities according to seniority of representation. Mr. Walsh had been since '83 reeve of Asphodel, and it was held to be due to that township that her reeve should be made warden.

COMPLAINT is made that the annual January thaw did not arrive. Toronto, however, has no complaint to make on that score. That supremely moral city has had more than its January average of liquidation in financial circles. For a truly moral city Toronto has more than its share of absent-minded citizens.

THE Waters that gush out of Springbank, North Middlesex, all flow in one channel—and they flow over in one direction, and the song is, "Bills may come and bills may go but mine go on forever"—the female suffrage bill, anyway. Mr. Waters, of North Middlesex, has again, for the severalth time, introduced his bill in favor of granting the political franchise to widows and unmarried women. If he is as honest in his convictions as he is earnest in his efforts, and there is no room for doubt on this point, he is justified in persisting, even in the face of repeated rebuffs; indeed he is to be honored for his perseverance. He is the kind of Waters that will not be dammed, though his female suffrage bill may be subjected to an equivalent process. We are ignorant of Mr. Waters' social status, but if he is a benedict, one would be lead to suggest that it is an aggravated attack of mother in-law, or, Springbank may be blessed with an unusual supply of strong-minded widows and acidulated spinsters with property in their own right.

MR. BALFOUR, of South Essex, has introduced a bill into the local legislature to repeal the clauses of the Municipal Act permitting municipalities to bonus manufactories. The adoption of this measure would be the condemnation of a wrong principle. It is doubtful if the manufacturing industries of Canada have been in any considerable degree benefitted by the practice of bonus giving. Yet at the same time it is morally certain that scores of municipalities have had to mourn the loss of substantial sums advanced to irresponsible speculators who have practiced bankruptcy with a very cool disregard of the value of other people's money. Bonus-giving is simply a very expensive application of the principle of doing evil that good may come. A Stratford paper admits that the bonusing business is wrong in principle, but naively remarks that "since the manufacturer looking for a bonus is looking towards our town, perhaps an exception should be made in its favour."

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

OBSERVATIONS AROUND THE LOBBIES OF THE HOUSE.

Only Half the Members Present on Yesterday's Sitting.—A Message from the Lieutenant-Governor.—A New Short Line to the "Soo."

Toronto, Feb. 4.

About half the members' seats were vacant in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. This made very little difference, for the Ministers for but fifteen minutes. Many of the gentlemen from the rural parts are playing truby for a debate, but the debates that drag-long for days are worn to-morn. The order of the day is short sessions and good pay.

Half a dozen important bills were thus up for a first reading. Among these were bills respecting the debenture debt of the town of Wingham (by the Treasurer) and one by Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) to amend the Division Court Act.

The Provincial Secretary laid on the table a return showing the regulations respecting Upper Canada College.

A message was received from the Lieutenant-Governor thanking the House for its address in reply to His Honor's speech at the opening of the House.

Around the Lobbies.

Ex-Warden Erastus Jackson was at the head of a deputation from the Council Council that waited on the Attorney-General yesterday afternoon. With them came Ald. McMillan, both the Ald. Carlyles and Ald. McDougall. Mr. Jackson generally has a grievance of some kind as between the city and county, and this time he complained to the Attorney-General that the county must emphatically objected to paying jurors' fees and other court taxes for the hearing of cases in this judicial county from other counties in the Province. This extra sum amounted annually to nearly $5000. Brother Jackson waxed energetically over the alleged uncalled-for tax on his county, and he offered to compromise if the Premier would make North York a separate county, with Newmarket (the home of Erastus) as the capital.

Ald. McMillan, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said the city would certainly not object if all the litigation in the Province were tried in Toronto. They wanted the people throughout the country to come to this city to transact business of whatever nature. They were always glad to see them, as they were a benefit to the town. Besides, the city paid fully 4-5 of these extra costs and did not grumble. The aldermen, who had come with him had been summoned together hurriedly, and had not given the matter a very full consideration. But he was certain the City Council was decidedly opposed to any prohibition being cast in the way of bringing business to Toronto, be it legal or otherwise.

The Attorney-General said it was a right that any litigant possessed to have his cause heard in any county town he chose. He thought that it was a benefit to any city to have all the legal business it could get. Besides, he could not see that the Government or the House could or would interfere with the present arrangement. Mr. Mowat practically laughed the idea out of court.

Then when the deputation began to withdraw Brother Jackson threatened that this meant a sure rupture and strained relations between the metropolitan and rustic divisions of the judicial County of York.

Mr. Wm. Beatty of Parry Sound was around the corridors yesterday putting in many good words for the proposed line of railroad which is to run from Gravenhurst via Parry Sound to French River, thence to the "Soo." By this route Mr. Beatty claims that Toronto would be 100 miles nearer the Soo than by any existing line or any that could be built. The Grand Trunk engineers have surveyed two routes from Gravenhurst to French River; the one via Parry Sound to the west of the Muskoka lakes, and the other connecting with the Ontario and Pacific Junction road at Burke's Falls. The route via Parry Sound, Mr. Beatty says, is twenty-five miles shorter than via Burke's Falls, and would be about ninety miles from Gravenhurst to French River. The other line would only have to be built from Burke's Falls, but it is a roundabout one. Engineer Bailey of the Grand Trunk has made a careful survey of the whole Parry Sound country and has reported to his company, but the latter, it is said, are not committed in any way to any of the schemes. It is said that railroad building in any part of the district would be comparatively easy and cheap.

Mr. Beatty expresses himself as fearful lest if the Burke's Falls route should be adopted a sudden device will seize the builders to shoot across country to Montreal, and thus cut Toronto and Western Ontario out of their natural and legitimate share of the great Northwest trade which will pour down via the "Soo."

It is said that after the Grand Trunk people gain control over the Northern and Northwestern roads, which is now only a matter of a few days, they will shew their hand with regard to railroading in the great district of Parry Sound.

With their acquired lines to Gravenhurst they would be in a good position to hold the key of this new short line to the Soo. Mr. Beatty looks somewhat like Rev. Dr. Wild, is a great talker, and thinks well of the Sound, where he has great interests. He disclaims being one of the famous nine martyrs of John Sandfield Macdonald memory, although Mr. Armstrong, who sits for the Sound district, occasionally asserts that he is.

The Old Silver Spoon.

How fresh in my mind are the days of my sickness,
When I tossed me in pain, all fevered and sore;
The burning, the nausea, the sinking and weakness,
And even the old spoon that my medicine bore.
The old silver spoon the family spoon,
The sick-chamber spoon that my medicine bore.

How loth were my fever-parched lips to receive it,
How nauseous the stuff that it bore to my tongue,
And the pain at my inwards, oh, naught could relieve it,
Though a tear of disgust from my eyeballs it wrung,
The old silver spoon, the medicine spoon,
How awful the stuff that it left on my tongue.

Such is the effect of nauseous, griping medicines which make the sick-room a memory of horror. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, on the contrary, are small, sugar-coated, easy to take, purely vegetable and perfectly effective. 25 cents a vial. x

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Weekly Review of Trade—Quiet the Prevailing Feature.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Dun Wiman & Co.'s weekly review of trade will say: Quiet has been the prevailing feature in business during the past week. Yet, it is generally estimated that the volume of business transacted compares favorably with that of last year. Prices refuse to rise, though meats and vegetables are a shade higher. There is a little longer clearance in other articles, even cereal prices of coal at Philadelphia having yielded 25 cents.

Money is easier and in good supply at all interior points reporting, and accumulates in New York banks so rapidly that some six months' loans at 4 per cent. have been made.

A stiffer tone prevails in the iron market, the best grades being scarce and a shade higher.

In wool a distinctly better tone is seen, with considerable buying by manufacturers who feel the improved demand for woolen goods. But foreign competition keeps prices very low, and the usual season is so near its end that no material advance in prices is expected. Staple cottons remain firm, but business is limited by cessation of stocks. In prints some advances are reported.

The markets for provisions have been comparatively inactive, with lard 25 cents per 100 pounds stronger.

Cotton has declined a quarter with slender sales and sugar is an eighth lower, but oil has advanced 1½c to 49c and copper 1¼c.

Sales of corn and oats have been small and of wheat only 29,000,000 bushels in New York, nearly all speculative.

The uncertainty as to the action of Congress on financial and tariff matters does not diminish and doubtless affects some branches of industry and trade, but the Ways and Means Committee is said to favor the purchase of bonds even with half the trust fund held for the redemption of bank notes.

EXPORT RATES.

Proceedings of the Executive Committee of the Trunk Lines.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the trunk lines yesterday it was resolved to maintain the present export rates. It was also decided to ask the Grand Trunk line by wire to return to the old rates. The passenger agents met afterwards, when it was announced that the Canadian Pacific had entered into an agreement with the trunk lines to abolish the payment of commissions on all passenger traffic on all west-bound trains and on all west-bound trains east of Hamilton, on the northern boundary of Maine.

The Quebec Demonstration.

QUEBEC, Feb. 3.—An idea of the extreme precautions deemed necessary to allow the Carnot banquet to pass off quietly here next week can be formed from the postponement to the end of February of the rendering of the judgment of the Court of Review on the jury's finding of a year ago in the famous libel case of Amyot v. Tarte, arising out of events connected with the Northwest Rebellion. Of course another cause is assigned for the postponement, but the knowing ones claim that the true reason is the fear of the Militia Minister's friends that if the judgment, which is going to set aside on technical grounds the verdict in favor of Col. Amyot and against the Militia Minister's organ, was rendered before the banquet, the Ninth Battalion would be very likely to make things rather unpleasant for Sir Adolphe during the festivity. At least, this is the report actually in circulation. The Tories are straining every nerve to drum up a crowd for the political demonstration of the Young Conservative Club at the Academy of Music here on Feb. 9. Over 1000 special tickets have already been distributed, but fearing that the Quebeckers may not avail themselves of them very numerously an agent has been sent to Montreal to distribute a few thousand more there. The ladies are also to be attracted by a free invitation to the galleries of the hall. The speakers are to be principally Langevin, Carou, Chapleau, Taillon and Ross.

The Actions Against Sir Adolphe.

QUEBEC, Feb. 3.—It is announced in connection with the penal cases against Sir A. P. Caron for personal acts of corruption at the last Quebec County election, that the prosecution is in possession of the Militia Minister's own letters to the electors bribed, offering them rewards to vote for him.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm, some five months ago. It has done for me what other so-called cures failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me. eod5

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Tradies make the most one pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; and they have only to make a statement, it can turn out how grossly untrue it is, the Public, simple-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is surprising character to watch. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man Boasts about his actual purchases, or about his usual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and a glance shows why, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying these to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest mean living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price today is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats, running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $5 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is about the town.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Mr. Roy's Views.

Mr. R. M. Roy is acquiring fame as a view-photographer. While on his late trip to New York he succeeded at great personal risk in obtaining admirable views of Niagara Falls in their winter garb of crystal beauty from points never yet reached by any of his predecessors. At the races here Thursday and Friday he caught several at the racers "on the fly," while on the home stretch. This morning he photographed the new locks line bridge with the first engines that passed over it standing in the middle.

Broke Through the Ice.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. R. Tivey, Inspector of Bridges for the G.T.R., had a narrow escape from drowning at Lakefield. He and a staff of men were engaged in taking soundings at the railway wharf for the purpose of preparing plans for repairs. Mr. Tivey was standing alone near the wharf, when the ice gave way and he was submerged in deep water. Help soon arrived, but Mr. Tivey managed to get out without assistance. He was around to-day as usual, apparently none the worse for his cold bath.

Death of a Pioneer.

On Sunday last, says the Norwood Register, there passed away to his rest at the residence of his son John, Mr. Joseph Jory, of North Dummer, in the 88th year of his age. Deceased was born in Cornwall, England, in the year 1800. Thirty-two years afterwards he emigrated to Canada, settling in the township of Dummer, where he has resided continuously ever since. Dummer at that time was a howling wilderness and the hardships Mr. Jory had to contend with in the days of his early manhood are known only to a few of the surviving settlers who first set their foot on Dummer soil. His last days were spent at the residence of his son, Mr. John Jory, who resides on the old home-stead. In the year 1831 he was stricken with total blindness, but never heard to murmur or complain. He was widely known and respected, and his funeral, which took place on Tuesday, was largely attended. His remains were interred in the Warsaw cemetery.

St. Paul's Children's Festival.

One of the most delightfully successful Sunday School entertainments ever held in St. Paul's Church took place in the school room last night. About 450 delighted youngsters were present, and enough equally delighted adults to make the number 600. The Superintendent, Mr. Sheriff Hall, presided. There were admirably given recitations, beautiful solos, duets, quartettes and choruses by the children, not forgetting the charming kindergarten choruses by the infant class. Rev. Mr. Torrance, pastor, gave a short address. The refreshments consisted of generously filled bags of sweetmeats, cakes, candies, etc., distributed to the children. A cordial votes of thanks was passed to Mrs. J. H. Dixon, and Misses Deanistoun and Roper for the successful efforts made by them in providing one of the best entertainments known in the history of St. Paul's. The proceedings closed by the singing of an appropriate hymn.

The Tracing Boards.

At the regular communication of Peterborough Lodge A.F.& A.M. held on Friday evening, the brethren were treated to an agreeable surprise. On entering the handsome lodge room there were found suspended from the eastern wall three large colored oil paintings, illustrative of the three degrees of Free Masonry, and known among the craft as the "Tracing Boards." Towards the close of the evening R.W. Bro. Shorlty took occasion to state to the brethren that these paintings had been presented to the Lodge by Bro. D. Spence, their present S. W. On behalf of the donor he read the formal presentation, which was couched in appropriate but modest terms, and with the true Masonic ring in them. Bro. Shorlty paid a fitting compliment to Bro. Spence for his handsome and generous gift, remarking that no brother had shown more marked zeal and assiduity in Masonic affairs. The lodge afterwards passed a unanimous vote of thanks to Bro. Spence. During the evening the "Tracing Boards" and their symbolic depictions were the subject of much interest and remark by the brethren of the mystic tie.

Oddfellow Visitors.

Important intelligence, relating to Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, was received this morning, including a letter from Prof. J. S. Duer, of Cleveland, at present in Port Hope. This gentleman has the reputation of being one of the best exponents of "team floor work" in connection with Oddfellow ceremonies. He is now instructing Durham Lodge, Port Hope, and will visit Otonabee Lodge on Monday evening next, when he will give an exhibition and exemplification of the work. At the same time, by a happy coincidence, a letter was received from the secretary of Lindsay Lodge, inquiring if there was any work in the new form in Otonabee Lodge on Monday night; if so, a large deputation from Lindsay would be present to see the work gone through by Otonabee Lodge, whose fame in this respect is of more than local extent. Fortunately there are candidates ready, a reply was immediately wired to Lindsay, and it may be expected that a large number of Lindsayites will be present, as well as a strong contingent from Norwood. It is unnecessary to insist on the importance of the occasion to every Oddfellow in town.

Complimentary.

The following text of the prudatory remarks to the judgment of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council, in the Grand Junction appeal case, is worth quoting as showing a highly complimentary appreciation of Canadian legal talent, when pitted even against the brilliant lights of the British bar:

"The numerous questions which present themselves in this intricate case have been argued very fully during the space of several days. Not that they have been treated at too great length; on the contrary, their Lordships consider that the Counsel on both sides have done as much as their cases required, and no more; and they wish in especial to acknowledge the way in which the gentlemen of the Canadian Bar have aided the argument by their experience in Canadian law and their candour in imparting it. But from the completeness with which all the questions were threshed out, their Lordships have formed opinions on the most important ones during the argument."

The Last Day's Races.

Close of the Most Successful Winter Sports Ever Held in Peterborough.—The Lovell Houses Show up Well.

The races Friday afternoon were even more interesting than those of the preceding day. Beautiful weather graced the occasion, and the attendance could not have been short of 2,000.

The judges were Messrs. Williams, Sawers and Graham, the latter taking the place of Mr. F. J. Daly.

Mr. James English kept accurate time, and the time shown proves that there is some fast horseflesh in this district. In the free-for-all especially a good record was made, the last heat being trotted in 2.29.

Named Three.

The first event was the named race, in which there were five starters. It was a walk-away for Lady B., though none who was heard guessed by Pettitt's pacer. The race was really for second and third place between the other horses. Following is the official score :—

	1st	2nd	3rd
Jerry (pacer, Mr. Pettitt, Lakefield)	3	2	2
Jonathan F. (Ingram, Weston Falls)	2	5	3
Little Willie (McGregor, town)	5	4	5
Lady B. (E. Brown, town)	1	1	1
Royal Dick (Kimblret, town)	4	3	4

Time—2.47, 2.44, 2.39.

1st horse, Lady B., $35; 2nd, Jerry, $15; 3rd, Jonathan F., $10.

The Forty-Five Class.

"Sleepy Dan" ran away with this race. "F.O.P." and "Lapidist Chief" had a tussle for second place. Everyone well informed on local racing matters expressed surprise at the speed shown by "Lapidist Chief," who trotted in excellent form. Score :

	1st	2nd	3rd
F.O.P. (Pearson, Brighton)	2	2	2
Blue Jean (Lawson, Brighton)	4	4	4
Sleepy Dan (Wiseb, Peterborough)	1	1	1
Lapidist Chief (Simpson, Hastings)	3	3	3

Time, 2.37; 2.37½; 2.36.

1st horse, Sleepy Dan, $30; 2nd, F.O.P., $25; 3rd, Lapidist Chief, $15.

Open Trot.

The free-for-all was probably the race of the day that brought out the most speed. "Mayflower" won by three straights, though the first heat was won by about half a length over "Willie W." Mr. Daly's promising pacer, who, could he be kept to his feet, would prove a worthy match for the Beaverton horse. The tussle for second place was between "Royal Jim" and "Willie W.," and proved quite exciting. Score :—

	1st	2nd	3rd
Royal Jim (Clancy, Peterborough)	2	2	3
Mayflower (McCrae, Beaverton)	1	1	1
Johnny B. (Stokes, Kingston)	4	4	4
Willie W., (Daly, Peterborough)	3	3	2

Time, 2.35; 2.32½; 2.30.

1st horse, Mayflower, $75; 2nd, Willie W., $30; 3rd, Royal Jim, $20.

The New Bridge Tested.

Formal Trial of the New Locks Line Bridge.—A Structure that Completes an Important Link.—Time Table Changes.

This morning the new iron bridge that completes the Locks Loop Line was formally tested. About half-past eleven o'clock a train, consisting of two engines and a van, left the Midland station and ran down over the new line to the bridge, in which the last spikes were being driven under the superintendence of Mr. McNabb, roadmaster. After a few minutes' wait the train drew slowly across the bridge, then backed up again at a more rapid rate, and made a third trial trip using a full head of steam at the rate of about 30 miles an hour. The Beaver Mead bridge, a little further on, was also tested. It is scarcely necessary to say that the trial gave complete satisfaction.

THE OCCASION OF THE TEST.

Those present, outside of the train, among others, were Mr. Meadille, chief engineer; Mr. A. Ross, Peterboro'-chief; Mr. Smellerville, assistant engineer; Mr. R. Tivey, bridge inspector; Mr. W. Reynolds, roadmaster; Mr. Geo. Stephens, chief despatcher; Mr. R. M. Roy, special artist, and press representatives. There were besides a number of others connected with the railway company.

Driver Tom Mimms went first in engine No. 602, driver Paddy Logue following in No. 608. The train was in charge of conductor J. Steen.

THE BRIDGE

is a heavy steel plate girder, built by the Hamilton Bridge Co., whose energetic foreman, Mr. J. W. Maddigan, has succeeded in pushing the work to completion in about two months. The bridge is 125 feet long, with two 86-feet approaches or spans. The swing in the west end of the bridge is fitted with combinatties rollers and double gearing, by which one man can turn it in a minute. This bridge forms in the Locks Loop Line, which will be opened for traffic on Monday. The importance of this connection will soon manifest itself. In a few weeks, or a couple of months at the most, through trains will be run from Belleville to Toronto over this link, and it will be the means of greatly enhancing the rising importance of Peterborough as a business centre. For the present, however, the only will be for the local trains. The Lakefield train will leave every day over the new connection at 12.20 p.m., and arrive at 4.06. On the Belleville branch the trains leave and arrive just a quarter of an hour earlier each way. The hours of arrival at and departure from Peterborough station are :—Leave, at 7:45 a.m., and 2 p.m.; arrive, at 10:05 a.m., and 7:25 p.m. The way freight arrives at 2 p.m. and leaves at 2:45.

THE LAST LINK

CHANGES IN THE TIME-TABLE

News Nuggets.

—The Lakefield Chronicles the upset of White's livery sleigh which dumped out "Gus", the driver and a commercial traveler with six trunks—an accident on the trunk line.

Captain Eden's New Steamer

This week's Lakefield Chronicle says:—"Capt. Eden is getting well advanced with his new steamer. One cannot but admire her appearance at first sight and as he is certainly sparing nothing to make her strong, comfortable and convenient to supply the wants of the travelling public, she may be expected to excel any craft we have placed eyes on in this locality. The vessel will have accommodation for about 50 persons with strong upper deck for passengers, and embrace all modern improvements in hull and machinery. One great advantage she will have will be a light draught of water, enabling it to approach all shallow places around our picturesque islands. We wish Capt. Eden all the success his enterprising effort deserves."

A Notorious Crook.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Dr. Hamilton, alias Gustavus Griffin, who achieved notoriety as a confidence operator in Toronto and Montreal as well as in this city, has been successfully playing his little game in Los Angeles, Cal., where, as manager of the alleged "Southern California Land Bureau," he induced the unwary to invest money in his wondrous wealth-producing schemes. At last accounts he had been arrested for embezzling about $1700, but through the eloquent pleading and copious tears of his wife had managed to secure bail for his future appearance in court.

Market Items.

The market was well attended this morning, the mildness of the weather attracting large numbers of both buyers and sellers. Fresh butter sold at 23 and 24c.; eggs, 20c.; geese, 75c.; turkeys, $1 and $1.25. On the square meat, apples and potatoes were about the products offered, the prices being the same as for a month back.

There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.

But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last.
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.

Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure of bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge street, Toronto. For sale by J. D. Tully and all druggists. dw

SHOE STORE.

AS my agreement with the Scott Act Association expired on Dec. 31st, and I am no longer in their employ, I beg to inform you that I have opened a Boot & Shoe Store

In Dunsford's New Block East of Market,

where I hope to receive a share of public support in Custom work and repairs. Several attempts to boycott me have been made because of my connection with the Scott Act, to prevent me from obtaining employment, but I am not afraid of opposition under any circumstances, and will endeavor to give to all the value of their money, and use only the best material, and employ the best workmen, so that I can run Prohibition in the shoe trade, and Prohibit even water from getting at your soles to upset your understandings, as I have the remedy to heel it all.

As I have launched my bark in the temperance tide, will you help me to keep it afloat?

AT THE CRITICAL POINT.

THE ISSUE OF WAR OR PEACE DEPENDS UPON RUSSIA.

Unless Her Present Menacing Attitude is Abandoned Armed Strife Must Ensue—Significance of the Publication of the Austro-German Treaty.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Contrary to the assumption of the semi-official press, that the publication of the Austro-German treaty has a pacific intent, it is known in official and diplomatic circles that its real aim is to force the Czar to an immediate war or compel him to submit to terms for a permanent peace dictated by the allies. Both the French and Russian governments have known the substance of the treaty. At the time of the conference between Bismarck and Andrassey at Gastein, in August, 1879, the German Chancellor made confidential disclosures stating the character of the compact to the Czar, in the hope of inducing him to break off negotiations for a Russo-French alliance. On the day following the signature of the treaty, Bismarck personally communicated the fact to both the French and Russian ambassadors, and withheld only the exact terms of the treaty. The publication reveals nothing to any European government.

Before disclosing it to the people the step was anxiously and repeatedly discussed by Prince Bismarck, Count Kalnoky and Herr von Tisza. The Austrian Ministerial Council, the Emperor presiding, consented to the publication of the treaty only last week upon urgent representations from Prince Bismarck that the time was opportune. Its appearance at the present juncture recalls the utterance of Prince Bismarck when he was reproached in the Reichstag for refusing to submit to that body certain diplomatic correspondence: "Once a Government determines to publish important documents," he said, "matters should have gone so far that nothing but war is likely to be the outcome of the situation." By the light of this memorable statement the immense significance of the publication of the treaty at the present crisis will be seen. It is the step which precedes an ultimatum. If Russia continues to arm and push forward masses of troops menacing the strategic points on the frontiers, and if the pending negotiations for an offensive and defensive alliance with France should succeed, the central powers will not wait the convenience of the French and Russian Governments to declare war. The crisis therefore nears a climax. Prince Bismarck, in his speech in the Reichstag on Monday, may place a peaceful interpretation upon the motives of the publication of the treaty, but nothing he can say is expected to lessen the strain of the situation. The Czar must give practical assurances of peace or abide by an early war, and judging by all that is known of his character and the ministerial influences now dominating him, the Czar will not yield.

Count Schouvaloff, the Russian Ambassador to Germany, is in St. Petersburg attending the annual court. He will return to Berlin to-morrow and will see Prince Bismarck before the meeting of the Reichstag on Monday.

The debate on the Military Bill will be brief. All the great parties have agreed to mark their sense of the situation by disposing of the measure without delay.

The Kreuz Zeitung records fresh army movements on the frontier. The fort works at Kuvno are completed. Twelve forts connected by earthworks will protect the concentration of a force of 250,000 men designed, according to The Kreuz Zeitung, to operate against East Prussia.

Russia continues its negotiations for a 25,000,000 loan in Paris and Amsterdam, and is reported to be on the eve of success. The buying of Russian securities on the Bourse for investment has entirely ceased, American railroad securities of the best kinds taking their places.

Italy's Military Expenditure.

ROME, Feb. 5.—In the debate on the Budget in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, Signor Crispi, the Prime Minister, said that in the present condition of Europe it was impossible for Italy to reduce her military expenditure. It was impossible to maintain peace, for decisively, if the army and navy were not subject enough to persuade those who might think otherwise that peace can be compelled if necessary.

They Wait for War.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Cabinet Council, in preparing the Queen's speech, deliberated for a long time on the terms in which it would be best to convey their references to foreign affairs, and to England's attitude toward the European situation. Lord Salisbury, previous to the meeting of the Cabinet, had an interview on international matters in Central and Eastern Europe with the German Ambassador to the court of St. James, and is understood to have learned from him that the new position in which Prince Bismarck finds himself placed by the peculiar conduct of Russia is a very critical one. Peace, it is understood, is dependent solely on the Czar, who has surrendered himself to the influences of the military party, and submitted his political movements completely to their control; so that the prospect of a preservation of peace is very slight, indeed. The Cabinet took this interpretation of the war scare into deliberation, and finally agreed to make the Speech from the Throne announce that although the existing aspect of continental Europe gives just cause of alarm for the stability of amicable relations the Queen is hopeful that peace may be preserved. Whatever may happen, the address will assure parliament that England will maintain an attitude of the strictest neutrality.

AUSTRIA AND GERMANY.

Comments of the Press on the Treaty of Alliance.

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—The Fremdenblatt says that the publication of the treaty of alliance will produce everywhere the conviction that our policy has a pacific and conservative tendency, which will always be maintained. It will decisively show that the policy of Austria and Germany in the grouping of the powers is of high and unmistakable importance and that the duration of the treaty is absolutely secured.

The Extrablatt says: "The publication of the treaty is calculated to be eminently effective for the preservation of peace. If the publication fails to accomplish the object designed war will be inevitable."

The Neue Freie Presse says it fears that no change in the present political situation will be effected by the publication of the treaty.

The Allgemine Zeitung says the publication constitutes the final admonition to Russia to stop in the path whereon she has entered.

AN ENTERPRISING MECHANIC.

He Gets Two Watches and Chains That Don't Belong to Him—Arrested for Fraud.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5.—James Dickson, a boilermaker, about 28 years of age, was charged at the Police Court yesterday morning with having stolen a watch and chain from W. Faulkner, and another watch and chain from James Burrell. Between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning the private prosecutors were awakened by the defendant, who was in their room at their boarding house. Faulkner saw Dickson go to his trunk and take something out. He called to him and Dickson came towards him and threw something under the bed. He afterwards discovered it to be some of his clothes. Faulkner and Burrell got up and found that Dickson had Faulkner's overcoat and undercoat on and the two watches and chains in the overcoat pockets. Burrell also missed some money but could not swear that the money found upon Dickson was his. The defendant said that he had not tasted liquor for a year until last night, when he took two or three glasses and didn't know anything that took place afterwards. He was committed for trial.

Detective McKenzie yesterday morning arrested a man about 40 years of age, who gave his name as Alvin Potter, on complaint of Mrs. Mary Burgess, who charges him with obtaining a pair of gold earrings by false pretence. She claims that in April last he made a bargain with her for the sale of a sewing machine and she gave him the earrings as security. He has never delivered the machine, she says, and she cannot get the jewelry back.

George Smith, the old man who was arrested on a charge of seducing Mary E. Oxley, a young girl living in York-street, was in the dock at the Police Court yesterday morning. The prosecution was not ready to proceed, and Mr. Nesbitt, who appeared for the defendant, consented to allow the case to stand until Tuesday next. The Magistrate decided to allow Smith out upon furnishing $500 bail himself and one surety of $300.

The report of the experts on the new pumps, which was presented to the Waterworks Committee yesterday, shows that the pumps fulfilled all the requirements.

CUSTOMS SEIZURES.

Several Packages of Books Taken at Montreal—Smuggling Detected at Halifax.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Appraiser Andrews has seized at Montreal a number of packages of books which were concealed in two cases of goods which happened to be sent to the examining warehouse.

The Collector of Customs at Halifax reports a seizure of some goods landed by a sailor on board the steamer Mina on her return from New York. A clear case of smuggling has been proved and the usual penalties will be imposed.

It is understood the Vice-Regal party have intimated their intention of attending the Hunter-Crossley revival services in the Dominion Methodist Church some evening during the present week. The interest in the work seems unabated. Sir John and Lady Macdonald have been frequently present at the services.

The Charges Against Minister Caron.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—It seems that the penal cases taken against Sir Adolphe for personal acts of "corruption in the Quebec County election are giving the Militia Minister and his friends a world of anxiety, as every effort to settle them or pass them off has failed, and if proven they will involve not only the imposition of a heavy fine for each of the five offences charged, but the personal qualification of the Minister for seven years. The chief evidence against Sir Adolphe consists of his own letters to electors, offering places to some, money to others and payment of all the liquor required during the election if they voted for him.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.

THE CANADIAN AGRICULTURAL AND COAL COLONIZATION COMPANY.

The Claims of the Irish Landlords Declared Absurd—Health of the Emperor and Empress of Germany—The War in Abyssinia—The Pope's Jubilee—Striking Miners in Spain Fired Upon.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—At the conclusion of a performance at Lowry's Music Hall in Dublin last night, Mlle. Seside, one of the performers, placed her head in a lion's mouth for the purpose of having her photograph taken in that position. A sudden flash of light caused the beast to close his jaws, and rush growling to the corner of his cage, dragging his helpless victim with him. Then he shook the girl violently, tearing her bare breast with his claws. The attendants at once sprang toward the cage and attacked the lion with irons and finally succeeded in beating him off. Mlle. Seside's injuries are not of a serious nature.

Emperor William and Empress Augusta are in good health. The Emperor gives prolonged audiences daily and entertains nightly. The gayeties of palace society have been revived, owing to the better prospects of the Crown Prince.

According to The Dublin Freeman's Journal the claims of the Irish landlords are absurd, and their pleas for compensation for the losses suffered through recent legislation cannot be carried out.

The Balloon Corps have reached Suati to join the Italian troops. Work on the defences of Saati are pushed rapidly as well as the storing of provisions.

The Archbishop of Philadelphia officiated at a solemn high mass and the singing of the "Te Deum" at the American College in Rome in honor of the Pope's jubilee.

Yesterday a mob of miners, now on strike in Rio Linto, Spain, being ordered to disperse, refused to do so, and were fired upon by the troops. Several are reported to have been killed and five wounded.

Mr. Gladstone telegraphs that he will arrive in London to-morrow and be present in the House of Commons on Thursday.

Mr. Gladstone's decision to return to-morrow has relieved his friends and colleagues from more anxiety. They feared that he might not appear till the day of the opening of Parliament. No Opposition program for the opening debate can be drawn up without him. Matters will now be settled as usual on Wednesday, though the ex-Ministers will dine together, as usual, seems uncertain. The house which Mr. Gladstone has taken for the session, in James-street, Buckingham Gate, is under the shadow of Buckingham Palace, but is small and ill-adapted to entertainments.

The prospectus has been issued of the Canadian Agricultural and Coal Colonization Company. The capital is £300,000 sterling, issued in 20,000 7 per cent. preferred shares of £10 each. There is a strong directorate. Henry Kings, Member of Parliament for Hull, is chairman. The company is formed to acquire Sir John Lister Kaye's concessions at Rush Lake and Belgoria. The vendor accepts 10,000 deferred shares at £1 each in part payment, £165,000 cash for the rest. This will make the price for the land $2.85 per acre, with a free concession of the coal. The company will also enjoy the option of the six years' purchase of another 100,000 acres of land. Sir John Lister Kaye will be the resident manager in Canada.

The stock markets were again quiet this week. Canadian Pacific shares have fallen 2, Grand Trunk preferences are lower, but Northern of Canada preferences and mortgage bonds have all improved. Grand Trunk second equipment mortgage bonds are 2½ higher, and Chicago and Grand Trunk bonds better. Hudson Bay shares are 1 lower on the report of the fur sales.

Seven hundred fishermen, coopers and others belonging to Fraserburgh and the adjoining district have asked Mr. Esslemont, Member of Parliament for Aberdeen, to urge the Government to give assistance to enable them to emigrate to British Columbia. They wish to leave on account of the collapse of the herring fishing and the general depression in agriculture.

The Ripon-Morley demonstration at Dublin has lasted three days, filled many columns, attracted some English attention, and elicited unbounded Irish enthusiasm. The most striking single fact in all the proceedings is that on at least one occasion one English flag was displayed. Mr. Morley has spoken in that pungent, epigrammatic style which he has acquired since he entered politics. It is a curious blend of wide literary culture with the polemics of the platform. He has repudiated Mr. Davitt's recent Socialistic declarations, but in admitting that the great mass of Irish wealth and culture is against Home Rule, he himself talks something very like Socialism. Where does the wealth come from, asks Mr. Morley, if not from the labor of the people? The Irish peasants will understand that as meaning that all the profit of labor ought to belong to the laborer.

Sir Charles Russell will move an amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's Speech, raising the question of the right of holding public meetings in Trafalgar-square.

The O'Brien Reception Committee has been obliged to abandon the proposed meeting in London, being unable to obtain a suitable hall. The reception will be confined to a day-light procession and a banquet at the Criterion.

The Express says it is rumored in well-informed circles that the Government is determined upon the total suppression of the National League, and will allow no loophole through which League newspapers can escape the penalty of any interdicted publication.

BOODLER ISRAEL LUCAS.

A DEFAULTING TREASURER FROM OHIO CAPTURED IN TORONTO.

Twice Elected Custodian of the Funds of Angelaina County He Skips Out With $25,000—Detective Bourquin's Long Hunt and Capture.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.

At 10 o'clock last night Sergeant Detective Reburn, Detectives Burrows and Caddy and Detective A. Bourquin of New Bremen, Ohio, went to No. 26 Richmond-street east and arrested Israel Lucas, aged 35, and Lissetta Lucas, aged 30, his wife. Lucas was known at his boarding house as L. Wise. The warrant for his arrest charged him with bringing stolen money into Canada, but it is expected the crime of forgery will be added before long. The prisoners were locked up at the Agnes-street station.

Lucas was twice elected treasurer of Angelaina County, Ohio, the capital of which is the stirring little town of Wapakoneata. Aug. 27 last was the day fixed for renewing his bonds as treasurer, but instead of justifying he quietly left Ohio and came to Toronto. When his books were overhauled it was found the Lucas had stolen $21,000 of the county's money. Detective Bourquin has been on his track since the date of his disappearance, and this is his second visit to Toronto. Lucas has grown a beard since he arrived in this city, but Detective Burrows, from descriptions sent on by Detective Bourquin, succeeded in "locating" Lucas. He had but $12 in his pocket when arrested last night.

Lucas, previous to his election as county treasurer, was a prominent merchant of Wapakoneata, moved in the best society, belonged to several societies and was a great sportsman, hunting being his hobby. The young woman who was arrested with him is a noted wing shot. She is Lucas' second wife, being a sister of a previous Mrs. Lucas.

Detective Bourquin feels greatly elated over his capture; he had been on the scent for such a long time. The County Commissioner of Angelaina has offered a reward of $2000 for his capture and conviction.

THE SHEPHERD AND HIS SHEEP.

SERMON BY LAYMAN.

(Written for the Examiner.)

The word shepherd means a caretaker and a friend. In worldly affairs it presupposes the helpless and the strong, the helpless infant in its mother's arms. The wayfarer and the wanderer taken in from the storm and receiving protection and kindness. But the more common acceptation of the word is that he is the caretaker and friend of the sheep. And on the mountain sides and on the vast plains may be seen the kind, careful shepherd and his faithful dog ever on the watch over their flocks. Ever on the watch to shield them from danger. And when the night comes on how careful the shepherd is to have all his sheep placed in comfort and safety. And if but one little lamb of his flock has strayed away he searches, it may be, all through the long night until he finds it, and brings it back to the fold again. Nearly two thousand years ago we read of the shepherds on the plains of Bethlehem, whom an angel told of the birth of a Saviour. They were watching their sheep by night and they were the first to receive the joyful message. What a beautiful illustration this affords of the spiritual Shepherd. The friend and protector of the souls of man. Christ was the great shepherd and his mission was to save sinners and to redeem the world. And He gave up His life for that holy purpose. And He set an example of watchfulness and love for the examples and the guidance of those who come after Him. An example worthy of the imitation of all those who come after him, and who, in his name, took upon themselves the duties and the obligations of speaking in His name and of doing His work upon earth. And He enjoined them to save His sheep. And, doubtless, at that great day when these would-be shepherds will be called upon to render an account of their shepherdship, many of them will be found wanting. And they will be told that they did not do their duty. The physical shepherd is early and late at his work. And he never tires. At early morn he goes forth with his flock to the field and he never ceases his watchful care until the shades of night have warned him to bring his sheep home to a place of safety. He never neglects his duty. Now, whoever saw one of the Lord's shepherds beginning his labors at the dawn of day. Lying upon his downy couch he says, "a little more sleep and a little more slumber," and when he rises he does not think of the wandering sheep, but passes his mornings in comfort and enjoyment in his own comfortable dwelling. Many of the sheep have gone astray and he refuses to give even a little exertion to bring them back again. With the exception of the favored few, he does not even raise his holy eyes to look after them or to recognise them if he meets them on his way, His mission would appear to be not to save the lost. And if he happened to come across a stray lamb on his way he does not take it and place it in his bosom and carry it to a place of safety, for if he did so the effect would be to soil his fine linen and destroy his bright kid gloves. And the black sheep are their perfect abhorrence. They pass them by as though having no soul, and do all they can to sink them to a lower depth. They speak no word of good counsel, and they let them go on their way utterly careless of their destiny, and let them die without hope. No kind word is ever spoken, but black looks and contemptuous treatment fill up their cup of sin and sorrow and make them almost feel that there is no God, or man would not act so unkindly. And it is the same in sickness and sorrow as it is in wealth. Lying upon their beds of sickness and poverty the poor helpless creatures are left alone in their misery. No one coming, in God's name, to say a kind word or to hold out the hand of encouragement and hope. No one to soothe the weary and the dying. No one to bring comfort and help, unless it be some poor wayfarer who strives to smooth the pillow and cool the fevered brow. And as with the sheep so with the lambs. These pretended spiritual shepherds hear their feeble cries for help but heed them not. They look upon their emaciated bodies and their pinched, pale faces, but they turn away and go back to their luxurious homes and sit down to a sumptuous dinner, and then hypocritically thank the Lord that they have plenty. And so they pass six long days and nights in contentment and peace, and on the seventh day they manage, in great pomp and pride and ceremony, to read over two poor starved lessons, called sermons, and listen to the voices of the paid singers and the tones of the organ and then their labors are done. And the business of the world goes on as before, the poor languish and suffer, they sorrow and die and are buried. And the shepherds look on unmoved, But God and his angels have seen and heard all. And they have kept a record of all. And when the great day of His judgment comes there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth. And these poor neglected sheep and these poor suffering lambs will raise in glory and go up to Heaven and sit on the right hand of God forever and ever more.

There is a land that is fairer than day,
And by faith we can see it afar.
For the Father waits over the way,
To prepare us a dwelling place there.
In the sweet bye and bye we shall meet on that beautiful shore.

We shall sing on that beautiful shore
The melodious songs of the blest,
And our spirits shall never more sever
Not a sigh for the blessing of rest.

To our beautiful Father above
We will offer the incense of praise,
For the glorious gift of His love,
And the blessings that hallow his days.

Christ said unto Peter "feed my sheep, feed my lambs," that is, give the people spiritual consolation and comfort. And the owner of his flocks tells his shepherd to watch over and keep them safe. And we are told that on the night of Christ's birth these faithful shepherds were still at their post, never neglecting their duty but carefully watching over their master's sheep, even to the dawn of day. Early or late they wander over the mountain sides and over the plains looking after their sheep and seeing that not even one little lamb strays away, and they never grow weary. And their avocation and the innocence of the flocks committed to their charge have formed a fit symbol in the language of our Saviour, "feed my sheep, feed my lambs." But look at the difference between those two kinds of shepherds. In heat and cold, in storm or sunshine these poor but faithful material shepherds are ever found awake and watchful, and hunger never drives them from their task. And with the help of their faithful dog they do not allow even one poor lamb to stray away. But what about the Shepherd of the souls of men? Who cares for them! And who goes out into the storm to gather them into the fold? And how often a straying soul is left to its fall when a little watchfulness and a little love and care would bring it into safety again. Perchance the hour is early and the clouds grow darker and the shepherd looks out from his comfortable bed and then sighs "a little more sleep, a little more slumber." But the spirit of evil is abroad and he is ever on the watch. And while the shepherd is sleeping he is destroying the precious soul and taking it to everlasting perdition. And when the unfaithful shepherd rises from his rest it is forever gone. And what shall that man say when his lord asks him what he has done with the talent which he entrusted to him? And shall he say that he hid it in the ground and did nothing?

THE PENNSYLVANIA STRIKE.

Men and Boys Stoned and Beaten—A Battle Between the Police and Rioters.

SHENANDOAH, Feb. 5.—The riot of Friday night was renewed last evening. While the sheriff was absent at the county seat the Poles were open in expressing their intention to stop the Kehley Run colliery from doing any work, and warning that they would suffer from the coal and iron police had no effect on them. Towards 3 o'clock they began to gather on the small circus grounds south of Kehley Run colliery, on the surrounding hillside and in all the streets, alleys and yards of the vicinity. By 4 o'clock when the Gap bell rang the signal to quit work there were fully 2000 men, women and children congregated in waiting for the workmen. Not all of these were Poles, but those in the front rank were, and armed with revolvers, clubs and stones they impatiently looked for the coming of the Kehley Run employes.

The breaker boys were the first to quit work and start for home. It was not thought by the mine managers that the mob would molest these mere boys, but it was bad judgment, for they kicked, stoned and beat them as though they had been responsible adults. A few men who braved the mob also met the same fate, and it soon became evident that if the rioters were to be checked at all it must be by the authority of the coal and iron police and cold lead. Suddenly the coal and iron men to the number of twenty-two formed on the flat at a distance of about fifty yards below the breaker, in the very front of the howling mob, who continued to pelt them with stones. As they formed company front with drawn revolvers, heavy and self-cocking weapons, the mob recoiled and stood at bay.

The conservative part of the crowd, that which was only there as spectators, drew back to a safe distance. The Poles, however, still remained in the foreground, waiting for a move on the part of the officers. The latter, at a command from their leader, made a wheel to the left and marched off along the pike road leading to the east and toward the Red Bridge. The Poles slowly followed for a while in the rear under the leadership of a big brawny individual, who flourished a large revolver and seemed determined to use it. The platoon of officers marched on up the slight elevation of the road, which, as it rose, formed an embankment for the Lehigh Valley Road. As they neared the top of the road they were suddenly fired on by a few Poles who had crept along under the shadow of the bank. One of the officers, Oscar Wilman, fell with an ugly wound in the inner part of the left thigh. The physician called has not been able to find the bullet. Officer Blucker received a bullet-wound in the shoulder.

The police then turned and fired repeatedly in the direction of the mob, but without hitting anyone as far as known. The mob returned the fire with vigor, but drew back at the same time. The officers marched off again along the railroad through the bridge and down to Indian Ridge Breaker, where they are quartered in the offices. Part of the mob followed and besieged them there but made no attack. The officers have their carbines there and the Poles seem to have a wholesome fear of the sixteen-shooters.

Nothing has occurred to break the peace of the Sabbath here.

Fatally Shot.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 5.—As was feared, a collision occurred last evening between the non-union men at the Solar Iron Works and the strikers, in which three persons were injured, one, a 16-year-old lad named Joseph Kenge, it is thought, being fatally shot.

THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results that have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh. eodw6

MR. CAMPBELL ON THE STAND.

The Suspended Liquidator Again Subjected to a Severe Cross Examination.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—The attendance in the court of the Master-in-Ordinary at 11 o'clock Saturday morning was larger than usual, the increase being mainly due to the increased interest which Mr. Campbell's cross-examination has aroused in the proceedings for his removal from the liquidatorship. Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, with their counsel, W. A. Foster, Q.C., and Mr. Campbell, with Jas. McLennan, Q.C., to attend to his interests, were in their places early.

After the Master had taken his place, Mr. Campbell stepped into the witness-box and looked apparently at his ease, and determined not to yield to the excitement which made him tremble in the box on Friday and grip the hand rail behind him in a way to astonish the reporters, who alone were so placed as to be able to see his hand.

The Master opened by saying that in reference to the argument by counsel last evening as to the limitation of the cross-examination that he had asked for a copy of the petition for Mr. Campbell's remand, and had read Mr. Campbell's affidavit. Continuing, the Master gave his opinion as follows: As to the limit or scope of the examination, I find that there are several allegations in the petition that do not go as far as the allegations made by Mr. Foster in the examination yesterday. But there are allegations that go farther than the examination yesterday. There is the clause in the affidavit referring to the conduct of Messrs. Howland and Gooderham not attending to their duties and absenting themselves from the bank when they should have been present, and further Mr. Campbell alleges in his affidavit that they did not apprehend the work necessary and were utter strangers in the performance in winding up the business of the bank. Again in his affidavit Mr. Campbell contradicts emphatically that he refused to supply statements to his co-liquidators. In view of all this and the extent of the cross-examination yesterday Mr. Foster did not exceed the affidavit. Therefore, I say, that the scope of the examination yesterday did not go beyond the affidavit filed by Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell asked permission to explain about the renewals he made reference to on Friday, and leave was given. He explained: The renewals were all for small amounts and I always received money in part payment from the parties. I was benefiting the position of the bank in reference to the matter, and I considered it very desirable to reduce the indebtedness to the bank in this way. I therefore took every possible opportunity to accept money on these notes. In reference to the subject of my not reporting the matter to my co-liquidators, they were not always there, and if they had looked in the books at any time they would have got the information for themselves. Also in reference to the question of the 50's, in addition to the 25 which I deposited in the Quebec Bank I received 22 more.

A number of accounts were then examined into and the mode of their closing questioned. Those on pages 611, 915, 285, 454, 945, 618, in No. 1 ledger and 643, 961, 855, in No. 2 ledger were turned up and Mr. Campbell was asked to explain how they were closed. The peculiarity of all of these accounts was, that on the day before they were closed a certain sum of money was shown by the books to stand to their credit and the account was closed without any money being drawn out—so Mr. Campbell says.

For instance: On Nov. 26 David Blain had, apparently, $22,060 standing to his credit. On Nov. 27 the account was closed and Mr. Campbell says Mr. Blain did not draw out a cent. Another had $3055 standing to his credit on Dec. 2 and on Dec. 3 the account was closed without any money being drawn. Mr. Campbell says it must have been done by notes maturing on those days being charged to the accounts of all of these parties. That was the only explanation he could offer.

With reference to a number of accounts which had been assigned to different banks at the time of the suspension by those having balances to their credit at the Central Bank, Mr. Campbell stated that as soon as he found it out he prevented it being done. He did not think there was anything particularly wrong about those assignments. It was only making these banks creditors instead of private individuals. Still he did not give anyone permission to make transfers. What were made were made without his permission. He did not tell the other liquidators about these assignments, as he did not think it necessary.

Mr. Foster asked what amount of cash was in the treasury on Dec. 2. When about fifteen minutes was consumed in searching the cash book and ledger, it was found that there was a discrepancy of $24,500 between the bank account and Mr. Campbell's account. This was accounted for by Mr. Campbell's stating that past due bills were carried as cash.

The examination of Mr. Campbell will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald.
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will,
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called
There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.
But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.
Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge street, Toronto. For sale by J. D. POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, least-wise, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and comprise largely, last week Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of presents. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $3.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats reaching up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6 50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash?

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $3.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Mr. Henry intends practising his profession in Toronto, and a successful career is in store for him.

The publishers of "Picturesque Canada" have another scheme on hand. It is called the Home Library or Home Knowledge Association. Do people believe the publishers have made enough money out of the subscription book and are now willing to give the people of Canada all the books they want at actual cost price? Some people think so. 2d

"Unlimited Scope."

The Bobcaygeon Independent thus refers to a pending town by-law :—"Mr. Councillor Moore, of Peterborough, has a by-law in hand intended to prevent boys from jumping on sleighs. When the right honorable gentleman gets through with this law he might give his attention to another, compelling boys to hang up their hats where they can find them. The distinguished councillor has struck a big lead, and has almost unlimited scope for laws on boy culture."

Saturday a meeting of the joint committee of the town and county councils was held and the contract let for the new iron bridge that is to replace the wooden structure at present spanning the Otonabee river, at the locks. The iron swing now in use will be retained, and a 190 foot iron span will replace the wooden section. A new pier and abutment will also be built, for which Mr. Chas. Wynne has the contract for $5,600, to be completed by 15th August. Mr. W. H. Law has the contract for the iron work, at $31 per foot—a total of $5,890—his work to be finished by Sept. 15th.

Machinery Shipment.

To-day the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company ship to Dundas to the Cochrane Roller Mill Supply Company a splendid Corliss engine and boiler, complete—smokestack, etc. The engine is of 50-horse power, 13x30, and the steel boiler is 54 inches in diameter. Few persons in town realize that we have one of the best manufactories of heavy machinery in Canada, of which the sending of machinery into a town having one of the largest heavy machinery establishments in the Dominion is important evidence. The William Hamilton company has a continental reputation, their constituency of customers extending from British Columbia in the west to Quebec in the east. They recently filled a large order for mill machinery for Victoria Harbour, and are now busy on an order from Drummondville, P.Q., for a complete and heavy saw-mill outfit.

Eradicating Excuses.

Rev. Mr. Tovell on Sunday evening continued his series of sermons on "Reasons given for not being a Christian." He advanced three or four of the popular reasons commonly urged by those not professing faith for not entering the joys of righteousness. Some, he said, pleaded a "convenient season"; others, that they lead moral lives, and they consider that is all that is required of them; still others, that they are afraid if they did enter the church they could not endure till the end, and they would not want to bring disgrace upon themselves by backsliding; and, lastly, it was urged that while Christianity is a consolation in this life, and especially at death, yet for a pushing, active business life its requirements are hardly practicable. Each of these objections the reverend gentleman combatted from a Christian standpoint, showing their fallacy and unsubstantiality when viewed in the full light of the gospel. The sermon was interesting and instructive to a degree.

On the Topis.

The Masonic fraternity of Peterborough, ever since their wholesale absorption of the entire upper chambers of the Dunsford block, have revealed nothing—but their disposition to set good examples. Since the days of King Soloman these humble representatives of their ancient and wise founder have been a progressive body—delving deep into the hidden mysteries of nature and science—and setting examples for all other societies to imitate. From what can be gleaned, there is unusual activity at present in the upper rooms of the new Masonic Hall on Water street. A series of Masonic "At Homes" is spoken of as likely to take place in these spacious and handsome apartments before the close of the winter, to which members of the fraternity will have the privilege of inviting their friends, lady or gentleman. Whatever is in store for the privileged ones on these occasions has not yet been divulged to the public. The date of the first of these gatherings will be fixed in a few days, when the fraternity shall have completed their arrangements. In the meantime, the members are requested to attend a private gathering to be held in their hall on Tuesday (to-morrow) evening, Feb. 7th—not Wednesday evening, as erroneously stated. The nature of this meeting is to partake of private edification of the craft, exemplifications of their work, lectures, music, recitals, vocal exercises, etc.

Skating.

The skating rink will be open to the public to-night. Season tickets can be had at the bookstores and Mr. Jenkins' store. d

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

Secretary Stevens' Report of the Proceedings—Held Over from Saturday.

TORONTO, Feb. 3, 1888.—Yesterday evening's session was opened by Hon. John Macdonald, who gave an address of welcome. It was because of the work achieved by the Associations on behalf of the needy that the citizens of Toronto welcomed the delegates. The first Convention was held in Toronto seventeen years ago in one of the Congregational churches. Mr. Moody was present and spoke to delegates upon the subject: "To every man his work." The result of this convention would be much. Few, if any, Christian workers but were converted before reaching the age of twenty-one. Therefore an impetus to the Associations meant permanent blessing to the city and to the land. Mr. S. Caldecott, President of the Toronto Y.M.C.A., followed by saying that the present conference was more important than any legislative assembly, because it sought to make public sentiment while the latter could do nothing until public sentiment was formed. Attention was now being given in Toronto to the social methods which was contributing largely to success in the religious work.

Rev. H. M. PARSONS, of Toronto, gave an address upon the "Anointing for Service," which produced a deep impression on all present. Attractiveness in methods of work must be followed by aggressiveness of work.

About ten different three-minute speeches followed upon the benefits derived by different classes of young men from Association work. Mr. J. A. Sinclair, of Queen's, and representatives from Toronto and McGill spoke for those in colleges and others, testifying to the help received by young men on railroads in small towns and cities.

FRIDAY.

This morning's session opened with a Bible reading on the "Love of God," by Rev. J. Kunsworth, B.A., of Paris. Mr. Abram Kingsman, of Montreal, presided. Mr. C. Falconer's paper on "how to teach the young men in business colleges and collegiate institutes" was read by Mr. T. Wilkins, of Brockville. Mr. C. S. Gzowski, jr., read the report of the executive provincial committe and Mr. J. J. Gartshore, the treasurer's report. Changes had occurred in the secretaryship at Kingston and Peterborough and one employed again at Port Hope. No travelling secretary had been employed, but the work of visitation had been carried on by the District Chairman and the Executive Committee. $1,000 had been raised and expended, a small balance remaining in the treasury. A Committee of the leading workers was appointed to consider and report upon the report. Mr. John Orchard, lately of London, England, now of Toronto, presented an intensely interesting paper upon Bible study. To attain its highest influence the Bible Class must so help its members that they shall attain to the highest position intellectually, socially, commercially and spiritually. In every Association more attention should be given to Bible study than anything else. A live discussion then ensued, the topic being the influence of the Y.M.C.A. upon college life.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first topic of the afternoon was the place that should be given to boys' work. Papers were read by D. W. Corbett, of Montreal, upon the religious phase, and by M. Kelley, of Hamilton, upon the secular. A discussion followed each.

The address of the afternoon was a Missionary Bible Reading upon "The signs of the times as bearing on the Foreign Missionary question". On the platform were seated Mr. Geo. A. Hall, State Secretary, New York, and Mr. John B. Squier, Secretary Y. M.C.A., Buffalo.

There are about 150 delegates present, and the discussions and papers are highly interesting to all. Messrs. H. F. Williams and Claus Olandt, of the International Committee, are also in attendance at the Convention.

To-night the convention will meet in the Association Hall, and effort is being made to secure an address from Mayor Clarke.

Home Knowledge Association.

The object of this Association, whose representative has been in Peterborough for some time, is the fostering of a taste for the best class of books and thus promoting the cause of popular education. The means used by the association to accomplish this end is the furnishing of books to members at prices a trifle above the cost of manufacture. Every member of the Association becomes at once, by virtue of his membership, a wholesale dealer in books, entitled to wholesale prices, trade discounts, and all the other privileges of that class. Whether he buys one book or fifty, it is all the same; he deals directly with the manufacturer or publisher, and avoids all the onerous expenses and profits of intermediate dealers. The Association delivers to each member a catalogue of standard and miscellaneous books, giving the net wholesale prices at which these books may be purchased by members. It also furnishes to those interested in that class of publications a catalogue of all the school and text books published, with the regular net wholesale prices. A catalogue of sheet and book music, at liberal discounts, is also provided. Special rates are secured for members of all the leading magazines and periodicals, and the Association has also established a book exchange, which offers excellent advantages for obtaining or exchanging rare or expensive works, not usually obtainable through the book stores. The great advantage of being a member of such an Association is apparent, and it is certainly also an advantage to be able to communicate with a responsible establishment, to which one can send for anything in the book or music line, with the assurance that the price will be the lowest possible. Members also have the privilege of making inquiry regarding any author or his works, and such inquiries will always receive careful and prompt attention. There is no other expense except the original cost of membership—no dues or liabilities of any kind. The movement cannot be too highly commended. 3eod

An Organ With a Cold.

Singers are often affected with colds and hoarseness but it is not often a church organ is similarly affected. On Sunday morning, however, the organ of St. Paul's was so badly affected with cold that it refused to respond to the skillful touch of the organist play he never so wisely. By evening, however, the organ's bronchial tubes were cleared, the notes came all right and the choir also acquitted itself admirably.

Stolen Property Recovered.

Yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, Acting Chief Adams recovered five boxes of cigars, of the "Jersey Beauty" brand, which have been identified as a portion of those stolen from Minore's confectionery works some time ago. The cigars were discovered by some boys in the loft of an old shed in Mr. T. Fitzgerald's wood-yard on Aylmer street, who notified the officer. The contiguous premises were thoroughly searched but nothing else was found.

Mrs. Wilbur Daly is announced to sing at a sacred concert in Napanee next month.

—Millbrook has been made a high school district for the purpose of getting the government grant.

—There is a prospect that the R. C. Smith Estate Mills, in Fenelon Falls, will be started again.

—If you ever catch me smoke anything but the "Crow" cigar, just elect me a bank manager, will you?

—The quickest route from Millbrook to Manvers lately has been via Peterborough, so a Manvers man says.

—Some miscreants cut the tongues out of two cows of Mr. Samuel Irvine, near Fenelon Falls, last week.

—A deputation of Lindsay Oddfellows arrived in town by the four o'clock train, to attend Otonabee lodge to-night.

—A large number of young people from Otonabee, Millbrook and Cavan enjoyed themselves at the residence of Mr. John Taft, Centreville, Wednesday night last.

—There will be a meeting of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society in the old Music Hall, Peterborough, on Feb. 25th, at 1 o'clock.

—A correspondent of the Fenelon Falls Gazette says the construction of the Trent Valley Canal "would create a second frontier to that part of Ontario through which it passes."

—The Barrie Folio Arrow, published by Mr. W. A. Kelsey, well known in town, comes to hand in an enlarged and greatly improved form. Editor Kelsey is warmly congratulated upon this evidence of prosperity, which, it is hoped, will continue.

—Belleville is naturally excited over the possibility of the transference of the Grand Trunk railway shops to Kingston, a change which the Whig says "is coming and nothing Belleville can say or do will stop it."

—Two Fenelon Falls children—four and two years of age—belonging to Mr. Teague, got access to a bottle containing a solution of belladonna and were severely poisoned. Prompt medical assistance saved their lives.

—Reeve Ferguson, of Cavan, says the Reporter, has obtained a grant of $200 to be expended in repairing the boundary bridge between Cavan and North Monaghan, opposite the 13th concession of Cavan, providing the County of Peterborough appropriate a like amount.

—A Manvers station correspondent writes: —"A few of our young dudes waited patiently to get to Peterborough on Saturday, from 10 a.m. till 4.30 p.m., and although they had a short time there, some of them returned, having seen the inside of the taverns either too frequently or too long."

—The Omemee Herald says:—"While in Peterborough on Monday last in company with Mr. W. R. Cottingham, we were shown through the fine store of Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., and we must confess that we were surprised at the magnificence of the building and its equipments. Words fail to give an idea of its completeness in every respect.

—The reporter of the Millbrook Reporter suggests to the managers of the next carnival that a register book be provided, as he had great difficulty last time in getting the names of the costumers. In Peterborough they are asked to hand in their cards, with names and characters represented, at the door, and only those who do so are recognized.

—There are in one house in Englishtown, says the Guide, three ladies whose united ages are 256 years. One of them, Mrs. Haskill, nursed the late Mrs. Williams, who died the other day in the 81st year of her age, when an infant. Mrs. Haskill was then 17 years old. The old lady, who is now in her ninety-eighth year, has all her faculties as bright as ever.

Personal

Mr. H. H. Smith, Dominion Land Commissioner, Winnipeg, arrived in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. D. A. Budge, Secretary of the Montreal Y.M.C.A., will conduct special services in the Association rooms here Tuesday evening.

Mr. W. H. Dingle, the new organist and choirmaster of the George Street Methodist Church, arrived in town, and on Sunday entered on his professional duties. Mr. Dingle comes with a good reputation as a thorough musician and will prove an important element in the musical culture of our citizens. As will be seen by his card printed elsewhere Mr. Dingle is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Leipzig, Germany, and is well qualified for the teaching he proposes to give in organ, piano and harmony.

Peterborough Solid Commercially.

The business men of Peterborough faced "settling day"—last Saturday—with courage; they were ready for the emergency. Inquiry at the different banks reveals the fact that at all of them settlements were made, with gratifying promptitude. "Better than usual"—"Quite up to the mark"—"I was surprised."—"Highly satisfactory" were the remarks made respecting the manner in which Peterborough merchants meet their obligations. The renewals asked were comparatively few. This is an eminently satisfactory state of things and shows that Peterborough's business rests on a solid basis.

Cheap Boots and Shoes in Prospect.

The public desirous of securing bargains in boots and shoes are requested to consult the advertisement of Mr. Bayear, who will announce a cheap sale of boots and shoes to last for one month. This will be an opportunity seldom presented of securing immense bargains. The present stock must be cleared out at any sacrifice, in order to make room for new goods. Look out for to-morrow's advertisement.

C. P. R. Accident.

To-day's Globe says:—"A freight train on the Canadian Pacific railway ran off the track near Peterborough on Saturday. The engine and several cars were badly damaged, and the express from Montreal was detained by the wreck and did not arrive in this city till one o'clock yesterday afternoon." The accident occurred near Carleton Place, not near Peterborough.

Killed by an Ice Slide.

Last Friday afternoon Mr. Jas. Saunders, a traveller well known in Peterborough, was killed in Montreal by a heavy block of ice sliding from the roof of a high building and striking him on the head. Deceased was 28 years old and leaves a widow.

FOUR HOURS MORE OF IT.

MORE CLOSE CROSS-EXAMINATION OF MR. CAMPBELL.

The Bad Not Yet Come—Forreting Out His Relations With Men Who Were Engaged in the Wreck of the Central Bank—More About the Plunderers.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.

Much interest was shown in the proceedings yesterday at the resumed cross-examination of Mr. Campbell, the suspended Central Bank liquidator. The proceedings occupied nearly four hours, and the Master's court was thronged. The same counsel appeared as on Saturday, and as the argument before the Chancellor had been fixed for 11 o'clock today, and Mr. Maclennan, Q.C., wished to examine Mr. Campbell on various points, an adjournment was made at 2 o'clock till to-morrow afternoon.

At 10.25 Mr. Campbell stepped into the witness box, and his cross-examination was continued by Mr. Foster, Q.C.

Did you converse with Mr. Orne, accountant of the Central Bank, with reference to the acceptances issued to Barnett?—I do not remember.

When you took charge of the bank did you refer to the books to find if these acceptances had been entered?—I did not.

Would it not have been natural and businesslike to do so?—I did not do so or tell my co-liquidators or the meeting of the shareholders of these acceptances.

Did it not occur to you to say, "I cannot be a liquidator, as I have been purchasing four or five of these drafts"?—It would have been a very queer thing for me to tell them.

Mr. Foster: I think it would indeed.

Witness: I did nothing wrong.

Mr. Bain: It would have been a very extraordinary thing if he had told them anything of the kind.

Mr. Foster: You have spoken in your affidavit about a "conflict of opinion" between yourself and your co-liquidators?—There was a "difference" of opinion but no "conflict."

Why were you so much concerned as to what Mr. Lye had discovered?—He had been working and investigating for two or three weeks. I thought it only proper to know if he had discovered anything. He had had two or three weeks' opportunity.

Mr. Foster then read Mr. Lye's report, dated Jan. 12, in which it was stated that entries had been made in his books which did not agree with the ideas of the winding-up of a bank. The accounts indicated a system of preferential payments.

You say in your affidavit that there never was any difference whatever on the part of the liquidators as to investigating the accounts?—I did not object to the investigation of the accounts.

You were in perfect harmony with your co-liquidators?—I think so.

Did you discuss the information afforded by this report with Messrs. Howland and Goodersham?—I remarked that there was nothing new in it. It had been street talk.

Mr. Foster in vain sought for a more explicit answer, and on the Master putting the question witness repeated the above.

Mr. Foster: Why did you say that it might be necessary for you to go to the Attorney-General?—There were directors largely indebted to the bank, and I thought that this fact might safely be laid before the Attorney-General as a beginning for prosecution.

To be prosecuted for what?—Anything wrong they had done.

Taking money out of the bank?—Yes.

Everybody did that. Was that your only ground for going to the Attorney-General?—Yes.

You did not discuss other matters than the amounts of indebtedness?—No.

The indebtedness of Cox, Barnett, Davis, Allen and the directors?—Yes.

If you had gone to the Attorney-General what would you have stated?—That these parties were largely indebted to the bank.

Was that a crime?—They were very serious amounts.

Then it was not for actuarial advice, but for criminal proceedings?—Yes. I knew as many facts then as I knew now for taking proceedings against these parties.

On Jan. 13 you were familiar with the facts and circumstances which have been elicited since?—I am not aware of any important facts that have been elicited in the course of these proceedings. The main facts of the case were previously known to us.

Mr. Foster: Speak for yourself. If you say they were known to you personally and Mr. Lye that may be correct, but do not include Messrs. Howland and Goodersham.

Witness: I knew that the bank's money had been used to a very large amount.

Did you know that Cox had obtained fictitious deposit receipts?—I am not very sure.

Did you know of the Barnett drafts?—I did not.

And why did you not tell the co-liquidators all of these facts you knew and thus save the expense of this enquiry?—I believed they knew the main facts as well as I did.

You sold some diamonds, Mr. Campbell?—Yes.

When?—About Christmas week.

Did you make any entry of the fact that you sold the diamonds?—I credited the amount realized.

Did you make any entry of the fact that you sold the diamonds?—No.

Did you direct the attention of your co-liquidators to the credit entry you made?—No.

Why did you not enter a minute of the transaction?—It did not occur to me.

We had some conversation relative to the Bank of Commerce $40,000 deposit receipt, dated April 9, 1883. Was that receipt taken up by you?—I don't know.

You don't know? Is it because the amount is not large enough?—I cannot be expected to tell you everything you ask.

Is it not sufficiently large?—The books will tell you all about it.

Was it taken up?—I don't remember.

Mr. Foster produced the receipt and Mr. Campbell stated that it was paid, by whose order he did not know. He supposed the money was owing to the Bank of Commerce and it was paid.

Did you tell your co-liquidators about this?—No.

Now can you tell me the amount of money received on Nov. 22?

The books were brought forward and on examination Mr. Campbell said that on 21st there was $19,000 on hand and on the 22nd $23,000 and that the account showed $13,000.

What became of the $18,000 taken in the bank on Nov. 22nd?

The Master: Mr. Campbell says $13,000 and you say $18,000.

Mr. Foster: $18,000 should have been carried forward on that date. What became of it?—I do not know.

You speak in the thirty-second paragraph of certain schedules and statements not furnished by you to Messrs. Howland and Goodersham and that their request must be taken as a fair example of how they treated you.

Did you prepare those statements?—As many as I could.

You said at the last examination you looked after the maturing paper. Why did you take on yourself the accountant's duty?—He had enough to do without it.

What else did you do?—I attended to correspondence.

Why did you take the secretary's duty on yourself?—I thought I could do it better.

You saw parties, you gave out the maturing paper and wrote letters. What else overwhelmed you?—I gave instructions to the clerks.

What else wearied you and worried you? Was it a great mental strain to write letters and so forth?

The Master: This is part of the "rhetoric," (referring to the affidavit), I suppose.

Mr. Bain: What we have said is true, nevertheless.

Now your co-liquidators attended the board meetings, advised, saw people who came in; what did you want them to do further?—I didn't want them to do anything. [Laughter.]

You say also that they "never pretended to examine the books." Did you pretend to examine the books?—I have referred to the books.

Did you examine them?—I have referred to them.

And did they not refer to them too?—I don't know.

Here again in your affidavit: "Neither of them pretended to examine the system of books." What do you mean by that?—The mode of bookkeeping.

Was it necessary?—They might, as zealous liquidators, have posted themselves.

Did you pretend to examine the system?—Yes.

What kind of a system was it?—A good system.

A good system to allow D. Mitchell Macdonald to carry fraudulent paper?—That had nothing to do with the system.

You say further, "Neither of them pretended to examine the books or grasp the important duties of liquidation." Is this your phrase?—Yes.

Did you "grasp the important duties of liquidation"?—I think so.

Where did you learn to "grasp"? [Laughter.] Was it a prior education? What duties did you "grasp"?—The duties of liquidation.

What are they?—The realising of assets and so forth.

Now, in this particular, who grasped the duties as liquidator, you or they?—I think I did.

Is there any other case where they didn't succeed in "grasping" their duties and you did?—Yes.

Do you know that the "winding up" law applies the same all over the Dominion?—Yes.

And yet you pretended it was interpreted differently in Quebec from Ontario?—It is in some particulars.

You go on to say that "they took no part in the practical duties of liquidation." What are the practical duties of liquidation? To order, to direct, to demand?—Yes.

Did they not direct as well as advise and order?—I don't know.

There is the agenda; look and see.

Witness: Look and see yourself.

Do you refuse?—Yes.

Then I appeal to the court.

The Master: I think Mr. Campbell that you must answer the question.

[Mr. Campbell read the book ten minutes and replied that the liquidators had "agreed."]

Was not that the form you adopted yourself?—Yes.

You say further that "they appear to be utter strangers in this kind of work." Is that so?—Yes.

They were utter strangers to banking as per usual by you?—Yes. [Laughter.]

What work were they utter strangers to?—To the liquidation work.

As you were liquidating?—Any way.

Did you know how?—Yes.

Now, what did their chief ignorance consist in?—In asking for accounts which it was impossible to make out.

In asking for accounts which you couldn't make out? Anything else?—They were not sufficiently acquainted with the work.

Were you?—Yes.

"I never refused to give my co-liquidators any statements," you say, and, "any statement prepared would be simply taken from the books, and reference might as well be made to the books as the statements." Is it not true that transcripts of these accounts would be valueless?—It would show whether the parties were in debt or not.

And it would be easy to tell from the books the indebtedness of each person?—Yes.

Well, now, we will let Mr. ex-Liquidator Campbell show us how easy it is to do this. In paragraph A of your affidavit you say "the system of bookkeeping of the bank was the usual system of bookkeeping in the business of banking, and although several of the large accounts for large balances were of the most extraordinary character, all the accounts, including those of the directors, appeared to be entered up in the usual way in the books, from which the balances due in respect of every account could be taken."

Now, Mr. Campbell, what is the indebtedness of Mr. Barnett? What book now do you require to show us? Of course this system of bookkeeping is simple and you can turn it up at once?

Mr. Campbell (hesitating): Barnett's account was a little mixed.

What book do you require?—Several. (The general ledger, the deposit ledger and others were handed up.)

Mr. Foster (after a pause): What are you doing? You're reading about sterling bills of exchange. Turn up the account marked Barnett in plain English. Any such name as Barnett in the book?—I think so.

[The account was turned up and Barnett was found to be indebted to the bank $9451.55.]

[Allen's account was next turned up, and it appeared that there were altogether three separate accounts kept and that the general ledger account only showed a small part of his indebtedness. It also appeared that he carried a check for $9000 as cash since March, 1886, till Nov. 14, 1887. Mr. S. Magness Davis owed the bank, but Mr. Campbell was unable to turn up the name of that individual in any of the ledgers, nor could he tell the amount of the indebtedness. The investigation went on and other accounts were shown to be muddled.]

You say "the accounts of directors and debtors all appear plainly on the books." Is that true?—The accounts of the directors are all there.

The accounts of directors and debtors?—Generally it is true.

Is this paragraph in you affidavit true?

Mr. Campbell (nervously): Barnett's account is mixed up with the others.

If a competent man were got could it not go on without you?—Yes.

Do you think it advisable to have Mr. Howland and Mr. Goodersham continue out?—I don't wish to express an opinion on that.

Is there a want of harmony between you?—Nothing serious.

Unison prevails?—So far as the liquidation is concerned.

Is there a lack of confidence anywhere?—They say they have not confidence in me.

Have you confidence in them?—I have not withdrawn my confidence.

Do you think they are competent and would prove useful as liquidators?—That is a matter of opinion.

Suppose a practical man were acting with them would they get along?—Yes.

Do you think the petition was improperly brought?—I thought it was unfair to me.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The linemen and polemen in the employ of the Bell Telephone Company, who went out on strike at 2 o'clock on Saturday, have not yet returned to work.

About sixty of Toronto Young Liberals gathered at the reception tendered them at the Reform Club last night. President Hartley H. Dewart occupied the chair, and Mr. Wood, M.P.P., South Brant; Mr. Armstrong, Parry Sound; Mr. Allan, West Wellington, and Mr. Dack, Centre Bruce, gave addresses. There were also present ex-Presidents W. D. Gregory, A. F. Jury, T. Tracey and W. Chamberlain.

After President Dewart had made a few remarks welcoming the guests, Mr. Dack in a fifteen minute speech said he didn't believe in the dismemberment of the Reform party, as the Conservatives had tried to make out, and he thought the Tories had more cause to bewail disruptive influences than his party.

Israel Lucas and his wife were in the Police Court yesterday. Lucas is the alleged defaulting treasurer of Angalina County, Ohio, to the extent of $51,000, who was arrested in Toronto on Sunday night. Pending the arrival of witnesses from the Buckeye State, a remand was granted till to-day. The charge hooked against him is bringing stolen money into Canada. Mrs. Lucas was liberated on the $300 bond of Thos. Blakely, with whom she and her husband have lived since their arrival in Toronto.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

BISMARCK'S SPEECH IN THE GERMAN REICHSTAG.

In the Chancellor's Opinion There is No Danger of War—He Thinks, However, that Germany Should Augment and Organize Her Forces.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The steamer Bandover, which left London Jan. 19 for Boston, was spoken Jan. 30 in lat. 47° n. long. 68° w. All the blades of her propeller had been lost, and she was proceeding eastward under sail.

The announcement that Prince Bismarck would speak on the Militia Bill brought a great throng of people to the Reichstag today, and long before the day's business was begun the galleries were filled to repletion. Prince Bismarck was enthusiastically greeted on his way to the Reichstag Palace by dense crowds which lined the route along Wilhelmstrasse to the palace. Prince Bismarck entered the Reichstag at twenty-five minutes after 1. He was received with deafening cheers. After the first reading of the Military Loan Bill Bismarck arose to address the House. He said:

"My object is to speak of the general situation of Europe. I may confine myself to referring to what I said on the same subject over a year ago. There has been very little change since then, when I feared war with France. Since then France has elected a peace-loving President and a pacific disposition has prevailed. I can therefore reassure the public that as far as France is concerned the prospect has become more peaceful."

"Regarding Russia, also I am of no other opinion than when I said that we have to apprehend no attack from Russia. I believe the Czar's word absolutely. The situation on the whole is not different from that of 1879. I grant that the concentration of Russian troops on the frontier may appear serious, but I perceive no cause or pretext for a Russian or a European war. Russia has no interest to conquer Prussian or Austrian provinces. Perhaps Russia speculates upon a turn taking place in the eastern question and desires her forces to act promptly and with greater weight. Perhaps Russia intends to render her diplomatic demands more effectual from the fact of having an army ready for war behind them. We, however, are only concerned in the eastern question in a secondary manner."

Prince Bismarck proceeded to review the relations between Prussia and Russia since 1866, and showed how frequently they had assumed a menacing aspect. He said that at all times the calmness displayed by the ministers on the Prussian side towards the threatening positions of Russian affairs—a position of which foreign countries had no idea—had succeeded in averting mischief.

"As early as 1866," he continued, "matters were in such a position that everybody urged me to advise striking a blow. I waited quietly until we were struck. I believe we did well in this. Despite all indications of a storm a certain feeling of tranquillity supervened owing to the intimate relations between the three emperors. Then, as now, however, we were constrained to augment and organize our forces so that in case of necessity we might stand forth a strong nation, making its power prevail by our strength, and so defending its authority, its dignity and its possessions."

"To effect this purpose," continued the Chancellor, "no sacrifice must or can be too heavy. The warlike tendencies of France and Russia drove us to defense. The pike in France and Russia compel us to become carp."

"Some people have sought to find an ultimatum or threat in the publication of the treaty. It is nothing of the kind. The treaty is the expression of the community of interests of the two contracting parties. This it was we wished the world to know."

"The strength we possess will reassure our public opinion and calm the nervousness of the bourses and the press. Our task is to strengthen this strength. When we undertake a war it must be a people's war which all approve, as in 1870. Neither consciousness of our own strength nor hope of victory can restrain us from continuing our peaceful efforts."

When Prince Bismarck resumed his seat Dr. Frankenstein moved that the Landwehr Bill be adopted en bloc, and that in view of the political situation there be no debate upon the Loan Bill. Herren Holldorf, Baumgraen and Behr supported the motion, and it was adopted. The Loan Bill was thereupon referred to the Budget Committee.

The House then proceeded to the second reading of the Landwehr Bill. Dr. Frankenstein moved and Herr Baumgraen seconded the adoption of the bill en bloc. The bill in its entirety then passed the second reading amid hearty cheers.

In an article commenting on the European situation, The Temps says that the duties devolving upon France are, first, to arrange her internal affairs and adopt the budget, and second, to preserve an absolute liberty of action with perfect coolness.

It is evident that the Galt Company view Sir John Lister Kaye's company with some jealousy. The secretary of the former writes to the press to-day correcting the statement that the Galt Company expected shortly to double their output of coal, affirming that this is at present largely in excess of their most sanguine expectations. The Galt directors do not believe that at the present time there is a market for such a large quantity, while so far the mines have yielded but small profits. It is pointed out, also, that the Galt Company offers land at $1.25 per acre.

THE LABOUR COMMISSION.

The Dominion Labour Commission has done western Ontario, passed through central Ontario, stopping at Kingston, and is now in Montreal. It will strike any person who thinks, that it is singular that Peterborough received the go-by. Perhaps it was argued that the Trent Navigation Commission, which we did not particularly need nor want, because we wanted the canal instead, was enough glory for one town, even if it were one of the most important manufacturing towns in the Dominion. Whether we consider the aggregate of our numerous industries or their representative character, the conclusion must be arrived at that the diversity of labour interests represented here are worthy of consideration, and the wants and rights of our labouring men and women of investigation. If information were wanted upon which to base intelligent legislation, on labor matters, the commission should have made something more extensive and thorough than a mere starring tour through the principal cities. Legislation that is to be founded on the basis afforded by the report of the commission and to be applied to the whole Dominion, needs the most exhaustive information that could be collected by the aid of a commission—information illustrative of the whole industrial situation. Is it pretended, except for political purposes, perhaps, that Toronto or London or Kingston is Ontario? Toronto, with its large population, its big shows and its archangelic morality, does not, it may be safely asserted, contain one as important manufacturing establishment as is to be found in other places not visited by the Commission. When the Commission is at work, why not make a complete job of it? Is the legislation proposed to apply only to the cities? Are our numerous manufacturing towns, whose aggregate manufacturing industries very closely approximate, if they do not equal those of the cities, not to be considered? If it is desired the Commission shall be of any practical value its investigation should not be partial. By omitting to visit scores of towns, many of them of almost equal industrial importance with Peterborough, the Labour Commission is only half doing its work. If the government were actuated by motives of economy, one could more readily sympathize with its restriction of the area of the sittings of the Commission. Economy, however, is the last consideration. The Government is, apparently, satisfied with the most perfunctory fulfilment of its reluctant promise to do justice to the labour interests of the country.

NUMBERING THE HOUSES.

Peterborough is considerably behind the age in respect to the numbering of houses on her miles of street. She is, however, not nearly so bad as the "city" of Stratford which has not even its streets named. Yet numbering the houses is something which should be done at once. It is, besides being a convenience, a mark of civilization which no go-ahead town can afford to be without. It would be an unknown amount of convenience to all classes of citizens and especially to our merchants and physicians. The former are subjected to great annoyance by the failure of parcels to reach their destinations, and the failure is due to extreme mistiness of locality, almost inseparable from the absence of house numbers, and the consequent inability of parcel boys to know where they are being sent. Medical men are also subjected to no end of annoyance and trouble. They are sent for in haste, on a matter of life and death, and the fleetest messenger is not in the fittest condition for drawing a chart of the town, and composing elaborate directions to enable the doctor to find his patient. The doctor sets out and drives here and there floundering in uncertainty, stopping every few minutes to inquire if somebody is sick in this house or that, or where his possible patient may be. While every moment may be precious he is losing not only time but also his temper, and after a while he reaches the house of affliction, to find, perhaps, his patient beyond help, and certainly to find the female neighbors denouncing him as a heartless brute to delay so culpably when he should have come straight and at once. The numbering of our houses is something that should by done at once; a town of ten thousand inhabitants demands it and the authorities cannot move too quickly in the matter. Nothing can be done of a practical nature during the winter, except agitate the subject and get the matter in motion. Corporate bodies move slowly when they get started and require a good deal of stirring up before they are get under motion.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

A CONSIDERABLE INCREASE IN THE SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

The New Parcel Post Convention—Meeting of the Liberal Association—The Exchequer Court—Guests at the Banquet to Sir Adolphe.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The new instructions to collectors of customs will provide that with reference to all postoffice parcels containing dutiable goods sent to the custom houses by postmasters the parties to whom addressed must be notified by postal card unless in case where promptly called for and duty paid. The collectors are instructed that they must not in any case change the address. With respect to parcels to be sent to other parts of Canada they are to return the package to the postmaster, taking a receipt therefor, thus relieving the customs officer of any further responsibility. The same rule must be observed with reference to parcels to be returned to the country from whence they came. They will first be returned to the postmaster who will forward them to the Postoffice Department at Ottawa to be dealt with by the dead letter branch. All parcels unclaimed must, at the end of each month, be returned to the postmaster from whom received, to be dealt with the same as in cases before mentioned.

The business of the registered letter and savings bank branches of the Ottawa Postoffice showed a very considerable increase in the year just ended. The total number of registered letters passing through the office was 240,986, an increase of 20,270. Of the total number 162,721 were mailed by the Government and 82,265 received. The deposits made in the city branch of the savings bank during the year amounted to $286,255. The amount of money orders issued was $275,865. The amount realized by the sale of postage stamps was $44,528.

A meeting of the Liberal Associations has been called for to-morrow evening. It is said that the object of the meeting is to discuss the advisability of asking the Local Government of Ontario to call Deputy-Sheriff Sherwood to account for alleged partisanship. Mr. Sherwood is a Conservative.

... connection with the new parcel post convention between Canada and the United States, which is to be brought into operation at the beginning of the approaching month, it will be of interest to those who intend to take advantage of the new facilities offered to know that no sealed packages will be accepted either by the Canadian or American authorities. They must be protected in such a way as to allow the customs officers to make their inspection without any obstruction.

In the Exchequer Court this morning Mr. Justice Burbidge further postponed the case of the Crown v. the City of Ottawa, in which the Government is suing the corporation for the rent of certain lots on the Rideau Canal bank.

Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. Thos. White, Hon. J. A. Chapleau and Hon. John Costigan will probably attend the banquet to Sir Adolphe Caron in Quebec on Saturday evening.

THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

The Sum of $200,000 Has Been Paid Over; Nothing Up to Date.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Although the attendance of members was rather slim at the sitting of the Legislature yesterday, all the Ministers were in their seats. A couple of bills to amend the Municipal Act were sent up.

Mr. French moved for an order for a return from each Ontario registrar of deeds, showing the number of instruments registered against lands, purporting to have been made in order to procure credit on the sale of goods, or whereby a purchaser of goods merely represents that he owns certain lands.

The member for South Grenville said he made this motion because he had become aware of a number of mortgages being registered against farms in this province by a device of manufacturers of farm machinery. A stipulation was printed in very small type in the corner of agreements for the purchase of these machines which was practically a mortgage on the farmer's land. The farmer did not understand that he was giving a mortgage on his property. Mr. French did not think that a mortgage obtained in this way should be registered. To the reporters he gave a copy of one of these agreements, which reads:

I, John Smith, do hereby certify that I own and have a deed duly registered in my name of one hundred acres of land, being west half of lot 22, 6th con., Oxbow Township, County of Florence, the present cash value of which is not less than $——, on which there is no incumbrance, and the within indebtedness to the Fake Manufacturing Company shall be a charge upon the said land until fully paid. This statement is made to the Fake Manufacturing Company for the purpose of procuring credit from them for the machine mentioned in the within order, and the same is delivered by them on the faith thereof, subject to the conditions contained in the within agreement.

Mr. Hardy said the expense of such a return would be very great. If Mr. French had any document or information which he could give the Government the matter would be looked into.

The motion was then allowed to stand.

Mr. Meredith moved for an order of the House for a return showing what progress, or other estimates, have been issued in favor of the contractors for the new parliament and departmental buildings, and the amount expended to date on account of such buildings.

The Commissioner of Public Works said that all the money that had been paid in 1886 was to be found in the Public Accounts of 1887, and all paid during last year would be found in the Public Accounts for this year, now being printed.

Mr. Meredith asked the Commissioner if he could state the amounts.

Mr. Fraser: The total amount paid contractors up to date is $189,975. Of this sum $9000 had been paid in 1886, and all the balance in 1887.

Mr. Graham moved that in the opinion of this House it is desirable that the reporters for the press be allowed to occupy the Press Galleries during the reading of prayers by Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Meredith: Perhaps the Government will take up this question.

The motion was not pressed.

UNRESTRICTED TRADE.

Designed to Settle the Fisheries and all Other Disputes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—A gentleman in this city received to-day a communication from a distinguished friend in Washington. The latter has been watching, as closely as the secrecy of its meetings will allow, the course of the negotiations now being carried on by the Fishery Commissioners. He does not pretend to have received information from any one connected with the negotiations; but the situation, he says, is patent to a close observer. At present the American commissioners have taken the ground that Canada's fisheries should be thrown open to American fishermen, and that all restrictions to trade between the two countries in the shape of duties on natural and manufactured products should be removed. Sir Charles Tupper has, so far, opposed this method of settlement at the sessions of the commission. Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Lionel Sackville-West have followed the policy of allowing the Canadian and American commissioners to "work out their own salvation." It is pretty well known, however, that Mr. Chamberlain thinks the proposal of the American commissioners a fair one, and that he has so informed Sir Charles Tupper privately. Sir Charles, on the other hand, knowing how distasteful unrestricted trade would be to his colleagues in Ottawa, who have not only denounced what they designate the "fad" themselves, but have given the party organs throughout the Dominion the word to do likewise, is loath to adopt this solution of the difficulty. He will, however, eventually bolt the pill. All that is aimed at now is to make the concession as little like the hated Commercial Union as possible.

This is the substance of the gentleman's communication, and if it turns out to be correct some of the truly loyal papers will have to make a pretty sharp curve.

Have You Neuralgia!

If you are suffering the agonies of neuralgia, and have failed to get a remedy that will afford relief, we want you to try Polson's Nerviline. No remedy in the market has given anything like the same degree of satisfaction. Its action on nerve pain is simply marvellous, and as it is put up in 10 cent sample bottles, no great expense is involved in giving it a trial. Polson's Nerviline is the most pleasant, powerful, and certain pain remedy in the world. Sold by Druggists and all dealers in medicine, 10 and 25 cents a bottle. 6dw6

Important to Working Men.

Artisans, mechanics and labouring men are liable to sudden accidents and injuries as well as painful cords, stiff joints and lameness. To all thus troubled we would recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the handy and reliable pain cure for outward or internal use. 2w6d

THREE RIBS BROKEN.

An Old Man Dies from the Effects of His Injuries at Bedford.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—A report from Bedford states that an old man named James McKenzie was murdered on Jan. 24. He was 80 years of age and had for thirty years resided in the locality. He left his home to cut wood on Mr. Colter's farm. On the way he entered a place where whisky is sold, and, after becoming intoxicated, he slept for several hours. On awakening he heard a row up-stairs and went to witness it. He was struck in the side and thrown to the foot of the stairs and rendered insensible. Three of his ribs were broken. After regaining consciousness he started for home, but fell exhausted. On being carried to his home he died.

SELECTED FOR SLAUGHTER.

London (Ont.) Officials' Heads in Danger—Taverns and Saloon Licenses.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—At to-night's meeting of the aldermen a special committee reported in favor of "beheading" four of the old city officials and putting young men in their places. Those selected for slaughter are City Clerk Abbott, Street Commissioner Ovgin, Clerk of Committees Kearn and City Hall Janitor Mambourey. The report stated that this was only a preliminary step in the way of getting more work done for less money. The matter was staved off for a week and the impression prevails that it will not carry.

Notice was given of a by-law to reduce the number of tavern and saloon licenses by fifteen and to raise their cost. The Council decided to let the medical faculty of the Western University have the Waterloo and York-street corner of the Central School grounds as a site for the proposed new medical college.

In a Dangerous Condition.

Any person troubled with irregular acting kidneys or any form of kidney complaint, however slight it may seem, is in a dangerous condition if the trouble is neglected. Burdock Blood Bitters should be taken at once; it is the best regulator of the kidneys, liver and blood known to the world. 2w6d

A Great Sufferer.

That person who is afflicted with rheumatism is a great sufferer, and greatly to be pitied if they cannot procure Hagyard's Yellow Oil. This remedy is a certain cure, not only for rheumatism, but for all external and internal pains. 2w5d

Ahead of All.

I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in my family for years and have found it ahead of any preparation of the kind in curing colds, etc. I can especially recommend it for children. ALEX. MOFFAT, Millbrook, Ont. 2w5d

A Timely Precaution.

To prevent serious disease, regulate the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and blood with Burdock Blood Bitters. Remember that prevention is better than cure. 2w5d

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,

ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald,
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will,
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called

There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.

But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.

Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge street, Toronto. For sale by J. D. R. GRAHAM.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Trustee sense business men are possessing would lead one to believe that the Commercial Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public will take it all in and believe every word of it. Now, to prove it mildly, this is carrying absurdities to much. However, it is quite true that the Public has been going a hobbling how much a man like SHEPPARD has placed his actual purchases at, or about his actual sales, they are after the first value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—DOLLAR. Don't be bamboozled, don't be misled with transparency in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 50 per cent. off.

Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and complete bargain. Just such Goods as are in demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLARS FOR CENTS.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Champion. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $8.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after "the dollar."

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be 'so cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 59c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Ministerial Sale of Cheap Goods.

Book Buyers.

The publishers of "Picturesque Canada" have another scheme on hand. It is called the Home Library or Home Knowledge Association. Some people think so. 2d

It Points a Moral.

On Saturday Mrs. George Carton was the victim of a peculiar accident. She occasionally helps in her husband's store on Saturdays, and on the day in question had her dinner sent up from the house. She placed a bottle of tea on the stove to heat while serving a customer, and on uncorking it a shower of steam and boiling liquid burst in her face. She was rather severely scalded, and will be confined to the house for some time.

A Official's Dilemma.

Says the Port Hope Times :—"One of the government officials got into trouble a week ago yesterday, the end of which is not yet. It was kept rather quiet but is now no longer a secret. He hired a livery horse to drive to Peterborough on the day in question and thereby hangs the tail of expense. The driver was not fast. The official seems not to have been in fault; he took five hours to make the distance. But the beast took sick and has not been fit to be returned since. The official had to return by rail and leave the equine to a veterinary's care, where it yet remains. Now there is a bill for board, for the vet, and for the liverymen; the first two amount to $17 and the last, well we'll draw the curtain."

Exemplification.

At the meeting of Otonabee lodge last night a very large gathering of the order was present, including delegations from Lindsay and Norwood and representatives from all parts of the district, as far as Smiths' Falls, to witness an exemplification of degree floor work, by Prof. J. S. Duer, of the Chicago School of Oratory. The greatest possible interest was manifested from the beginning to the close of the proceedings, and the unanimous opinion of all those present was that a more profitable and delightful evening could not have been spent. Bro. Duer presents the work as laid down in the beautiful ritual, founded on the text of the Book of books, and approved by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. He uses the correct language, his demonstration of the work as it should be done, was given in a graceful, clear and distinct manner. It is probable that the Peterborough Oddfellows will secure the services of this distinguished instructor for future occasions. At the close of the evening, the professor and the visiting brethren were entertained at luncheon in the dining hall of Otonabee lodge, Mr. H. Long being caterer.

A Fixed Fact.

The "At Home" of Otonabee Lodge was definitely decided upon last night. The date was fixed for Friday evening, the 10th inst. An energetic committee was appointed to carry out the necessary arrangements. The committee has already secured Miss Annie Howden, Ontario's sweetest singer, who will give two or three of the best songs in her splendid repertoire. To those who have read the papers recording this charming lady's vocal triumphs in all the large cities, it will not be necessary to emphasize the fact that to listen to her is a musical treat of the highest order. The full orchestra, containing Prof. Doucet and Bandmaster Miller, will also be present, and one or two instrumental selections of unusual interest will contribute to a programme, which, though brief, will rank among the best presented to a Peterborough audience this season. The elegant suite of rooms will be specially fitted up for the accommodation of guests, and refreshments will be prepared by a well known local caterer. No invitations will be issued, so that the possibility of any one being overlooked will be avoided, but tickets of admission can be obtained from any member of Otonabee Lodge, or at the stores of Messrs. John McKee, Geo. Stethem, John Nugent, G. C. Clarke and Macfarlane Wilson.

Mission School Entertainment.

Last night the annual entertainment of the Union Mission School, in the south ward was held. This school, of which Mr. W. W. Johnston is superintendent, has been in existence about 17 years, and last year had an average attendance of 60. At last night's entertainment there was a large attendance both of pupils and friends of the Sunday school. A marked feature of the proceedings was the quiet and orderly manner in which the children conducted themselves Each of the pupils of the school was presented with a parcel of sweetmeats. An interesting programme was also rendered, including a solo by Miss A. J. Johnston; a recitation by Albert Martin; a vocal duet (the gem of the evening) by Nettie and Mabel Wills, two little girls aged 4 and 6 years; a quartette entitled "The Gleaners," by Edith Evans, Mary Martin, Aggie Wills and Emma Robertson; a dialogue, "The Rehearsal," by three boys and three girls; "The Little Travellers," by six girls; a recitation by Albert Wills; and "The Little Gardeners," by four girls. Master Freddie Benton distinguished himself at the organ. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Messrs. Tovell and Torrance, the latter upon three popular sayings, "A Stitch in Time Saves Nine," "Make Hay While the Sun Shines," and "It's Never Too Late to Mend." The entertainment was one of the most successful ever held in the school, the building being crowded in every part. Mr. Johnston, the superintendent, and those who assisted him, are to be congratulated upon the creditable result of their united efforts.

Address and Presentation.

Mr. D. D. Gallelly Again Honored by His Friends.

On Monday evening the residence of Mr. D. D. Gallelly was unfeignedly invaded by the following gentlemen :—Messrs. J. B. McWilliams, W. H. Hill, W. A. Stratton, F. W. Millar and D. H. Moore. After a few moments chat Mr. D. H. Moore took the floor and read the appended address, the sincerity of its sentiments being attested by an accompanying presentation of a purse containing $120. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Gallelly, whose emotions for some time prevented his utterance. He made a very suitable and feeling reply, stating that he appreciated the visit all the more as coming from such warm and tried friends. In a short time the gentlemen withdrew, leaving Mr. Gallelly delighted with the practical evidence of the warmth of their friendship.

D. D. Gallelly, Esq.,

DEAR SIR :—A number of your personal friends, learning that you are about to remove from Peterborough, have decided not to allow the occasion to pass without taking this opportunity to give tangible expression to their esteem and also expression of their regret at the severence of personal relations which the associations of years with yourself have led them to prize very highly, indeed. During your long residence in Peterborough your integrity of character, genial warmth of disposition, your general social qualities, your exceptional musical abilities have won you warm friends among all classes of society. While you have in private life contributed to the interest of social gatherings, you have, by the exercise of your vocal powers, given delight at hundreds of public gatherings, and by those means attracted to yourself a wide circle of friends, who, we are sure, will join with us in lamenting the departure from the town of a gentleman so highly appreciated, and so well worthy of appreciation, as yourself.

In earnest of our regrets and in token of our recognition of your many sterling qualities of character, please accept this purse and, with it, our best wishes for unlimited and unvarying prosperity in the new sphere of action into which duty calls you.

MR. GALLELLY'S REPLY.

DEAR FRIENDS,—I cannot find words adequate to express the feelings of my heart at this unexpected kindness shown to me by this deputation and my fellow townsmen whom you on this occasion represent. My tongue cleaves to the roof of my mouth,—if it would but obey the promptings of my heart, it would speak in language equal to, if not surpassing, Demosthenes of old. However, you all know me sufficiently well not to expect an oration, as unfortunately I never possessed that gift. But I can confidently say that you know how I appreciate this tangible proof of your sincere wishes for my welfare, and will, while being lasts, remember this (to me) overwhelming manifestation of your appreciation of the part I have played for the last seventeen years as a citizen of Peterborough. I have now spent more than one-third of my lifetime in Peterborough, and I have tried my best to do my best to play my part well as one of her citizens, and put to the best use those talents—humble though they be—to help fill a niche, where needed, and be at the disposal of my fellow citizens either in public or private. This well-filled purse and kind address, and the disinterested interest manifested by my personal friends in thus ministering to my wants before taking leave of me, is a sufficient proof that my services have been highly appreciated. Shakspere truly says "There is a divinity that shapes our ends rough-hew them as we may;" a more pointed illustration of the poet's words I have never in my life time experienced than on this occasion. Much as I am attached to my friends in Peterborough still I think I would have acted wrongly had I refused the liberal offer held out to me by my old friend in the North-West. Trusting that He who doeth all things well will ever guide us in our lifes battle, I beg leave to thank you again for your kindness to me in the past and present hour, and your kind wishes for my welfare in the future.

Mr. Gallelly leaves for Winnipeg to-morrow, but his future scene of duty is at present undecided. His family will remain in town for some times pending the settlement of a place of permanent residence.

Police Court.

TUESDAY, Feb. 7.

Messrs. M. Brousseau, W. McGregor and E. Brown were each fined $100 and costs for second infractions of the Scott Act.

J. Eastland was fined $2 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. Two young men, Geo. Fady and Louis Craig, charged with being disorderly at the Salvation Army barracks last Wednesday evening, were remanded till to-morrow.

John H. Edmison, a farmer who refused to pay market toll on a load of wood yesterday, was before the magistrate. Mr. E. B. Edwards, for the prosecution, filed a copy of the market by-law; Mr. W. A. Stratton, for the defendant, contended that his client was not obliged to pay the toll, as the by-law in that respect was invalid. The case was enlarged till to-morrow.

BEFORE P. M. EDMISON.

P. M. Edmison held court at Keene yesterday. John Frost pleaded guilty to a first violation of the Scott Act and was fined $50 and costs. The case against Mr. Kennedy was dismissed.

Matrimonial.

This morning St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene of one of those social events which never lose their interest. Mr. Michael Lehane, who has been a resident of Minneapolis Minnesota, for the past four years, was united in marriage to Miss Nellie Buck. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McEvay in the vestry of the Cathedral, the groom being supported by Mr. J. J. Sheehy, merchant, Miss Fanny Redmond, of Millbrook, acting as bridesmaid. After the nuptial ceremony marriage mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McEvay in the body of the Cathedral. The wedding party adjourned to the residence of Mr. J. C. Sullivan, Ashburnham, where the home of the bride has been for sometime part. Here Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan's elaborate and sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of by the guests. There was more than the usual number of elegant presents. The happy couple took the 11.55 G.T.R. train for the west, whence they will return in about a fortnight to take up residence in Peterborough.

A Charitable Corporation.

A meeting of the Hall Poor Trust was held in Mr. A. P. Poussette's office last night. There were present, Mr. Poussette in the chair, and Messrs. W. Paterson, Dr. Bell, A. Stewart, Wm. Yelland and A. Hall. Reports of the Relief and Finance Committee (which will be printed in full in a day or two) were read, showing the disbursements for charity during the eleven months ending 31st December to have been $1,207. The Relief Committee for this year will be Messrs. A. P. Poussette, W. Paterson and Dr. Bell.

A Successful Career.

One of the most striking examples of what real native American grit and intelligence can accomplish in the face of apparently insurmountable difficulties, is presented in the career of the famous Dr. R. V. Pierce, head of the World's Dispensary Medical Association and the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and who, through the medium of his curatives, is known and honored throughout all christendom.

Born in a little New York village, and reared in a small Pennsylvania town, his early youth was a struggle between disadvantages and ardent desire in the strife for education.

The public school and every other possible medium of instruction were eagerly utilized by the active brained boy, until, at eighteen years of age, he felt and knew his ability to cope successfully with a course of professional study. After five years of arduous and continuous effort, he reaped the honors of a signally successful graduation in medicine. His early professional labors were confined to a rural district of Pennsylvania until 1867, when a desire and a determination to achieve success and win a name, brought him to the City of Buffalo, in his native State, where the field was broader and opportunities more plentiful.

Goaded onward by an active brain and tremendous energy, we next find him, located in a small room on an obscure street, preparing and putting on the market carefully-prepared remedies and specifics for the relief of the multitude beyond the range of a narrow circuit of daily calls.

Another change, and we find him in a large building on Main Street, and the recipient of the first fruits of growing public confidence.

Dr. Pierce, like every other brainy man of the age, was and is a firm believer in the liberal use of printer's ink, and from his Main-street establishment he dispatched the message of his healing power throughout the entire country. The Doctor knew, as now the whole world knows, the merits of his skill fully-devised and prepared remedies, and was only eager for their public test. A few more years and the largest and handsomest structure in the City of Buffalo towered toward the sky in monumental acknowledgement of the vital energy and gifted learning of this our representative American Doctor. The Palace Hotel for Invalids, as this noble institution was called, fell an early victim to the flames, but, like a Phœnix, from the ashes of this conflagration sprang up the present mammoth dual structure, furnishing alike a luxurious resort of Health, Rest, and Invigoration, and also the birth-place of those standard specifics which are going out and in a never ending flow to all the countries of the earth. It is a positive fact that will astound you who doubt the power of Energy to conquer, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is as well-known in India to-day, as in New York City, and is yet only on the threshold of its destined usefulness.

The World's Dispensary and the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute is a combination of luxurious accommodations and every conceivable comfort and possible curative appliance known to science. It is a haven where chronic diseases and physical afflictions yield to the potent influences of skillful treatment.

In conclusion, we can only say that it ranks in public confidence just where it deserves to stand—foremost amongst the reliable curative establishments of the world.

THE LABOR COMMISSION.

SLAVERY RAMPANT IN CIGAR FACTORIES IN MONTREAL.

Horrible Revelations Made by Cigarmakers and Apprentices—Revolting Treatment of Boys and Girls—Wages and Fines.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—J. M. Fortier having denied the evidence given before the Labor Commission yesterday, the room was to-night crowded with cigarmakers anxious to back up the testimony of their fellow-employes.

Madame Goyotte, mother of the little boy spoken of yesterday, testified that her boy had been brought home four years ago suffering severely from a beating received at Fortier's. The boy has been in poor health ever since; he had only worked two years out of four since the assault was committed. She was a poor widow and depended on her children's earnings for support. She had no doubt that the poor health of the child was caused by the beating given him in the cigar factory.

Adelard Lavoie had seen Fortier's foreman strike a boy on the back with a mould cover, a board 22 inches long and 2½ inches thick. The foreman had then taken the boy by the hips and jumped him on the ground till the boy was unconscious. Witness took the boy to the window till he revived and then carried him home in a street car. Witness had seen other children brutally beaten at Fortier's. Had himself been put in the black hole, which is down cellar and built of mason work.

Joseph Gagnon, apprentice at Fortier's, a few weeks ago earned $1.75, and had 75 cents taken away in fines. Had been put in the black hole. Had been fined 75 cents for not performing his daily task of a certain stated quantity.

Charles Ware had an argument about a mould with a girl in Fortier's factory, and had been put in the black hole therefor and kept there two hours. Had been struck across the wrist with a mould.

Joseph Faille had been fined $3 in one week, when his earnings were only $4. There were no rules governing fines. They were left to the foreman. They were usually the amount of extra made. He had been fined 10 cents, and on asking the reason had it increased to 25 cents. He had paid $75 to $100 during his three years of apprenticeship.

Horace Laframboise worked at Goulet's, who employed no journeymen. He had been arrested and taken before the Recorder for shoving another boy. He was acquitted. The same week he was fined $1. He knew no reason except getting acquitted.

Wm. Plante had been beaten by three foremen at Fortier's. His trowsers were taken down. He was previously put in the black-hole two hours. He felt the effects of the beating for a considerable time afterwards. He had been in the hole on two other occasions.

George Robinson had seen children beaten at other cigar factories, but knew of no other with a black-hole.

Joseph Fournier had seen Fortier beat a little girl of 15 because she refused to sweep. He threw her down, placed one knee on her and struck her with a mould cover. The girl cried bitterly, and when left could scarcely rise. Witness was then 20 years old, but did not feel strong enough to take the girl's part. This was four years ago. The girl was still employed at the same factory.

Edward Arcoustte had been placed in the hole and beaten several times with the cover of a mould for laughing and talking. He got quite accustomed to this treatment, although it sometimes made him sick.

Jacques Claude worked as apprentice for three months and got $1 in all. At the end of the last week he owed the firm 20 cents for that week's work. He then feigned fits and was allowed to leave the factory.

THE SPEECH OF BISMARCK

RELIEVES THE FEELING OF UNEASINESS THROUGHOUT EUROPE.

German Opinion—Fealty to Fatherland—Hungarian Criticisms—Russia's Great Embassy Mission—England and Russia—French Comments.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Vienna Political Correspondence says that Bismarck's speech shows that the publication of the Austro-German treaty was not the precursor of a serious phase of political affairs. The central powers do not intend to ask Russia to disarm, but the earliest declarations of the Chancellor should prove that there is no need of further armaments.

Reference was made in Bismarck's speech to certain other powers with which treaties of alliance have been concluded by Germany similar to those existing between Germany and Austria and Germany and Italy. It is surmised to-day that Spain, Roumania and Sweden are the countries referred to.

The Moscow Gazette proposes closer relations with England, and asserts that Lord Churchill, on his recent visit, had serious conversations with Russian statesmen on the necessity of England and Russia guarantessing themselves mutually against the dangers from the Central European League and Bismarck's Cesarism.

At the court ball last night the Czar was especially amiable to the foreign ambassadors. At supper Gen. von Schweinitz, the German Ambassador, was seated on the Empress' right and Count von Wolkenstein-Trostburg, the Austrian Ambassador, on the left.

The London Standard says: We may be astonished at Bismarck's language, and think it out of harmony with patent facts, but it would be impossible for any one to maintain that so far as the immediate prospects of the hour are concerned the speech does not point strongly in the direction of the maintenance of peace, but his tantalizing reserve leaves us again to our own surmises, and what is still more important leaves the Austrians and Hungarians to their own surmises.

Prince Bismarck's speech produced an excellent impression in Vienna.

Bismarck is credited pith pacific intentions by the leading French organs, including The Journal des Debats, The Paix and The Siecle. The Radical papers demand that France enter into a defensive alliance against the "unscrupulous Teuton."

It is believed in political and official circles in St. Petersburg that the profoundly pacific tone of Bismarck's speech, which agrees with Russia's aspirations, will produce a quieting impression everywhere.

The North German Gazette of Berlin says that besides reflecting the agreement of the whole German people with Bismarck's policy, yesterday's manifestation in the Reichstag testifies to the unity and strength with which they are ready in every way to accomplish the task and act as guardians of the peace.

The National Zeitung says Prince Bismarck's declarations against every aggressive war are and will remain the permanent guiding star of the German people.

The Nonsische Zeitung says it is impossible to build a golden bridge for peace in a more friendly manner than Prince Bismarck did in his speech yesterday.

A despatch from London to the New York Times says: "Under the inspiration of Prince Bismarck's closing words about Germany's position, wedged between enemies, and her determination to seek or provoke no war, and to fight to the death if attacked, there was a spectacle rarely seen in the Reichstag before. The leaders of every one of the groups into which the body is divided rose and earnestly echoed his words, and swore fealty to the cause of the Fatherland's defence. The whole scene, as described by a Berlin despatch, must have been wonderfully dramatic and impressive.

Some of the Pesth journals criticise the reference to Bulgaria made by Bismarck in his speech. It is believed by well-informed persons that the Chancellor's views with regard to that country coincide with those of Austria. The speech is looked upon as a corroboration of the impression that the Austro-German treaty was made public with peaceful intentions.

Telegrams are received from all parts of the Empire congratulating Prince Bismarck upon his speech and approving the views he expressed.

The St. Petersburg Viedomisti says the publication of the Austro-German treaty is an act of political incivility and the treaty itself an act of perfidy and ingratitude towards the late Czar, to whom Germany was largely indebted for her unity.

The Grashdanin, the official organ, insists that the treaty is offensive as well as defensive, and advocates Russia's abstention from all European counter alliances. Russia, it says, can have no dealings with Europe, not even with France, but must confine herself to her great eastern mission.

Emperor William gave an audience to Bismarck to-day, and expressed his approval of the latter's speech in the Reichstag yesterday.

CANADA IN ENGLAND.

Dealings in C.P.R. Stocks—Toronto Debentures—The Coal Companies.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Mr. Beeton, the British Columbia Agent-General, read a paper on that province before the Society of Arts to-night.

Rather heavy sales of Canadian Pacific shares have attracted attention in the stock market, but it is believed the movement is merely closing the account started by a speculative syndicate when the recent rumors respecting a Government guarantee in perpetuity were circulated.

Official quotations have been granted on the Stock Exchange to the new issue of City of Toronto loan debentures.

Sir John Lister Kaye briefly replies to-day to yesterday's attack from the Galt Company's secretary on the prospective new company.

A number of clergymen of Liverpool with some leading laymen have formed a committee to promote a Liverpool society on the same basis of self-help as the Emigration Society in London. Rev. Mr. Bridger is one of the chief movers.

Judgment was delivered to-day by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on the appeal of the Newfoundland Government respecting the claims of the Newfoundland Railway Company for arrears of subsidy. The committee hold that the grants of lands were not dependent in any way on the completion of the whole line.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Provincial Lawmakers Remain Thirty Minutes in Session.

TORONTO, Feb. 8.

The Legislature sat for a whole half hour yesterday afternoon. There was a full attendance of members and the galleries were crowded. The session was principally devoted to the introduction of bills. There was a little fun over Mr. Graham's resolution for the admission of the reporters to the gallery during prayers. A great deal of dank-pounding followed the reading of the resolution.

Mr. Graham said that in moving this he did not wish to insinuate that the reporters were particularly in need of hearing the prayers read—[hear, hear]—but he thought the custom was one which could not be defended. [A voice: "What!" Having closed doors during prayers. [Laughter.] There was an impression abroad that the House was exclusive at prayer time, and the only way to obviate it was to allow there porters to occupy their galleries. He only regretted that his motion was not wide enough to admit the public.

While Mr. Graham was speaking Mr. O'Connor, the seconder, slipped out, and the motion died on transit to the Speaker.

Mr. Meredith moved for a return of copies of all commissions of inquiry issued during the years 1886 and 1887; the subject of the inquiry in each case; the names of the commissioners, their salary or other remuneration, and a statement of the expenses of each such inquiry. Such return to show whether the commissioners or any of them held any, and if so, what other office or employment in the public service of the province. He was of opinion that Government employes should not be paid for such work.

The Attorney-General had no objection to the motion, but would explain that it had been the practice to employ the most competent persons available for this work, and in case of a government official's appointment extra expenses only were allowed.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. Meredith moved for a return of copies of all orders-in-council or other regulations, with regard to timber dues, passed since Jan. 1, 1886. He understood from the public press that pressure had been brought to bear on hon. gentlemen opposite to not make an increase in the dues this year, but had not been successful. He held that it would be of benefit to the lumber industry to have the dues settled definitely.

The motion was agreed to.

Hon. A. S. Hardy explained why it was that the press and public were not admitted during prayers. The first few minutes of the sessions were devoted to questions of privilege. If the public and press representatives were admitted and a question of privilege came up the galleries would have to be cleared and this would be annoying.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that the prayers as they were, did not apply especially to reporters. In case of the admission of reporters the prayers would have to be remodeled.

Hon. C. Fraser also explained the object of having prayers with closed doors.

Mr. Mowat said the prayers were printed and the reporters knew all about them. It was merely on account of the question of privilege, not a desire to keep anybody out, that the doors were closed.

These bills were introduced and read a first time:

By Mr. Phelps—An act to amend the Revised Statutes, cap. 72, respecting Police Magistrates.

By Mr. G. B. Smith—An act to amend the Municipal Act.

By Mr. Clarke (Wellington)—An act to amend the Municipal Act.

By Mr. Gibson (Hamilton)—An act to amend the acts respecting short forms of mortgages.

By Mr. Leys—An act respecting Trinity Church, Toronto.

By Mr. Garson—An act respecting the St. Catharines, Merriton and Thorold Street Railway.

By Mr. Stratton—An act to amend the act incorporating the Wm. Hall Peterboro Protestant Poor Trust.

By Mr. Morgan—An act respecting the South Norfolk Railway Company.

By Mr. Meredith—An act to renew the charter of the Saugeen Railway Company and to extend the time for the completion of the said railway.

Around the Lobbies.

It is expected the Treasurer will make his financial statement next week.

Col. Clarke has introduced his bill to amend the Municipal Act, which provides that the head of every Council and the Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Second Deputy-Reeve of every town, township and incorporated village should be justice of the peace for the whole county or union of counties, and that aldermen in cities shall be justices of the peace for such cities.

Mr. R. Ferguson of The Listowel Banner was among the visitors to the press gallery. Mr. Ferguson runs one of the best weeklies in the west. He is likewise a trusted and active member of the Liberal party of Perth.

Mr. Mowat was unable, owing to a very severe cold, to proceed with the motion standing in his name on the order paper.

SUPREME COURT SESSION.

RUMORED CHANGES IN THE NORTH-WEST TERRITORIES.

An Inland Revenue Department Detective Arrested in Nova Scotia—Postoffice Department—A School of Cavalry for Toronto.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The Supreme Court will meet on Feb. 21. There are six election and nineteen other cases marshed for hearing, besides five appeals from Exchequer Court decisions. The election cases are Glengarry, L'Assomption, Montmagny, Mackinonge and Quebec County, all of which are on the ground of the six months' limit, and Russell, which is on the ground of the insufficiency of the petition. It is understood that this latter case will be withdrawn when called.

A despatch from Pictou, N.S., says that a detective named Curien, who is employed by the Inland Revenue Department, has been arrested and committed for trial on a charge of perjury, preferred by some parties whom he was prosecuting for violation of the canada laws.

Lieut.-Governor Dewdney, Indian Commissioner, and Mr. H. H. Smith, Dominion Lands Agent at Winnipeg, are here on business with the Department of the Interior and Indian Affairs, principally with reference to the preparation of their annual reports and preparing for next week's work. The presence of the former in the city has revived the stories of his re-entry into political life on retiring from the Lieutenant-Governorship of the Northwest next May, in which position it is currently remarked he will be succeeded by Hon. Mr. Royal, although, of course, no official announcement has been made, nor is it at all likely to be made for some months to come. There is a very general impression that Mr. Dewdney will be called to the Senate as one of the representatives from the North-west, and that on the rearrangement of the Cabinet, which will probably take place after the close of the session, so as to bring the acts of last year relating to the Department of Trade and Commerce and the appointment of a Solicitor-General into force, Mr. Dewdney will enter the Cabinet as the representative of the section west of Ontario. Some of the wise ones who profess to know say that he will be Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, which office will be made a separate one, and not held by one of the Ministers of other departments, as has hitherto been the case.

There appears to be a growing feeling in favor of the establishment of a school of cavalry at Toronto. Should the idea be carried into effect it is more than likely that a detachment in connection with the Royal Military College will be established, when the cadets in the senior classes can have the use of the horses for riding instruction.

The Post Office Department is taking active steps to provide for the increased business which it is expected will follow the establishment of the parcel post between Canada and the United States on March 1. The parcels office built in the yard of the Toronto Postoffice some time ago will be enlarged, and several rooms in the Montreal postoffice, now used by the Militia Department, will be taken possession of as speedily as possible by the postal authorities so that no delay may occur in handling the increased quantity of matter.

The enlistment of men for D School of Infantry, London, which opens on April 2, is getting on well. The required number has been secured but the officers have not yet been appointed.

Mr. Percy Woods expects to have the sharpshooters' monument to Privates Rogers and Osgoode completed in time to have it unveiled by His Excellency the Governor-General next October.

Sir Hector Langevin left for Quebec this afternoon. He will attend Lieut.-Gov. Angers's ball to-morrow night and on Thursday will be the recepient of an address from the Young Conservatives of Quebec. On Saturday evening he will be present at the banquet to Sir Adolphe Caron and will return to the city on Monday.

A Chapleau-Caron Alliance.

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—It is stated in political circles here that the split between Caron and Langevin has culminated in the former passing over for good into the Chapleau camp, and further proof of its existence is noted in the complete silence of the Langevin organs, Le Courier and Le Journal de Quebec, as to the Caron dinner, and of the Caron organs, Le Canadien and L'Evenement, as to the Langevin demonstration. Mr. Costigan is evidently desirous of keeping out of the quarrel between the two Quebec Ministers, as he has left for New Brunswick and will not be here for either festivity. Sir Hector arrived to-day.

A Complaint Against Mr. Chapleau.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—A deputation of leading Montreal Tories is expected here to-night to complain to Sir John Macdonald about Mr. Chapleau's action in regard to election contestations in the Montreal district. They charge the Secretary of State with dickering with the Liberals in order to save his personal friends from disqualification.

2,000,000 Destitute Chinese.

Work for Young Men

Closing Scenes the at Young Men's Christian Association Convention Toronto.

February 3rd, 1888.—This evening's session of the Convention, in Association Hall, was opened by a service of song led by the Toronto Association Male Chorus and Orchestra. At 8 p.m. Mr. R. H. Holland, President Montreal Y. M. C. A., took the chair, and after the usual opening exercises announced the first topic for the evening, viz :—"The importance of evangelistic meetings for men only." Two papers were read on this subject, the first by D. A. Budge, of Montreal, and the second by John B. Squire, of Buffalo. A conversation upon this topic was conducted by Geo. A. Hall, of New York.

The Chairman of the Devotional Committee, Mr. Gartshore, announced the meetings for Saturday evening and Sunday and the session was closed.

SATURDAY.

The morning session was opened by Mr. Geo. M. Roger, of Peterborough, Vice-President of the Convention. Resolutions of sympathy were passed towards W. J. Orr, Secretary at St. Thomas, whose wife had passed away the day before, and H. F. Williams, International Secretary, who was call away from the Convention to the death bed of his aged father, in the west.

The first paper for the morning was on "The Extension of College Work," and was read by T. B. Scott, of Queen's University, Kingston. This was followed by a paper on "Reception Committee Work," by Mr. Kuhring, of Ottawa. The convention freely discussed the latter paper and some very valuable suggestions were brought out. The committee appointed to consider the Executives' statement brought in their report, which was received and adopted.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Address by Mayor Clarke, and Bible reading by Hon. S. H. Blake.

The President of the Convention, Mr. Caldecott, occupied the chair. A paper was read on the "Value of Associate Membership," by W. H. Smith, Medical Students' Association, Toronto. Mr. J. K. Unsworth, B.A., conducted the conversation which followed.

After singing "I Need Thee Every Hour," an illustrated training class was conducted by Mr. Frank M. Pratt, of Kingston. At its close the President said he had very great pleasure in introducing the Chief Magistrate of Toronto, Mayor Clarke, who spoke as follows ;—

During the afternoon Mayor Clarke was present and spoke as follows :—Mr. President and Chairman,—I felt honored a few days ago when I received a communication inviting me to be present at one or more of your meetings, and I regretted very much that owing to other engagements it was impossible for me at that time to accept the invitation, but yesterday afternoon I was more highly honored by having a deputation wait upon me at the City Hall.

I was constrained by the kindly and paternal invitation to break one or two appointments that I might be present this afternoon. I think it was incumbent upon me as the Chief Magistrate of the City of Toronto to be present, if possible. If I did not put in an appearance my absence might be misunderstood or misconstrued. I assure the gentleman who are present that the Corporation of the City of Toronto are in sympathy with the work of the association ; that they desire that the richest blessing of Heaven may follow their labors.

I hope it is not too late to welcome you visitors to our Queen city. We are all justly proud of Toronto, and of its enviable notoriety amongst the cities of Canada. It is generally recognised that our people are a loyal people. It will be the aim of the Corporation of 1888, as far as in them lies, to maintain the good name of the city. As a resident of Toronto, I can recognize the good work which has been done by the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, and now you have come into more commodious and beautiful rooms, I hope that its usefulness may be further increased. Holding the position that I occupies as a moral city, as a law-abiding city, yet there are many snares by which young men may be entrapped, and I know it is the aim of this association and convention to learn how to best counteract these, and I hope that this conference will help you. I feel that I should not have occupied your time, but I again beg to extend you a welcome to the Queen City, and I hope that you may be further strengthened and that you may learn better ideas of the way to propagate the work of the association. I thank you for your kindly invitation and for the patient hearing you have given me.

He was frequently applauded and given a very warm reception. At the close of his address Hon. S. H. Blake gave a very interesting Bible reading on "The Transfiguration."

EVENING SESSION.

The evening meeting was for young men only and was conducted by Mr. Chas. Olandt, of New York.

The subject was "What think Ye of Christ." Short addresses were made by John B. Squire, Buffalo ; Frank Pratt, Kingston ; and W. H. Stevens, Peterborough.

The service was interesting and pointed, laying before young men the claims the Divine Saviour had upon their lives.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

At 9.30 the convention gathered in the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Hall for a Consecration Service. It was conducted by Mr. Hall, of New York. Short, pointed testimonies as to failures and weaknesses were followed by brief individual prayers for divine strength and guidance. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon a mass meeting for young men was held in the Association Hall, conducted by D. A. Budge, of Montreal, and addressed by W. P. Cummins, evangelist ; W. J. Claxton, Brantford, and W. H. Stevens, Peterborough. The subject was "Sin, its Progressive Character, etc., etc." At the close, as the audience bowed in prayer, numbers of young men manifested their desire to become Christians, and prayer was offered by C. B. Gzowski, junr.

At 8.30 the farewell meeting was led by Mr. Hall, of New York. Two minute addresses were made by S. Caldecott, President of the Convention, Chas. Olandt, C.S. Gzowski, jr., Rev. Hugh Johnston and others, and one minute sentences of impressions of the convention were given by the various delegates. After spending over an hour these the delegates joined hands and sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds our Hearts in Christian Love." The Rev. Hugh Johnston pronounced the benediction, and the President declared the 18th Provincial Convention closed. For about half an hour hearty hand-shaking followed, the delegates gradually dispersing.

NOTES.

The hearty hospitality of the Toronto people was more than could be expected; one delegate stating :—"I regretted I had not capacity to take it all in." The Convention was a grand success sending the delegates home with renewed vigor to present the claims of Christ upon their fellows.

The President said the American delegates were good enough to be Canadians.

Peterborough was represented by Messrs. Geo. M. Roger, A. Clegg, C. W. Beal, R. H. Henderson, E. R. Wood and W. H. Stevens, secretary.

"Protestant Bigotry in Peterborough."

We have been requested to publish the following letter from Tuesday's issue of the Toronto Mail :

To the Editor of the Mail.

SIR,—Your issue of yesterday, from some "One Ashamed" here in Peterborough, contains a gross and unwarrantable attack, not only upon the newly-elected warden, Mr. Walsh, of Asphodel, but upon every gentleman of the county council who voted for him, the "Conservative ex-M. P. for East Peterborough" included.

Mr. Walsh is a much-esteemed and highly respectable man, a successful farmer and possesses extensive knowledge of municipal affairs. If "One Ashamed" has one spark of truth, honour, or manliness about him, he ought to be ashamed of himself and of his cowardly stab in the dark. But evidently he has neither honour, nor shame, nor courage. He is one of those mean and bigoted slanderers of everything Catholic who, when educated enough to perceive it, is ever ready to wink at incompetence and illiteracy in Protestants, whether in men who have held the same office that Mr. Walsh now holds, or in Protestants who have held and do now hold, other positions of distinction and trust in the country. Mr. Walsh was not elected because he is a Catholic ; but it is because he and others in our councils, and out of them, are Catholics that they are barred from occupying the higher offices. It is the old infernal spirit of Protestant ascendancy still at work. It cannot be denied or hidden. It is rampant everywhere. "A Turk, Jew or Heathen, etc." I am not asked to defend or vindicate Mr. Walsh in any way. He is amply able to do that. But as a Catholic I do protest against the brazen effort that is being continually put forth to brand us with the stigma of incompetence, whether the effort proceeds from ignorance, arrogance, mediocrity or any other kind of Protestant prejudice.

Yours, etc.,
FAIR PLAY.

Peterborough, Feb. 4.

Home Knowledge Association.

The object of this Association, whose representative has been in Peterborough for some time, is the fostering of a taste for the best class of books and thus promoting the cause of popular education. The means used by the association to accomplish this end is the furnishing of books to members at prices a trifle above the cost of manufacture. Every member of the Association becomes at once, by virtue of his membership, a wholesale dealer in books, entitled to wholesale prices, trade discounts, and all the other privileges of that class. Whether he buys one book or fifty, it is all the same ; he deals directly with the manufacturer or publisher, and avoids all the onerous expenses and profits of intermediate dealers. The Association delivers to each member a catalogue of standard and miscellaneous books, giving the net wholesale prices at which these books may be purchased by members. It also furnishes to those interested in that class of publications a catalogue of all the school and text books published, with the regular net wholesale prices. A catalogue of sheet and book music, at liberal discounts, is also provided. Special rates are secured for members of all the leading magazines and periodicals, and the Association has also established a book exchange, which offers excellent advantages for obtaining or exchanging rare or expensive works, not usually obtainable through the book stores. The great advantage of being a member of such an Association is apparent, and it is certainly also an advantage to be able to communicate with a responsible establishment, to which one can send for anything in the book or music line, with the assurance that the price will be the lowest possible. Members also have the privilege of making inquiry regarding any author or his works, and such inquiries will always receive careful and prompt attention. There is no other expense except the original cost of membership—no dues or liabilities of any kind. The movement cannot be too highly commended. 3eod

MR. CAMPBELL WILL NOT RESIGN.

His Record is Right—What He Thinks of the Liquidators and the Solicitor.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.

In conversation yesterday with Mr. Archibald Campbell, the suspended liquidator of the Central Bank, Mr. Campbell said that he did not like the idea of resigning. He says he has done nothing wrong, and that to resign would be to admit the truth of the charges made against him and disgrace himself and family—a thing he has no idea of doing. His transactions in the acceptances of the Central took place three years ago, and were purely in the nature of the business of a broker. He claims that everything he did as interim liquidator and regular liquidator has been in the interest of the creditors of the bank.

Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, along with Solicitor Foster and Accountant Lye, are joined together, as Mr. Campbell claims, to injure him. They are not endeavoring to facilitate the affairs so much as they are trying to implicate Mr. Campbell in not only what amounts to conspiracy to wreck the bank before suspension, but also of giving dishonest preferences to men with whom he (Mr. C.) was in league, since the suspension. "If was not for me," said Mr. Campbell, "as interim liquidator, to have secured the arrest of Macdonald, Allen, Trounce and the other absconders; but it was Mr. Foster's duty to have done that immediately he was made solicitor and knew the facts. But, instead of doing these, he published the facts, and on top of this came the speech of the Master, which gave the birds warning to fly." Mr. Campbell is very pronounced in the opinion that not he but others are to blame for these men getting away. Mr. Campbell, even if the decision of the court is against him, has the right of appeal. If it is appealed liquidation will be still further delayed.

"This latitude who has already cost the creditors a nice penny. Speculators were getting ready to buy the claims of creditors; now that the liquidators have quarrelled no one will touch deposit receipts or other claims, and they have at the very lowest estimate depreciated 10 to 20 per cent.

If they have gone down 10 per cent. that means $200,000 alone on claims of over two millions.

"If Mr. Foster is solicitor for the liquidators of the Central Bank he must be solicitor for Mr. Campbell," writes "Creditor," who adds that for philanthropical purposes the present legal inquiry into Mr. Campbell's affairs may be all very well, but that he and others take considerable stock in Mr. Campbell's more material view of his duties, though not prepared to say that under all the circumstances a better selection could not be made among professional bankers or accountants. "But at all events," says "Creditor," "there must be a third wheel to the coach, who knows more of the technicalities of banking than the Salvation Army men, who are now presumably squandering the attenuated assets of the bank in trying to have associated with them another of the goody-goody gang."

Monday Fixed for the Hearing.

Chancellor Boyd yesterday fixed Monday for the hearing of the argument on the petition for the removal of Mr. Campbell.

Of Interest to Depositors.

There has been lately a good deal of buying up of small Central Bank deposits by speculators—or "sharks" as Liquidator Howland calls them. Mr. Howland yesterday told The World that many small depositors who wanted their money badly had been induced to sell out at 85 cents on the dollar. The bank is now in a position to pay depositors 10 cents on the dollar, but this cannot be done at present because of some formalities. There is every probability of the first dividend being 15 cents on the dollar. Mr. Howland spoke in a hopeful tone, to the effect that depositors should not be in a hurry to sell out at 85 cents.

TORONTO TOPICS.

At a meeting of the Separate School Board last night the following motion was carried:

"That this board confer with the City Council, and, in virtue of sec. 57, Separate School Act, enter into an agreement with the City Council for a term of years, that, instead of the present mode of arranging Separate School taxes, a fixed proportion of the total amount levied and collected for Separate and Public Schools purposes be paid by the city to the said board each year of such term; and that the members of the Finance Committee with the board's chairman, secretary-treasurer and solicitor be a committee to consult with the city authorities and report to the board."

Wright Cameleman, a Nebraska visitor, was assigned to Room 6 at the Revere House on Monday night. He went to bed about midnight, and it was not till 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he recovered consciousness, that he realized he had made a big mistake in blowing the gas out.

A Toronto man named Bagley met with a shocking death yesterday by falling from the Grand Trunk Railway bridge at Weston. He was a married man.

The Grand Trunk hopes to make a lot of progress this coming season in the way of double-tracking the line between Toronto and Montreal. By constructing two or three link lines between various portions of the Midland system and the Napanee and Tamworth, a relief line for the Grand Trunk main line will be secured as far as Kingston. Substantial work will also be done in the way of double-tracking between Kingston and Montreal.

WHY SUFFER?

Mr. Rene Waterman, of the Imperial Oil Co., Petrolea, says: Nasal Balm gave me the most perfect satisfaction of any preparation I ever used for catarrh in the head. I found it clear to use, sprinkle giving relief, and effected a complete cure within a few hours.

Mr. Mayor Robert Revels, Brockville, Ont., says: I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh and it cured me, after having doctored and tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

Mr. W. H. Colgar, Advertising Agent for Toronto News, says: I was induced to try Nasal Balm for a severe and troublesome cold in the head. Once using it literally washed out the clogged secretions, and left my head clear as a bell.

D. Derbyshire, ex-President of the Ontario Rowing Association, Brockville, says:—Nasal Balm is the word for catarrh and cold in the head. In my own case it effected relief from the first application.

Chas. Walsh, 146 Cathcart St., Ottawa, says: Gentlemen, I have used Nasal Balm for cold in the head and find it all that you claim for it. I take pleasure in strongly recommending it to all persons suffering from catarrh, cold in the head, etc.

Capt. D. H. Lynn, Manager and Proprietor of the C.P.R. and G.T.R. Cab Stand, Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., says: I used Nasal Balm for a prolonged case of cold in the head. Two applications effected a complete and thorough cure in less than twenty-four hours. I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not replace it.

WHEN

J. W. Hunt, Port Hope, writes: I was a sufferer from a long standing case of catarrh and, being well up in years (my hardly expected to ever obtain anything that would give me material or permanent relief. At the time of receiving Nasal Balm I was very bad with catarrh, but take great pleasure in stating that on the second application I obtained wonderful relief, and its effects were pleasant, soothing and healing. It acted like magic and is worth ten times its cost for the immediate relief it gives. I feel confident the second bottle will effect a permanent cure. I have recommended Nasal Balm for cold in the head and in every case it acts like a charm.

Horatio Collier, Postmaster, Cannerstown, Ont., writes: Gentlemen,—I am well pleased with your Nasal Balm. I was suffering from cold in the head and catarrh, and through its use am now thoroughly cured. It is much more pleasant and easy to use than the powders, inhalers and snuffs that I used previously. I will recommend it as a sure cure for cold in the head. You may refer parties to me and I shall feel a pleasure to reply to them.

Mr. T. Dawson, General Merchant, Ragian, Ont., says: I was troubled with a severe cold in the head; once using Nasal Balm gave me immediate and permanent relief.

James G. Tarrant, 34 Daly St., Ottawa, Ont., says: I am pleased to state that Nasal Balm has already relieved my catarrh to a very great extent. I have not used one bottle, but the nauseous droppings from the head into the throat have almost ceased. I breathe easy now; get better sleep and altogether feel I appreciate the wonderful virtue of the preparation. Its merits cannot possibly be surpassed for catarrhal troubles, and as a cure I believe it to be UNEQUALED.

:: NASAL·BALM ::

E. A. Cardinal, 413 Seigneurs St., Montreal, says: After ineffectually trying many of the so-called remedies for catarrh, I made a trial of Nasal Balm, which gave me instant relief. By its use I daily note the most decided changes in its peculiarities after a few applications. It changes the unpleasant odor of the virus in the throat and the poisonous secretions ever which every breath must pass. To any thus troubled it is a priceless medicine.

W. B. Fullerton, Gananoque, says: Gents, A prominent citizen of our town, a gentleman of the very highest standing, requested me to introduce to the peculiarities of your Nasal Balm. He had suffered for a long time from a severe headache over the eyes, and his head was so stopped up that he was in great distress. One application gave instant relief, and in two days he was entirely cured.

Jno. S. George, Tottenham, Ont., says: I have been troubled with nasal catarrh for the last five years. Seeing Nasal Balm advertised I procured a bottle, and although I have only used part of it, I do not hesitate to pronounce it the best remedy in the world for that loathsome disease, catarrh. It is easy and pleasant to use, soothing and healing in its action, instant in giving relief, and when used according to the poisonous secretions into a healthy state, stops the droppings from the head into the throat and removes all symptoms of catarrh, and cold in the head. In fact if the directions are faithfully followed nothing but a sure and permanent cure can be the result.

POSITIVELY CURES

Miss Jennie A. McNair, Lions Head, Bruce Co., Ont., writes: I called upon a poor woman who was very sick. She had not left her bed for weeks. Her friends said she was dying of consumption; indeed she was so low it seemed that it could be but a very short time until she would pass away. I looked around on her little children and resolved if possible to cure her, but how to do it was the question. I was well read to the different forms of consumption and knew her trouble all came from the "head," and that her lungs were being destroyed by breathing the poisonous secretions into them. [illegible] some praying that God would give me what was wanted to cure her—and he did in a strange way. A little boy came into the room where I was and wanted me to look at a star on a piece of paper. It proved to be an advertisement of Nasal Balm. I ordered it at once and it proved to be just what I wanted, as to-day the woman's head is all right. She is able to do her own work and is getting strong very fast. This remarkable change was effected by one bottle of Nasal Balm. Enclose 50 cents for another bottle, which is for a young lady here who has had catarrh for a long time. Please send at once and I will try and make No worth known in this place. It is a pleasure for me to work for the suffering and praise the medicine that deserves it.

L. D. Dion, Dept. Railways and Canals, Ottawa, says: Gents, I am very glad to give you to-day the testimony that Nasal Balm has COMPLETELY CURED my catarrh from which I have suffered for nearly three years.

D. A. Smith, Bronze, Knowlton Co., P.Q., says: Gents, Nasal Balm has worked wonders in my case of catarrh. It has entirely stopped the hawking and coughing and also droppings that run back into the throat, and though a sufferer from catarrh for a number of years the relief was quick.

Miss Mabel Millaker, Mt. Salem, Ont., says: I have had one trial bottle of Nasal Balm. It has quickly helped my catarrh; more than all the medicines I have tried.

CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Nasal Balm is not a liquid, snuff, or cauterizing powder. Is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. No instrument or douche required. Quickly cures headache, foul breath, and stops dropping from the nasal passages into the throat, and excessive expectoration caused by catarrh. A 50 cent bottle will convince the most skeptical of the wonderful merit of Nasal Balm. Pamphlet containing testimonials, etc., will be sent on application. Nasal Balm may be had from all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price (50c. and $1 a bottle), by addressing

FULFORD & CO., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

WARNING

Beware of spurious and worthless imitations which the wonderful merit of Nasal Balm has caused some unprincipled parties to place upon the market. They closely imitate the name Nasal Balm in the hope of deceiving the public, but are vile, catch-penny articles, destitute of merit. Do not be deceived by their apparent cheapness. Ask for Nasal Balm, and take nothing else for catarrh and cold in the head. Every package bears our Trade Mark and Signature. FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont.

THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results that have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh. eodw6

Ahead of All.

I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in my family for years and have found it ahead of any preparation of the kind in curing colds, etc. I can especially recommend it for children. ALEX. MOFFAT, Millbrook, Ont. 2w5d

ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald.
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called
There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.
But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.
Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge street, Toronto. Jas. Robb, County Master of East Peterborough, and Bro. F. J. Moore, District Master, Lakefield. There was a very large attendance, especially as the Grand Lodge had last year added to West Peterborough County Orange Lodge several subordinate lodges from East Peterborough.

Considerable interest was taken in the election of officers. The contest for the County Master was spirited, and Bro. John Smith is to be congratulated on his accession to the office. This morning about 7:30 o'clock Mr. P. Begley reported to the police that he had found a horse standing untied on Queen street without a driver or anyone in charge. Acting-Chief Adams examined the cutter and found in it, among other things, a parcel addressed "John McIntyre." He took the horse to Morgan's hotel and learned that John McIntyre, of Otonabee, had left the hotel last night with the horse and cutter to go to his home in Otonabee. Mr. McIntyre returned to town this morning. The horse escaped from him by running away. He took the horse home at noon.

"Let There be Light."

On Tuesday evening a highly edifying and interesting meeting of the Masonic fraternity took place in their new hall. There was a good attendance. The first feature of the programme was an address by Wor. Bro. W. Millar, of Omemee, which was remarkable for its originality, ingenuity and research. He dwelt forcibly on the anagogical influences of the Order, and made impressions on the minds of the brethren, calculated to be productive of much good. Rev. W. C. Bradshaw followed with a clever parody on a poem to Corinthian Lodge, after which he gave a reading which brought out his cultivated histrionic powers and elicited marked attention. During the evening a choir of half a dozen male voices delighted the brethren with a number of choice pieces of vocal music, Prof. Jeques at the organ. After the intellectual part of the programme, the brethren adjourned into their refreshment room, where coffee, cake, fruit, etc., were indulged in. Toasts, speeches, and songs followed, the toast of "Our Visiting Brethren" being responded to by Wor. Bros. J. R Ormond, of Winnipeg, and —. Goldie, of Uxbridge. Bro. Ormond gave some happy reminiscences of his connection with Masonry in Peterborough in years gone by, touched upon the marked progress the brethren had made since he last met with them, and congratulated them on their new and luxurious temple. Bro. Goldie also sounded the praises of the Peterborough brethren, made appropriate reference to his pleasure at being present around their hospitable table, and concluded with some humorous reference of his own experience among the craft. A parting song followed, and the brethren reluctantly separated.

COUNTY PUPILS' SCHOOL FEES

Some School Trustees Think They Don't Pay Enough.

Regular Meeting of the Board—Quite a Discussion over the Question of Increasing the Fees of County Pupils at the Institute—The Early Closing Movement.

There were present at the regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday evening, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, chairman; and Messrs. O'Meara, Burnham, Wrighton, English, Hughes, A. Rutherford, Stratton, Dennis, Hill and Dumble.

After the minutes were read an enquiry was made by Mr. Dennis if there were any school teachers on the staff without proper certificates, to which Chairman Stevenson replied that he understood there were several.

Mr. RUTHERFORD complained that pupils were shut out of school if they were not there on time, and also that favoritism was shown in the Collegiate Institute to pupils from the Separate School, who were pushed ahead to the disadvantage of others. He understood that sometimes pupils were shut out of school all forenoon for being a few minutes late.

Mr. J. H. LONG, M.A., Principal of the Institute, replied that this was a question that bothered the teachers more than anything else, but he denied that any pupils were kept out all forenoon. The doors were always open after the first class, at a quarter to ten. Last year he had made a rule that the doors should be closed sharp on time in order to enforce punctuality, but if the Board desired it he would return to the old plan of closing at a quarter after nine. He asked the Board to deal with and decide in the matter. He denied that favoritism was shown in any case.

Mr. RUTHERFORD enquired of the chairman if it had been by his consent that two or three classes of the public school had been dismissed earlier than usual last Thursday afternoon—probably, he said, to attend the races.

Mr. STEVENSON replied that he wasn't aware of the fact.

Mr. SMITH, Principal, explained that the younger classes often got through with their work early, as on this occasion, but he was not aware till afterwards that there were races that afternoon.

BUSINESS.

Communications were read notifying the Board of the appointment of Messrs. Dumble, Weir and O'Meara to the Board.—Received.

From the Minister of Education, confirming the appointment of Mr. J. S. Bean as teacher in the Collegiate Institute.—Received.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IN JANUARY.

	On Roll.	Ave. Att.
Collegiate Institute	186	176
Central School	673	601
South Ward School	294	208
West " "	170	141

The fees for January were reported to be :—Collegiate Institute, $155; public schools, $8.75.—Received.

A report of pupils from S. S. No. 11, Douro (Auburn), attending town schools, 27 in number, was received.

An account from Sergt-Major Rundell, instructor, for $6, for twelve lessons in military instruction to pupils of the Institute, was paid.

Mr. DENNE inquired of Mr. Long how this new departure was working, and Mr. Long replied that it gave every satisfaction and was a benefit to the school.

An application was read from Mr. Tighe, janitor of the school buildings, applying for an increase of salary.—Received.

Mr. DUMBLE reported that the county council had taken no notice whatever of the communication from the Board, requesting a grant to the Collegiate Institute.

THE COUNTY PUPIL QUESTION.

Mr. DUMBLE also brought up the matter of the necessary enlargement of the Collegiate Institute, which he said was forced upon the Board by the crowded state of the school. He said there was in the school something over 200 pupils, which necessitated the formation of a new class and the hiring of an extra teacher. If, however, the sixty pupils attending from the country were not there, the present staff would be able to thoroughly handle the pupils. And if these county pupils expected all the advantages of a collegiate institute they should be willing to pay for it, and not, by their over-crowding pressure, exclude the town pupils from the possibility of a good education — for almost nothing. The county, though, took no share in the working expenses of the Institute, and he considered the time was ripe for the Board to consider the matter. Other places were moving in the matter, so that Peterborough would not be alone. The town last year paid $4,375 for its Collegiate Institute education, or $27.31 per head; or, say for 130 town pupils, $33.66 each, to which add fees at 50c, $4.50, which would make the total cost for each pupil, $38.16. There was paid by county pupils for nine months' education $2 per month—$18 a year, a discrimination in favor of county pupils of $20.16 each. Ashburnham pupils, in number, 15, at $10 each, paid $150; whereas, the actual cost of these to the town was $400.65; a loss on Ashburnham pupils of $249.65. In view of these facts he moved the following resolution :—

Moved by Mr. DUMBLE, seconded by Mr. Denne, that inasmuch as the number of pupils now attending the Collegiate Institute is greater than can be effectively taught by the present staff, and to employ another teacher implies an additional expenditure of about $900 a year and the use of another room—which is not now available; and whereas the students in attendance from outside of the corporation are about one-fourth of the whole in attendance, and the fees received from them is not one half the average cost per head to the town of its own pupils; and whereas the chief aim of our Institute is to give a thorough education to children of residents rather than to educate the children of non-residents for certificates to the prejudice of resident pupils; therefore it is resolved, that after the summer vacation no pupil from outside the town shall be admitted to the Collegiate Institute except on condition of paying fees which shall fairly represent the actual per capita cost of the Institute pupils.

A COUNTER OPINION.

Mr. STRATTON expressed surprise at Mr. Dumble's change of views. It was hardly fair to make the statement that a new teacher and increased room would be required to meet the necessities of the school, as the government regulations enacted that 50 pupils were not too much for one teacher to handle. There were five teachers in the Institute, and only about 200 pupils, so that really there was more room for pupils instead of overcrowding. Besides to debar the county pupils form the school would reduce its standing and the amount of the government grant, and the town would lose the money these country children expended in fees, board, clothing and supplies, which would at least average $5,000 a year, and if they were cast off and the school's status thereby lowered, the Minister of Education might be tempted to reduce the school to a second or third grade high school, as it at present only existed on sufferance. Were that done, the county taxpayers might not appreciate and refuse to support the provincial universities which produced the high school and Collegiate Institute teachers. The county pupils were, as a class, good scholars, and he considered it unwise to attempt any such legislation as the motion proposed. The outside pupils were usually the best. They not only did credit to the school at examinations but their presence acted as a spur to the town pupils, as the latter would not wish to be outdone by country youths. There were at present in the school, he said, about 25 pupils preparing for certificates and University courses, and there were in addition 50 pupils going up for certificates alone. Thus the classes upon which the school depended were quite large. Cut these pupils out by large fees and the work of the past few months would be lost, as they would go to Lindsay, Cobourg, Norwood and other places. There was not one minute of time given to the country pupils, he said, that is not equally shared by the town pupils, all being mixed in the same classes. Then the classes were not too large. There were five teachers for 148 pupils. The town would, he said, become a factory (or equivalently become it by exemption), though it would not bring to the town nearly so much money and not attract persons of money or leisure to the town, such as the Collegiate Institute would. As they were already handicapped in competing with other schools by high fees and poor buildings, he was not prepared to heedlessly do anything to still further handicap the Institute, and yet expect good results from the school. It was no doubt aggravating to have the County Council refuse a grant, but the cutting out of the county pupils would be a loss instead of a gain to the Collegiate Institute, as not a cent would be saved on salaries, and the buildings must be kept up; and it was a poor policy to cut off one's nose to spite his face. He advocated leaving the matter over till the next meeting for due consideration.

AN AMENDMENT.

DR. BURNHAM said he quite agreed with the remarks of Mr. Stratton and said it would be premature to settle the matter at this meeting. He moved the following amendment :—

Moved by Dr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Hill, that the consideration of the advisability of increasing the fees of pupils from the county be referred to the following special committee :—Messrs. Dumble, Stratton, McWilliams, A. Rutherford and the mover and seconder; and that they report at the next meeting.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said he didn't see how the town was losing so much as Mr. Dumble stated, and instead of shutting out county pupils, he would favor the re-union of the town and county for school purposes.

Mr. O'MEARA considered that there was some inconsistency in the assessment, for Ashburnham pupils paid a much smaller fee than Smith or Monaghan pupils.

Mr. STRATTON explained that the descrimination was a recognition of the efforts of the Reeve of Ashburnham to secure from the county council a grant for school purposes, and the fact that quite a number of the ratepayers of Ashburnham and Peterborough were ratepayers in both places was also taken into consideration.

Mr. O'MEARA was not satisfied with either resolution, and wanted further time to consider the allegations of Mr Dumble regarding the overcrowding of the school. He moved an amendment to the amendment that the words "except the village of Ashburnham" be inserted in the motion, which was done.

THE PRINCIPAL'S OPINION.

Mr. LONG gave his views on the subject. He believed that if after the midsummer vacation there was a large increase of pupils—say 50 or 75—they would require another teacher. As things were now they were getting along nicely. If the motion prohibiting the attendance of the county pupils were passed it would cause a considerable loss to the town. As to the assertion that the town pupils' education was neglected in favor of that of country pupils, he denied it. He had, he said, a certain programme to teach up to and he did it, regardless of the fact whether there were country pupils or not. As an instance of that, he said that every girl in the third class was going up for a certificate. He said that the present staff could reasonably manage thirty or forty pupils more than they at present had. He said the school was existing on sufferance at present and was handicapped in the matter of fees, for Lindsay, Norwood and other towns had lower rates, and it was a good warrant of the value of the school that the Peterborough Collegiate Institute was preferred. He impressed the point that there was no shirking of work in behalf of country pupils.

Mr. DENNE thought it better to reduce the school if they had to pay a little more taxes, rather than allow the present state of affairs whereby county pupils were educated at the town's expense, to exist. Then it was mooted in the House of Legislature to fix a minimum rate for schools to charge for county pupils, and another man comes along and wants agriculture books introduced on the curriculum, and yet the county did not want to pay a cent.

Mr. HUGHES considered that Mr. Dumble's motion was perfectly fair. He couldn't see why country pupils should not pay as much as town pupils for their education. Then he thought the county county council had treated the communication of the board with silent contempt.

Mr. RUTHERFORD expressed his satisfaction with the offer of Mr. Long and his staff to take an extra number of pupils.

MR. DUMBLE REPLIES.

Mr. DUMBLE said he had been led into this thing because Mr. Long and teachers in the high schools had told him extra accommodation and teachers would be required. Now there was a larger attendance than ever, and the minute the maximum of attendance was reached it was better to send all the county pupils home than allow the town pupils to suffer. The question was: was it better to exclude county pupils or increase the accommodation and hire another teacher? The principle that admitted of one-third of the pupils in a school being educated at a smaller expense than the others and shouldering the whole expense upon the others, was unjust. If all the grammar schools of the province followed on this plan it would waken the country people up and bring assistance either from them or the Government. He said he was willing to have his motion referred to a committee to consider thoroughly, but he wanted better work done than had been done in the past, as he was greatly interested in the standing of the school.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved in amendment that the whole matter be referred to the Committee on Appointments.—Carried.

THE HOUR OF CLOSING.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Denne, that the matter of opening and closing the doors of the Collegiate Institute be referred to the School Supervision Committee; in the meantime the Principal allow the doors to be kept open until after prayers.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Wrighton, seconded by Mr. Hughes, that pupils from Ashburnham shall pay the same fees as the country pupils now pay.

There was some discussion on this motion, which was finally carried, and the board adjourned till a week from Friday evening, when this matter will be fully considered.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tooting cause hoodwink men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, in matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, lamb-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to please it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—DOLLAR. Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and comprise beauty, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this present of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR as it means 16 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost [to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' these, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $8.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95. Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, cheddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 99c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.00, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE BEHRING SEA SEIZURES BEFORE THE FISHERIES COMMISSION.

Civil Servants to Take the Oath of Allegiance—Richard Scott's Gratuitous Insertion of the Constitutional Act—The Gatineau Valley Railway Company.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—It is understood that the owners of the Canadian sealing vessels seized by the United States revenue cutters in Behring Sea last year have declined to hand their vessels pending the appeal which has been taken to the Supreme Court from the decision of the Alaska court. The bonding would have practically amounted to depositing in cash the value placed on the vessels and cargoes by the United States authorities, sometimes like $75,000, as only American citizens would be accepted as bondsmen, and it would, of course, have been almost impossible for the Canadian owners to get such security. This action, however, is said to have been suggested by the belief that the Behring Sea matter will have been settled by the Fisheries Commission and will be included in any scheme of settlement proposed by the commissioners.

The Auditor-General has issued a circular to the Civil Service, making the announcement that all clerks failing to take the oath of allegiance within another month will have their names declared from the March pay list. Quite a number of the civil servants have not yet complied with the regulation.

A petition for the exercise of executive clemency in the case of Robert Neill, alias Thompson, sentenced to be hanged in Toronto on Feb 28 for the murder of Guard Rutledge of the Central Prison, has been received and it is probable that it will be acted upon in the course of a few days.

At the meeting of the Liberals of Ottawa last night it was decided to give Hon. Mr. Laurier a reception on the occasion of his arrival in the city to attend the opening of Parliament.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Alliance will be held in Ottawa on March 1 and 2, when the Scott Act legislation, if any, is to be asked for from the Dominion Parliament.

Mr. H. J. Bonner, President of the Gatineau Valley Railway Company, was in the city to-day. He says that the surveys for the road are nearly completed, and that construction will be commenced as soon as the snow disappears.

Mr. S. J. Jenkins, private secretary to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, returned from Washington to-day. He could say he believed the Commissioners will shortly arrive at an early decision.

WINNIPEG NOMINATIONS.

To Take Place To-Day—Government Warning to Civil Service Employes.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8.—The Winnipeg aldermanic election nominations take place to-morrow. Ward and Greenway will not be opposed, but Martin and Prendergast will be, with seven chances of their defeat.

The Local Government have warned the civil service employes that no complaints have been made on account of their non-payment of personal debts; further complaints will be met with strong measures.

The Cayuga Election.

SAN REMO, Feb. 7.—Sir Hackstaffe, who arrived here to-day, proposes to return to London Thursday and report here again a fortnight hence. There is no change to report for operation, but it is hoped it will be indefinite ish in the near future.

The Halton Election.

MILTON, Feb. 7.—Mr. Cumberland, Conservative, was elected to-day to the Commons for Halton County by a majority of 149 over Mr. McLeod, Reformer.

Magnus Davis Examined.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 7.—S. Magnus Davis was examined here this afternoon before J. J. B. Flint, Q.C., in connection with Central Bank affairs.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN GALT.

A FARMER DELIBERATELY SHOT DEAD BY A FARMER.

The Murderer's Suicide—A Request to His Awful Deed—The Affair Enacted Before the Eyes of Neighborhood—The Verdict of the Jury.

GALT, Ont., Feb. 8.—The most tragic occurrence that has ever taken place in Galt was enacted this morning. From what can be ascertained at present it appears that John Currie, a farmer, aged about 45, living in the Township of Puslinch, was seen in town for a week or more drinking to some extent, and it is understood in connection with others to shoot Mr. Henry Main, mother and brother-in-law. Little notice was taken of the threat. This morning about 10 o'clock Currie entered Main's office and fired two shots at him, one taking effect immediately over the right eye and the other about the middle of the forehead. Death must have been instantaneous. Currie then went across the street to the stabling attached to the Galt Hotel and shot himself dead. No shooting was heard by any one until Currie shot at himself. Money transactions are said to have led to the deplorable act.

Mr. Main, a man of fifty-three with a wife and four children, was until a few years ago a member of the livery stable firm of Main & Saringer. He sold out the business and became a broker and private banker, and in this connection had dealings with Currie, who owned a small farm in the Township of Puslinch.

Currie, who also leaves a wife and four children, had become rather disappointed and was forced to mortgage his farm, the result being that last Saturday it was sold, and he and his family had no home. There is little doubt that Currie, desperate because of the loss of his farm, which he attributed to Main, entered the latter's office, a little two-roomed one, a one-story frame building in Mill-street, and across from the Central Hotel, at 10.30 o'clock this morning, and shot him dead with a bullet from a 32-calibre revolver. The evidence tends to show that Currie immediately went into the driving shed of the Galt House, on Main-street, only 100 yards from Main's office, and there killed himself instantly by putting a bullet into his forehead.

The news quickly spread and the town became wildly agitated. Main's body was taken to his house at 1 o'clock, where it was received by his grief-stricken wife, a daughter of Frank Lowell of this town, while the remains of Currie were taken to a room in the Central Hotel.

At 4 o'clock, in the Town Hall, Coroner Brock opened an inquest on Main's body, Mr. James Scott being foreman of the jury. After viewing the remains the evidence of several witnesses was taken and the jury, as will be seen, found that Mr. Main's death was caused by a bullet, the only person against whom circumstantial evidence points being Currie, who, however, was not directly spoken of as the murderer.

The jury retired and in half-an-hour returned this verdict:

"That the deceased, Henry Main, came to his death by a bullet fired from a revolver in the hands of a party not positively known, but strong circumstantial evidence points to the deceased, John Currie, as the person who committed the deed."
JOHN SCOTT, Foreman.

GALT, Feb. 8.—It has been decided that the funeral of Mr. Main shall take place here on Saturday at 4 o'clock, by which time it is expected that a large number of relatives will arrive. Charles Lowell of the Queen's Hotel here is Mrs. Main's brother, while other relatives of the deceased in the province are W. H. Cotton of Guelph, the Clements of Brantford, S. A. Dunbar of the Queen Hotel, Toronto, and the Swans of Port Perry. The deceased has a brother in Grand Rapids, Mich. Main was born near Hamilton, where he early in well known.

To-night the body of Currie was removed from the Central Hotel, because of fear on the part of the women in the house, to Undertaker Barber's shop, where The World saw it, stretched on a plank. The body was that of a stout, strongly-built farmer, with intelligent face covered with a heavy black beard. Blood flowed from a large hole in the top of the head. Up to a late hour his wife or children had not reached town. They would not learn of the terrible tragedy till Constable Gilchrist returned to the township. They will likely be here for the inquest to-morrow.

There is no doubt that Currie killed Main because of a real or fancied injury by the sale of the farm. On Nov. 25, 1885, he gave a mortgage to Main. Parties of Glasgow, and at the time of the sale last Saturday the mortgage was not due but the interest was. In September last Currie assigned to the Assiting-Sheriff of Wellington to the benefit of creditors for liabilities being small and his assets almost nothing. The creditors met and, taking counsel with the Sheriff, decided to [illegible] J. H. Percival Galt solicitor.

Last Saturday at the auction sale of farm, being the south part of lot 1, 1st con., Puslinch, was sold by Strickland Bros., auctioneers, to a man named Hunter of Galt township for $2,150. It contains 97 71 acres, 15 being cleared. On it were a log house and barn. It is five miles from Galt and three from Hespeler.

Currie, it is said, threatened a fright somebody. Last night he was in several bar-rooms and had a few drinks. He swore there was he and he were going to shoot three men: Main, Herbert Bell, solicitor of this town, and J. H. Irvine, the [illegible]

Suicide of a Chicago Millionaire.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Aaron J. Shall, a millionaire and owner of the well known [illegible] Pullman, was found murdered this morning at his residence, 29 Wabash Boulevard. The murderer is supposed to have been a burglar who was attempting to rob the house.

An Aged Conveyancer Dead.

Chandler Bull, Ex-Mayor Ex-Alderman of Kingston died very suddenly yesterday afternoon of heart disease. He was one of the oldest and most highly respected members of the city and was highly esteemed by all. The funeral will take place from his late residence at 11 o'clock Friday.

The monthly meeting of the York Pioneers' Association was held in the Canadian Institute on Tuesday evening, when Mr. Percival Scadding, exhibited a volume written in 1792 by the Rev. Robert Robinson on "Enthusiasm from the Highlands," which was not only interesting on account of its contents, but from the fact that the volume was once the property of the noble Earl and contains his autograph. The annual meeting will be held in March.

TORONTO TOPICS.

At 2.15 yesterday afternoon Mr. Thomas Owens of Galt called the thirteenth annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to order. The gathering was held in the association's convention quarters in Wellington-street west. The attendance was one of the largest ever seen at an annual meeting.

The meeting was of much interest to those that attended, and in addition to a profitable afternoon in executive session, a banquet was held at the Queen's Hotel in the evening, which was in every way a success.

The Executive Committee of the Ogdensburg Route Association met yesterday morning in Agricultural Hall. Those members were present: President D. McRae, Guelph; Vice-President Wm. Smith, M.P., Columbus; James Bolth, Newmarket; Wm. Rennie, Toronto; Robert Graham, Clarenceville; D. Kirby, Guelph, and Henry Wade, the secretary. After examining a number of pedigrees, the opening at Union shops was discussed, and it was decided to hold it on March 14 at St. Lawrence Market. Messrs. Rennie, Bolth and Wade were appointed a committee to make the arrangements for the show. Three judges were appointed: Adam Bell, Athelstane, Quay Bell, Meux, jr., Sheriff, Quebec; Wm. Medcalf, Fergus, Ills., President of the American Clydesdale Association.

President H. H. Dewart of the Young Liberals' club headed a deputation that waited upon the Attorney-General yesterday afternoon to urge that "impersonation" at municipal elections be made an offence. It will be remembered that Singleton Denison discharged a man who was before [illegible] in January for this offence, because there was nothing in the statutes providing for a conviction. There is an English statute bearing on the subject, and the Attorney-General promised to look the matter up, and in the meantime invited the deputation to give him any assistance they could.

AFFAIRS IN IRELAND.

Mallinger Victor, 20th Sheffield's Awkward Fix—Ireland and the Unionists.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, speaking at Bristol last night, said he had no desire to rejoin the Ministry, and if he did so it would be by the wish of others. He still maintained that the Irish policy he advocated was absolutely antagonistic to Gladstone's schemes. He thought there was very little in the Government's program to that the head that united the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists. He urged reform of the church and of the House of Lords in the direction of the moderate views of all parties.

Mr. Blane, M.P., left Armagh suddenly today for London. It is rumored that a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Before the end of the week, probably before he has had time to make his apologies in the House of Commons, Mr. Balfour will have been placed in a very awkward fix by Shaw-Lefevre. Practically he will have to choose whether he will carry out another evictions campaign for Lord Clanricarde or put Shaw-Lefevre, ex-Minister and the Crown, into prison, and with him Messrs. Bryce and Brunkster, members of Parliament, and Sir J. Carmichael, late private secretary to Mr. Gladstone. Lord Clanricarde is bent on war to the knife. His agent goes about boasting that he will pour out money without stint to crush the tenants. He has applied for 300 ejectments decrees within the past few days. In the six months to the end of January only persons have been prosecuted under the Coercion Act, and of these 300 have been put in jail.

At the opening of the session extract in Tuam Cathedral to-day Archbishop Donnelly declared he had authority to deny the statement that the Pope opposes the legitimate aspirations of the Irish people. The high position of His Holiness imposed reserve upon him, but he had never turned against Ireland.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS

LORD STANLEY OF PRESTON TO BE GOVERNOR OF CANADA.

Parliamentary Assembly—Canadian Agricultural, Coal and Colonization Company—The Shipping Combination—A Revolution in the Iron Industry.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—In the speech of the Marquis of Hartington [illegible] the claims of the Newfoundland Railway for arrears of subsidy, the Parliamentary Committee of the Privy Council held yesterday that the grants of lands were not dependent in any way on the completion of the whole line, but on the completion of each five-mile section the company's right to 10,240 acres became perfect and one sixty-fourth part of the whole each subsidy became payable.

The Journal de St. Petersbourg says: As Prince Bismarck has emphasized the purely exclusively defensive character of the Austro-German alliance, and in terms which do honor to him, has expressed absolute confidence in the word of the Czar, whose pacific views have been distinctly declared, we may conclude that peace is fully assured. We prefer this peaceful guarantee to that of armaments, but we will not insist upon the point. Prince Bismarck having affirmed the right of each country to secure its own security with its own forces. We also abstain from making a bugbear between Russia and Germany's warlike exercises, from prejudice by common interests which constitute the best basis for good relations between states. We will congratulate ourselves if this remains the future basis for the relations between Germany and Russia.

The Queen's Speech was read at the Mansion House banquet in London last evening.

The speech, after congratulating the country upon its pacific foreign relations, announces the intention of the Government to introduce a bill declaring agrarian and choreographic [illegible] the Irish [illegible] a bill of local [illegible] dealing with Irish land [illegible] and an English Local Government bill.

The prospects of the Glasgow Exhibition this year, at which Canada will have a small exhibit, continue excellent. The Lord Provost says that the exhibition will occupy a larger space than any held in the United Kingdom since 1862. Canada is expected to take part in the dairy and cheese competitions. It will be a favorable opportunity, in view of the interest the exhibition arouses in Scotland generally.

The list of applications for shares in the Canadian Agricultural, Coal and Colonization Company closed to-day. Mr. Ashton, temporary secretary, says that the company is successfully floated. Sir John Lister Kaye hopes to be on the property by the end of March.

Reports that Lord Stanley of Preston, the Heir of Derby's brother, will succeed Lord Lansdowne as Governor-General of Canada are again in circulation, and this time apparently with authority. Another has well authenticated rumor is that Lord Dufferin is coming home next year to take an important post in a Coalition Ministry and that Lord Lansdowne will take his place in India. The impression in some quarters is that Lord Lansdowne himself would have entered the Ministry had it not been for his unfortunate differences with his tenants. The entrance of Lord Dufferin into the Cabinet would be construed as expressive of a desire on the part of the Government to retire from coercion, and of their intention to bring in a half-hearted measure of Home Rule.

THE FINE SUSPENDED.

A Female Newsboy Appears the Scott Act Before a London Magistrate.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Mary Bradshaw, a woman with a family of young children who is now serving a two months sentence for breach of the Scott Act, was brought before Police Magistrate Noble to-day and elected guilty to a similar offence. She was fined $50 and costs, but the court suspended sentence during her good behavior and signed a petition to the Minister of Justice for her discharge.

Warsaw.

Anniversary Recital.

On the evening of the 31st ult., the Presbyterian congregation of Warsaw and Demorestville celebrated the anniversary of their pastor's ordination and induction by a public tea meeting. The pastor's wife was attended by a committee of ladies, who served an tables which were tastefully laid out. The tea partakers of in the church factory, after which all adjourned to the church, where the intellectual nature received ample justice.

The pastor, Rev. R. Hyde, took the chair and on the platform were Rev. Messrs. Peers (Baptist), Carmichael (Episcopal), and Thompson of Hastings (Presbyterian). After prayer by Rev. Mr. Carmichael, the pastor gave a short report of the year's work, which was very encouraging, with numerous points for the coming year. Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, delivered a very telling address on "The Secret of Power in Life," the different points being Intuition, Continuity, Practicality, Consecration. Rev. Mr. Peer followed, taking as his theme "Music of the Heart." He said in every heart there was a harp, and each could be of no other hand struck, the harp lost the hand of God; where other hands struck that harp it produced discordant sounds, and thus the sounds of passion, discontent and unbelief were produced. But when the harp was struck by heavenly fingers, harmony was produced, the instrument acknowledging patience, gratitude and love. Music for the bed of pain, music to calm the sorrowing breast and music to comfort the bereaved. The Rev. T. Carmichael, M.A., of Northport, entertained the audience with a most interesting address on geology, mineralogy and kindred sciences of the Bible, which was well received. All the speeches were of a very high order, and therefore very instructive. During the evening the choir sang a number of anthems. After votes of thanks to the ladies, the speakers, the choir, and to the chairman, the whole audience joined right heartily in singing "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow," after which the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Peer, and thus separated one of the most successful gatherings ever held in Warsaw Presbyterian church.—Com.

Emigration.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES.—January, as one of our winter months, has carried itself out in full vigor. Only twice did it rain, on the 22nd and thirteenth, to the depth of 32-100 of an inch, being very light for February. Snow fell on 15 days to the depth of 11¼ inches, being also below the average, but for cold it exceeds our average. On 14 mornings the thermometer stood below zero, the coldest being on the morning of the 22nd, showing 28 degrees, and on 6 nights at sunset below zero; but from the 23rd to the 29th nights will be styled the cold week, the thermometer being below zero each morning and even at sundown. The last 4 days were accompanied by a glorious wind. Only on two days did the temperature rise above the freezing point, leaving the mean temperature of the month 11 6/31 degrees. Although there was considerable wind the great severe gale was on the 13th. We had no aurora lights during the month. Probably they have got frozen up, or more likely the eclipse may have landed them on the shores of Siberia. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—South, 5 days; south-west, 5 days; south-east, 2 days; west, 4 days; north, 3 days; north-east, 2 days, and north-west, 3 days.

Beaufort.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

There has been considerable snow-shovelling done on the roads since the recent storm, the chief drawback being the drifts in some places, travelling is difficult.

A number of the Hamilton Plains farmers have been over for their year's supply of oats. As a rule they produce their own hay and grow barley, but the unusually dry season, as well as the fact that plenty can be had for purchase in Otonabee and Peterborough.

The debate of the 2nd inst. was quite a success. The subject was "Which has a greater beneficial influence, the press or steam?" Discussion was interesting and decision was given in favor of the latter. Mr. Warner, of Port Hope, kindly favored the Society on the occasion with the use of a handsome organ and the proceedings were tempered with some choice selection of music.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Toronto, Feb. 8.

Things were pretty dull down round the Legislature yesterday, so that it was a fond afternoon, in which the dairy farming community and the members who are more around with them and the railway schemers in their inside pushing way of the leading roles. There was this difference between the two elements, the cheese men, not in their work inside the chamber, while the railway magnates had to remain outside pushing their way into the Government in the corridors, and doing talk over their business. As one humble member was heard to remark, "It would never do for the portions of the anatomy that are not now traversed by the iron horse."

The House sat for nearly an hour and indulged in ministerial "of a-fairs." The galleries were filled, and several gentlemen visited you to an "interview" on the floor of the chamber during the session. Among those were Dr. Geo. Laidlaw, M.P. for Centre Grey; John Charlton, M.P. for North Norfolk; the festive "Pat" Sutherland, who sits for South Oxford, and Mr. George Grant of Bloomfield. All of these gentlemen are good during their stay in the chamber.

Mayor Clarke was in his seat early, and before him was a great pile of letters, which it took over half an hour to open. They were all from subscribers of His Worship's Sentinel, and contained renewals and currency.

The scene in the reception room after the House adjourned was indeed an animated one, putting the reporters in mind of old days when the "railway deputations" was an institution as an amendment to the Municipal Act is up-to-date. If this is often this bringing to bear on the Government of a strong pressure to re-open and revive the railway policy—to go back to the old days of bonusing as ways that are built for the benefit of the promoters.

Around the Kitchen.

The Attorney-General, Hon. C. F. Fraser, Hon. A. M. Ross and Hon. A. S. Hardy repaired to the Speaker's room after the House adjourned, where they found the apartment crowded with members and others who were interested in different railroad schemes. Besides the members, Mr. Wm. Beatty of Parry Sound and Mr. Ed. Wragge of the Grand Trunk were prominent among those present.

Mr. Registrar of Prescott who represents probably the only county in the province that does not possess a foot of railway, was the first to address the members of the Government, Mr. Registrar thought that a revival of the Government's railway policy would be popular on both sides of the House; its abandonment had only been a matter of sentiment. Mr. Evanturel and his colleague, Mr. Robillard of Russell, wanted government aid to build a road that was to run from the boundary of the Province of Quebec across the counties of Prescott, Russell and Carleton into the Dominion Capital. The Prescott and Vandreuil Railway, extending from the village of Ste. Anne, on the St. Lawrence, to the border of Prescott County, had, Mr. Evanturel said, been honoured by Mr. Mercier's Government. With the building of the road from here to Ottawa, a new route between Montreal and the Capital would be opened up, passing through important sections of Ontario that were now without railway service of any kind.

Dr. Preston of Leeds and Mr. McAdam of South Glengarry put forth distinct claims for a railway which would be built by a new route between Ottawa, Arnprior and Renfrew, where it would connect with the Kingston and Pembroke Railroad. It was intended to apply for a charter for this road during the present session. Dr. Preston mentioned incidentally that steamer sinkers read had become a practical fact. The first train over the Brockville and Westport line would be run to-day.

The next project was introduced by Mr. Wm. Beatty and Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Morton. This is the line which was fully described the other day; the route that is to run from Gravenhurst to the Spanish River, via Parry Sound, and thence on to the "Soo." Mr. Beatty said that the northern country that had paid into the Provincial Treasury $1,144,000 in stumpage of timber dues and had not received back a single cent except for colonization roads. In lieu of cash all they would be satisfied with the timber of ten townships. Mr. Beatty was quite eloquent in his appeal. He said the route would shorten the distance between Toronto and the Soo by over 100 miles. The whole of Ontario, he said, was interested in its construction.

Mr. Commee of West Algoma wants aid to build the Ontario, Manitoba and Western Railroad from Port Arthur to the western boundary of Ontario at the Lake of the Woods, passing through Southern Algoma, a distance of over 300 miles. This route would run some seventy miles to the south of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Commee also wants aid for a branch that would divert from the Ontario and Manitoba at White Fish Lake and run north to the international boundary line and connect with the Duluth and Iron Range road, now built to within 30 miles of the boundary. He asks aid in the shape of timber grants, bonds or that the interest of the roads be guaranteed. Mr. Commee has child with the Government a large amount of data respecting his project.

It may be mentioned that the Dominion Government has promised to aid many of these schemes to the extent of $3,200 per mile.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Mr. McMillan, M.P. for Vaudreuil passed through the city to-day, en route for Toronto, with a deputation to urge on the Local Government the granting of a subvention to the Ottawa, Vaudreuil and Prescott Railway, which has been voted a subsidy by the Dominion Government. Mr. McMillan is hopeful that the Local Government may grant very little for this section of Ontario. Certain it may due its way to giving some assistance to this road, which would prove a great boon to the County of Vaudreuil as well as to the City of Ottawa.

A Wisconsin Girl Murdered on the Eve of Her Marriage.

LACROSSE, Wis., Feb. 6.—Anna Daniels, who was to have been married this week, was found by her lover last Thursday morning lying upon the floor, near the threshold of her room, dead. Beside the body were four tallow candles, a lamp burned to the socket, chloroform, and oil had been sprinkled over the carpet, besides the clothes of the dead girl.

Albert Kennett, a heedless youth, had been seen in her company for ten days or more. They were out riding together on Tuesday, Jan. 24. On Monday Kennett told the coroner jury that she need not clean Anna's room after Anna was going away to remain several weeks. Shifting the Labor.

[illegible] Trent Navigation Association will pay Mr. Carnegie for doing all the Work.

At the adjourned meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trent Valley Navigation Association in the council chamber, Peterborough, there were present:—

Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., chairman; Mr. John Carnegie, secretary; J. J. Bowyer, Mayor of Bobcaygeon; R. Sylvester, Reeve of Fenelon; J. B. Thompson, Mayor of Orillia; Thos. Walters, Mayor, and Col. Deacon, of Lindsay; M. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon; R. C. Smithfield, of Lakefield; Rev. W. Logan, Fenelon Falls; D. B. Murphy, Trenton; Geo. Hilliard, ex-M.P., Peterborough.

After the minutes of the previous meetings had been read and confirmed, Mr. Carnegie read all the [illegible] received by him from the Secretary of the Association. Then, on motion, Mr. Hilliard, seconded by Mr. Thompson, of Orillia, and Mr. Hilliard, Reeve of Ashburnham, were placed on the Committee.

The Chairman reported that the consolidation appealed to for aid on behalf of the T. V. C. project had responded satisfactorily.

Mr. Murphy reported that Trenton had already [illegible] and they knew the value of the transfer of Murray and Sidney would reach [illegible] which would [illegible] up the $200.

Col. Deacon and Mayor Walters, of Lindsay, reported that a grant of $1,200 from the county of Victoria, on conditions that the other municipalities granted their share. Although Northumberland and Durham had refused a grant, Mr. Walters said he had no doubt the money could be got easily, as the Warden could [illegible] Col. Deacon and Mr. Walters [illegible] Mr. Murphy thought that just at present the counties of Northumberland and Hastings could not be relied upon or taken into account, as their county councils could do nothing till June, but if their action (or rather lack of action) would interfere with the collection of grants from other municipalities Mr. Deacon was a rather serious matter.

DETAILING THE WORK.

Mr. Boyd considered the best plan now open to the Committee was the appointment of two or three members living in one town, who should come together every few days or every week with what, to get the evidence in proper shape and report to the executive committee. He proposed the names of Mr. John Burnham, J. M. Irwin and D. W. Dumble for this purpose, with Mr. Carnegie secretary and Mr. Stevenson treasurer. Mr. Stock[illegible] seconded the motion.

Col. Deacon didn't believe in making this a Peterborough scheme entirely, but favored the appointment of a small sub-committee, comprising members from different districts.

Mr. Boyd then proposed to amend the motion by substituting a representative from Victoria, instead of one of the Peterborough gentlemen.

Mr. Murphy, in presenting an amendment providing for the appointment of three gentlemen representing the east, central and western districts. [illegible] carried it would prevent [illegible] dropping in and the work would be better done than by any other way. He believed two that more than one expert engineer would have to be employed. He enquired of the Secretary what sort of evidence would be required.

Mr. Carnegie explained that Judge Weller's statement to him was, that evidence of any and all kinds was to be accepted.

Col. Deacon presented the following motion, and in supporting it said it was to his mind the best means of placing evidence before the Commission, which he said he firmly believed had been appointed by the government to get rid of the whole scheme. Mayor Walters seconded the motion:—

Moved by Col. Deacon, seconded by Mr. Walters, that a sub-committee consisting of the following gentlemen be appointed to procure evidence and complete statistics for submission to the consideration of the Royal Commission, recently appointed by the Dominion [illegible] to the advisability of continuing [illegible] the water route known as the Trent Valley Canal, said committee to have power to visit the different sections of the country interested from time to time and co-operate with such local committees as may be appointed in procuring the necessary information:—Rev. W. Logan, for county Victoria; J. Burnham, for Peterborough; J. J. Brown, for Simcoe; and one to be appointed from the points on the route east of Peterborough when it shall have been reported that the counties of Hastings and Northumberland, or portions of those municipalities, have contributed the sums required by circular issued from this Association; and that the Chairman and Secretary be ex-officio members of the committee; and that the Chairman, Secretary and any [illegible] shall be a quorum; said committee to report when necessary to the general committee.

MR. MURPHY OBJECTS.

This motion evoked considerable discussion, Mr. Murphy claiming that the motion practically excluded the east. He said the feeling in Toronto was strongly in behalf of the canal. She had done her duty, and they would like to work with the committee, but if she was left out like this, he said, they would paddle their own canoe. He didn't want to see Trenton made suffer for the shortcomings of Hastings and Northumberland. Reply by Mr. Thompson presented the following motion:—Moved by J. B. Thompson, seconded by Mr. Switzer, in amendment to the amendment, that the Secretary, Mr. Carnegie, be instructed to collect all evidence necessary to submit to the Trent Valley Canal Commission, and that Col. Deacon, of Lindsay, and James Stevenson, M.P., be an advisory committee with power to expend money; to report to this committee.

On this the motion of Mr. Boyd was withdrawn in favor of Mr. Thompson's. Mr. Murphy put in another amendment that a member from the east be placed on the committee, but as he secured no seconder it was not put to the meeting. Mr. Thompson's [illegible] was carried.

On motion of Mr. [illegible] seconded by Mr. Switzer, Mr. [illegible] was appointed treasurer for the executive committee fund to be contributed by the municipalities.

The question of Mr. Carnegie's salary next [illegible] was moved by Col. Deacon and carried that he be paid $5 per day.

The next meeting of the Committee will be held in Lindsay at the call of the Chairman.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tories [illegible] business men are pursuing toward [illegible] to believe that the General Commanding can [illegible] for [illegible]; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how [illegible] to it, the Public, hard-like, will take it all in [illegible] believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is [illegible] to words. However, it is quite true that the Public don't [illegible] a bottom [illegible] a man [illegible] and his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best values, or in other words they want to find the Stores giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents. DOLLAR.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and [illegible] the bargain, just such Goods as you require at this season of the year, and in fact [illegible] to buy you will gladly pay twice DOLLAR FOR cents 33 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 33 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost [illegible] compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest mass living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Cloth, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular prices, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the cash.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be an cheap as dirt at $6.00 Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no wind, daddy Goods, SHEPPARD is out in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00. SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.00, SHEPPARD'S price 45c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

A PROSPEROUS FINANCIAL INSTITUTION.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the report of the fourth annual meeting of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, a local financial institution of whose standing and progress Peterborough has just reason to feel proud. In these days of monetary disturbance and financial collapse the report furnishes decidedly pleasant and reassuring reading. Since the inception of this Company it has been our pleasure to remark upon each annual meeting as another record of an annual stride of progressive prosperity, and the last annual meeting maintains the pleasant monotony. The shareholders have just cause to congratulate themselves on enjoying the benefits of another year of steady and solid progress. Reference to the report of the Directors shows that there were declared two dividends, (at the rate of six per cent. per annum) after payment of all expenses of management, and transfering $10,000 to the reserve fund, which now amounts to the handsome figures—for so young a company—of $70,000. The policy of the Directors in keeping the reserve so strong is a guarantee of the care which they exercise in the interests of the shareholders. Thus future losses, which are incidents in the history of every financial institution can be meet without affecting the earnings of the Company, available for dividend purposes. The care with which the negotiations for loans are conducted, and the excellent nature of this class of investment is shown by the fact that at the date of the annual report less than $3,000 of overdue interest remained unpaid upon investments of over a million and a quarter of dollars. The public have every reason to feel confidence in the management of the company, and local parties having funds to invest will have an additional feeling of security in dealing with a corporation of undoubted financial soundness, whose management is in the hands of gentlemen whose private resources are many times in excess of any possible amount of deposits. The directors are men of known financial ability and success, and the interests of investors are perfectly safe in their hands. The company is to be congratulated upon the gratifying progress it is making, the leading position it is assuming amongst Canadian financial institutions, and the increasing evidence of public confidence it is attracting.

The same day the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company held its annual meeting and the success of the management of the new directorate is shown in the very satisfactory progress which has been made in the collection of interest arrears, in the general improvement of the position of the company, and the establishment of its affairs on a solid basis. The reserve fund has enjoyed an addition of $8,000, a half yearly dividend of almost equal amount has been declared, and the general result of the seven months' operations, covered by the report, indicate a marked improvement in the position of this company.

Crowds Coming.

Interest in the coming carnival continues to increase. Costumes are being prepared on a grander scale than ever before in Peterborough. A feature of the throng will be seven Christy Minstrels in full regimentals. Outside towns and villages will send their quotas of skaters to the carnival. Big loads are coming up from Keene and Lakefield, and an effort will be made to run a special train from Port Hope to accommodate intending visitors. Citizens should patronize this carnival liberally.

—Mr. J. B. Pearen will erect a handsome new residence in Norwood next summer.

TRACKED BY DETECTIVES.

LIQUIDATOR CAMPBELL'S PRESENT EXPERIENCE IN MONTREAL.

Three Banks Have an Old Stand—The Examination Concluded—Some More Light on Central Bank Transactions—Ready for Hearing the Arguments.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.

At 11.30 yesterday morning Mr. Campbell was once more on the stand in the Master's Court. On his behalf Mr. Maclennan, Q.C., and Mr. Bain, Q.C., appeared. Mr. Foster, Q.C., represented Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, who were not present.

Mr. Maclennan said there were a number of points on which he wished to examine Mr. Campbell in reference to his cross-examination by Mr. Foster. The first was the attacks which had been made upon him as to his security.

On this point witness stated: I got a bond from the London Guarantee Company, which was filed in court and allowed. This bond was revoked.

The Master: I know of nothing that would warrant the company withdrawing their bond, and I believe the bond still remained intact after the sending of the notification to Mr. Campbell and myself.

Witness: As the bond had been revoked, I took steps to get another bond in Montreal, from the North American Guarantee Company. I could have that bond now if I wished. I have also a bond from parties in Toronto—Mr. Robert Jenkins and Mr. Robert Jaffray. This last bond was executed on Feb. 1.

Mr. Maclennan: How came there any objection to the first bond?

Witness: The notice that it would be revoked came to me without any warning. I received no complaint or communication. The Toronto agent said he had received a communication from my adversaries stating that I was likely to be held responsible for misappropriation and misconduct.

Somebody had been suggesting to the company that they were in danger of losing through you. Do you know who your very kind friend was? [Laughter.]—I heard it was a communication from Messrs. Foster, Clarke & Bowes. I heard this from Mr. Bain.

Witness went on to explain that while interim liquidator he did not contemplate prosecuting anybody. He thought there was nothing to be gained by such a step. He was the first to suggest the appointment of a solicitor, as there were some very pressing matters to attend to. On Mr. Foster being appointed, the papers and all he wanted were immediately given him.

The "over-issue of currency" was the next topic of examination. In reply to questions by Mr. Maclennan, witness said that as far as he could make out the over-issue was about $46,000. He mentioned the steps to redeem this and said the public had nothing to do with it so long as it was redeemed. It had preference and priority over the other creditors of the bank.

The explanation of the "collaterals" held by other banks occupied witness a long time, but nothing materially different from his former evidence was elicited. The securities were realized by the liquidators and particulars duly entered. The petitioning liquidators could have learned all they wished without coming to that court. The same applied to the renewals of paper falling due. This was maturing every day, and occupied much of witness' time in its renewal. In these transactions he acted in good faith and exercised his judgment for the good of the bank. Messrs. Howland and Gooderham never inquired what was being done in this respect.

Mr. Campbell then gave explanations of other accounts, amongst which were those of Mr. Maclean Howard and Mr. Mitchell Macdonald. The largest amount the latter ever owed the bank at one time did not exceed $140,000. The $750,000 which witness had in his cross-examination mentioned was the total amount of several months' transactions by Mr. Macdonald.

There were no real discrepancies between the cash and the accounts, and the redeeming of the circulation had the sanction of the court, and had gone on since. No one complained, but on the contrary many people commended the action as relieving the street.

He had no doubt that the burning of the notes was the best thing to do. That which was burned was old circulation. The usual precautions were taken. Both witness and the directors counted the bills. Mr. Tress and Mr. Dwight, two of the directors, helped witness to look them in the furnace.

Witness was then questioned as to his daily transactions at the bank and the volume of them. He replied that the business was very much larger than if it had been a going concern. "I was there from morning till night, and I could not possibly have prepared the statements Mr. Howland and Mr. Gooderham asked for. They had the same power over the staff as I had and equal access to the information."

Mr. Campbell added, as proof of his bona fides as to any prosecutions, that when he returned from Montreal he showed Mr. Foster the report of the proceedings against the directors of a Glasgow bank, containing the indictments, evidence, etc. Mr. Foster was much interested and has possession of the book now.

The counting of the cash was the next topic. Witness said a large amount had been counted by the teller, but there was a large amount not yet counted. He urged on the liquidators that the cash be counted. "Mr. Gooderham started but got tired and wanted some of the clerks to do it for him. I objected and said that didn't meet my ideas of counting the cash. It was then put back into the treasury and has not been counted since. It is a big job and would take two days."

The last subject Mr. Maclennan examined his client on was Cashier Allen's flight. He said: "I had nothing to do with Allen's going away. He was not in the employment of the bank after Jan. 13. He came down to the bank for a day or two and seemed to be giving information to the clerks."

At this stage the examination was adjourned for an hour. On resuming, Mr. Foster said he wished to ask a few questions of Mr. Campbell. These were but seventeen in number and very brief.

This concluded the day's proceedings. The arguments on the petition are fixed for Monday morning before the Chancellor.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH READ IN THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

Tracheotomy Performed on the Crown Prince—A Speech of Prince White m of Francis—The $120 ary Loan Bill Passed—The Austro-German Treaty of Commerce.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The session of the British Imperial Parliament was opened to-day with the usual ceremonies. The Queen's Speech was read by Royal commission. It is as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen:

I continue to receive from all the powers cordial assurances of friendly sentiments, as well as of an earnest desire to maintain the peace of the world.

My officers, in conjunction with those of the Emperor of Russia, have completed the demarcation of the Afghanistan boundary in conformity with the terms of the convention of 1887. I trust the work thus concluded may tend to remove the possibility of a misunderstanding between the two powers regarding their Asian possessions.

Animated by a desire to prevent an effusion of blood I despatched a mission to the King of Abyssinia, with the hope of dissuading him from engaging in war with Italy. I deeply regret that my efforts were not successful.

The deliberations of the conference at Washington to adjust questions which have arisen between Canada and America are still progressing.

The negotiations commenced in 1885 in respect to the regulation of the Suez Canal have been brought to a conclusion so far as the points of difference between myself and the French Republic are concerned. I have also entered into an agreement with France for the protection of life and property in the New Hebrides by a joint naval commission.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates for services for 1888 which will be laid before you have been framed with a due regard for economy. You will be asked to provide for the improvement of the defence of the ports and coaling stations rendered urgently necessary by the advance of military science, and also to sanction an arrangement providing for a special squadron to protect Australasian commerce, the cost of which will be partially borne by the colonies.

The conference of delegates from the powers interested in the sugar industry, summoned to meet in London in the autumn to consider the possibility of ending the injurious system of bounties, has made considerable progress toward the conclusion of a satisfactory arrangement.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The measures which at great labor you passed last session for the benefit of Ireland have been carefully carried into effect during the period since elapsed. The result of this legislation so far as tested by this short experience is satisfactory. Agrarian crime has diminished, and the powers of coercive conspiracies have sensibly abated. Measures tending to develop the resources of Ireland and to facilitate an increase in the number of proprietors of the soil will be laid before you. Your attention will be invited to the subject of local government in England. Measures will be submitted for dealing with it in combination with proposals for adjusting the relations between local and Imperial finance, and for mitigating the burdens imposed upon ratepayers.

The prospects of commerce are more hopeful than any which I have been able to point to in many years. I deeply regret that there has been no corresponding improvement observable in the condition of agriculture. I commend the interests of that great industry to your attentive care, hoping that means may be discovered to enable it to meet more effectively the difficulties under which it labors.

You will be invited to consider legislative proposals for cheapening the transfer of land; for modifying the procedure by which the tithe rent charge is collected; for promoting technical education; for preventing undue preferences in rates charged by railway companies on foreign and domestic produce; for remedying abuses in the formation of companies under the Limited Liability Act; for amending the law of liability of employers in case of accidents; for improving the position of Scottish universities; for regulating the borough police of Scotland; for diminishing the cost of private bill legislation.

In these and all other efforts you may make to promote the well being of my people, I pray you may be guided by the hand of Almighty God.

Mr. Parnell gave notice that he would introduce a bill to amend the Irish Land Law Amendment Act.

Mr. Gladstone, on entering the House of Commons, was loudly cheered. Lord Hartington at once left his seat and went and shook hands with him, when they sat down and entered into an animated conversation which lasted for some time.

Mr. Ritchie gave notice of the introduction of a Local Government bill.

Sir Charles Russell (Liberal) gave notice that he would move for an inquiry regarding the Trafalgar-square meetings and the limits of interference by the Government with public meetings generally.

Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary, in reply to a question, said that the convict Harkins had gained admission to the Speaker's gallery in August last under the name of McVinn. He was accompanied by Melville, alias Mooney. Both were admitted on an order obtained from an Irish member of Parliament. Melville not only entered the gallery, but also spent some time on the river terrace and in the House in company with his introducers. This case, he said, proved the necessity of an increase in the safeguards attending admission to the House of Commons. [Hear, hear.]

Mr. Wharton (Conservative) moved the address in reply to the Queen's speech. The motion was seconded by Col. Duncan.

Mr. Gladstone said that he rose to speak at this early stage of the debate, hoping that he might contribute to expedite the business before the House. He could congratulate the Government on some aspects of their foreign policy. The question of the Afghan boundary, so long a source of danger to two great empires, was settled—a great thing in itself—and he trusted that it would mollify the jealousies regarding the territorial intentions of Russia. So far as he was aware no other cause for misunderstanding remained between the two nations. [Hear, hear.]

Referring to Ireland Mr. Gladstone said: "While the Opposition are anxious to expedite the business, the Government's policy in Ireland could not be lightly passed over. [Cheers.] The address declares that crimes of an agrarian character have diminished and that conspiracy has sensibly decreased through the careful execution of the Crimes Act. He was disposed to substitute for "careful" some very different word. [Cheers.] The whole subject of the administration of coercion must, through an amendment, be debated. He would not anticipate the debate, but could not pass over the assertion that the Irish people under coercion had become more reconciled to law. [Cheers.]

The royal speech promised local legislation for England. Why did the Government not redeem its promises of an extension of self-government to Ireland? The power of action of Dublin Castle had been increased and intensified, and the aspirations of the Irish for self-government had been suppressed or unheeded. [Cheers.]

Mr. Wm. Henry Smith, the Government leader, thanked Mr. Gladstone for his remarks. Concerning the Government's foreign policy he promised to lay before the House papers on various foreign negotiations. He was not prepared as yet to state the course the Government would adopt with reference to Sir Charles Russell's motion.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—In the House of Lords Lord Crawford moved the address in reply to the Queen's speech. The motion was seconded by Lord Armstrong.

Lord Salisbury in the course of debate referred to the Crown Prince of Germany. He said it was sad to learn that the heir of a great Empire, closely united with us in bonds of sympathy, stood in a situation of peril, everywhere exciting deep solicitude.

Regarding the great issues of peace or war now pending in Europe, Lord Salisbury said he would not pretend to give further information than was conveyed in the recent masterly speech of Prince Bismarck. The Berlin Treaty was highly acceptable, at the time it was concluded, to the English Government and remained so still. England had long had a policy in the east from which the Government did not intend to depart and which they would consistently uphold. They have interested themselves for four generations in the fate of Southeastern Europe and would not show themselves now more indifferent to these interests than the generations before them. [Cheers.] He attached great value to the assurances that peace would be maintained. [Hear, hear.]

In a brief reference to Ireland he charged Mr. Gladstone with misrepresenting the Conservative party in saying that they admitted that some kind of home rule must eventually be adopted. This was not true, and Mr. Gladstone would be the last man in the world to hear it if it had been true.

The official announcement of Lord Stanley of Preston's appointment came earlier than was expected, otherwise it caused no surprise, as the Tories have for some time been credited with the desire to shelve his Lordship to make room for new blood in the Cabinet. Lord Dufferin's resignation was unlooked for. There is much speculation as to the part he will play on his return home. Many believe that some leading diplomatic position will be offered him, but most Tories share the hope expressed by The St. James' Gazette that he will be induced to join the Cabinet as Foreign Minister, if he is not willing to succeed Lord Londonderry at Dublin Castle. Lord Lansdowne's work in Canada is generally recognized. It is admitted that, while he has done nothing brilliant, he has discharged the routine duties of his office with shrewdness and tact. Regarding Lord Stanley of Preston's nomination to Ottawa, The Pall Mall Gazette accurately describes the new Governor as an amiable nonentity. "He was promoted to the Cabinet by Lord Beaconsfield ten years ago to atone for Earl Derby's resignation. Since then he has won no distinction whatever. He is a prosy speaker, without an atom of originality or a spark of genius, but is affable and sensible, and will make a fairly good administrator." The St. James' Gazette admits that a Governor-General discharges few duties for which special talent or special administrative abilities are required, hence Lord Stanley of Preston may make a satisfactory figurehead.

Several sacks containing dynamite have been discovered hidden in a field near Pressburg, in Hungary.

Many arrests have been made in Southern Russia owing to the discovery of an extensive agrarian movement.

The members of the last Liberal Cabinet met at Mr. Gladstone's London residence last evening to consider the political situation.

The Parnellite members of the House of Commons held a meeting this morning and adjourned until after the reading of the Queen's Speech.

The Military Loan Bill was passed by the Reichstag to-day.

THE CENTRAL CANADA.

Favorable Reports of the Year's Progress.

Annual Meeting of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company—Election of Directors and Officers—Solid Financial Progress.

The fourth annual meeting of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company was held at the offices, George street, Peterborough, Thursday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock.

There were present:—Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President; D. M. Sim, Secretary; D. W Dumble, Dr. Caldwell, Richard Hall, W. Clanton, Peterborough; F. C. Taylor and J. R. Dundas, Lindsay; and E. Jeffray, Toronto.

After the meeting had been called to order the President read the following report:—

Fourth annual report of the directors of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, of Ontario. Submitted to the annual general meeting of Shareholders, held at Peterborough, on February 9th, 1888:—

The directors, in submitting their fourth annual statement, with the balance sheet, as at 31st December, 1887, and Auditors' certificate attached, have pleasure in reporting another year of steady progress, such as they trust will be satisfactory to the shareholders.

The interest earnings for the year amounted to $81,778.12; this enabled the directors after providing for the interest on deposits and debentures, and the payment of all expenses of management, to declare two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, amounting to $30,000, to transfer $10,000 to the Reserve Fund, which now amounts to $70,000, and carry forward to the credit of Profit and Loss account $3,151.97.

During the year two properties came into the Company's possession by foreclosure, they have both been disposed of at a loss of only $392.06, and that amount has been deducted from the profits of the year.

Notwithstanding the unsatisfactory experience of the agricultural community during the last season, and the general stringency in the money market, the interest on loans continues to be paid with such promptitude, that of the amount due and overdue on the 31 of December, only $2,974.34 remains unpaid at this date upon investments of over a million and a quarter of dollars.

There continues to be a steady demand for loans upon first-class security and at a somewhat higher rate of interest than prevailed at the beginning of the year.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the directors.

GEO. A. COX,
President.

We hereby certify that we have carefully audited the books and accounts of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, of Ontario, for the year ending 31st December, 1887. The postings and balances of the Company's ledgers have been examined; and we find the whole correct, and in accordance with the above statements. We have also inspected the mortgages and other securities, and find the aggregate thereof agrees with the amount under the head of "Securities."

J. H. ROPER,
CHAS. D. MACDONALD, } Auditors.

Peterborough, February 6th, 1888.

The PRESIDENT, in moving the adoption of the report, said: The report and statements that are in the hands of the shareholders explain the operations of the Company during the past year. There is nothing in these statements that calls for any special remark but it is gratifying to know that we have had another year of steady progress, that the shareholders have had their usual cash dividend of 6%, and an addition to the Reserve Fund equal to a further 7% on the paid up capital, that our loans have proved to be of a highly satisfactory character as evidenced by the prompt payment of Interest during a period of severe depression, and that we have continued to enjoy the confidence of our depositors and debenture-holders, notwithstanding the unusual disturbance in financial circles caused by the difficulties and failures of other monied institutions during the year. It is, we think, cause for congratulation that in the fourth annual statement we are able to report a fully paid up cash capital of half a million dollars, a reserve fund equal to fourteen per cent of the capital, and investments of over a million and a quarter of dollars. These figures, while small as compared with some of the older institutions, will, I am satisfied, compare very favorably with the fourth annual report of the largest and most successful company in the country.

Mr. J. R. DUNDAS seconded the motion for the adoption of the report, which was carried.

AUDITORS.

Messrs. J. H. Roper and C. D. Macdonald were re-appointed auditors for the year.

DIRECTORS.

The following directors were re-elected:—Geo. A. Cox, J. R. Dundas, J. M. Ferrie, Wm. Clanton, R. Hall, Jas. Stevenson, D. W. Dumble, Wm. Gooderham, Robert Jaffray, F. C. Taylor, E. S. Vindin.

OFFICERS.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected:—

1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—J. R. Dundas.
2ND " " —Richard Hall.
INVESTMENT COMMITTEE.—The President and Vice-Presidents, and Messrs. Dumble and Clanton.

Home Knowledge Association.

The object of this Association, whose representative has been in Peterborough for some time, is the fostering of a taste for the best class of books and thus promoting the cause of popular education. The means used by the association to accomplish this end is the furnishing of books to members at prices a trifle above the cost of manufacture. Every member of the Association becomes at once, by virtue of his membership, a wholesale dealer in books, entitled to wholesale prices, trade discounts, and all the other privileges of that class. Whether he buys one book or fifty, it is all the same; he deals directly with the manufacturer or publisher, and avoids all the onerous expenses and profits of intermediate dealers. The Association delivers to each member a catalogue of standard and miscellaneous books, giving the net wholesale prices at which these books may be purchased by members. It also furnishes to those interested in that class of publications a catalogue of all the school and text books published, with the regular net wholesale prices. A catalogue of sheet and book music, at liberal discounts, is also provided. Special rates are secured for members of all the leading magazines and periodicals, and the Association has also established a book exchange, which offers excellent advantages for obtaining or exchanging rare or expensive works, not usually obtainable through the book stores. The great advantage of being a member of such an Association is apparent, and it is certainly also an advantage to be able to communicate with a responsible establishment, to which one can send for anything in the book or music line, with the assurance that the price will be the lowest possible. Members also have the privilege of making inquiry regarding any author or his works, and such inquiries will always receive careful and prompt attention. There is no other expense except the original cost of membership—no dues or liabilities of any kind. The movement cannot be too highly commended. 3eod

An Optician's Visit.

Mr. N. Stanley, of London, England, and Toronto, a practical optician, will visit Peterborough for one day only, Monday, Feb. 13th. He will be present at Ormond & Walsh's Drug Store, prepared to adjust the best of lenses to different requirements of impaired vision. Mr. Stanley intends sending a practical optician to Ormond & Walsh's, Peterborough, at regular intervals who will be competent to measure and accommodate every defect of the eyesight that is prevalent. He will in every instance use the firm's celebrated spectacles and eyeglasses, so well known to-day throughout the civilized world for the delightful ease and comfort they confer on the wearer. There is no glimmering, wavering, dizziness, or other distressing sensations so common in the many inferior grades at present in the market but they comfort, strengthen and preserve the sight. No charge made for examination. 1w3d is to be learnt from the sight of a bald head. Falling out in premature grayness of the hair can be stopped if taken in time. Do not let it run on without making an effort to save it. Get a bottle of Dr. Dorenwend's German "Hair Magic." It stimulates the growth, gives fresh vitality and keeps the hair its natural color, besides being a superb dressing. All druggists sell it. dw

As we neared a neighboring ranch, however, our glance forsook the surrounding country to wander after two herders, a man and a woman, driving a herd of cattle across the flat. As one little bull determined to go back to the corral, the cowboy went on with the herd, while the lady gave chase. Round and round the corral they raced, until, wheeling suddenly, she met her victim face to face, when a few sharp cuts from her rawhide sent him scampering after his brethren. These cowgirls when encountered by chance on lonely trails, may be observed riding with a foot in each stirrup, a la clothes-pin.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—A notice of motion having for its object the appointment of a select committee to enquire into the extent and nature of the timber and mineral resources of Ontario, was placed on the order paper.

The Private Bills Committee met for the first time, and took up the bill relating to the debt of the town of Almonte, which was allowed to stand over until the promoters of the bill confer with the member who has charge of it, with the object of reducing the time of the debentures from thirty to forty years.

The Brussels and Wingham bills were passed.

The bill respecting the Trinity Medical School, Toronto, was reported to the House.

Mr. Evanturel introduced to the Premier a strong deputation from the east who are interested in having this road built, and who pressed upon Mr. Mowat the strong claim of Prescott for government aid in giving it a railroad. The principal members of the deputation were Sheriff Hagar (Sheriff of Prescott, ex-M.P.P.), Hugh McMillan (M.P. of Vaudreuil), C. B. Mongenais, W. C. Edwards, John McLennis and Bernard Kelly. Sheriff Hagar was the spokesman. He pointed out the importance of Prescott as a part of the province. The county did not possess a foot of railway. If the Ontario Government would aid them to the extent of some $9000 per mile, with the grant already given by the Federal Government and the Government of Quebec their road was an assured success. Otherwise they could not hope to seek connection with Montreal, the Capital and the Ottawa River.

Mr. Evanturel was particular in pointing out that the case of Prescott was an exceptional one; if the Government did not see its way clear to introduce a railway policy, it should certainly help the people of Prescott out.

Mr. Creighton asked whether the $240,000 Dominion bonds belonging to the province were disposed of pursuant to the advertisement calling for tenders, and if so, at what rate, and if not sold, the highest bid offered for them.

The Treasurer replied: $200,000 of the Dominion bonds were sold to the highest tender. They were sold at 106¼, according to the American or Canadian system of computation, or at 107 7-10 on the English system, the difference being that the interest is calculated in one case and in the other case it is not.

Mr. Harcourt moved for an order of the House for a return showing the amounts paid up to this date for land expropriated for Niagara Falls Park purposes, to whom paid and dates of payment. Also, a detailed statement of all moneys expended by the Government (other than for the purchase of land) through the Park Commissioners or otherwise, during the year 1887, and for what services and to whom paid. Also, all moneys received by the commissioners on account of the sale of buildings, or on any other account during the year 1887; also, showing names of all parties appointed to any office in connection with the park up to this date, and also, showing the nature of their employment, their salaries and the dates of their appointment.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. Stratton, M.P.P., West Peterboro, Mr. Barron, M.P., North Victoria, and Mr. W. Gainer, Warden of Haliburton, waited on the Provincial Treasurer yesterday forenoon to lay before him the deplorable state of things at Kinmount. The diphtheria epidemic, which was supposed to have disappeared, has broken out afresh, and a large number of children have succumbed to its ravages. In one school section eighteen have died, one family alone having six taken away. Hon. Mr. Ross said he would refer the matter to Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, with instructions to afford speedy relief.

Hon. A. S. Hardy presented a report of the state of affairs of the Toronto General Trusts Company for 1887.

Mr. Meredith asked when the Revised Statutes would be distributed. He did not mean the Revised Statutes, but the honorable gentleman's revised Statutes.

The Attorney-General—Have you not got a copy?

Mr. Meredith—I have; but when are they to be ready for general distribution?

The Attorney-General did not propose to have them generally distributed.

Mr. Meredith asked when the Public Accounts Committee was to be called together.

Hon. A. M. Ross replied that it could be called at any time. But it was not customary to summon the committee till the Public Accounts were brought down. He would be able to bring them down next Monday.

These bills were sent up for a first reading:

Mr. Leys: An act respecting hire receipts.

Mr. Leys: An act to provide for the better protection of insectivorous and other birds.

Mr. Waters: An act to amend the Municipal Act.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

The Opium Question—Considerable Local Excitement—Lord Lansdowne on His Appointment to India.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—With reference to the $25,000 worth of opium which was smuggled into the United States by parties operating at Brockville the Commissioner of Customs says the Canadian revenue has not suffered any loss by the fraud. Duty at the rate of $2 per pound was collected at a port on the Pacific. The duty on this article entering the United States is placed at $6 per pound, so that a very large sum is saved to the importers by the smuggling process which has just been brought to light. During the past year only $3 worth of opium for smoking purposes was imported into Canada, but of the drug there was entered for consumption 107,515 pounds, which was valued at $237,236. While the Canadian authorities do not like the idea of Canadian ports being made a blind for the carrying on of illegitimate trade, in this case they are powerless to prevent it.

An order-in-council was passed some time ago authorizing the placing in the estimates to be submitted to Parliament a sum sufficient to pay F. B. McNamee & Co. the $15,000 and interest recommended by a committee of the House last year, to be given them in settlement of their claim in connection with the Esquimalt graving dock.

His Excellency the Governor-General was to-day the recipient of many congratulations on his appointment to the Viceroyship of India, a number of them being in the shape of cablegrams and telegrams.

The publication of the income assessment for the City of Ottawa has disclosed the fact that our aldermen are not blasted plutocrats, if the returns are correct, as only three of them have incomes amounting to $5000, one $2500, one $1800, one $1500, two $1200, two $900, one $600, two $460, one $300, one $200, and Aldermen Henri and O'Leary return no income at all. Mayor Stewart is assessed at $3000.

THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he cannot go into society and he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results that have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best, if not the only real cure for hay fever, rose cold and catarrh. eodw6

ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald.
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will,
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called

There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.

But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.

Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your own locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORENWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge street, Toronto. For sale by J. D. What a Little Coal Might Do.

Last night during the entertainment in the opera house, a coal from one of the stoves got down a crack in the floor, smouldered a while, spread around and began to smoke vigorously. Half a pail of water was used in extinguishing the glowing coals. Had it occurred an hour later there would without doubt have been a terrible conflagration to record to-day.

Admirable Ashburnham.

The village of Ashburnham, and especially St. Luke's, is to be congratulated upon the splendid showing made in the competition for Sunday school prizes in connection with the Diocesan examinations. The complete results of these examinations, announced in Toronto on Thursday, show that, out of 35 contestants, Ashburnham has nine successful ones, including one prize-winner and eight in the "honour list"—a larger number than any parish in the diocese, excepting Toronto. Miss Hettie Bennett took the Rowsell & Hutchinson prize, on the Scripture paper, and the following took prominent places in the honour list :—Mrs. Annie Jackson, Miss Pollie Deane, Miss Clara V. Shuter, Mr. Fred G. Saunders, Miss Alice Ham, Miss Katie Calcutt, Miss Elizabeth Price, Nellie Macdonald and Miss Juliet Orde. A great deal of this result is due to the painstaking interest taken by the Rector in Sunday School matters.

Large Scrotal Hernia.

The change of late years in the treatment of Rupture is really surprising. Only a few years ago large Scrotal Hernia or Rupture could not be held by Trusses—now Mr. Chas. Clathe, the celebrated Truss inventor, offers in every case success or no charge. He goes even further than this: he offers a 200 mile return ticket on any railroad to any one whose Rupture he cannot hold. Mr. Clathe is a responsible man and above the reproach of taking advantage of people for the sake of the price of a Truss. This can be substantiated by the testimony of our most worthy Physicians throughout the land, to whose patients his visits have proved such a comfort. Mr. Clathe will be at the Oriental Hotel, Feb. 2 and 9. 2w

George Belford at the Opera House.

Those who attended Mr. Geo. Belford's elocutionary entertainment in the opera house last night were delighted with the talented young English reciter's performances. He has a voice of wide compass and capable of great modulation, seeming to depend more upon vocal enunciation than dramatic gesture for effect. His repertoire comprised selections from popular writers, alternating the pathetic and humorous in pleasant contrast. "The midnight Charge at Kassassain" was delivered in excellent style, but probably the two closing numbers, "The Fall of Pemberton Mill" and "Rubenstein's Piano," were the gems of the evening. The one was a vivid narration of a horrible mill disaster, the sad incidents of which were recited with a pathos that drew tears to sympathetic eyes; the other, the acme of droll mimicry and vivacious burlesque, that forced the audience to irresistible laughter. Mr. Belford is an artist in his profession, a master of elocution and recitation. The attendance was fair considering the intense cold of the evening.

Civic Committee Meetings.

How the Town Councillors do their Work Out of Council.

Last night there were meetings of five civic committees. The Fire, Water and Light Committee investigated "the causes of the recent delays in taking the hose cart to fires." Mr. Terry Smith was called upon to explain, which he did by stating that it was very difficult to get the proper class of horses for the work, and in trying to get the best animals he was "played" for a baulker. He says that now he has three animals of the right stamp and there will be no further trouble in that line. The committee also approved of a by-law prepared by the town solicitor providing for the increases to the firemen's salaries.

The Streets and Bridges Committee considered the best means of expending the remainer of the $20,000 borrowed for bridge-building and streeting cribbing purposes. Of this sum $6,000 goes as the town's share of the expenses of erecting the new locks bridge; $4,000 has already been expended, on the Simcoe street bridge; and $3,000 has been set aside for the cribbing of Crescent street. This leaves $7,000 for bridge building in town this year. The committee did not arrive at any decision, and will meet again Monday evening at seven o'clock.

The Market Committee met and discussed the toll question. The market clerk was instructed to adhere to the provisions of the by-law as interpreted by the town solicitor.

The Printing Committee decided to ask for tenders from the different publishing houses for printing.

The Finance Committee did very little business—merely passed some accounts.

Effects of the Cold.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR—The very interesting readings by Mr. Belford, given at the opera house last night, were considerably spoiled by the intense coldness of the building. The shutters facing the street were not closed and the gentlemen buried themselves in their fur coats, while the ladies in my vicinity were shivering. A little more attention by the person in charge of the stoves would probably have mitigated the evil and have rendered pleasant, one of the best entertainments o the season.

Yours,
TRAVELLER

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, held in the Offices, George street, Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, there were present :

Richard Hall, President ; D. M. Sim, Secretary ; Messrs. D. W. Dumble, Jas. Stevenson, M.P., Wm. Walsh, A. P. Pousnette, Geo. A. Cox, Wm. Clinton, Albert Hall, A. Cox, W. J. Hall, Dr. Fife, W. H. Moore, Jno. Burnham, Jno. Carnegie, C. McGill, Peterborough ; Robert Jaffray, Toronto ; J. R. Dundas and F. C. Taylor, Lindsay ; H. J. Lefevre, Lakefield ; N. Taylor, Jonathan Mann, Andrew Hall, Smith ; Z. Burnham, Otonabee ; Wm. Cumming, Kinmount.

The President read the following report and moved its adoption :—

Seven months' report of the Directors of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, (Limited,) ending the 31st of December, 1887 :—

For the purpose of having the Company's fiscal year terminate at the close of the calendar year, instead of on the 31st May, as heretofore, the Directors beg to submit herewith a report of the operations of the Company for the seven months ending on the 31st of December, 1887, with balance sheet as at that date, and auditors' certificate attached.

The gross interest earnings for the seven months amounted to $48,020.24 ; this with stock premiums of $2,542 and $640.42 brought forward from profit and loss, enabled the Directors, after the payment of interest on sterling and currency debentures and all expenses of management, including Glasgow agents' commission on renewal of debentures, to pay the half-yearly dividend of $7,863, transfer $6,000 to the reserve fund and carry forward to the credit of profit and loss account $2,656.46, a result that it is anticipated will be highly satisfactory to the shareholders, indicating as it does, marked improvement in the Company's position.

During the seven months under review, the subscribed capital has been increased from $1,493,600 to $2,000,000; the paid up capital from $298,720 to $349,560; the reserve fund from $15,000 to $23,000; the balance at credit of profit and loss from $640.42 to $2,656.46 ; the mortgage investments from $1,217,141.06 to $1,307,981.31.

The real estate held for sale has been carefully re-valued, and the amount at which it is now held in the accounts is believed to be quite within its present actual cash value, and at a price which will in all probability be realized for it with the next twelve months. It may be remarked that the present rentals pay nearly 6 per cent. on the price at which it is held.

Very satisfactory progress has been made during the last year in the collection of interest arrears, reducing the amount of real estate on hand, and in the general improvement of the position of the Company.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Directors.

RICHARD HALL,
President.

The postings and balances of the Company's ledgers have been examined; and we find the whole correct, and in accordance with the above statements. We have also inspected the mortgages and other securities, and find the aggregate thereof agrees with the amount under the head of "Investments."

CHAS. D. MACDONALD, } Auditors.
EDG. PEARSE, }

Peterborough, 8th February, 1888.

Mr. Cox, in seconding the motion, referred in general terms to the substantial progress shown by the reports, and mentioned the fact that Mr. Barclay, their Glasgow agent, had made a very favorable report of the Company's prospects, to the Glasgow people, of his trip to Canada and of his investigations into the affairs of the Company.

Mr. A. P. POUSSETTE also expressed his satisfaction with the report, and claimed some credit for the old management from the fact that several investments that had been considered unsound had since turned out good value. He said the Company might consider itself now as solid.

The report was adopted.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots ; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, lamb-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual saving SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and comprise largely, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. This is 33 1/3 cents in the dollar—cents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 50 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame ? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95 Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, cheddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

NO HOPE OF A REPRIEVE.

ROBERT NEIL WILL HAVE TO SUFFER THE EXTREME PENALTY.

A New Postoffice and Custom House at Prescott—The Drinking Water Supply of the Dominion—Departmental Reports Ready for Distribution.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—It is understood that an examination of the evidence in the case of Robert Neil, alias Thompson, under sentence of death for the murder of Guard Rutledge in the Central Prison, has led to the decision that the law be allowed to take its course, and Neil will therefore be hanged on Feb. 28.

Tenders will be received by the Public Works Department up to March 8 for the erection of a postoffice and custom house at Prescott.

Messrs. Towle & Watson of the Inland Revenue Department have been deputed by the Government to obtain samples of river and drinking water from all over the Dominion and forward them to Ottawa for analysis, the idea being to obtain information with respect to the composition of the different waters. Mr. Towle is at present discharging this duty in the Province of Quebec, whilst Mr. Watson is going through the lower provinces. Ottawa water will be sampled bye-and-bye.

Several more of the departmental reports are completed and in the hands of the binder, and will probably be distributed in a few days. The first to be given out will probably be the Auditor-General's report and the Post office and Inland Revenue will speedily follow.

The officials of the Secretary of States Department say there is no truth in the statement telegraphed to a New York paper that important state papers with reference to the fisheries case have been stolen.

Mr. Sweetman, inspector of postoffices, Toronto, and Mr. French, inspector for the Ottawa division, had a long conference with Deputy Postmaster-General Griffin to-day, the object of which was to arrange the details of the parcel post system shortly to be introduced between Canada and the United States.

HOW BARNETT GOT THE MONEY.

The Wandering Jew and the Fly—The Latter Falls Into the Trap.

Barnett, when he struck Toronto in 1884, played the air of a wealthy man. He dressed well, was covered with jewelry, carried diamonds in his pockets, and talked so tall that he dazzled Allen. He got the latter to his hotel and entertained him. Allen was anxious to get money in his bank in order to do more business. Accordingly he fell into the trap and he accepted three bills for $5000 at various dates drawn on him by Barnett. Barnett was to negotiate these bills and deposit the proceeds (he had no need of the money) in Allen's bank and Allen would thus have $15,000 on deposit. Barnett got the money but never deposited it. Instead of that he worked Allen until he got out of the bank $130,000. He was always promising to deposit this and that and was always giving securities of one kind and another, but his promises were not kept and his securities lie unrealized in the bank to-day. Allen saw that he had been duped early in their intimacy, but what with the hold Barnett had got on him, the fear of discovery, and still more the desire to get it right, he was led in deeper and deeper. Allen was an extremely sensitive man and he squirmed under the extortions of the rascal whom he could not shake off.

Small Tolls.

It is understood that Mr. James Fitzgibbons, late chief accountant of the Merchants' Bank at Montreal, and now secretary of the liquidators of the Central, will be put forward as a candidate for Mr. Campbell's post should he cease to be a liquidator.

It begins to look as if A. A. Allen owes the Central $30,000 to $50,000.

S. Magnus Davis is down on Mr. Campbell. When the latter was liquidating the Consolidated Davis was one of the debtors, and was hard pressed by Mr. Campbell.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

CHIEF SEC. BALFOUR ON MR. GLADSTONE'S CHANGED ATTITUDE.

Reference to the Crown Prince in the British Parliament—Italian Troops to be Withdrawn From Egypt—Preparing for a Contingency.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—In the House of Commons this evening Right Hon. Sir James Fergusson, Parliamentary Secretary for the Foreign Office, said he could not reassure the House regarding the condition of the German Crown Prince beyond stating that he was getting on as well as could be expected.

Referring to England's position towards the European powers, Mr. Fergusson said that no agreement pledging material action by the country had been entered into with any power. By material action he meant military responsibility.

Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, continuing the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech, commented on the changed tone of Mr. Gladstone, as manifested in his speech of last evening. "Where," he asked, "was the impassioned orator who used all the resources of rhetoric to inflame the public mind against the law and against policemen?"

Mr. Gladstone here interrupted the speaker, saying that there was not an item of foundation for such assertions.

Mr. Balfour, continuing, recalled the inciting language in Mr. Gladstone's Nottingham speech, and said that he did not complain of, but rather congratulated, Mr. Gladstone on his change of tone. He would have liked it if all the speakers of the Opposition had followed Mr. Gladstone's example; and he would have liked it still better if they had refrained from attending meetings of Irish tenants and from conniving at violence against officers of the law. Grave reflections had been cast upon resident magistrates in Ireland. It was true that they were dependent for appointment upon the Executive Government, but out of a total of seventy-three magistrates Earl Spencer had had appointed or approved sixty when he revised the list.

Referring to statistics he said that the number of persons tried under the Crimes Act was 609, of whom 230 were acquitted. In 1886 the number of agrarian offences reached a total of 2686, while in 1887 the total was only 1527. The total number of cases of ordinary crime reached 2689 in 1886, and in 1887 it was 1683. The number of agrarian offences for the six months ending January, 1887, was 455, and for the same period ending January, 1888, it was 304, a decrease of 33 per cent. The statistics of boycotting especially showed the striking results of the Crimes Act. The number of persons being boycotted at the end of July, 1887, was 576, whereas now it was only 203. The Government's efforts to protect persons from the boycotters had been notably successful in Counties Clare and Kerry, where the National League had been suppressed. People now travelling in Ireland declared that the condition of the country was greatly improved, and the judges' charges confirmed this opinion.

The Government were engaged in an old struggle, but never before had any Government arrayed against it the forces recognized by the Opposition. [Cheers from the Irish members.] He reprobated the scandalous vituperation resorted to by certain members of the Opposition. It was a blemish on politics, and ought to help no cause. He claimed that the figures adduced justified coercion and proved that the Government's policy had been successful. [Cheers.]

Mr. John Morley said the House would infer from Mr. Balfour's speech the temper in which he administered coercion. [Parnellite cheers.] Regarding the Irish criminal statistics, he said the period showing a decrease in crime included the six months' calm during which eviction notices could not be executed. The diminution of boycotting was due not to coercion but to an entirely changed state of feeling and a deeper sense of responsibility toward the Liberal members who were co-workers with the Irish to obtain justice for Ireland. [Cries of "Hear, hear."] The Irish party was now assured that it would ultimately realize its aspirations. If it should ever be deprived of that hope the effects of coercion in aggravated social disorders would become painfully apparent.

Mr. Edward P. Harrington, member for West Kerry, called Mr. Balfour's speech a "choice example of his mendacity." The Speaker called upon Mr. Harrington to withdraw the expression. Mr. Harrington acquiesced, but said he did so under command.

Mr. Harrington, continuing, said that the Government manipulated the figures relating to crime. Everybody conversant with the affairs of Ireland knew that the magistrates administered the Crimes Act and did all they could to irritate the people. Mr. Balfour's regime had oppressed the people and had failed to suppress them while killing the people's rights. But the principles of liberty would be fought for until they triumphed.

The Government assented to Mr. Gladstone's suggestion to give him two days for the discussion of the motion concerning the Trafalgar-square meetings.

Mr. Parnell moved the adjournment of the debate and the motion was agreed to.

The Italian Government will withdraw all its troops from Egypt, except such as are of absolute necessity to hold the positions at Massowah and places in that vicinity.

It is semi-officially announced from Rome that Italy is not bound by the terms of her treaty with Austria to send troops in support of Austria in Bulgaria, in case the Austrian Government should undertake a campaign in the Balkans.

The Tribune announces that every vessel in the navy has been ordered to be in readiness for active service, and that the naval armaments at Naples have assumed extraordinary proportions in accordance with cipher instructions from the Government.

The Hungarian Prime Minister explained in Parliament yesterday that the Government had issued gold rentes because it was not known when events might compel an appeal to the home market with paper rentes.

The Reichstag committee on the Anti-Socialist Bill to-day decided to favor the extension of the operations of the existing law on the subject for two years, and rejected the Government's proposal.

A dispatch from Berlin says the Crown Prince slept well last night. He takes food easily and his condition is generally satisfactory. The keenest interest is felt in the despatches from San Remo. A great popular demonstration of sympathy was manifested in front of the Imperial Palace, where large crowds of people remained assembled all day, despite the heavy rain. The Emperor and Empress appeared frequently, and bowed to the salutations of the crowd.

Messrs. O'Brien and Flynn, Nationalist M.P.s, Arrested—Rent Reductions Granted.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The landlords of the Kingstown estates have granted all the reductions demanded in 1886 under the Plan of Campaign, and have agreed to reinstate the evicted tenants, including the Mitchellstown shopkeepers, and to forego all legal costs. They will also offer the property for sale.

Fourteen persons, including two members of the Municipal Council, have been arrested at Galway for disorderly conduct on the night of the arrest of Mr. Blunt. They were bailed. Other arrests are expected. Great excitement prevails.

A circular emanating from the heads of the Parnellite party has been privately circulated among the Nationalist members of Parliament, requesting them to observe the greatest caution in introducing strangers in Parliament. It is reported that in consequence of the revelations made in the recent dynamiters' trial, the Speaker is considering a rule to make members responsible for the conduct of strangers whom they introduce.

The verdict rendered by the coroner's jury in the case of the police officers charged with the Mitchellstown riots, was set aside in the Court of Queen's Bench to-day on the ground that the jury was chosen informally.

Patrick O'Brien, Nationalist M.P., was arrested outside the Parliament Buildings in London by the police to-day, who mistook him for Mr. Gilhooly, M.P. for West Cork, for whose arrest they held a warrant. On being taken to Scotland Yard, Mr. O'Brien was recognized by officials and released.

TORONTO TOPICS.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning a young woman named Annie Dogger, aged 16, who has been living at 20 Davies-avenue, St. Matthew's Ward, the residence of Mr. W. H. Saunders, boat builder, met with an accident which caused her death. Either by the explosion or upsetting of a lamp near to her bed she was severely burned from head to foot. Policeman Gardner heard her screams, rushed into the house and carried her to a neighbor's house. There she was attended by Drs. Stephenson, Ghent and Burgess, who ordered her removal to the Hospital. The poor girl lingered in agony until noon, when she died. Coroner Duncan will open an inquest at the Hospital at 2 o'clock to-day.

Israel Lucas and his wife, the alleged boodlers from Wapakoneta, O., who were arrested on a charge of bringing stolen money into Canada, were brought before the Police Magistrate yesterday, when Clerk Mearsfey explained that the case had been settled amicably. Lucas was County Treasurer at Wapakoneta, and, it is alleged, absconded with $32,000. The prosecution had prepared a charge of forgery

Teemer Defeats Hamm and McKay.

TRENTON, Fla., Feb. 10.—A single scull race took place to-day in Charlotte Harbor here for a purse of $1000 and the championship of America. The rowers were John Teemer of Pittsburg, Albert Hamm of Boston and John McKay of Halifax, N.S. A great crowd of people were present. The day was bright, warm and beautiful.

The men were in good condition and a fine start was made at 4.32. For the first mile the contest was very even, Hamm leading to the turn, which he made in 10.29. Teemer followed in 10.30, McKay in 10.35.

The water was rough and the rowers had to row nearly half a mile from a direct line to the turn. After turning Teemer took the lead, followed by McKay and Hamm. These positions were maintained to the close of the race. At the half Teemer had forged five lengths ahead, but McKay and Hamm closed upon him, and the finish was exciting in the extreme. Teemer won in 20.04, McKay second, 20.08, and Hamm last, 20.10.

The three men will row here again to-morrow for a purse of $600, and will row at Jacksonville for the sub-tropical exposition stakes.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, as reported to Dun, Wiman & Co., number for the United States 237 and for Canada 32, or a total of 269 as compared with a total of 279 last week and 317 the week previous. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 267, made up of 221 failures in the United States and 36 in Canada. The feature this week is the unusual number of failures in the Dominion of Canada, 52, being nearly double the usual weekly average.

WHAT MR. ORDE HAD TO SAY ON THE STAND YESTERDAY.

Revelations Before The Master—What the Ledgers and Cash Books Show—Directors Implicated and May Yet Be Prosecuted—So the Court Remarks.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.

Central Bank affairs are a tangled web and productive of daily surprises. The labyrinth of irregularities and complications has not yet been traversed, but here a little, there a little, light is being shed on the nefarious system which led to the wrecking of the bank and involved so many in its toils.

When the court adjourned on Thursday evening there was a general expectation that further inquisitorial proceedings would be in abeyance till Monday next; but it is the unexpected which always happens and ere the hour of noon Accountant Orde was in the witness-box and took up his parable re the ledgers and cash books. There made a goodly show, occupying the desks and seats whereon Q.C.'s are wont to rest. The latter gentlemen were conspicuous by their absence, as also were the general public, for the members of the Fourth Estate outnumbered the spectators. Mr. H. J. Coyne of St. Thomas, associate of Mr. Foster, Q.C., counsel for the petitioning liquidators, sat once, and for four mortal hours, questioned Arthur Beagrave Orde as to what he personally and professionally knew of the finance and methods of the bank. Witness freely gave his evidence, which is in several respects compromising to the management of the bank, and went through the ordeal with much composure. He was constantly stopping from the box to examine the rows of books, and his evidence was somewhat technical.

Witness explained his duties and the office system. A journal was kept for the purpose of cross-entries, in which cash did not appear as such. These entries could not be understood without explanations.

Witness proceeded to explain that he kept the "monthly statement" book, and that from this Mr. Allen compiled the returns. Witness consolidated the branch balance sheets, and from the "general statement" book the Government reports was taken.

At length witness was examined respecting and repeated the story of the $23,000 with which David Blain, president, was credited.

The oft-quoted notes of James Baxter & Co., Montreal, formed the next subject of examination. They were held on Cox's collateral account.

Mr. Coyne: On Oct. 11, according to the ledger account, it appears that Cox overdrew his account $48,477, which was reduced by Oct. 19 to $41,000. With such a large withdrawal is there nothing to show about the collaterals?

Witness: No; Cox's account was a peculiar account, and the manipulation of it was in the hands of Mr. Allen. I attended only to the routine of bookkeeping.

The Barnett acceptances were next discussed, witness stating that there was no evidence to show that those of May, 1885, ever passed through the books of the bank; but two acceptances drawn by R. G. I. Barnett on A. A. Allen for $2000 were charged against Barnett's overdrawn account. The account was overdrawn $34,990.

The sterling drafts of S. Magnus Davis occupied the witness a long time. They were overdue paper but carried on current, and in this respect the books of the bank did not convey a correct impression.

The affairs of Hastings H. Fraser, "the person commonly known as Lord Fraser," as Mr. Coyne smilingly observed, were then brought before witness' notice so far as they related to the Central Bank. The accounts with which Mr. Fraser was credited, and which he drew out of the bank, were entered in the "contingent account," which, as witness explained, meant "bad debts."

Mr. Allen's account was next considered. Witness said the books did not explain the credit and debit entries and he could not do so either.

The inspection of the cash was then considered, witness deposing that there were some little irregularities, about $100.

The diamonds, the Cox transactions and other questions of account were gone into. Checks were considered as cash.

The Master said that if charges were to be made against the directors it was a question whether evidence bearing on such charges should be exposed before the trial. It was quite clear that there would be questions raised between the directors and the creditors which would have to be investigated. There would be charges against the directors if they have not dealt with the administration of the bank's affairs as the law directs.

The court then adjourned, further evidence to be given on the order of the Master.

THE BUTTERWORTH BILL.

The bill introduced into the United States Congress by representative Butterworth in the main, makes the admission of all Canadian products, except such as are subjected to an internal revenue tax, into the United States free of duty dependent upon the decision of the Dominion Government to admit United States products on the same terms. If the bill is passed it will only remain for Canada to say whether she will have all the results of Commercial Union or not. With the object of doing away with all necessity of interfering with the general tariff of either country with reference to foreign products, provision is made for the establishment of regulations to protect the respective Governments from the importation of such foreign products into either country through the other. That would probably be the weak point of the arrangement, but, it is asserted, nothing more than ordinary good faith would be required for its protection. A proviso is added to the bill, which, it is thought, might prove unnecessary if the proposed policy were really established, but which is, nevertheless, a prudent precaution, requiring as a condition to the proclamation of Reciprocity, the enjoyment by the people of the United States of all commercial rights in Canadian ports that are accorded to subjects of the Dominion in the ports of the United States.

THE SUGAR QUESTION.

The Montreal Herald has an article dealing with the "sugar trust" of the United States, a ring which controls absolutely and with "conscienceless rapacity" the sugar trade of the United States. It concludes its article with the following reference to the sugar trade in Canada:—

"We have a similar sugar ring in Canada. Its objects and aims are the same. Its organization is on a smaller scale, and its opportunities are somewhat circumscribed; but, like its American confrere, it is bleeding the consumers of Canada most viciously. During the past year, the Canada Sugar Refineries made enormous profits, having forced the price of refined sugar from 6 up to 8 cents. The Nova Scotia Sugar Refinery, Halifax, resuscitated some eighteen months ago from a state of bankruptcy, last year made enough money to pay off one-half of a $200,000 mortgage, declared a dividend of 13 per cent., and placed a large sum to rest. At the present moment the people of Canada are paying for their refined sugar nearly double that paid by the people of Great Britain, and the indications are that the price will soon be forced up much higher. As in the United States, probably five-sixths of the enormous profits made by the sugar ring come out of the pockets of the farmers, mechanics and working classes, the people of limited means in cities and towns—the very people least able to bear the burden. Is there any righteousness or fair play about a system which thus taxes the people and impoverishes the country? We have no doubt the people of Canada are willing to shoulder reasonable burdens of taxation in order to save the sugar refiners and other manufacturers from unfair competition. But when it comes to submitting to a system of tariff protection which promotes the fostering of rings and combines that undertake to control the business of the country and force up the prices of the necessaries of life at their own discretion, then the people are are absolved from giving the tariff anacondas any further consideration. The latter look out for themselves, regardless of the interests of consumers. They take all the tariff gives them and ask for more. The time has arrived when consumers must look out for their own interests, and secure relief from the burdens of a system of taxation which the combines have converted into a system of legalised robbery. If Parliament will not give relief, if the Government prefers to stand in with the rings and let the people toil and moil and sweat under a system of taxation which enriches the many at the expense of the few, then people must take the matter in their own hands and make choice of rulers who will deprive the combines of their ill-used power. The taxpayers of the country have the matter in their own hands. So long as they keep the present "combine" Government in power, so long as they be preyed upon by the "combines." If they want relief they must turn out the "combine" Government."

The Louisville Courier-Journal, to show how the protective tariff of the United States operates to build up other classes at the expense of the farmers, states that "the farmers started in 1860 with one-half the total wealth and one-half the population, and in twenty years increased their wealth $4,122,-866,491; the other half of the population increased their wealth $23,359,974,851, or, to put it in a more graphic form:—

Farmers gained in wealth ..... $ 4,122,866,491
The other half gained $23,359,974,851

Yet farmers are not the least enterprising class in any community, and if they had a fair chance they would hold their own.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.

The Legislature only sat long enough yesterday afternoon to witness the introduction of Mr. James P. Whitney, the Conservative member-elect for Dundas, and for the transaction of routine. Mr. Whitney was chaperoned while he made his bow to the Speaker by Mr. Creighton and Mr. French.

The bill introduced by Mr. Gibson (Huron) respecting the debt of the town of Brussels, was given its second reading and referred to a committee of the whole.

Hon. A. S. Hardy brought down a return showing the number of vacancies since 1864 in the offices of county crown-attorney, sheriff and registrar of deeds, how the vacancies occurred, when filled and by whom filled.

Bills for First Reading.

These bills were cast up for first readings:

Mr. Leys—An act to legalize a certain bylaw of the Town of Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Fell—An act respecting a railway debenture debt of the Township of Bexley.

Mr. Ingram—An act to amend the act to provide for the payment of witnesses for the Crown.

Mr. Clancy—An act to amend the Municipal Act.

Hon. A. S. Hardy—An act respecting bylaw 402 of the City of Brantford.

Mr. Meredith—An act to enable Holy Trinity Cathedral, London, to sell certain lands.

Mr. Smith—An act respecting the incorporation of the village of East Toronto.

Mr. Gibson (Huron)—An act to amend chapter 115, Revised Statutes of Ontario.

Mr. Murray—An act to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Bronson—An act to enable the Orphan's Home of Ottawa to borrow money.

Mr. Tooley—An act to consolidate the debts of and to extend the limits of London West.

Petitions and Notices of Motion.

Among the petitions and notices of motion were these:

By Mr. Ballantyne—For the incorporation of the Village of Tavistock.

By Mr. Monk—That the assessment of lands in townships be made in March instead of in April.

By Mr. Bronson—That power be given to the City of Ottawa to borrow $225,000 in order that the rate of interest on the present indebtedness may be reduced and that necessary public works be undertaken.

By Mr. Garson—For legislation to repeal the act empowering municipal councils to grant bonuses to factories and exempt them from taxation.

By Mr. Meredith—For a uniform method of weighing grain and produce.

By Mr. Freeman—For the division of the township of Walsingham, Norfolk, into two sections.

By Mr. Meredith—On behalf of the Ministerial Association of London, asking the support of the House for Mr. Fraser's early closing bill.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. Meredith—Enquiry of the Government—1. Whether any general or other record of the proceedings of the conference of certain members of the Executive Council of this and certain other of the provinces, held in Quebec in October last, was kept. 2. If any such journal or other record was kept, if it is the intention to lay a copy of it before the House?

Mr. French—Enquiry of the Ministry.—Whether in view of the recent considerable increase in the jurisdiction of the Division Courts, and the narrowing down thereby of the County Courts, it is the intention of the Government during the present session to abolish the present jurisdiction of the County Courts and transfer such jurisdiction to the Division Courts, or, on the other hand, to barely increase the present jurisdiction of the County Courts.

The Central Fair.

The Central Fair Associations interviewed Hon. A. M. Ross. The deputation was composed of R. McKenzie and Geo. Howan, Guelph Central Fair Association; J. T. Davidson, John Adams and Peter Christie, Port Perry Association; Richard Rivers and R. Wachter, Great Northern Association, Walkerton; C. B. Spohr, Southern Counties Association, St. Thomas; Chas. Lawrence, Geo. Moberley and T. J. Crawford, Great Northern Fair, Collingwood; D. McKenzie and Geo. Melbroom, Western Fair Association, London; C. S. Wisner, Brantford; and J. J. Mason and R. Kennedy, Hamilton. They asked that government aid be granted to the central fairs, and in order that too many claimants might not appear for grants they proposed to have a property qualification. Only those having grounds and buildings valued at $10,000 and paying out $2000 in prizes were to be eligible for this support. There were 15 or 16 of such associations in Ontario now. The claim was put forward by the delegation for this support on the ground that these central fairs were educators in a higher sense than the township and district fairs. They might be looked on as sort of collegiate institutes in comparison with public schools. It was not fair to subsidize the "public schools" and give the "collegiate institutes" the go by.

The Treasurer raised several points to show the difficulty of carrying out the plan, all of which were met with more or less success by members of the delegation. The Hon. Mr. Ross said he would bring the matter before Mr. Mowat and the Government, and that it would be fully discussed.

MR. SAMO ARRESTED.

Detective Slemin Hopes to Have Him Here by Next Tuesday.

TORONTO, Feb. 11.

James H. Samo, the ex-Yonge-street furniture dealer who skipped last Tuesday leaving a large amount of liabilities and some notes which are alleged to bear forged names, was arrested at Port Arthur yesterday morning. Mr. Samo did not leave Toronto by rail, but after buying a six months' ticket here good to go over the Canadian Pacific Railway to British Columbia and thence to San Francisco, drove to Aurora, boarded the North Bay express and started west.

A warrant sworn out by Alexander Telfer charges Samo with having forged the informant's name to a promissory note dated Aug. 2, 1887, for $183. The police throughout the country were notified and yesterday morning Chief Grasett received a telegram from Chief of Police Nicholl of Port Arthur saying that Samo had been arrested at 10 o'clock Thursday night while getting off a Canadian Pacific Railway train. At 12 o'clock last night Detective Slemin, bearing a warrant, started for Port Arthur and expects to reach Toronto with his prisoner next Tuesday. It is expected that three other charges of forgery will be preferred against Mr. Samo.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.

The local Stock Exchange this morning was fairly active, with sales of 213 shares. Prices ruled generally stronger. British America was quoted at 92 and 91½ as against 95½ and 92 yesterday.

Throughout Western and Central Ontario the prices for coarse grains have now reached a higher figure than for a number of years past. Only in the article of wheat has the farmer anything to complain of.

Statistics show that in 1887 the twenty-one creameries in Ontario produced 764,630 lbs. of butter. Ayton heads the list with 100,000; Dromore turned out 83,046; Holstein, 32,500; Walkerton, 30,000; and Owen Sound, 30,000.

ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

As is usually the case on Fridays, St. Lawrence market was quiet and inactive. The market is overstocked with meats offered by the quarter, and consequently prices remain low. Excellent may be purchased readily at from 4c to 7c. As a natural result of the immense number of loads of hay that have been pouring in, the price to-day was a little easier and dropped from $14 and $16 to $13 and $15. There was a short supply of vegetables, but prices did not advance perceptibly. The feature of the grain market was an easy up on barley; the price dropped one cent per bushel and at the reduced figure about 1200 bushels were sold, namely, 77c to 80c. The prices of wheat did not change; about 800 bushels were sold at 74c to 81c for spring, 80c to 83c for fall, 73c to 74c for goose. About 200 bushels of oats were sold at 46c to 47c. The following figures were quoted: Beef, hindquarters, per lb., 5c to 7c; Beef, forequarters, per lb., 3c to 4½c; Mutton, per carcase, 6c to 7c; lamb, per carcase, 8c to 8½c; veal, 7c to 9c; pork, 7½c to 7¾c; chickens, per pair, 40c to 70c; ducks, per pair, 60c to $1; geese, per lb., 10c to 12c; turkeys, per lb., 12c to 14c; wheat, fall, per bushel, 80c to 83c; wheat, spring, per bush., 76c to 81c; wheat, goose, per bush, 72c to 73c; barley, 75c to 80c; oats, per bush, 56c to 47c; peas, 68c to 69½c; timothy, 14c to 15c; clover, 11c to 12c; straw, 10c to 12c; butter, pound rolls, 23c to 26c; butter, tub, 19c to 23c; cheese, per lb., 12c to 13c.

The Walking Match.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—In the international walking match the score at 1 o'clock this morning was: Albert 369, Vint 338, Panchot 342, [illegible] 325, Gudgeon 334, Herr 317, Moore 299, Golden 289, Forstat 284, Noremac 278, Dillon 269, Sullivan 266, Taylor 232, Collins 196, Stout 146.

No remedy in the market has given anything like the same degree of satisfaction. Its action on nerve pain is simply marvellous, and as it is put up in 10 cent sample bottles, no great expense is involved in giving it a trial. Polson's Nervilline is the most pleasant, powerful, and certain pain remedy in the world. Sold by Druggists and all dealers in medicine, 10 and 25 cents a bottle. 6dw6

WHY SUFFER?

Mr. Isaac Waterman, of the Imperial Oil Co., Petrolea, says: Nasal Balm gave me the most perfect satisfaction of any medicine I ever used for cold in the head. I found it easy to use, quick in giving relief, and effected a complete cure within a few hours.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says: I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh and it cured me, after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

Mr. W. R. Caiger, Advertising Agent for Toronto News, says: I was induced to try Nasal Balm for a severe and troublesome cold in the head. Once using it literally washed out the clogged secretions, and left my head clear as a bell.

D. Derbyshire, ex-President of the Ontario Dairymen's Association, Brockville, says:—Nasal Balm beats the world for catarrh and cold in the head. In my own case it effected relief from the first application.

Chas. Walsh, 146 Cathcart St., Ottawa, says: Gentlemen, I have used Nasal Balm for cold in the head and find it all that you claim for it. I take pleasure in strongly recommending it to all persons suffering from catarrh, cold in the head, etc.

WHEN

Capt. D. H. Lyon, Manager and Proprietor of the C.P.R. and R.W. & O.R. Car Ferry, Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., says: I used Nasal Balm for a prolonged case of cold in the head. Two applications effected a complete and thorough cure in less than twenty-four hours. I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not replace it.

T. W. Hunt, Fort Hope, writes: I was a sufferer from a long standing case of catarrh and being well up in years (72) hardly expected to ever obtain anything that would give me material or permanent relief. At the time of receiving Nasal Balm I was very bad with catarrh, but take great pleasure in stating that on the second application I obtained wonderful relief, and its effect was pleasant, soothing and healing. It acted like magic and is worth ten times its cost for the immediate relief it gives. I feel confident the second bottle will effect a permanent cure. I have recommended Nasal Balm for cold in the head and in every case it acts like a charm.

Horatio Collier, Postmaster, Cameronstown, Ont., writes: Gentlemen,—I am well pleased with your Nasal Balm. I was suffering from cold in the head and catarrh, and through its use am now thoroughly cured. It is much more pleasant and easy to use than the washes, douches and snuffs that I used previously. I will recommend it as a sure cure for cold in the head. You may refer parties to me and I shall feel a pleasure to reply to them.

Mr. T. Dawson, General Merchant, Raglan, Ont., says: I was troubled with a severe cold in the head; once using Nasal Balm gave me immediate and permanent relief.

James G. Tennent, 24 Italy St., Ottawa, Ont., says: I am pleased to state that Nasal Balm has already relieved my catarrh to a very great extent. I have not used one bottle, but the poisonous droppings from the head into the throat have almost ceased. I breathe easy now; get better sleep and altogether feel and appreciate the wonderful virtue of the "Balm." Its merits cannot possibly be exaggerated for catarrhal troubles, and as a CURE I believe it to be GENUINE.

NASAL·BALM

E. A. Cardinal, 638 Seigneurs St., Montreal, says: After ineffectually trying many of the so-called remedies for catarrh, I made a trial of Nasal Balm, which gave me instant relief, and since commencing its use I daily note the beneficial changes it is producing after a few applications. It changes the unpleasant odor of the virus in the throat and the poisonous secretions over which every breath must pass. To any thus troubled it is a priceless medicine.

W. R. Fullerton, Gananoque, says: Gents, A prominent citizen of our town expresses great delight over the miraculous healing properties of your Nasal Balm. He had suffered for a long time from a severe headache over the eyes, and his head was so stopped up that he was in great distress. One application gave instant relief, and in two days he was entirely cured.

Jno. S. George, Tottenham, Ont., says: I have been troubled with nasal catarrh for the last five years. Seeing Nasal Balm advertised, I procured a bottle, and although I have only used part of it, I do not hesitate to pronounce it the best remedy in the world for that loathsome disease, catarrh. It is easy and pleasant to use, soothing and healing in its action, instant in giving relief, removes and changes the poisonous secretions to a healthy state.

POSITIVELY CURES

Miss Jennie A. McNair, Lions Head, Bruce Co., Ont., writes: I called upon a poor woman who was very sick. She had not left her bed for weeks. Her friends said she was dying of consumption; indeed she was so low it seemed that it would be but a very short time until she would pass away. I looked around on her little children and resolved if possible to cure her, but how to do it was the question. I was well used to the different forms of consumption and knew her trouble all came from the "head" and that her lungs were being destroyed by breathing the poisonous secretions into them. I came home praying that God would give me what was wanted to cure her—and he did in a strange way. A little boy came into the room where I was and wanted me to look at a star on a piece of paper. It proved to be an advertisement of Nasal Balm. I ordered it at once and it proved to be just what I wanted, as to-day the woman's head is all right. She is able to do her own work and is getting strong very fast. This remarkable change was effected by one bottle of Nasal Balm. Enclose 50 cents for another bottle, which is for a young lady here who has had catarrh for a long time. Please send at once and I will try and make its worth known in this place. It is a pleasure for me to work for the suffering and praise the medicine that deserves it.

L. D. Dion, Dept. Railways and Canals, Ottawa, says: Gents, I am very glad to give you to-day the testimony that Nasal Balm has COMPLETELY CURED my catarrh from which I have suffered for nearly three years.

D. A. Smith, Bronse, Knowlton Co., P.Q., says: Gents, Nasal Balm has worked wonders in my case of catarrh. It has entirely stopped the hawking and coughing and also droppings that run back into the throat, and though a sufferer from catarrh for a number of years the relief was quick.

Miss Mabel Hillaker, Mt. Salem, Ont., says: I have had one trial bottle of Nasal Balm. It has quickly helped my catarrh; more than all the medicines I have tried.

CATARRH AND COLD IN THE HEAD

WARNING

Beware of spurious and worthless imitations which the wonderful merit of Nasal Balm has caused some unprincipled parties to place upon the market. They closely imitate the name Nasal Balm in the hope of deceiving the public, but are vile, catch-penny articles, destitute of merit. Do not be deceived by their apparent cheapness. Ask for Nasal Balm, and take nothing else for catarrh and cold in the head. Every package bears our Trade Mark and Signature. FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Nasal Balm is not a liquid, snuff, or cauterizing powder. Is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. No instrument or douche required. Quickly cures headache, foul breath, and stops dropping from the nasal passages into the throat, and excessive expectoration caused by catarrh. A 50 cent bottle will convince the most skeptical of the wonderful merit of Nasal Balm. Pamphlet containing testimonials, etc., will be sent on application. Nasal Balm may be had from all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price (50c. and $1 a bottle), by addressing FULFORD & CO., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

ANOTHER WONDER!

It never was intended so far as I can learn,
That either man or woman were intended to be bald,
I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will,
If at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called

There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her all we can—
She takes particular trouble with our race;
She knows a scanty growth of hair, the grey and whitening locks,
Will detract from the beauty of the face.

But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err,
For you'll surely pay the penalty at last,
Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair,
Doctor Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.

Just try it, you afflicted, you never will regret,
The Magic was never yet known to fail
And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget
The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. For the Track.

The neatest thing in the line of trotting sleighs ever seen in Lindsay or perhaps elsewhere, says the Post, is just receiving the finishing touches in the painting rooms of Hamilton's factory. The weight of the sleigh complete is about 30 lbs., whilst that of the ordinary one is about 60 lbs. The extra lightness is obtained principally by substituting thin steel braces and stays for the iron usually employed, thus retaining strength and at the same time dispensing with superfluous weight. The owner of the beauty is Mr. F. J. Daly, of Peterborough, the proud possessor of the pacer, Billy W."

Only on Paper.

The Post is bound to lose no opportunity of vaunting Lindsay's superiority. The last issue, referring to the races, has the following :—"The meeting was far ahead of that recently held in Peterborough, notwithstanding that it was principally the same horses that made it so." Then at the foot of an item regarding the test of the new locks railway bridge here, and the effect the new line will have on local railway affairs, it says :—"The through service will bring another large section into more immediate connection with Lindsay. The whole system will in the spring or summer be worked from this point." To both of these the Post man should have added frankly the proviso, "in our humble opinion," or something of the sort, as these statements have, probably, no other foundation.

Joining Hands.

There is now on exhibition in Mr. R. W. Musgrove's show window a complete set of jubilee silver coinage, the property of Mr. T. Bell Bennett, which he received from England this week. The collection is a pretty one, and the display will excite much admiration and interest.

Welsh's Bakery.

Mr. E. Welsh, of the Toronto Restaurant, George street, has completed his new bake shop. A new furnace even of the latest design has been put in, and the services of a practical baker from the city of Montreal have been engaged. Customers of this thriving and popular firm can now be supplied with bread and pastry of the best make.

Phrenology.

Last evening one of our leading merchants stated to J. W. Crouter that he was familiar with Prof. O. S. Fowler's books. Professor Crouter drew his attention to one of his own works. The merchant admitted that it was more elegant in composition than Fowler's works. To test Prof. Crouter's skill the merchant got his head examined. Then four others became interested and also got their heads examined; so accurate was Prof. Crouter's delineation of their traits of character and talents that it seemed like an epitome of the history of their lives. Professor Crouter will remain a few days longer at the City Hotel, Peterborough. 1d

Press Comments.

Refering to Bishop Dowling, of Peterborough, who lectured in Port Hope Wednesday evening, the Guide says :—"The Bishop is a fine appearing gentleman, with a good flow of language and pleasing delivery. While all the audience might not agree with the lecture, there was not one offensive reference made to any other church. We regret that a want of space prevents us giving a full report of the lecture." The Times says :—"His Lordship's name does not belie his nationality and the good humor circling his mouth and the twinkle in his eyes at once gained for him the good-will of his auditors. A large portion of Irish eloquence is his. He has the most consummate control of speech and emphasizes his flights of feeling or flashes of humor by instantaneous assumption of solemnity or humor."

An Optician's Visit.

Mr. N. Stanley, of London, England, and Toronto, a practical optician, will visit Peterborough for one day only, Monday, Feb. 13th. He will be present at Ormond & Walsh's Drug Store, prepared to adjust the best of lenses to different requirements of impaired vision. Mr. Stanley intends sending a practical optician to Ormond & Walsh's, Peterborough, at regular intervals who will be competent to measure and accommodate every defect of the eyesight that is prevalent. He will in every instance use the firm's celebrated spectacles and eyeglasses, so well known to-day throughout the civilized world for the delightful ease and comfort they confer on the wearer. There is no glimmering, wavering, dizziness, or other distressing sensations so common in the many inferior grades at present in the market but they comfort, strengthen and preserve the sight. No charge made for examination. 1w3d

Honor to Whom Honor.

A number of warm friends of Mr. T. Dunn, Peterborough's popular baritone vocalist, learning that he was about to join the ranks of the benedicts, invited him last night to supper at the Hub. Dr. Kincaid occupied the chair, with Mr. J. P. Dunn in the vice-chair. After supper, toasts were the order of the evening, the chairman proposing "Our Guest," to which Mr. Dunn replied in a happy manner. Afterwards a complimentary address was read by Mr. A. McNeil, accompanied by the presentation of a beautiful silver tea service. Other toasts followed of the usual order, and the gathering broke up with three cheers for their guest, who was voted unanimously a jolly good fellow, a first-class singer and one entirely worthy of the shower of congratulations and good wishes which were raised upon his head. For years Mr. Dunn has been a shining light in the social and musical circles of Peterborough, and his thirty or more male friends in thus honoring him have but practically interpreted and carried out to realization the sentiment existing in the hearts of all classes of citizens, with whom the EXAMINER unites most heartily in wishing Mr. Dunn many, many happy years of connubial bliss and vocal triumph such as he is capable of achieving.

The Knights o' the Stane.

Two Contests on the Rink on Friday.

Friday afternoon the Toronto Small Boys and Eastern Ontario Infants came together on the ice here in mortal combat, and there was great puffing, and blowing, and heavy stepping, and shouting for a few hours. The "younkers" averaged about 250 pounds in weight, and the match was watched with interest by a number of spectators. The visitors from Toronto were victorious, but their win is protested against by their opponents, who claim that the rink did not play as challenged. "Tom" McGaw was the challenger from Toronto, and proposed to act as skip, yet the Torontos on Friday substituted J. J. Wright. The district men claim that they would have won had the original conditions been adhered to. Following is the score :

Chemong Lake Railway and Bethune Street Residents.

A copy of the following letter was forwarded on the 10th inst. to Mayor Stevenson—it speaks for itself, and unless the town council look after the interests of those injured on Bethune street, as suggested by our local representative, their rights will be done away with by the by-law passed by the council of 1868. It seems strange that if residents along Bethune street are entitled to a certain amount of compensation for the use of that street for a line running to Lakefield, that the double convenience of using the street for a line running to Chemong Lake, should command no compensation at all. It would appear that the town council in 1868 made a bad bargain and it seems to be the duty of the same corporation (except as to personnel) to take some interest in protecting the rights of the residents of Bethune street under the proposed new arrangement. It is at least doubtful if anything can be done, but it is certainly the duty of the corporation of this town to make a most vigorous attempt to protect the interests of Bethune street residents :—

Jas. Stevenson, Esq., M.P., Mayor of Peterborough :—

DEAR SIR,—By this mail I send you a copy of a bill intitaled "An Act to incorporate the Peterborough and Chemong Lake Railway Company," presented to the Ontario Legislature by, practically, the Grand Trunk Railway Company, to authorise them to extend their road from Peterborough to Chemong Lake. By reference to the text of the proposed bill you will observe that the interests of certain parties on Bethune street are likely to be subjected to additional injury to that they claim they have already sustained by the use of that street for railway purposes.

I have been requested by certain parties on Bethune street to use my influence on the Railway Committee in opposition to the passage of the Bill as it stands. While being willing to meet their wishes so far as lies in my power, I find that my efforts will be handicapped to a very serious extent by the by-law passed by the Council in 1868.

It is, therefore, apparent that the Council of the town of Peterborough can exercise greater influence in defeating the proposed legislation than any private individual can hope to exert. If the Town Council feel that it is their duty to look after the interests of those ratepayers concerned, it seems to me that it would be a wise and effective course for the Council to memorialize the legislature in opposition to the proposed Bill as it now stands.

In view of the by-law of 1868, passed by your council, it is probable that the body which passed the by-law in question would exert the greatest influence in having the legislature place a clause in the Bill guaranteeing protection to residents of Bethune street.

Permit me to call your attention to the following clause of the by-law, which has an evident bearing upon the present position of affairs :

"Provided always that the Railway Company or their lessees do pay to this council an annual rental of one hundred and "fifty-six dollars, so long as they "continue to use said extension of the said "railway, as provided for in this by-law, "and until said railway extension is completed to Chemong Lake, when the said rental "shall cease."

If the completion of this road to Chemong Lake would be recognised as complying with the by-law of 1868 (and I think it would be) you will observe that the annual amount paid to your council on completion of said road will cease, and the smaller amounts payable to the injured parties on Bethune street will also cease, while the injury to them is being increased by additional trains running to and from Chemong Lake.

I trust you will give this matter the careful and immediate attention which it demands.

I have sent copies of the bill to several parties on Bethune street, and I would suggest that it would be well for you to have the bill looked into so as to see that no powers are given to the Company other than those they are legitimately entitled to.

An early reply will oblige.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

Otonabee's Hospitality.

How the Brethren Charm their Friends.

The "At Home" entertainment of Otonabee Lodge, held at their rooms Friday evening, was a delightful success in every respect but one—the attendance was rather limited and consequently the primary object—a relief fund for an affiated family—was missed. Grand Warden Dr. Bell occupied the chair, and stated that it might seem incongruous to charge an admission fee to an "At Home," but the object sought explained that anomoly. Friday night there were numerous parties held, advantage being taken of the brief time before the coming of Lent. However, the spacious rooms were sufficiently well filled for comfort, and the brethren having made the most ample provision for the comfort and entertainment of guests, a delightful evening's enjoyment was provided. The musical programme presented, though brief, made up in merit what it lacked in length. The first number was an overture by the orchestra, "Chevalier Breton"—Hermann—which was exceedingly well performed. Mr. T. Dunn followed with a vigorous and finished rendering of Roeckl's "Storm King," which gave great delight, though the singer was suffering considerably with a cold. Mr. Dunn, in the second part, gave, by special request, "On the Rolling Wave," and captured his audience so completely that he was recalled, and sang, with all his old-time, happy success, "The Gay Hussar." A violin solo, with a piano accompaniment by Prof. Doucet—Dancla's "4th Air Varie," on a theme of Mercadante—was rendered by Miss Louise Yokoose with a success and spirit which met with appreciative applause. Miss Howden followed with a splendid presentation of Denza's "Come to Me." Since her last appearance in Peterborough Miss Howden has made marked improvement in her singing. She was greeted with a most hearty encore, to which she replied with a spirited rendering of Balasco's "Creep into Bed, My Baby." Miss Howden was equally successful in her treatment of "Our Last Waltz," by Milley. Miss Macdonald, a pianiste whose brilliant performances have often charmed Peterborough audiences, carried off the "palm" in a capital rendition of "Les Rameaux," by Leybach. The orchestra gave two more selections, the latter introducing a capitally performed clarionet solo by Mr. Oliver. The programme was a most satisfactory and meritorious one, every number having a distinct claim to admiration. During the intermission between the two part of the programme, the guests were made free of the rooms and partook of the excellent refreshments provided by the ladies and capitally served by Messrs. Long Bros.

After the general audience had retired a number of young persons remained to enjoy the music of the orchestra for an hour or two.

Altogether the entertainment, in the matter of first-class enjoyment, was a most pronounced success, and a debt of gratitude is due the members of the entertainment committee, consisting of Mr. E. E. Henderson, chairman; and Messrs. Wm. Clarton, G. J. Early, W. F. Green and John Nugent.

The Matter of the Irregular Election of Officers.

The following correspondence has passed in reference to the suspected irregular election of officers of the West Riding Agricultural Society at the annual meeting :—

Parliament Buildings,
Toronto, February 9th, 1888.

Wm. Rutherford, Esq.,
Pres. West Peterborough Ag'l. Society.

DEAR SIR,—I referred the question in regard to the election of officers in Agricultural Societies to the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer.

I enclose you a copy of a letter received from him on the subject, which will give you the information desired. The attached reply is from the Deputy Attorney General, to whom Mr. Ross referred the matter.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

TORONTO, 8th February, 1888.

The Hon. A. M. ROSS, Provincial Treasurer.

MY DEAR MR. ROSS,—With reference to Mr. Stratton's letter, I beg to advise that, in my opinion, no person can vote at the election of officers, unless he has paid his membership subscription for the year then next ensuing. See section 70 of the Agricultural and Arts Act. The payment must be made before the poll is opened. The mere nomination of a director by a person who is not legally a voter is of no consequence. Nomination is not a necessary pre-requisite, as any person might offer himself to the meeting as a director. Such of the directors as are elected by the votes of persons not having paid their subscriptions prior to the opening of the poll are not legally elected, unless they otherwise had a majority of legal votes. The same rules would apply to the special meeting to be called under section 73, where the election is illegal and void. All persons entitled to vote would be those who had paid their subscriptions prior to the opening of the poll. My opinion is also that an officer of the society must have paid his subscription. See section 71, by which it is declared that membership subscriptions paid after the presiding officer has declared the poll open shall not render the person paying eligible as an officer.

I return Mr. Stratton's letter.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) E. F. B. JOHNSTON.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amazed. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, the Public, lamb-like, will take it all in and believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is expecting altogether too much. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man lies about his actual purchases, or about his actual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the House giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid for his last purchase. —The Goods were bought at Auction for Cash and comprise largely, just such Goods as are in actual demand at this season of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR. Don't be hoodwinked, don't be misled with trumpery in the way of premiums. All the stuff given away only represents 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

DOLLAR.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost the compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realizing a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $6.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $3.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, would be as cheap as dirt at $6.95 Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trashy, shoddy Goods, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 98c. Children's China Tea Sets complete in Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 50c. Satchells cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods at ½ regular prices.

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

NO CERTAINTY OF PEACE.

IN SPITE OF PRINCE BISMARCK'S VIEWS TO THE CONTRARY.

Military Activity Continues on Every Side—War Believed to be Imminent in Berlin Official Circles—The Czar Powerless to Avert Hostilities.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The feeling of relief produced by the Iron Chancellor's speech in the Reichstag has faaded awy, and it is being realized that in reality it only left the Czar the alternative of peace or war, while pointing out the road along which Russia can retire if the Czar feels he can retreat safely.

Advices from St. Petersburg published in Saturday's National Zeitung say that the Czar eulogizes Bismarck's remarks within his entourage, but that the official opinion holds that the words and diplomacy of the Chancellor cannot be reconciled. The Austro-German league of peace is still an offensive alliance against Russia, and requires active preparations for an inevitable war and an alliance to counterpoise the league. It is believed that if the Berlin official press were permitted to express a frank opinion on the situation it would be found to coincide with Russian public opinion.

St. Petersburg advices published in Saturday's National Zeitung assert that the Czar eulogizes within his own circle Prince Bismarck's remarks, but that Russian official opinion holds that the Chancellor's words and diplomacy are irreconcilable. The Austro-German league of peace continues to be in the eyes of the Czar's advisers an offensive alliance against Russia, requiring unabated preparations for the inevitable war, and an alliance to counterpoise the league. If the official press of Berlin were permitted to give frank utterance of its opinion on the situation it would be found to censur in Russia's convictions.

The North German Gazette goes into the subject at length. It says the conflict still exists and is undiminished in intensity, although Prince Bismarck's speech relieved the minds of the people from fear of an immediate conflict. This is only partially correct, for while the public are somewhat reassured regarding the imminence of war, official and diplomatic circles are not. The sincerity of the Czar's desire for peace is not doubted, but though his professions are not suspected it is known that influences around him, which he appears to be unable to resist, continue to work in the direction of war. The present Czar has even less control of affairs than his father had. He is now guided largely by the advice of M. Sinovieff, director of the Asiatic department of the Foreign Office. M. Sinovieff is a prominent Pan-Slavist and an old friend of the late M. Katkoff.

Subjected, through personal influences, to the war tendency of a majority of the Council of the Empire and to the anti-German policy of a majority of the ministry, it is impossible for the Czar to retrace his steps, which are leading to a collision with the allied powers. Nor do the Berlin and Vienna Governments expect him to do so, despite their ostentatious efforts toward conciliation.

A semi-official communication published in The Politische Correspondence of Vienna, briefly summing up and elucidating Prince Bismarck's speech, says he had neither a threatening nor an appeasing object. The appearance of the treaty and Prince Bismarck's comments thereon were intended for future historical reference. Should a breach of the peace eventually arise the entire burden, as well as the terrible responsibility, will fall exclusively upon Russia.

Military activity continues in full swing on every side.

Death of a Prominent Montreal Q.C.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—W. H. Kerr, Q.C., died to-day of pneumonia. The late Mr. Kerr was one of the most prominent lawyers in Montreal. He was born in 1826, admitted to the Bar in 1847, made a Q.C. in 1873, and Batonnier-General of the Bar of the Province of Quebec in 1877. He was professor of international law at McGill University.

Missing British Steamers.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—The British steamers Darien, Lafra and Algitha, each with a crew of about twenty-five, sailed from Cardiff early in December for Carthagenia to load iron ore for this city, and no tidings from them have since been heard.

THE NEWS FROM EUROPE.

LORD SALISBURY'S UTTERANCES IN THE HOUSE CRITICIZED.

Gloomy Prospects of the Crown Prince's Recovery—Expected Resignation of the Italian Ministry—British Preparations for an Emergency.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Discount was easy during the past week at 1¼ to 1½. Business on the Stock Exchange was extremely inactive. Foreign securities soon lost the advance resulting from Prince Bismarck's speech. In American railroad securities business continued to be limited, but toward the end of the week there were symptoms of an upward reaction.

It seems certain that an employe of the balloon department at Chatham, named Templer, has sold secrets of the department to Italy. Plans of the English balloon were given to a Birmingham maker, and he constructed similar ones for the Italian Government. One has already been sent to Massowah.

By March 1 Saati will be entrenched and the troops will then advance toward Fort Jangas. Cattle has been purchased from the natives. Rasalula has arrived at Asmara.

The Italian Senate to-day, by a vote of 60 to 23, rejected a bill empowering the Government to re-organize the central administration. The Ministry is expected to resign as the Premier had announced that he would accept the passage of this bill as a vote of confidence.

The formation of a commission has been ordered by the Czar to remodel the laws respecting the Imperial family, in order to authorize the morganatic marriages of the younger members of the family under certain conditions.

A widespread interest is manifested in the condition of the Crown Prince. Scant information is afforded by the official bulletins, and the doctors do not readily respond to private inquiries.

Authentic details of the operation disclose the fact that it was hurriedly decided to perform it under chloroform. The operation lasted twenty minutes. The last words the Crown Prince spoke were addressed to the doctors bidding them to share his courage. Since the operation he has written a few words, expressing his sense of relief and ease.

The discussion as to the real nature of the Crown Prince's ailment has been resumed. Dr. Bergman's visit to San Remo is expressly for the purpose of reporting to the Emperor the latest phase of the case. Meanwhile the German doctors who have been consulted since the first indication of the malady, continue to hold the opinion that the disease is cancer associated with perichondritis. The Crown Prince's life may be prolonged under favorable conditions for two or three years without the ablation of the larynx.

The Emperor and Prince William were intensely affected pending the result of the operation. Prince William did not sleep throughout Thursday night and proposed to instantly depart for San Remo, but Prince Bismarck opposed this step on the ground that it would add to the public excitement and sense of danger. Princess William, who is now near confinement, joined in the effort to induce Prince William to remain in Berlin.

The Crown Prince sat up several hours this afternoon. He is exceedingly well and lively.

An order has been issued by the British War office directing that a statement be prepared at each military centre, detailing the facilities for summoning the reserves and strengthening the battalions from the depots within forty-eight hours, should the necessity arise to mobilize the army.

In an article in The Journal des Debats, of Paris, criticizing the assertion made by Lord Salisbury in the House of Lords, that the only danger to British interests in Southeastern Europe might arise from some adventurous or illegal action on the part of Russia, Mr. John Lemoine asks if England is ready to wash her hands of the Bulgarian illegal revolution, which was a flagrant violation of the Berlin treaty.

The article says, "Prince Bismarck has admitted that according to the spirit of the treaty Bulgaria is morally dependent upon Russia. England may protest, but what Lord Salisbury calls illegality would be simply a return to the legal status the Berlin Congress created. An agreement upon the question is as remote as ever. The agitation is smoldering in one corner of Europe and will one day rekindle the everlasting Eastern question, from which point of view Lord Salisbury's language is less reassuring than Prince Bismarck's."

On the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, the Prince and Princess of Wales have declined all proposals for a public celebration, but give countenance to the silver fete, which will take place in the Horticultural Gardens, Kensington, during the week following the anniversary. The proceeds will be devoted to the Victoria Hospital for Children.

A pack of caged wolves escaped from Sanger's circus to-day. The elephants, camels, horses and other animals became mad with terror, and were released with difficulty. The wolves having been trapped in a stable, furiously devoured a slain horse. They still fiercely defy capture.

Satisfaction is expressed at the decision of Lord Lansdowne to relinquish his post in March, Lord Stanley arriving in Canada in May, because Lord Lansdowne will have six months to get in touch with English public opinion before proceeding to India.

The Privy Council to-day dismissed the petition for leave to appeal against the Supreme Court's reversal of the Queen's Bench's decision in the case of the North Shore Railway v. Beaudet and others. The Lords hold that the judgment of the Supreme Court ought to be final.

The Bishop of Coyne has issued a Lenten pastoral, in which he says: "Never was the all-powerful grace of God more needed to enable our people to refrain from retaliating by acts of crime and violence against those whom they have too much reason to regard as enemies. While exhorting you to patience it is by no means my intention to counsel tame submission to a harsh, oppressive law, framed for the purpose of depriving you of the rights of free citizens. All that is required is the avoidance of any crime or outrage condemned by Divine law."

The Times' London correspondent says he has been informed that Lord Dufferin resigned the viceroyalty of India because he could not approve of the Government's course in Ireland. He is likely to be heard from soon

WILL THE END EVER COME?

FURTHER EVIDENCE OF THE CENTRAL'S MISMANAGEMENT.

Sworn Testimony Heaped Up Day After Day—Valuable Time Lost in the Liquidatorship Controversy—Official List of the Bank's Shareholders.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.

To the making of books there is no end, and sorties the end is not yet to the sad tale of the ruin of the Central Bank. Day by day the plot thickens. Affidavit follows affidavit, and witnesses succeed each other in giving each his testimony to the gross mismanagement of the bank. Allegations on oath are met with sworn denials, and so the long-drawn-out proceedings go until the unhappy shareholders are wroth and perplexed and the public weary of the contradictory versions.

One thing, however, is certain—that the holders of Central Bank stock are in many instances ruined. It may also be opined that under the present liquidators the tangled web will never be unwoven. Hence the sooner these internecine disputes are settled the better will it be for the estate. The outlook is in truth gloomy enough without the spectacle of divided counsels and criminatory and recriminatory charges week after week.

Many shareholders think that the best solution of the matter would be to cut the Gordian knot and let the three incompatibles resign. There would then be a fresh selection and the work secured. In the meantime the law's delays are irksome and expensive and are not tending to anything like a pacific solution. The personal element in the controversy increases, whilst the commercial aspect of the concern is depreciated.

On Saturday Messrs. Howland and Gooderham filed affidavits impugning Mr. Campbell's allegations. Simon Magnus Davis, too, recounted his transactions with Barnett, Baxter and Campbell; whilst Solicitor Henry O'Brien and Accountant Lye extenuated and explained.

The cry is "Still they come," and the lawyers will as in duty-bound retort "the more the merrier."

The shares in the Central were $100 each, and nearly all of them fully paid up. The list below gives the amount in which each shareholder is still liable to the liquidators under the double liability clause, and which amount must be paid by the unfortunate shareholders. Some of them will not be able to meet the demand and will simply refuse to pay; others are good for it, but will have to be given time; still others will pay up and be done with it. The post office address is only given in the case of those who live out of Toronto.

The Master has appointed Thursday, March 1 next, to settle the list of contributories, and has directed that each of the parties named on the list below be notified to show cause on that day why they should not be adjudged liable for the number of shares, and for the amounts charged against them, and also why calls should not be made from time to time, until a sufficient amount be realized from the shareholders or contributories to satisfy the claims of the creditors of the bank.

Barrymore Will Leave Mrs. Langtry.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Langtry has released Mr. Maurice Barrymore, her present leading support, from his contract, and Mr. Charles Coghlan will rejoin the company next week. The release was at the request of Mr. Barrymore, and with the provision that he should secure some one to take his place. Mr. Barrymore has other interests which he wants to attend to. He believes that Sardou has stolen "La Tosca" bodily from his play of "Nadieska." The American version of "La Tosca" will be produced shortly in New York by Fanny Davenport, and he wishes to be on hand to assist his attorney in the legal fight which they contemplate. Mr. Barrymore, it is said, will leave Mrs. Langtry's company on next Saturday week.

The disagreement between Mrs. Langtry and Mr. Coghlan at the beginning of the season was not serious. Mr. Coghlan, who has been under contract with A. M. Palmer, has been released by that gentleman for the purpose of rejoining Mrs. Langtry's company.

ALBERT BEATS THE RECORD.

The End of the Walking Match—Teemer Wins Again—General Sporting Notes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Madison-square Garden was densely packed to-night to witness the close of the six-days' contest. Great crowds were at the doors clamoring for admittance, but unable to enter. Shortly before 9 o'clock Albert completed the last lap of the 626 miles which put him even with the record of Fitzgerald and entered upon a field absolutely his own. Albert's pleasure as he broke the record was somewhat marred by a brewing company serving him with an attachment for $17A. The men who served the attachment tried to take him from the track a little before 9 o'clock, but were persuaded to let him remain finally. Albert stayed on the track until the expiration of the 142d hour, when he retired, leaving two laps of his 627th mile unfinished. Of the fifty-four men who started in the race a week ago only thirteen were in at the finish, and eight of these covered more than 625 miles. The winner finished the freshest man in the race. During the week he rested nineteen hours twenty-six minutes and fifty seconds, and his actual score in 141 hours was 621 miles and 1230 yards. The final score is as follows: Albert 627½, Herty 622, Guerrero 546, Hart 546, Golden 532, Moore 531, Strokel 525, Noremac 525, Dillon 510, Sullivan 253, Taylor 257, Tilly 220, Stout 207.

An estimate of the gate money to be received by the men who covered 525 miles and over is as follows: Albert $4800, Herty $2800, Guerrero $1600, Hart $920, Golden $720, Moore $450, Strokel $300, and Noremac $240. Total $11,800.

Another Victory for Teemer.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 12.—The 5-mile scuffling race at Punta Garde Saturday for $200 was witnessed by another great crowd. The men were in excellent condition, but the water was rough. Teemer took the lead at the start and led it throughout, McKay and Hamm holding well together. The second quarter was rowed against a strong wind. On the second turn Hamm's boat became waterlogged and he pulled to the shore and afterwards rowed over the course. Time: Teemer 41.46, McKay 41.50. Owing to rough water the distance was estimated at six miles.

The Gospel For All Nations.

An Instructive Address upon Home Missionary Work -- Presbyterianism in the Northwest.

Rev. J. Robertson, a Northwest missionary, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church Sunday morning, and delivered a highly interesting and practical address upon home mission work. The reverend gentleman spoke from passages in the books of Mark and the Acts, comprising the command of Jesus Christ to his disciples to preach the word to all nations. As the disciples could not possibly complete the work, the speaker said it fell to the lot of the Christian Church to-day to carry the Gospel to all men. In this connection he said he would speak to his congregation of his own especial work in the Northwest, which he did particularly in view of the fact that they were at a crisis. Last year the expenditure on home missions had been some $46,000, with income of only $24,000, leaving a deficit of some $22,000 against them, which there was no hope of raising this year. The consequence was they would have to economize as much as possible by discontinuing the work in certain fields of labor, which would at the same time prevent any expansion of their territory. The speaker then went on to give some details of the home mission work. In Quebec, he said, there were many flaxen-haired, blue eyed people bearing Scotch names, descendants of Highlanders, who had come over with the British army, married French women, been and were now among the strongest supporters of the Roman Catholic church. He would like, he said, to give these a helping hand in returning to the faith of their forefathers. Then in the Nipissing and Muskoka districts people were settling rapidly, and they were doing as well as they could, but they were looking to us, he said, for the Gospel. The people in the far west were also looking in this direction for light. Were they to be left? By this policy of retrenchment, he said, there would be some 2,000 Presbyterian families in the Northwest left without the means of grace. If might be asked, said the reverend gentleman, what led up to this situation of affairs. A few years ago, he said, a couple of Montreal gentlemen had given the Home Mission Committee $15,000 each for evangelization purposes, which was laid away at the time. But of late years the railways had opened up the vast country to the west and north of us, it had been settled rapidly, and the people along the lines asked for ministers. So the committee considered it better to comply with their requests rather than keep the money in the treasury. The result now was, the money was gone and there was in its place a deficit of over $20,000. And when the extent of the territory was considered and the fact that not more than 55 per cent. of it was settled, the difficulties in the way of mission work could be understood. The people in the east sometimes thought the people of the west were but when the matter was looked into it was seen to be not the case. The people of this Presbytery, with all their advantages, he said, last year gave $12.21 each for all church purposes, while those of the Northwest gave $21.94 each. To show the power of Presbyterianism in Manitoba, the speaker gave some figures from the Dominion census. The census gave Manitoba a population of 108,000. Of these 14,000 were Roman Catholics, and 94,000 Protestants, the latter divided as follows:—18,000 Methodists, 23,000 Anglicans, 3,000 Baptists, less than 1,000 Congregationalists, and 25,000 Presbyterians. These figures, he said, would show the successes of the past, the responsibility of the future, and the power of Presbyterianism at present. A census of the North-west, taken a few years before that of Manitoba, showed that 32 per cent. of the white population were Presbyterians. During the past year, he said, they had built 120 churches and manses, whereas during the preceding eight years only eight had been built. There was not a settlement of any importance between lake Superior and the Rocky Mountains where they didn't hold services. At present they had over 400 mission stations in the North-west, of which 140 had been built last year. Still there was

DIVERTED BY THEIR CHURCH,

LEANING TOO MUCH UPON THEM,

VAST ROOM FOR EXPANSION.

In the district of the valley of the Columbia river, he said, there were some 200 white men who had applied to the Anglican and Methodist churches for missionaries, in vain, and for years they had not heard the Gospel. Were these to be left? This big deficit of $20,000 stopped all church extension. Up north and west of Kamloops there were families who had lived there for 30 and 40 years. The railway was now running through there, and the church should keep up the work instead of falling away. Speaking of British Columbia, the reverend gentleman referred to the liquor traffic which was carried to excess in that land, destroying all hopes of morality and religion. The annual average consumption of liquor in British Columbia, he said, was estimated to be 22 gallons a head. Were these people to be let alone? The speaker said he could multiply instances such as these. The vast Northwest was filling up rapidly, calling upon the churches for still further efforts, and instead of curtailing her mission she should expand and enlarge more than ever. The reverend speaker concluded with an urgent appeal in behalf of home mission work, which, he said, should not be neglected for the claims of foreign work.

"GUS" KERR IS A PRISONER.

Charged With Getting Money Under False Pretences.

TORONTO, Feb. 13.

A. T. Kerr, familiarly called "Gus" by his associates, the quondam successful stock broker at Scott and Front streets, who returned from [illegible], three months ago, and who in his day of prosperity was one of the high rollers of Toronto, known and talked of in all circles for his escapades and high living, was arrested at 10 o'clock Saturday night in his boarding-house at 3 Clarence-square by Detectives Robern and McGrath. The warrant upon which the arrest was made charges the prisoner with unlawfully, fraudulently and knowingly by false pretences obtaining from the Central Bank of Canada the sum of $450. The warrant was issued by N. C. Love, J.P., on Saturday, at the instance of Inspector Johnson of St. Paul's Police Station, a creditor of the defunct institution.

The money was obtained from the bank on May 2 last on a check made by himself on the Bank of Commerce, Buffalo, and which, the bank officials allege, purported to have been marked good in the usual way by the Buffalo institution, and which was so represented to them by Kerr. On the same day Kerr secured the payment of another check made out in the same way, for about $700, and it is understood that he will also be proceeded against for this.

Kerr submitted to arrest quietly and was taken to St. Andrew's Station, where he spent the night and was removed to the jail yesterday morning, though his friends made every effort to secure his release on bail. He is reported to have said that he had not made any representations of the nature claimed regarding the checks to the Central Bank people, and that marks on them were placed there by the ledger keeper.

The prisoner's friends worked hard all day yesterday to induce County Attorney Badgerow to accept bail, but without success. One of Kerr's friends is said to have attempted a clever piece of work to get him out of the custody of the police. He called last night at St. Andrew's Station, evidently under the impression that Kerr was detained there, and presented an order purporting to have been signed by Mr. Badgerow for his release. It was subsequently learned by the police that no such order had been signed by the County Attorney.

FULL OF MYSTERY.

How is it That Annie Dogger Happened to be Set on Fire?

TORONTO, Feb. 13.

An inquest on the body of Annie Dogger, the young girl who met with a frightful death by burning at the house of W. H. Saunders, 30 Davies-avenue, on Friday morning, was held at the Hospital on Saturday afternoon, Coroner Duncan presiding.

The jury viewed the body of the deceased, which presented a frightful sight, after which W. H. Saunders was called as the first witness. He said that about two months ago he rented a room to Mrs. Baker, who lived there since. Her daughter, Annie Baker, lived with her part of the time, but for the past week Annie Dogger, the deceased, came to wait on Mrs. Baker, who was sick. On Friday morning about 2 o'clock he heard a noise upstairs, and went up to stop it. When he got half way up he discovered that the house was on fire. He ran out and gave the alarm. He shouted for the girls at the top of his voice, but there was no reply. Finally he heard a groan in the room opposite to where the fire was, and opening it he saw Annie Dogger. A policeman broke in the window and took her out. The policeman laid her on a snow bank and put out the fire that was still burning about her. He did not know how the fire started. He believed there was liquor upstairs, but he could not say certainly.

Dr. O'Reilly gave testimony regarding the girl's arrival at the Hospital and her death at about noon on Friday. Dr. Stephenson also gave medical evidence.

Dr. Teskey gave testimony as to the girl's condition. The burns covered two-thirds of the surface of her body.

George Moore said he was one of the first in the house after the fire broke out. He put out the fire with a few pailfuls of water, but could not say whether there was a lamp upset in the room or not. When the girl was brought across the street to his house she kept calling to some imaginary person to "go out."

Frank Baker, son of the Mrs. Baker, said he was at the house at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening, but did not know anything of the affair.

Mrs. Baker said she was too ill to get up when she heard about the fire. She slept downstairs and the girls slept upstairs. She did not drink anything that night. No one that she saw came to visit the girls, who slept together.

Constable Sawdon described his rescuing the deceased. Her clothing was all burned except her corsets, part of her stockings and her boots. He took her by the arm and she walked across the road to Mr. Moore's place. She said: "Oh, Mr. Policeman, give me a drink of water."

Patrol Sergeant Cross also gave testimony as to the rescue and getting a doctor to attend.

Annie Baker, who was summoned, was not present, owing to injuries she received at the fire. She being the only one who could tell whether there was foul play or not connected with the death of the unfortunate girl, the inquest was adjourned till Tuesday evening to get her evidence.

THE INTERSTATE BILL.

A Foolish Proposal to Prevent Canadian Goods Carrying Bonded Goods.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—An excited discussion took place yesterday in the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee affecting Canadian interests. In short, the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk railways do not come under the operation of the Interstate law, and yet, according to American laws, goods may be shipped from a point in the United States, across Canada in bond, to be delivered at another point in the first-named country. Under the Act of 1886 over these roads and companies are now bonded and allowed to take goods through Canada. Among those are included the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific, the Michigan Southern, Wells, Fargo & Co., Pennsylvania, New York Central, Erie, in fact, all the large transportation companies. Secretary Fairchild brought down a return showing that the revenue had been fully protected against frauds in this matter.

General J. H. Wilson appeared before the committee and advocated absolute prohibition of the shipping of American goods over Canadian roads. He alleged that the Canadians would not allow their goods to be bonded through the United States. [This is an error, as goods are often bonded between Ontario and Manitoba.] What the American roads complained of most was not the freight they lost to the Grand Trunk Railway and Canadian Pacific Railway, but that these latter did not come under the Interstate law. Wilson went on to show that his proposal would force Canadians into annexation—and he his proposal they would soon be bankrupt.

Senator Allcock asked if the proposed change would not result in doubling the rates of freight to American shippers. Mr. Wilson thought not. So did Senator Reagan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—In reference to the above The Tribune correspondent at Washington says that the committee are likely to report remedial provisions, as the expressions were unanimous in favor of putting a stop to the Canadian favoritism complained of.

The Sun goes further and raises a howl over the subject. It insists on the adoption of this clause:

"And nothing in this act shall be construed to allow any common carrier to receive any freight in the United States to be carried in sealed cars or in bond by railway through a foreign country to any other place in the United States free of duty; and all laws and regulations which have been construed to permit such practice are hereby repealed."

The Sun lays special stress on a statement that the Canadian Government refuses to allow Manitoba wheat to be bonded through the United States.

MR. COHNFELD'S HORSES.

A Settlement Arrived at by the Minister of Customs.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—The seizure made last month of some horses and several sets of gold and silver mounted harness, horse clothing, etc., from Mr. Isidore Cohnfeld of New York, at the port of Toronto, for undervaluation and false entry, was settled on Saturday by the Minister of Customs. According to the statement made the undervaluation amounted to something over $2000. But after the receipt of further evidence from the importer the Minister consented to submit the case to appraisement by experts. These were selected by the Collector of Customs at Toronto, and in the evidence presented by them there was apparently some error made in valuation, the amount adjudged being considered altogether too low by the department. The collector was therefore instructed to submit the case to two merchants engaged in the same business, and who handled goods similar to those seized and who were consequently, in the nature of things, more familiar with the value of such articles. The award submitted by the second appraisers was considered to have erred in the opposite extreme, and, after a careful estimation, the Minister decided to make a reduction upon the second appraisement, which would be about midway between the two. Under the decision then arrived at Mr. Cohnfeld will be called upon to pay a little over $300 as extra duty and fine, to which ruling he has consented.

The frequenters of these houses included Catholics and people who move in the highest circles of society.

Attempt to Steal Judge Neilson's Body.

KINGSTON, Feb. 11.—An attempt was made on Thursday to steal the body of ex-Judge Neilson of Brooklyn, N.Y., who tried the Beecher-Tilton case, from the vault at Merrin, about twenty miles from here, where it was deposited two weeks ago. It was conveyed there for burial alongside his ancestors, the ex-Judge having been born at Merrin in 1832.

What a Blizzard is Like.

This last one struck us at Sioux Falls about 3.30 or 4 o'clock the afternoon of January 12. It had been snowing that morning and the day was mild and clear and thawing a little, when all at once, almost like a flash of lightning, the blizzard struck us and instantly the wind from the northwest gathered up the six inches of light snow which had fallen and filled the air with it. It was at the very worst time of day, too, when people were watering their stock or coming home from town, and children were coming home from school. The thermometer dropped in a hour or two from about 60 to zero and kept on going down until it was 22 below the next morning, but it was perfectly clear then. In fact, the blizzard did not last over six or eight hours. But while it lasted it was very severe. The air seemed charged with electricity and the snow whirled up from the ground, for I do not think any snow fell during the storm. It was like fine sand.

"A peculiarity of the blizzard is that, while generally coming from the northwest, it seems to blow in little whirls or eddies, which keep the snow in the air and make it impossible to tell really which way the wind is coming from. You turn your back to it and you will find you are facing it, and this is what bewilders people. It is as different from an ordinary wind and snow storm as a cyclone is different from a summer breeze. You see it coming like the fog flowing in from the sea, and in a moment it is upon you. Still, some people move about fearlessly in a blizzard, and seem to have no trouble in keeping their bearings, but others get offended and bewildered in a moment and then they are lost. The snow gets into their eyes and nose and mouth, and they are helpless.

POKING FUN.

The Public are at the moment, somewhat amused. They say the Tactics some business men are pursuing would lead one to believe that the General Community are taken for idiots; that they have only to make a statement, it matters not how grossly untrue it is, for the Public to immediately believe it, and will believe any word of it. Now, to place it mildly, this is supporting supposition to excess. However, it is quite true that the Public don't care a button how much a man brags on his usual purchases, as about his annual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the Home giving them the most for their money—all things being equal.

33 1/3 Cents.—Now these are the figures representing the actual average SHEPPARD paid dog-fish last stocktaking. The Geese were bought at Auction for Cash and promptly remedy, last week Monday we are to accept dozens at this moment of the year, and in buying them to-day you will positively save DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR don't care a button how much a man brags on his usual purchases, as about his annual sales, they are after the best value, or in other words they want to find the Home giving them the most for their money—all things being equal. DOLLAR, Don't be beguiled or misled, don't be swindled with trumpery in the way of premiums—All they do if honest, is give only superficial 10 per cent. on the actual purchases, when SHEPPARD is giving you about 30 per cent. off.

QUAKING, SHAKING, CRASHING, SLASHING.

But SHEPPARD cannot help this. If merchants pay too much for their Goods, and then have to sell at less than cost to compete with SHEPPARD'S prices on which he is realising a profit, who is to blame? Surely not Peterborough's Great Cheapside. SHEPPARD'S MISSION is to sell Goods as Cheap as the Cheapest man living, and a little cheaper if possible, and this is how he will do it.

LOT ONE.—Piles of Mens' Overcoats, regular price $3.75. This is an All Wool Coat, well made, and SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. This knocks the bottom clear out of anything ever shown before. Also Boys' Overcoats running up to Mens' sizes, regular price, $6.50, SHEPPARD'S price to-day is $2.95. Won't this shatter the prospects of the man who is after the earth.

LOT TWO.—Mens' Suits $3.75 and pure wool Canadian Tweed Suits in Mens' all sizes $4.95, worth $6 at SHEPPARD'S; also a job line of Boys' Suits, really nice and lots of them $1.95, and an Overcoat to match $1.95. Think of this, no trouble, SHEPPARD is not in that business.

LOT THREE.—'Xmas Goods, Plush Albums, regular price $2.00, SHEPPARD'S price 95c. Children's Cabs, Rocking Horses complete in (Gold and Cardinal, regular price $1.50, SHEPPARD'S price 65c. Sateboards cheap—in fact all 'Xmas Goods [illegible]

Now don't be humbugged or cajoled out of your hard earned money, but go straight to Sheppard's, where you will save Dollar for Dollar. This is a Monster Sale of Cheap Goods.

Assessors' Duties.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

The Assessment Act declares that, "the assessors shall prepare a roll in which, after diligent inquiry, they shall set down, according to the best information to be had, in separate columns, as follows :"

Name of taxable party—Column 2.

Statement whether the party is a freeholder, householder, tenant, or farmer's son—Column 4.

Name and address of the owner, when the party named in Column 2 is not the owner—Column 6.

Land occupied by the owner shall be assessed in his name—Column 14.

As to land not occupied by the owner, but of which the owner is known, and at the time of the assessment the same shall be assessed against such owner alone, if the land is unoccupied, or against the owner and occupant, if such occupant is any other person, column 15.

Where land is assessed against both owner and occupant, or owner and tenant, the assessors shall place both names within brackets on the roll, and shall write opposite the name of the owner the letter F., and opposite the name of the occupant or tenant the letter H. or T., AND BOTH NAMES SHALL BE NUMBERED ON THE ROLL, column 16.

The above shows that the assessors must first inquire of the person to be assessed. That they shall set down in separate columns the result of such inquiry, and whether the person in possession is tenant or owner. The object of this provision is that, if the taxes cannot be collected from the tenant, they may be charged against the owner and the land so that the owner may be notified thereof and a sale of the land avoided. The duties of the assessors are imperative and if they neglect these duties they are liable to punishment.

Firemen's Salaries.

To the Editor of the Examiner :—

SIR.—The Times this morning in a local item makes a charge against the members of the fire department of bulldozing the council into increasing their pay. The charge, I wish to deny. We have asked the council most respectfully to pay us what, in our opinion, would be a just remuneration for services rendered, making no threats as alleged by the Times. It is, I believe, the intention of the brigade to resign, if their request be not granted, but I think the council, from the past record of the brigade, should not give credit to a rumor that they would do anything so detrimental to the town as to resign per-emptorily,—which is not our intention,—but to give the council ample time to replace us if they think it is in the interests of the town to do so. This does not, I think, come under the head of bulldozing.

Yours, etc.,
FIREMAN.

Cox vs. Cavanagh.

Judgment was given in this case in the High Court of Justice, Common Pleas Division, at Toronto, Saturday, as follows :—"This was an action for ejectment and for mesne profits to recover possession of property in Peterborough known as Cavanagh's hotel. The jury found a verdict for defendant, who set up a verbal agreement for a lease for the period of ten years still unexpired. The plaintiff denied this, and further contended that such an agreement being verbal would be void, not being performed. The only act of part performance shown was payment of an increased rent. Judgment gives sustaining the verdict of the jury as to making of agreement, and holding (following the case of Nunn v. Fabian, L. R., 1 Ch. App.) that the part performance was sufficient to maintain the agreement, and plaintiff's motion to set aside the verdict for defendant dismissed with costs. Moss, Q.C., and Dumble (Peterborough), for plaintiff, for motion. Watson and Mostre (Peterborough) for defendant, contra."

Misplaced Confidence.

The following from the Coldwater Tribune makes a nice interesting local item, but it is a direct libel upon Peterborough hackmen just the same :—"Let those who travel read the subjoined heart-rending record of misplaced confidence, and take warning. There was a certain man of Washaushene, who thought he would take a trip to Peterborough. So he went, but the hackman of Peterborough fleeced him badly. He hired him a hack to catch the C.P.R. train, and although he missed it was not discouraged, but hied him to the Grand Trunk, calculating to get somewhere near his destination by that route. Now it was while he was on his way to the G.T.R. depot that the amazing guile of the hackman was manifested. The hackman drove up his hack and shouted to our friend on the sidewalk, "Take you to the Grand Trunk in two minutes, just in time to catch the train; half a dollar a head." The offer was accepted, and the Washaushene man with his family got in. They paid the cabman and then went to find the train. Imagine their disgust to find they were three hours ahead of train time, would have to go back up town again, and worst of all, had been made the victim of the heartless hackman. Let us in charity draw a veil over the state of that man's feelings."

Wood a Taxable Product.

Police Magistrate Annable Gives Decision in the Market By-law Case—Assessment of the Commodity—The Defendant Fined.

Argument in the case of Market Clerk Doherty against John H. Edmison, who refused to pay toll on a load of cordwood on the ground that the by-law did not demand it, was concluded this morning. Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, appeared for the prosecution; Mr. W. A. Stratton, for the defence.

Mr. STRATTON in his argument said :—

Under the law prior to 1882 the town council had power to pass by-laws for regulating the place and manner of selling (among other things) wood and the fees to be imposed therefor, and under the then law the council could regulate and exact a toll on wood not only when exposed for sale on the market place but on any place elsewhere in the town.

By the market Act of 1882, amended and consolidated in 1883, no municipality can impose a market fee upon wood (among other things) excepting a condition is first fulfilled and this condition is the passing of a by-law in pursuance of sec. 496 of 46 Vic. Ont., chap. 18.

And one of the questions to be decided is, does by-law No. 434 comply with the conditions of the above section.

Section 496 enacts that the preceding section (i.e. sec. 497, abolishing market fees) shall not apply to any municipality which shall pass, and so long as it shall keep in force, a by-law providing that the vendors of any articles in respect of which a market fee may, under the Act, be lawfully imposed, may, without paying any market fees, offer for sale, sell or otherwise dispose of any such articles at any place within the municipality, excepting only at and upon the market place or places thereof ; and the next subsection enacts that such a by-law framed as above may impose market fees on persons voluntarily using the market place.

What are the articles in respect of which a market fee may, under the Municipal Act, be lawfully imposed ?

These articles are defined by subsection 5 of section 503, 46 Vic., Ont., and they are grain, meat, vegetables, fish, hay, straw, fodder, wood, lumber, shingles, farm produce of every description, small ware and all other articles exposed for sale, and "other" here means articles ejusdem generis, as small wares.

Does By-law No. 434 provide that the vendor of such articles may, without paying market fees, offer for sale and sell or otherwise dispose of any of such articles at any place within the municipality, excepting only at and upon the market place?

This by-law makes no such provision and therefore does not comply with section 496. The by-law merely enacts that all such agricultural products and produce as are usually sold in the open air and brought into the town for sale may be sold or offered or exposed for sale as well in the said market place as elsewhere in the said town. The maxim, "expressum facit cessare tacitum" — an affirmative specification excludes implication —here clearly applies and the by-law virtually enacts that all articles not agricultural products or produce shall not be sold elsewhere in the town except in the market place. What do the words agricultural products or produce include? Do they include the term small-ware in its widest sense and such as trinkets, fancy goods? Are these articles "something produced by the cultivation of the soil"? Do the words agricultural products or produce include articles like fish, which are natural products, or words like lumber, lath and shingles, which in this country at least are natural products manufactured or altered into marketable shape.

By-law No. 434, therefore does not fulfil the condition imposed by section 496 and therefore section 497 is still in force enacting that :—

"No municipality shall impose, levy or collect a market fee upon any wheat, barley, rye, corn, oats or upon any other grain, or upon any hay or other seed or wool, lumber, lath or shingles, or cordwood or other firewood, or upon dressed hogs or cheese, or upon hay, straw or other fodder, &c."

In the second place, Bylaw No. 434 is clearly bad inasmuch as contrary to subsection 5 of section 497, it enacts in its 21st section that all firewood by the load shall, before being exposed or offered for sale, be measured by the market clerk. And subsection 22 of the By-law does not cure section 21, which enacts "that notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, it shall not be necessary to weigh or measure articles offered or exposed for sale on the market place upon which market tolls have been paid. The statute says generally no by-law shall require hay, straw or other fodder to be weighed or wood to be measured where neither the vendor or purchaser desires to have the same so weighed or measured and places no such restrictive clause therein as is contained in the town By-law, and it is admitted for the purposes of the trial that no request was made for measure by any person.

In the third place a conviction against the defendant would be clearly bad inasmuch as such conviction must be for breach of section 15 of the by-law, which section exacts a market toll of five cents "on each load of wood including measuring." This section virtually enacts that a market toll is payable on the article—a load of wood—and a market toll is payable on the measurment of such article, the sum total of which tolls is placed at five cents. It is impossible for us to say whether at the time the town legislators were enacting the by-law, they thought 2c. would be a fair toll for the article and 3c. for the measurement, or 4c. for the measurement and 1c. for the article. At any rate a fee for the measurement clearly enters into the calculation—more especially so as by section 21, the market clerk is directed in every case to measure, and a reasonable fee would naturally be intended as compensation. As it is admitted in this case that neither the vendor nor purchaser desired the measurement, any toll of which a fee for measurement was a component part, must be illegal and void under subsection 5 of section 497 of the Act of 1883. The Revised Statutes must be strictly construed and never extended by implication, and where there is such an ambiguity as to leave reasonable doubt of its meaning, the courts will not inflict the penalty.

THE PROSECUTION.

Mr. EDWARDS said the argument of the counsel for the defence only amounted to two contentions. The first was, the validity of the by-law; second, whether the by-law, by reason of its working, was not defective. As to the first, he said, the by-law under which the complaint was laid, complied with the Act of 1882 in regard thereto, plainly enacting that all goods for sale on the market, mentioning agricultural products, shall be subject to a toll. Section 497 provided for a toll on wood "when measured," but he held it did not imply that wood was only to be taxed when measured. The measuring was a gratuitous act on the part of the clerk, and the tax was imposed for the benefits the vendor derived from having an open market-place to sell from. Then, he held, there had been no contention that wood was not an agricultural product, and he claimed that it was directly a product of the soil, so that in any case it would come under the provisions of the by-law. In considering the by-law he argued that not one or two sections or clauses should be put together, but the by-law should be read as a whole and its intentions gathered from its whole tenor.

JUDGMENT.

Mr. DUMBLE, in rendering judgment, said the by-law provided that if a vendor chose voluntarily to go to the market to sell his goods, he should pay a small toll as fixed by Legislature. He dwelt upon the benefit the market was to farmers, who, he said, did they rightly consider the matter, could not consider the small tax they pay unjust or exorbitant. He held the by-law was valid, and under it the town had a right to imposethe toll. As regarded the measuring of wood he held that it was a gratuitous act and, not at all necessary to make the wood saleable. The only doubt in his mind, he said, was as to whether wood could be considered an agricultural product, but he maintained that in this country it was essentially so, as since the first settlement the operation of clearing and selling wood for profit had been continued. It was a valuable farm product. He held that the by-law had been broken in this case, and imposed a fine of $1 and costs.

This sweeping the police magistrate made a correction in the text since in regard to the market by-law. When the EXAMINER took the position some time ago that the by-law was bad we had they very strongest grounds for believing our opinion, in this matter was the correct one, and we still believe that our opinion is the correct one.

It is far too common for the magistrate to uphold town by-laws at every hazard and throw the onus of appeal in each case on the defendant and put him to every expense and trouble possible ; for the magistrate must know that even should the defendant win his case in appeal, the defendant is forced to put up his own costs out of his own pocket. Justice, it would seem, might be dealt out with more even hands, not alone in our lowest courts, but sometimes in the higher.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

AN EXPERIMENTAL FARM TO BE LOCATED IN WEST ASSINIBOIA.

Argument on the Petition for Repeal of the Scott Act in Simcoe County—Hon. Mr. Chapleau Intends to be Careful.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—The Government to-day decided on locating the departmental farm for the Northwest at Indian Head in West Assiniboia. The locality is a central one and considered ideal. The land is said to be excellent.

Hon W. R. Scott to-day argued before Mr. A. Power, Acting Deputy Minister of Justice the objections raised to the [illegible] grants of the Government [illegible] granted for [illegible] Act in the Province of Quebec. The grievance Act is [illegible] that they [illegible] self-mainly by attacking the genuineness of the signatures and questioning whether the signers were electors. After J. A. Ennil, counsel for the petitioners, had replied, the Acting Deputy Minister took the matter into consideration, and will report to the Minister of Justice.

Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, returned from Washington to-day. He, of course, declined to say anything about the progress of the negotiations except that he expected they would be concluded speedily and that Sir Chas. Tupper and Hon. Mr. Thompson would probably be home before the end of the week.

Col. Maunsell of the Imperial Brigade of Artillery, Tipperary, who is at the Russell, states that "C" Battery, stationed at Victoria, B.C., is one of the finest batteries he has ever seen. "The artillerymen," he added, "can compare favorably with those in the same branch of the Imperial service."

The Militia Department has not received any information of the reference to the atrocious from "B" Battery, Kingston, which, it is stated in The Mail of Saturday, had taken place since Feb. 1. In the report up to Jan. 31 there were three cases of "absent without leave," but these would not [illegible] deserters until the twenty-one days' grace allowed the offenders had expired.

Sir John and the other ministers who went to Quebec to attend the funeral of Sir A. P. Caron returned to the capital.

Mr. John Page, Chief Government engineer of Canada, will to-morrow hear evidence in the claim of Mr. Goodwin for extras in connection with his contract on the Trent Valley Canal. On Thursday he will take up the case of Mann & Co.

The Collector of Customs at St. Stephens, N.B., has seized a span of horses and quantity of meal smuggled into Canada from the State of Maine by a St. Stephens merchant. A fine of $60 only was imposed, owing to the poverty of the smuggler. The facilities for smuggling at this port are so great that the Government are obliged to administer the law with rigor to ensure anything like a legitimate revenue.

THE MONOPOLISTS WEAKENING.

The Powell Records Mr. Gandy's "Conspiracy Letter" With a Series of Interrogatories.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 13.—The monopolists show signs of weakening. Mr. Gosnell's compromise" pluralism has been received with such a storm of indignation by the Tories that even that servile Sir Hector and the C.P.R. shout. The Call, published in this city, has withdrawn its support. It says this morning that it is absolutely necessary that something be speedily done to ensure the discontinuance of the monopoly, ... of it cannot fail to have a most disastrous effect and inflict almost irreparable injury on the country. It appears the Dominion Government intend to ratify some such arrangement with the company besides purchase of its monopoly, and the company having been compensated for the abandonment of the exclusion principle, to discontinue its disallowance policy and [illegible] disallowance of railway in the whole of the Northwest.

AN ORATORICAL CONFLICT

THE CASE OF THE ARRESTED M.P.'S IN THE BRITISH HOUSE.

Mr. O'Brien's Arrest, the Speaker Holds Constituted a Breach of Privilege, and the Home Secretary Apologizes for the Indignity—Mr. Parnell's Amendment.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Mr. Picton (Liberal) directed attention in the House of Commons to the arrests in London last week of Messrs. Pyne, Parnell, Brien and Gilhooly, Irish members of Parliament, which he claimed constituted a breach of privilege.

The Speaker in reply said that Messrs. Pyne and Gilhooly were arrested on a criminal warrant. In this case no breach of privilege had been committed. The arrest of Mr. O'Brien, however, was a breach of privilege.

Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary, apologized for the indignity to which Mr. O'Brien had been subjected. The occurrence was an unfortunate one.

The R. H. Webster, Attorney-General, denied that any privilege existed. Explanations and apologies had been given, and if they did not suffice to satisfy Mr. O'Brien he could prosecute a remedy elsewhere.

Mr. Picton was not satisfied with the Attorney-General's opinion. Parliament, he said, must clearly vindicate its rights. He therefore moved that the "wrongful arrest of Mr. O'Brien when leaving the House of Commons was a breach of a privilege of Parliament."

Mr. McLaren (Radical) in seconding the motion referred to the arrests of Messrs. Gilhooly and Pyne within the precincts of the House of Commons.

The Speaker reminded Mr. McLaren that the cases of these gentlemen were not before the House.

The Attorney-General moved an amendment to the effect that the House regretted the indignity to Mr. O'Brien, but considering that it was a mistake, did not think it necessary to proceed further.

Mr. Gladstone admitted that as far as an apology was concerned the Home Secretary had done all that could be expected. But Mr. O'Brien was not only arrested within the precincts of the House, but was seized by a constable without a warrant. The circumstances afforded reasonable grounds for a reference of the case to the Committee on Privileges. The incident was not merely an innocent error; it was either careless or worse procedure, which demanded an inquiry. If the Attorney-General persisted in his amendment, and, if it was carried, it would mean that it be referred to the Committee on Privileges.

Sir Edward Clarke, Solicitor-General, announced that the Government could not adopt Mr. Gladstone's suggestion, there being no breach of privilege and nothing to refer to the committee.

Mr. Parnell said that the Government would have taken a different course if it had been an English member, and would have sent a detective who knew the member wanted. He protested against the duties which the Government now thrust upon the constables guarding Parliament. Surely it was a question of privilege whether members were entitled to go to and from the House without being molested.

W. H. Smith, the Conservative leader, denied that the Government imposed duties of espionage upon [illegible] of the House.

John Morley [illegible] intimated that the Opposition would allow Mr. Picton's motion to be negatived without a division. He then moved that the matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges. The motion was rejected —266 to 151.

Mr. James C. Flynn (Nationalist) resumed debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

Mr. Parnell said that his party in these days had a special interest in facilitating business and were prepared to go further than the Government in new rules to expedite legislation.

Mr. Parnell concluded by moving the following amendment: "Humbly to represent to Her Majesty that only the remedial portion of the last session's Irish legislation tended to diminish crime, whereas the repressive measures had done much to alienate the sympathy and respect of Her Majesty's Irish subjects for the laws, and that the administration of the Crimes Act as well as much of the general action of the executive has been harsh and partial."

The Solicitor-General for Ireland replied on behalf of the Government that Mr. Parnell's remarks were not relevant to the amendment and that his charges were trivial.

On motion of Sir G. O. Trevelyan the debate was adjourned.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.

Monday is never an interesting day in the Legislature, and yesterday was no exception to the rule. The Session sat for about twenty minutes. The business of the sitting was the introduction of Mr. R. Clarke, the Liberal member-elect for East Northumberland, the holding in of the public accounts and Estimates for 1888, and the presentation of the report of the Minister of Education. Mr. Clarke was presented to the Speaker by Hon. A. S. Hardy and Mr. E. Awrey.

The public accounts and estimates are two volumes these are always received with much interest by the House. To Mr. Conmee especially are the public accounts of exceptional interest. He can spend hours going over payments to the political plumber, the political tinker, the political carpenter, the political painter and the political jack-of-all-trades.

These bills received a second reading.

Mr. Waters' bill to amend the Municipal Act, giving county councils power to close cut obstructed roads which form boundaries between townships, and to have claims for damages imposed by individuals settled by arbitration.

Mr. Widdefield's bill to amend the act incorporating Trinity Medical School.

Mr. Mom' bill to consolidate the debentures debt of the Town of Wingham.

Mr. Meredith applied for an order of the House for a return showing the amounts paid to each judge or other officer whose fees have been commuted or fees of his fees, since they were commuted, and showing also the fees received by [illegible] which, but for such commutation, would have been received by such judge or other officer. Such return to show the respective amounts in each year separately.

The motion was not objected to.

Some bills were next up for a first reading:

Mr. Bronson—An act to amend the act incorporating the St. Patrick's Society, Ottawa.

Mr. Phelps—An act to amend the game laws.

Mr. Rorke—An act to incorporate the Town of Markdale.

Mr. H. R. Clarke—An act to amend the Methodist Church Act, 1884.

Mr. McLaughlin—An act respecting the issue of debentures by the Town of Bowmanville.

Mr. Watson—An act to amend the Assessment Act.

Hon. C. Fraser—An act to provide for the valuation of the townships of Front of Yonge and Front of Leeds.

Mr. Thomas Nelan, M.P.P. for East Elgin, introduced a bill seriously affecting the interests of a large number of manufacturers, traders and dealers. The bill is in connection with the constitutional rule of shareholders. One of the exemptions of such companies from all responsibility for loss on goods must be in writing and registered.

HALIFAX BRANCH OF THE I. N. L.

A Letter From Secretary Sutton Which Causes Much Comment.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 13.—The Halifax branch of the Irish National League has received a letter from John F. Sutton, Secretary of the Irish National League of America, in which he says: "When I appeared before the people of Halifax, some two years ago, I recognized one great and serviceable fact, and that was the independence of the majority of what may be called the wealthier class of Irishmen to identify themselves with the Irish national movement. The Irish name was not fashionable. Its advocacy was tabooed because it would offend the delicate sensibilities of the British Garrison." The letter closes with an appeal to every Irishman [illegible]

READING HEAVY PAPERS.

A DRY AND DULL DAY IN THE CHANCELLOR'S COURT.

The Arguments in the Central Bank Liquidation Case—Contradictory Affidavits and Evidence—What Blagden said at a Toronto Directors.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.

When Chancellor Boyd took his seat in his chambers court rather at 11 o'clock yesterday morning there were present three Q.C.'s, as many barristers and double the number of representatives of the press. The public were represented by one accountant-looking shareholder, who persistently put in an appearance each day and reports as their paid representative the proceedings. There were necessarily dull, even to weariness, consisting of the recital of the contradictory affidavits, the reading of the supporting and rebutting evidence, and an occasional verbal interpolation by learned counsel or sage inquiry by the Chancellor.

Mr. Maclennan, Mr. Bain and Mr. Kappele appeared for Mr. Archibald Campbell, who sat an interested listener to every syllable as the hours sped by. Mr. Foster, Q.C., and Mr. Clarke (of Foster, Clarke & Bowes) represented the petitioning liquidators.

The arguments on the petition for the removal of Mr. Campbell had been fixed for yesterday, but the preliminary reading of the voluminous affidavits and evidence precluded this stage being reached.

Briefly and chronologically summarized the order of yesterday was as follows: Mr. Foster read in extenso Messrs. Howland and Gooderham's petition for Mr. Archibald Campbell's removal, to which as a counterblast Mr. Bain read the suspected liquidator's long affidavit in reply. This was bolstered with the affidavits of Mr. Campbell's colleagues in the Exchange Bank liquidation, and the whole of the evidence taken before Examiner Brunt. Affidavits from Messrs. James H. Hiltz, Robert Cuthbert, R. W. Kleiser and other Toronto jewelers were also read, upholding Mr. Campbell's judgment in disposing of the diamonds amongst the Central Bank's assets. Then Mr. Kappele took up the task and read the output of the day and a half's examination of Mr. Gooderham before Master Hodgins. This occupied the cause till two o'clock, when a brief adjournment was made for lunch.

After the court resumed Mr. Bain again took up the discretionary role, and with monotonous gusto read his own powers to Mr. Gooderham and the latter's sometimes blunt and once straightforward answers. Then came the turn of Mr. Clarke, who read the counting affidavits of Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, and those of Solicitor O'Brien, Accountants Lye, Magnus Davis and others.

The affidavit of Charles Svaboy, law student in the office of Mr. Foster, Q.C., was read in reference to various requests which had legally been made on Mr. Campbell which he had disregarded.

Mr. Foster then took up the reading of Mr. Campbell's depositions before the Master and had not concluded when the court rose.

BARNETT HEARD FROM.

He is Willing to Come and Testify Before Lieut.-Governor Hands.

The Toronto merchant was in New York last week and met R. I. G. Barnett at the Morton House. Barnett was looking well but was not wearing jewelry, as was his Toronto habit. He gave the Toronto gentleman a list of points which he requested him to lay before Messrs. Howland and Gooderham, and which he will probably do to-day. Barnett's message to these gentlemen is to the effect that if they want the full chain of evidence from 1884, Baxter, of Montreal, can supply it. That evidence, said Barnett, is sufficient to convict Baxter, Reed, Davis and Cox. Barnett evidently admits that he will also convict himself, for he says he would not return to give evidence unless guaranteed his liberty at the close of the trial. He says that Campbell worked with Baxter from the start. He bought the first batch of acceptances from Barnett; the second batch was bought by Baxter and Baxter and Campbell conjointly.

Barnett says further that all the paper sold by Baxter to the Bank of Montreal really belongs to the Central and could be recovered. It included also $20000 in diamonds, a bag of jewelry worth $1500 and securities worth over $40,000. The names on these securities are Dalrymple and Stahlschmidt, both of whom are Dalrymple and Stahlschmidt, both of whom are good for the money. Barnett says if secured he will come on and assist the liquidators to realize this money. S. Marcus Davis' security could also to be realized. His mother in England is worth $500,000. Barnett is severe on Reed and is anxious to get a settlement with him. He claims that he paid $9000 worth of his stuff for a debt of $2000, and he is willing to make an assignment of this for the benefit of his creditors.

Ruth Westall, colored, living in Jones County, Ga., made her two daughters, aged 7 and 5, drink a mixture of rough on rats and water, of which she also partook. The mother and elder daughter died.

The Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1888.

THE Montreal Star, a most thorough-paced "N.P." and government organ, in speaking in reference to the Montreal sugar conspiracy, says: "Combines are undermining the faith of the people in the 'National Policy.' They give colour to the theory that the 'N. P.' exists for the benefit of a few manufacturers and not for the whole people of Canada." Thus the N.P. is bringing about its own condemnation. Without the "N.P." combines such as the Star condemns could not exist. Their creation is one of the legitimate results of a high taxation policy. A prohibitory tariff exposes dormant greed; greed induces unremunerative competition, and combinations to decrease output and advance prices is a natural consequence. Rather than bring less of dividends to protected manufacturers, the people are legally invited to put their hands into their pockets and contribute to the enrichment of a few manufacturers.

THE C.P.R. Company, with the help of the Dominion Government, is playing a most benevolent rôle. It insists on maintaining its monopoly of Northwest freight traffic, no matter how much the country suffers. If there is more freight than the C.P.R. can move, no other outlet is permitted than the C.P.R. The Red River Valley Railway is destroyed in the interests of the great transcontinental railway, and as a result public interests suffer. For want of cars and traffic facilities grain is lying around North-west station yards unpaid, without shelter, to the ensuing winter. The settler can't get the benefit of his crop because he can't get it to market. The C.P.R. has no cars to move it, and keep the Red River Valley Railway would have been a great benefit. But the oligopoly must be maintained, and what gain the C.P.R. can't carry may rot where it lies. They can't carry the grain themselves nor will they allow any other railway to do so. Monopoly of any kind is an evil and the greater the monopoly the greater the evil.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The monotony of backwoods life is frequently relieved by exciting and startling incidents, and one of these occurred at the Rathbun Co.'s shanty in this township a short time ago. Five men, Messrs. Jas. Mellow, Jas. Lapsen, Jab. Fowler, Dan. Griffin and P. Donnolley, left Maloney's camp, where they had been visiting, to return to Callaghan's camp about 10 p.m. They were travelling along in peaceful, happy ignorance of the dangers that surrounded them in the dense forest, when suddenly the ferocious, blood-curdling howl of the ravenous wolf was heard within a few yards of the peaceful pedestrians—the score that followed was most exciting. All started and ran for dear life, but it was evident to some that their staying properties must soon give out. Donnolley climbed a tree, and in doing so lost his wig; Griffin fainted, and his comrade, Lapsen, manfully stopped to help his exhausted mate, when suddenly another howl was heard and he took to his heels and ran, leaving poor Griffin to his fate. The fierce race soon began to tell on the poor men, and rather than die by the wayside they thought it better to divest themselves of all impediments. They cast their caps, clothing, and even their tobacco away, in the hope that these might appease the hunger of their ravenous pursuers. At length they reached their home and burst into the camp only to fall exhausted to the floor. Their comrades hurried to their aides to ascertain the trouble and administer such restoratives as were at hand. They soon revived sufficiently to inform their excited and sympathizing friends that they had been chased by a pack of wolves, whose glaring eyes were quite visible to them, and even their breath could be almost felt. Shortly after four other shanty men, P. Hilligan, Ed. Mellow, Thos. Alexander and Wm. Taylor, came in bringing with them the poor fellow that fainted and also the one that was treed, and as they had come over the same road suspicion at once fastened on them as being the identical wolves that these fearless fellows had given their comrade such a terrible fright.

A most pleasing feature of the incident was the great solicitude manifested by poor Donnolley, who, when found, was just in the act of saying that he could die contented, could he only get out last look at his wife and little family.

The fine shingle and saw mill owned and operated by Wm. Mathieson, was burned to the ground at 1.30 Wednesday morning. The fire originated from the furnace. Mr. Mathieson had, in connection with other valuable saw mill machinery, a first grain chopper; all was destroyed. This will be a great loss to Mr. Mathieson and also to the farmers of this locality, as the mill yards are [illegible] Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

600 shingles. Value of property destroyed, $6,000; insurance, in Glasgow & London, of $1,500. Mr. Mathieson began operations for rebuilding last Monday.

Rev. J. McArthur, who faithfully and ably served as in the position of W. Chief Templar, now takes the position of Past Worthy Chief, which position we feel sure he will fill worthy of praise.

Rev. Messrs. Faith and Williams are engaged in religious services in this place with good success.

Mr. Jessie Holbrook has purchased a lot for a printing office, and if he should succeed we may expect him to come out as a newspaper publisher before long.

Mr. Colter's business is rapidly extending. He has a large supply of stuff in his yard and he gives employment to 25 teams and 60 men in his own limits in Belmont, near Havelock.

Complaint is made of the action of the council in selling the timber across the concession line of lots 8, 9 and 10 Belmont, by private sale instead of inviting tenders and thus insuring competition. Across one concession there are, it is said on good authority, 15 acres of good timber sold for $65, which, if proper competition had been permitted, would have brought $20 per acre. With the sum of money obtained the public will expect the "parliament" to open up a road to connect with Round Lake. If they succeed they will have to show more brilliant ability than was shown in selling the timber.

DEATH OF MGR. BRUYERE.

The Venerable Prelate Passes Away at the Bishop's Palace in London.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Right Rev. Mgr. Bruyere, Vicar-General of the Diocese of London, who, three weeks ago, was struck down with paralysis, died at 15 o'clock to-night at the Bishop's palace.

The deceased prelate was born near Lyons, France, and was between 80 and 90 years of age. He received a thorough classical and theological training in his native country, where he entered the priesthood. Choosing the life of a missionary, he came to America and labored in Kentucky and New Orleans, La. Coming to Canada in 1839 he settled in Toronto, and became Vicar-General in May, 1847. In his disputes with Dr. Ryerson and Dean Hellmuth he proved himself a powerful controversialist. In 1850 Father Bruyere removed to Sandwich, where he remained until 1856, when with Bishop Walsh, he came to this city where he has since resided. He visited Rome in 1877, when he was elevated to the prelature. He was much esteemed for his purity of life, ability and kindly disposition.)

THE LABOR COMMISSION.

Science and Commissar of Women to Quebec Provinces—Sharper Immigration.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—Before the Labor Commission to-day C. J. Doherty, Q.C., explained the working of the law relating to seizure and garnishee of wages (salaries) in the province. A workman living there that 25 in the old Provinces of Canada and proposing to leave for the Maritime Provinces or Manitoba would be liable to capias.

With regard to the law of masters and apprentices under the city bylaws, the result of his observation led him to the conclusion that it could not have been designed to govern master and workman as the law was understood at the present day.

Some of the members of the committee appointed at the meeting last week to present the matter of immigration of pauper and criminal classes from the Old Country, also appeared and gave evidence.

AMONG THE PEDS.

Prize Winners in the Recent Contest Received Their Checks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The prize winners in the recent pedestrian contest received checks for the amounts due them to-day. The manager's statement showed 43,021 tickets sold, receipts $22,523, of which $11,264 goes to the walkers. Of this $600 goes to eleven men, who get a few dollars each. The remainder, $10,764, is divided as follows: Albert $4513, Hardy $2698, Guerrero $1294, Hart $985, Golden $647, Moore $431, Strobel $323, Norcross $254. Albert also receives $1000 more for breaking the record.

The money of the management in bank has been attached by Wm. O'Brien, Wm. Carney and James Kennedy, who claim they were under contract to receive $1000 each for services at the Gardens.

Albert a Canuck.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—John Edward Albertie, or Albert, as the American papers call the winner of the pedestrian contest in New York, lived for a time in this city. His father is said to be P. Albert, a resident of Lower Town. Albertie was born in Brantford, Ont., thirty-seven years ago. He learned the confectionery business here, leaving for New York some years ago.

A DELIBERATE MURDER.

Leger Leclerc Stabs a Man Named Pomeroy at 54 Rose's, Quebec.

QUEBEC, Feb. 13.—A most deliberate and cold-blooded murder took place in St. Roch's suburb to-night. A man named Leger Leclerc deliberately drew a knife and stabbed a man named Pomeroy, killing him instantly.

The only facts that can be learned are that Leclerc, who lives in St. Sauveur and keeps a bakery there, was told that Pomeroy was driving with Leclerc's wife. The latter went in search and found the couple taking a drive. Some words ensued, when Leclerc struck him in the heart. Leclerc has been arrested and is now lodged in the cells. The woman has also been arrested as a chief witness.

Has made but little headway, but keeps that little ahead.

This is especially true of a pill. The average man or woman does not precisely hanker for it, as a rule, but when taken wishes it to be prompt, sure and effective. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets leave nothing to be desired in all of these particulars, and for all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels as biliousness, torpid liver, sour stomach, sick headache, indigestion, dizziness, costiveness, or any unpleasant symptoms, or disagreeables after effects. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless.

The Czar's Appointment.—A Slander Indorsed—England Will Fight the Aggressor.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Standard says it will do good if all Europe impresses convinced that Lord Salisbury's policy is to support the Triple Alliance so long as it means peace, and that if Russia unjustifiably unleashes the power the weight of England will be thrown against the aggressor.

The Berlin National Zeitung says that Count Shouvaloff, the Russian ambassador, in an interview of over an hour with Bismarck yesterday, expressed the high appreciation of the Czar for the recent speech of the Prince in the Reichstag.

The bishop's palace was stoned by a mob, who also went to the residence of Dr. Nevin, the legal adviser of the church authorities. On being attacked, Dr. Nevin and his friends fired at the crowd, as did also the police. Several persons were killed and wounded.

M. Flourens, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is visiting the frontier on the Italian frontier, reached Belasco to-day. Replying to the congratulations of the Mayor of that city on his diplomatic successes, he said: "If the merit thereof belongs to the whole country, for it is felt on the other side of the frontier that it is the heart of France which beats in that of France's representative. It is to these patriotic sentiments and our attachment to free institutions that our military successes should be attributed if the frontier were attacked."

He would make an excellent first Viceroy after the granting of Home Rule.

Sleigh Accidents.

Accidents from children jumping upon passing sleighs still continues, and it looks as though Mr. Moore's bill to prevent the practice was needed. PRAYING FOR CLEMENCY

IN FAVOR OF THE TWO CONDEMNED MURDERERS.

Two Thousand Names Appended to a Petition in Favor of John Gamble—A Respite to be Asked in the Case of Robert Neil.

TORONTO, Feb. 15.

Toronto Jail contains to-day two men condemned to death—Robert Neil, alias Thompson, sentenced to die on Feb. 28 for the murder of Guard John Rutledge at the Central Prison on Jan. 13; and John Gamble, sentenced to hang on March 6 for the death by criminal operation of the young woman Lizzie Bray. Both men are under the strictest surveillance that Governor Green can place over them. Neil, who understood from a conversation with Mr. W. H. Howland on Saturday that the Executive would not extend its clemency, is naturally depressed. As for Gamble it may be said that there has been so much sympathy expressed for him that he is confident of having his severe sentence commuted.

A Reprieve for Neil.

Mr. N. G. Bigelow, counsel for Robert Neil, who is sentenced to die by the rope on Feb. 28 for the murder of Guard John Rutledge at the Central Prison, was seen by a reporter last night. Mr. Bigelow has just returned to town from a business trip eastwards. He said that application would at once be made to the Government, through the Secretary of State, for a respite in order to give Neil another chance. An effort will be made to show that Neil is eccentric—and perhaps insane—and also that similar characteristics have existed in the family. A number of letters have been received from Neil's family in the north of Ireland, and it is intended that every effort will be made to obtain for him a respite, and perhaps a commutation.

A Petition in Favor of Gamble.

Mr. W. G. Mardoch, the counsel for John Gamble, sentenced to be hanged on March 6 for the murder, by abortion, of Lizzie Bray, is active in an effort to have the unfortunate man's sentence commuted. A petition for clemency was circulated yesterday, and already it has over 2000 names. Another petition is being circulated in Bowmanville, the former home of Gamble and the town where his relatives now live.

Gamble, although under sentence of death, bears up well, and he feels assured that the sentence will not be carried out.

Mr. Murdoch will leave for Ottawa to-morrow night to present to the Government the petitions for commutation.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 14.—The annual meeting of the East Hastings Reform Association was held this afternoon by leading members of the party from every polling subdivision. Harford Ashley was re-elected President, N. Vermilyea Secretary-Treasurer, and strong committees for each township were elected. S. B. Burdett, M.P., was present and made a telling speech, notwithstanding his poor health.

The Nicaragua Canal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The House Committee on Commerce to-day decided to report favorably the bill to charter the Nicaragua Canal Company. The committee inserted amendments requiring a majority of the directors to be American citizens, and providing that the president of the company shall be a citizen and resident of the United States.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TUESDAY, Feb. 14.—The following bills were introduced and received a first reading: An act to amend the Assessment Act; an act to authorize the trustees of the Toronto Burying Ground to sell certain lands; an act to amend the Municipal Act; an act to confirm certain mortgages made by the churchwardens of Christ Church, Hamilton; an act to amend the General Road Company's Act.

Treasurer Ross' Financial Statement.

Hon A. M. Ross, Provincial Treasurer, on rising to make his financial statement, reviewed first of all the receipts of the year, which he enumerated under the following heads:

Subsidy and grant from Dominion	$1,186,873
Interest on capital and debts due by the Dominion	279,111
Interest on investments	48,746
Crown Lands Department	1,113,163
Algoma taxes	15,367
Law stamps	68,439
Licenses	202,435
Education Department	24,207
Public institutions	54,994
Casual revenue	27,333
Insurance companies' assessment	2,999
Removal of patients	4,399
Drainage works assessments	32,794
Municipal Loan Fund	25,000
	$3,151,311

These were the ordinary receipts, to which are to be added the extraordinary receipts, as follows:

Ordinary receipts	$3,151,311
Drainage debentures	33,370
Mr. Drainage debentures	4,200
Timber lots—re mortgage	200
Annuities	963,666
New Parliament buildings fund—sale of land	192,311
Sale of bonds	359,152
Total receipts	$5,504,200

Referring to the receipts from crown lands the speaker said the minister of that department was to be congratulated on the splendid returns realized from the recent timber sales. From that sale $300,000 was realized. The hon. gentleman anticipated the objection that would probably be raised in this connection—that the province was living on its capital. He thought the resources of the province should be used for the benefit of the present generation. To quote the well known words: "What has posterity done for us?" The receipts from licenses show an increase of $10,000 over the previous year. The item $28,000, under Municipal Loan Fund, was received from Cobourg in liquidation of its municipal debt, and the Treasurer also announced the Government had agreed to accept debentures to the amount of $4000 in lieu of the St. Catharines debt of $9000. These two matters finally close the Government's connection with the Municipal Loan Fund.

The New Parliament Buildings Fund was made up of receipts from the sale of part of the asylum property. This property covered 90 acres, of which 30 were sold at an average price of 23277 an acre. The balance of the land will not be put in the market for some time, as it is required for brickmaking in connection with the Central Prison. The expenditure for the year on the new Parliament Buildings was $164,673. The sale of the $300,000 worth of bonds (which realized 104½) was necessary on account of this expense on the new buildings, but no sale would have been necessary had the Government been able to anticipate such splendid results from the sale of the timber limits. The estimate of that sale was not one-third of what had actually been realized, and the cash payment made at the time of the sale was much larger proportionately than at any other sale.

The speaker then reviewed the expenditure of the year in detail, the totals shewing the ordinary expenditure to be $3,264,-713 and the extraordinary expenditure $389,569. Among the items he referred to was that of immigration. The amount expended on this account was becoming smaller from year to year. In 1884 it was $43,360, while last year it was only $12,795, and it would be still further reduced from year to year. On the item of expenditure for agriculture the hon. gentlemen referred to the creamery department in connection with the college. Last year it was self-sustaining and afforded a profit of $404 to be distributed among the patrons. The prices realized by the farmers at their doors for sufficient cream to make one pound of butter was in May 14 cents; June, 14 cents; July, 16 cents; August, September, October, 17 cents

The total ordinary receipts of the year exceeded the total ordinary expenditure by $230,497. [Hear, hear.] The province expended during the year $221,068 less than it was estimated would be expended. So that reckoning the excessive receipts and decreased expenditure the province was really $566,143 better off than he anticipated it would be when he made his statement a year ago. [Applause.]

He was sorry to report that little progress had been made in settling the disputed accounts between the province and Dominion. Something, however, had been accomplished looking towards a settlement, and that was the appointment of an arbitration of judges to settle the Upper Canada improvement fund question and the common school fund. In regard to the first of these questions, the province would probably not receive any benefit from the arbitration, and in order that municipalities which were interested in that fund should have no ground of complaint, he advised them to employ special counsel to work with the counsel employed by the province when this question came before the arbitration. These are the only important questions at issue between Ontario and Quebec.

He then came to the proposed operations for 1888. The estimates asked for $195,126 for civil government; last year the amount asked was $291,726. For legislation $122,600 was asked, against $152,600 last year. The demand for administration of justice was $264,295, against $272,985 last year. For education $560,692 was asked, against $574,286 last year. Public institutions maintenance demanded $762,684, an increase of $42,500 over last year's grant. For several years they had expressed the hope that the present accommodation for the unfortunate people who were inmates of these institutions was sufficient for some years to come, but they found it a necessity from year to year to provide more. The increase was on account of expenditures on institutions in Hamilton and Orillia. All that was asked for immigration purposes was $7760, a decrease of $6000 from last year. It was proposed to confine immigration enterprises to Liverpool and the circulation of literature. The amount asked for agriculture was $136,121, against $138,899 last year. The reduction was due to the withdrawal of the grant to aid the Provincial Exhibition, the Government being undecided as to the wisdom of continuing the support of that Exhibition.

Mr. Meredith—Is it the policy of the Government to reduce the grant ($4000?

Hon. Mr. Ross replied that the usual grant in aid of holding the exhibition had not been put in the estimates. The Government would ask the opinion of the House as to the wisdom of continuing to aid the Provincial Exhibition.

Hospitals and charities called for $113,977 against $105,121 last year, and repairs, etc., $28,976 against $65,650 last year. This year $261,413 was asked for the public buildings account, nearly $93,000 less than that of last year. The estimate for public works was $93,855, nearly $11,000 less than that of last year. The estimated expenditure on colonization roads was $45,000 less than that of last year. The charges on crown lands were to be $295,000, an increase of $2000 over last year, the increase being caused by pre-emiliary measures to prevent forest fires. Refunds would be $27,000, an increase of $5000 over those of last year. The estimates for statute consolidation was $21,000, against $20,-000 of last year. It might be of interest to state that the cost of consolidation so far was $47,000, which with this year's $21,000 made a total of $68,000. The 1877 statute consolidation cost $73,737. The miscellaneous account was $93,000 against $137,000, the decrease being due to there being no election accounts to pay as there were last year. There were two items requiring explanation. The amount asked for the enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act was $20,000. In 1887 they asked for $21,000 but they spent $24,000. Sometimes they heard their temperance friends find fault that the Government was not in earnest in the enforcement of the act. The expenditure set down for 1888 for this item ought to satisfy them on that point. He might say that the enforcement of the act was much more onerous on the Government than on the municipalities, who were responsible for the passing of the act. While the Government had to pay out money to enforce the act the municipalities, under an order-in-council passed by the Dominion Government, actually made money out of it. In the Scott Act account the Government lost a revenue of $124,000 and paid out $24,326 for enforcement, a total loss of $148,326. He contended that the Dominion Government should revoke this order-in-council, under the provisions of which the fines were not applied for the purposes of enforcement, and that a measure should be brought in to set apart the fines for that purpose. The other item was that of insurance on government buildings. Upon the policy of insuring the public buildings in private companies there had been a difference of opinion. The fire occurring in the kitchen of the main part of the London Asylum resulted in a loss of $17,000. The insurance was carried by about thirty companies, and all but two, the Queen City and the Hand-in-Hand, refused to pay damages on the ground that the kitchen had not been insured. They had paid their premiums on the understanding that it was insured. Altogether from 1867 the Government had paid premiums to the amount of $138,694 and had received for losses $85,692. On a consideration of the whole matter they had concluded not to place any amount in the estimates for outside insurance. They will do their own insurance. Altogether they asked for $2,993,736 for ordinary expenditure, and $2,993,936 for ordinary and extraordinary.

The estimated receipts were as follows:

	1888.	1887.
Dominion subsidy	$1,186,873	$1,186,873
Interest on capital, etc.	279,111
Interest on investments	48,000

Crown lands	74,000
Clergy lands	7,000
Common school lands	16,000
